Ann Keen: The national awareness and early diagnosis initiative will be composed of several separate but related components, including the development of key messages about cancer risks and symptoms, development of an awareness assessment tool, a survey of public awareness, pilots of different approaches to raise awareness, and an audit of general practitioner referrals. Each component has its own timescale and will be evaluated separately.

The specific details of the initiative are currently being developed but it is anticipated that work will be beginning imminently.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, what the timetable is for undertaking a national audit in primary care of newly-diagnosed cancers. [183981]

Ann Keen: The Department is currently in discussion with the Royal College of General Practitioners and the National Patient Safety Agency about setting up and running the national audit in primary care of newly diagnosed cancers. The audit tool will be developed and tested in 2008.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy (1) when he plans to extend the 31 day standard to cover all cancer treatments; how often he plans to measure achievement of this standard; and what sanctions will be imposed on NHS organisations which do not meet the standard; [183982]

(2) when he expects all patients with suspected cancer detected through national screening programmes to enter the 62 day pathway; how often he plans to measure performance against this standard; and what sanctions there will be for NHS organisations which do not meet the standard; [183983]

(3) what the timetable is for ensuring that hospital specialists are able to ensure that patients who were not referred urgently by their GP, but who have symptoms indicating a high suspicion of cancer, are managed on the 62 day pathway; how often he plans to measure performance against this standard; by what means; and what sanctions will be imposed on NHS organisations which do not meet the standard; [183984]

(4) what the timetable is for ensuring that all patients referred to a specialist with breast symptoms, even if cancer is not suspected, will be seen within two weeks of referral; how often he plans to measure the achievement of this standard; and what sanctions will be imposed on NHS organisations which do not meet the standard. [183985]

Ann Keen: The Cancer Reform Strategy (December 2007) proposed an extension to the current cancer waiting times standards that were introduced by the National Health Service Cancer Plan (September 2000). The proposed implementation timescales for these extended standards are:

| Patients referred to a specialist with breast symptoms (where cancer is not initially suspected) should be seen within two weeks of referral | December 2009 |
| All patients with suspected cancer detected through national screening programmes should be seen within 62 days | December 2008 |
| All patients who receive radiotherapy as a second or subsequent treatment should begin within 31 days | December 2010 |
| All patients who receive radiotherapy as a second or subsequent treatment should begin within 31 days | December 2008 |
| All patients who receive chemotherapy or surgery as a second or subsequent treatment (including treatments for recurrent conditions) should begin treatment within 31 days | December 2008 |
| Hospital specialists will have the right to ensure that patients who were not referred urgently by their GP, but who have symptoms or signs indicating a high suspicion of cancer, are managed on the 62 day pathway | Implementation date to be confirmed, but guidance on monitoring will be circulated in 2008 |

The Department will monitor NHS progress towards delivery, and achievement of these extended standards by NHS organisations on a quarterly basis. The mechanism to be used for monitoring progress and achievement is currently under consideration by a joint departmental and NHS expert group.

The sanctions imposed will depend on the performance of the healthcare organisations concerned. Primary care trusts (PCTs) are funded to meet the healthcare needs of their populations, which will include the provision of cancer services. PCTs are expected to plan for and commission services, and monitor delivery of those services against local agreements. Commissioners of cancer services will be subject to the wider assurance system being developed under the 'world class commissioning' programme, and managed by strategic health authorities. The Healthcare Commission also provides an independent assessment of both providing and commissioning healthcare organisations to ensure that they are providing a high standard of care.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, what the timetable is for (a) launching and (b) evaluating (i) tumour specific national information pathways and (ii) implementation of the information prescriptions. [183992]

Ann Keen: The Cancer Reform Strategy said that to improve information for cancer patients, our immediate next step is for cancer networks to adopt and implement the tumour specific national information pathways which will be launched by the National Cancer Director on 21 July 2008. This will make nationally agreed information available to frontline cancer health professionals to offer to patients at key points in their cancer journey.

We are also introducing information prescriptions, personalised prescriptions which will draw on local as well as national knowledge and information and will guide people to relevant websites, telephone numbers and support groups for their condition, as well as providing information directly to patients at appropriate times during their care pathway. The evaluation of the pilot programme, of which four sites are focusing on cancer, will take place during 2008. The evaluation will inform national implementation of information prescriptions for all people with long-term conditions, including cancer.

To support the introduction of information prescriptions, the national cancer action team is working in partnership with cancer charities to develop a system to enable health professionals to generate tailored information prescriptions at any point in the cancer pathway. The system will draw on high quality national content, while making sure local details can be added. The project will be developed in 2008 for roll out in 2009.

Providers will wish to consider how they can best audit information delivered to individual patients and whether this is meeting patients' needs. Commissioners should specify to providers through robust service specifications their requirements around patient information, which should be measurable and monitored through the quality monitoring of contracts at primary care trust level.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, when he expects commissioners to have robust systems in place to ensure that patients experience good continuity of care; by what means he plans to monitor progress towards this objective; and what sanctions will be imposed on NHS organisations which do not make sufficient progress. [183993]

Ann Keen: The Cancer Reform Strategy said that commissioners will want to work with providers to ensure they have robust systems in place to ensure that cancer patients experience good continuity of care. Commissioners should specify to providers through robust service specifications their requirements around continuity of care for cancer patients, which should be measurable and monitored through the quality monitoring of contracts at primary care trust level.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, what timetable he has set for introducing a national cancer survivorship initiative; when he plans to evaluate the performance of such an initiative; and by what means. [183995]

Ann Keen: The Cancer Reform Strategy is a five year plan. The precise timetable for the introduction of the national cancer survivorship initiative has not yet been finalised. The new National Health Service Cancer Patient Experience Survey Programme will help to inform the evaluation of the initiative but full plans for evaluation have yet to be developed.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, what the timetable is for introducing a National Cancer Equality initiative; when he plans to evaluate the performance of such an initiative; and by what means. [183996]

Ann Keen: In recognition of the challenge to reduce inequalities in cancer, the national cancer director will begin a National Cancer Equality Initiative, bringing together key stakeholders from the professions, voluntary sector, academia and equality groups to develop research proposals on cancer inequalities, test interventions and advise on the development of wider policy. The national cancer director is currently scoping the initiative, and a representative advisory group is currently being established. The advisory group will meet for the first time in spring 2008, and will report directly to the Department's Cancer Programme Board.

This is a new initiative, and details of monitoring performance of the initiative and by what means will be decided as the work progresses.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, when he expects to deliver a programme of work on inpatient management to support local implementation of new cancer service models; and by what means he plans to monitor implementation of such cancer service models. [183998]

Ann Keen: There is already a programme of work in place across many cancer networks and primary care trusts (PCTs). In June, the cancer action team will be providing cancer networks and PCTs with benchmarked data to support local reviews of inpatient bed usage.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, what the timetable is for developing national surveys to collect information on (a) awareness of cancer (i) risk factors and (ii) symptoms among different groups within society and (b) patients' experience of treatment. [183999]

Ann Keen: Cancer Research UK is developing a modular assessment tool to assess levels of awareness of cancer risk factors and symptoms. The tool is expected to be validated in the autumn 2008.

The Department will use the tool to conduct national surveys of cancer symptom awareness across a random section of the population. The first survey of cancer symptom awareness is likely to be in late 2008 or 2009. It will then be repeated at least every two years.

The national surveys on cancer symptom awareness are only intended to assess the public's knowledge levels and are entirely separate from any surveys looking at patient experiences.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, when he plans to establish a National Cancer Intelligence Network; when he plans to evaluate the performance of such a network; and by what means. [184000]

Ann Keen: A small coordinating team is already in place, based initially at the National Cancer Research Institute (NCRI). An initial meeting of the coordinating team and the major funding stakeholders took place in January 2008. A formal steering group, to oversee the development of the National Cancer Intelligence Network (NCIN), will be set up in the first half of 2008. Once established the NCIN will be accountable, via its steering group, to the board of the NCRI.

As the funders of research and analytical services in the United Kingdom, the partner organisations within the NCRI board will determine priorities for routine analyses at a national level and for research.

Good quality information and data enhance patient choice, drive up service quality and underpin stronger commissioning. The performance of the NCIN will be measured by changes to clinical outcomes and patient experience, detailed in annual reports from the NCIN.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, how often he plans to evaluate the quality of support offered to primary care trusts by cancer networks; and by what means. [184001]

Ann Keen: Primary care trusts (PCTs) will want to evaluate the quality of support they receive from cancer network teams as well as review the effectiveness of the cancer network and the contribution from its participants as a whole.

The team in the cancer network is usually accountable to a nominated lead PCT chief executive for the cancer network who has responsibility for assessing individual and team performance against objectives set collectively by the PCTs in the network. The Cancer Reform Strategy makes clear that strategic health authorities will be expected to monitor the performance of their PCTs. PCTs in cancer networks will therefore be assessed at a national level against their performance on a range of national requirements and on-going existing commitments, for example cancer improving outcomes guidance.

The cancer action team will also support cancer networks and their constituent PCTs to assess their individual and collective performance against a range of indicators that will be of local interest through the presentation of benchmarked information for England on the cancer commissioning toolkit which will be available in June 2008.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, when he expects to publish a guide for cancer commissioners; by what means he plans to measure the extent to which commissioners follow advice contained in the strategy; and what sanctions will be imposed on commissioners who do not follow that advice. [184002]

Ann Keen: Working with the national cancer action team, we plan to publish guidance for cancer commissioners later this year.

Commissioners of cancer services will be subject to the wider assurance system being developed under the "world class commissioning" programme and managed by the strategic health authorities. The Healthcare Commission will also provide an independent assessment of provider and commissioner health care organisations to ensure that they are providing a high standard of care.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, what the timetable is for making changes to payment by results taking account of findings from the review of payment by results and cancer. [184003]

Ann Keen: The review is not yet complete, and has yet to produce final recommendations. The initial findings of the review were incorporated into the Cancer Reform Strategy, and are reflected in paragraphs 9.32-9.34. Work on a timetable for changes to payment by results for cancer services will be undertaken once the final recommendations of the review have been received and considered. We expect the recommendations to be received shortly.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, when he plans to publish the first annual report on progress towards objectives contained in the strategy. [184006]

Ann Keen: No date has been set for the publication of the first annual progress report towards objectives contained in the Cancer Reform Strategy.

Cancer: Drugs

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, when he expects the National Cancer Director to publish his evaluation of the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence approved cancer drug usage. [183989]

Ann Keen: As set out in the Cancer Reform Strategy, the National Cancer Director will repeat his evaluation of NICE approved cancer drug usage during 2008. It is expected that the evaluation report will be published before the end of the year.

Cancer: Finance

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, what new funding he plans to make available for cancer services in each of the next five years. [184004]

Ann Keen: Alongside the Cancer Reform Strategy, we have published an Impact Assessment (IA) that sets out our estimated costs of implementing the strategy in each year. A copy of the IA is available in the Library. The funding to meet these expected costs is mainly being provided through primary care trusts' (PCT) general allocations, with some costs met centrally. PCT allocations are not broken down into funding streams for individual services, and it is for the national health service to decide locally how best to deliver the outcomes set out in the strategy, and the actual level of resources required to do so.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, when he plans to ensure that expenditure which does not benefit patients is eliminated; and by what means. [184005]

Ann Keen: The Cancer Reform Strategy provides advice, support and examples of best practice to local commissioners and providers on how to deliver high quality, cost-effective cancer services and how cancer expenditure should be prioritised.

Chapter 10 of the strategy highlights factors that local commissioners should consider when making decisions about cancer expenditure, to reduce inefficiencies and allow for reinvestment of expenditure in local cancer services.

Cancer: Health Services

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 14 January 2008, Official Report, columns 997-8W, on cancer: health services, how many finished consultant episodes there were for (a) all cancer treatments, (b) radiotherapy treatment for cancer and (c) chemotherapy treatment for cancer (i) between October 2005 and September 2006 and (ii) between October 2006 and September 2007; [180840]

(2) how many patients were given (a) radiotherapy and (b) chemotherapy treatment for cancer (i) between October 2005 and September 2006 and (ii) between October 2006 and September 2007. [180841]

Ann Keen: The Department currently only collects figures on the number of finished consultant episodes (FCEs), we do not have figures for the total number of cancer patients treated with radiotherapy and/or chemotherapy.

The following table sets out the number of FCEs for all cancer treatments and FCEs for radiotherapy and chemotherapy for cancer.

| | 2005-06 (OPCS 4.2 codes) | 2006-07 (OPCS 4.2 and 4.3 codes) |
|---|---|---|
| FCEs with a primary diagnosis of cancer and neoplasms | 1,520,547 | 1,562,085 |
| FCEs with a primary diagnosis of cancer and neoplasms, a secondary diagnosis of 'radiotherapy session' and a 'radiotherapy procedure code' | 1,519 | 6,747 |
| FCEs with a primary diagnosis of cancer and neoplasms, a secondary diagnosis of 'chemotherapy session' and a 'chemotherapy procedure code' | 372,744 | 378,440 |

Notes: FCE
An FCE is defined as a period of admitted patient care under one consultant within one health care provider. The figures do not represent the number of patients, as a person may have more than one episode of care within the year.
Cancer treatments i.e. radiotherapy and chemotherapy could take place in other settings, for example a patient could be classed as a 'regular attender' or these treatments may occur in out-patients.
Diagnosis (Primary Diagnosis)
The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 14 (seven prior to 2002-03) diagnosis fields in the HES data set and provides the main reason why the patient was in hospital.
Primary diagnosis codes used for cancer and neoplasms: C00-D48
Secondary Diagnoses
As well as the primary diagnosis, there are up to 13 (six prior to 2002-03) secondary diagnosis fields in HES that show other diagnoses relevant to the episode of care. Secondary diagnosis codes used for Radiotherapy session: Z51.0
Secondary diagnosis codes used for Chemotherapy session: Z51.1
Changes to Coding Classifications—OPCS4
Operative procedure codes were revised for 2006-07. 2006-07 data use OPCS4.3 codes, whereas earlier data use OPCS4.2 codes. All codes that were in OPCS4.2 remain in OPCS4.3, however the OPCS4.3 codes enable the recording of interventions and procedures which were not possible in OPCS4.2. In particular OPCS 4.3 codes additionally includes high cost drugs and diagnostic imaging, testing and rehabilitation. You may also find that some activity may have been coded under different codes in OPCS4.2. These changes need to be borne in mind when analysing time series and may explain any growth over time. More information about OPCS4 changes are available on the Connecting for Health website www.connectingforhealth.nhs.uk
Main Procedure/Intervention
The main procedure/intervention is the first recorded procedure or intervention in the HES data set and is usually the most resource intensive procedure or intervention performed during the episode.
Secondary Procedure
As well as the main operative procedure, there are up to 11 (three prior to 2002-03) secondary operation fields in HES that show secondary or additional procedures performed on the patient during the episode of care.
Data Quality
HES are compiled from data sent by over 300 national health service trusts, and primary care trusts in England. Data are also received from a number of independent sector organisations for activity commissioned by the English NHS. The Information Centre for health and social care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and seeks to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data via HES processes. While this brings about improvement over time, some shortcomings remain.
Ungrossed Data
Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data (i.e. the data are ungrossed).

Cancer: Psychiatry

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, when he expects good psychological support services to be available throughout the cancer journey; by what means he plans to monitor progress towards this objective; and what sanctions will be imposed on NHS organisations which do not make sufficient progress. [183994]

Ann Keen: The Cancer Reform Strategy said that it is important for all service providers to have established pathways to enable patients to access specialist psychological support as and when they need it. Commissioners will need to ensure that adequate provision is available so that all patients, families and carers can access the appropriate psychological support for them. This will include establishing service level agreements with local mental health services for more advanced support.

Providing support for patients experiencing distress is a key component of the role of the cancer nurse specialist. Yet delivering this effectively will require appropriate training and support. Commissioners should work collaboratively to ensure that this is available.

Commissioners should specify to providers through robust service specifications their requirements around psychological support for cancer patients, their families and carers, which should be measurable and monitored through the quality monitoring of contracts at primary care trust level.

Cancer: Urinary System

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will provide an update on the progress made by cancer networks in implementing the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence's guidance on Improving Outcomes in Urological Cancers, published in September 2002, setting out (a) which cancer networks have agreed an action plan with the Department of Health and (b) the expected date for full implementation in each cancer network; [184266]

(2) with reference to the Answer of 16 April 2007 to the hon. Member for Tyne Bridge, Official Report, column 325W, on Cancer: Urinary System, if he will place in the Library copies of the action plans submitted to his Department by strategic health authorities which demonstrate how they will implement the guidance on improving outcomes in urological cancers; which cancer networks reported at December 2006 that the guidance on Improving Outcomes in urological cancers would not be fully implemented by December 2007; what series of measures incorporated into the Manual of Cancer Services 2004 were translated from the Improving Outcomes in urological cancers guidance; and if he will make a statement. [184467]

Ann Keen: As at 31 June 2007 the following cancer networks had action plans agreed by the national health service cancer action team for implementing the urological cancers improving outcomes guidance:

North London
South East London
South West London
West London
North East London
Number and Yorkshire Coast
Yorkshire
North Trent
Greater Manchester and Cheshire Lancashire and South Cumbria
Merseyside and Cheshire

Central South Coast Thames Valley
Sussex
Surrey, West Sussex and Hampshire
Three Counties
Avon, Somerset and Wiltshire
Dorset
Peninsula
Mid Trent
Derby and Burton
Leicestershire,
Northamptonshire and Rutland Arden
Pan Birmingham
Greater Midlands
North of England (formerly Cancer Care Alliance and Northern) Anglia (formerly Norfolk and Waveney and West Anglia)
Essex (formerly Mid Anglia and South Essex)
Mount Vernon

The Department does not hold a set of these local plans as they were submitted to the NHS cancer action team for approval. Copies should be available from individual cancer networks.

The reporting system in use in December 2006 did not provide sufficient information to identify with confidence those networks that did not expect to achieve full implementation of the urological cancers guidance by December 2007. A stock take therefore took place in Spring 2007 to strengthen the information base and subsequent data collections.

The most recent data are based on strategic health authority (SHA) June 2007 reporting plus intelligence from the NHS cancer action team. It shows that in summer 2007:

14 networks were already reporting implementation of this guidance;

Nine networks were reporting that they were on schedule for implementation by 31 December 2007;

Six networks were reporting that they were not on schedule to implement the guidance by 31 December 2007 (Humber and Yorkshire Coast, Yorkshire, Central South Coast, Mid Trent, Greater Midlands and Surrey, West Sussex and Hampshire)

One network was still to submit an approved plan (Kent)

The cancer action team continue to work closely with cancer networks on this matter. In addition, the Department's Recovery and Support Unit is liaising with SHAs where deadlines are unlikely to be met to ensure recovery plans are in place.

SHAs have recently submitted information confirming the position for 31 December 2007. This is currently being analysed and will provide a clearer national position including the expected implementation date for any networks that had not fully implemented this guidance by the end of 2007.

The measures included in the Manual for Cancer Services based on the urological cancers Improving Outcomes Guidance have been placed in the Library.

Cervical Cancer: Screening

Mr. Crausby: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to promote cervical cancer screening. [186385]

Ann Keen: Women invited to participate in the National Health Service Cervical Screening Programme need to understand the potential benefits and harms in doing so and to be able to make an informed choice about whether or not they wish to take part in the Programme.

This is why all eligible women receive a national information leaflet on cervical screening, "Cervical Screening—The Facts". This leaflet is included with each screening invitation and contains comprehensive and understandable information about cervical screening. It can be viewed at:

The "Cancer Reform Strategy" noted concerns about the fall in the number of young women taking up their invitation to be screened. That is why the NHS Cancer Screening Programme have commissioned the Improvement Foundation to undertake work at a local level targeting this age group. The lessons learned from this work, due in 2009, will be shared with strategic health authorities and local screening programmes to develop best practice.

The NHS Cancer Screening Programme's press office is developing an information pack to be issued to all local screening programmes and also developing a public relations strategy, including articles in appropriate media publications, posters etc. In addition, Cancer Research UK have commissioned research on this issue, which we will monitor closely and will share the findings.

Continued local action in this area is also essential and we will continue to monitor levels of cervical screening coverage through the Office for National Statistics/Information Centre for health and social care annual cervical screening statistical bulletin.

Chemotherapy

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, what the timetable is for asking all chemotherapy service providers to return an agreed dataset on all patients receiving chemotherapy. [183990]

Ann Keen: The chemotherapy dataset is currently being defined by the National Chemotherapy Advisory Group. Work on the dataset should be completed by October 2008 and reporting is due to begin from October 2009.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, when he expects primary care trusts (a) to undertake a review of cancer chemotherapy and (b) to develop a strategic framework for chemotherapy services. [183991]

Ann Keen: As set out in the Cancer Reform Strategy, a National Chemotherapy Advisory Group (NCAG) has been established and is considering all aspects of chemotherapy.

Publication of the NCAG report is expected in the spring and will recommend next steps for chemotherapy services. The Department and the cancer action team will then work with cancer networks and primary care trusts to take forward NCAG's recommendations where appropriate.

Childbirth

Adam Afriyie: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is taking to improve the (a) prediction and (b) prevention of premature births. [171939]

Ann Keen: We are funding research linked to premature births from the National Perinatal Epidemiology Unit. Some parts of this research, for example, big trials, have received additional funding from agencies such as the Medical Research Council. In general terms, keeping healthy and maintaining good nutrition during pregnancy is important for the wellbeing of both the mother and baby.

Childbirth: Social Security

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will take steps to ensure that parents whose child is premature and is in neo-natal care are made aware of all financial and other support schemes available to them; and if he will make a statement; [185559]

(2) if he will improve existing financial and other support schemes available to parents whose child is premature and is in neo-natal care; and if he will make a statement. [185560]

Ann Keen: The "Pregnancy Book" (given to all first time mothers by their midwife at an early appointment after they become pregnant) and "Birth to Five" both give detailed information on the financial and other sources of help and advice available to parents of a newborn child. The financial help available includes the sure start maternity grant, statutory maternity pay and the maternity allowance. We understand there are no plans to increase this financial help at this time.

This help will be supplemented from 2009 by the health in pregnancy grant (HiPG). The HiPG will be a one-off payment of £190 available to all expectant mothers ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom, which can be claimed from the 25th week of pregnancy. The grant will provide flexible financial help to support the general health and well-being of women in the later stages of pregnancy, which will contribute to the health of the baby, and to help meet wider costs in the run up to birth.

Departmental Carbon Emissions

Mr. Kemp: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he has taken to reduce his Department's carbon dioxide emissions in 2008-09. [181811]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department reduced its overall carbon emissions by 15.4 per cent. between 1999-2000 and 2005-06. This exceeds the target set for departments in 2006, to reduce carbon emissions by 12.5 per cent. by 2010-11. We continue our activities to reduce our emissions further.

All the electricity purchased for our London administrative estate comes from renewable sources. We have been working with the Carbon Trust over the last 18 months to identify energy saving measures, and we have recently appointed a consultant to work with us to implement a Carbon Management Programme throughout our core estate and in our arm's length bodies.

We continue to expand provision of video conferencing, which helps to reduce the emissions associated with business travel. Over the past 12 months we have introduced a new managed print service where existing printers, photocopiers and fax machines have been replaced by multi-function devices. This has reduced the number of print devices by three-quarters. The ratio of staff to printers has reduced from 3:1 to an average of 10:1.

Departmental Security

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will list the (a) special advisers and (b) ministerial appointees in possession of a security pass enabling access to his Department's main building in the month prior to the Prorogation of Parliament for the 2005 general election. [182194]

Mr. Bradshaw: It is established practice not to provide details on pass access to Government buildings for security reasons.

Eyesight: Children

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effects of reducing the upper age limit for children's free eye examinations. [186126]

Ann Keen: Children aged under 16 and those aged 16, 17 and 18 in full-time education have been entitled to free sight tests since 1948. No changes to the age limits for children have been made in this time.

Fluoride: Drinking Water

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent representations his Department has received on the long-term health effects of adding fluoride to drinking water; and if he will make a statement. [188254]

Ann Keen [holding answer 25 February 2008]: Fluoride offers the best prospect for reducing inequalities in oral health. The benefits to oral health from the fluoridation of water have been welcomed, but we have received representations from people concerned that there may be harmful side effects. The Department monitors relevant research and also commissions its own research and the Department is pleased to say there is no evidence of any risk to people's general health from the fluoridation of water at the 1 part per million level used in fluoridation schemes in the United Kingdom.

Food Poisoning

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people were treated for food poisoning in the last year for which figures are available. [188578]

Dawn Primarolo: The estimated number of people that were treated for indigenous food-borne disease in England and Wales in 2006 is given in the following table:

|---|---|
| | Number |
| General practitioner presentations | 282,000 |
| Hospital admissions | 17,000 |
| Hospital bed days | 77,000 |

Note:
Estimates have been rounded to the nearest 1,000 for all cases.
Source:
Figures were estimated by the Health Protection Agency using the methodology described in Adak G K, Long S M, O'Brien S J. Gut 2002; 51: 832-41. This methodology uses available surveillance data, special survey data, and hospital episode statistics to estimate the burden of indigenous food-borne disease in England and Wales.

Food: Labelling

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what steps his Department (a) has taken in each of the last two years and (b) plans to take in each of the next two years with food manufacturers to improve the labelling of food; what recent representations he has received about this issue; and if he will make a statement; [186398]

(2) which organisations and individuals the Food Standards Authority Agency (a) consulted in each of the last six months and (b) plans to consult in the next six months about improving food labelling information; and if he will make a statement; [186400]

(3) what (a) primary and (b) delegated legislation regulates the labelling of food; what changes have been made to each since enactment; what further amendments are planned; and if he will make a statement. [186404]

Dawn Primarolo: Food labelling, including nutrition labelling, is the responsibility of the Food Standards Agency, which reports to Parliament through Health Ministers.

Food labelling rules are largely harmonised at European Union level and implemented in the United Kingdom by the Food Labelling Regulations 1996 (as amended) (the FLR). The FLRs were made under the Food Safety Act 1990 and have been amended 32 times since inception.

The agency actively and regularly engages with a wide range of stakeholders and a range of food labelling issues including the Government favoured traffic light system, as required in the development of UK policy. This includes the formal and informal consultation of over 1,100 individuals on the agency's interested parties list, consumer groups, manufacturers, retailers, enforcement and other Government Departments. The agency has carried out four formal consultations using this database over the last six months. Further consultations will take place on the European Commission's (EC) proposal during the next six months. We have also been working with the retail sector to carry out an independent evaluation of front of pack signpost labels.

The agency has also recently consulted on and issued best practice guidance on country of origin labelling; clear labelling; use of marketing terms; allergen labelling and fish and meat labelling.

Health Services: Rossendale

Janet Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions he has had with the North West Strategic Health Authority on the bid from the East Lancashire Primary Care Trust for funding for a health hub in Rossendale. [185028]

Ann Keen: The Department is aware of the plans by the East Lancashire Teaching Primary Care Trust for the development of a specialist health hub in Rossendale. However, no formal discussions have taken place on funding and no plans have yet been submitted to the Department for consideration.

Health: Climate Change

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what research the Government have (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on the effects of climate change on public health in the last five years. [188904]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 25 February 2008]: At the request of the Department, an expert panel on climate change and health in the United Kingdom was formed, which included experts from a range of relevant fields, to advise and report from a wide range of available evidence, on the likely impact of climate change on health, and implications for the national health service.

Their resulting report Health Effects of Climate Change in the UK was published in 2002.

More recently, the Department commissioned another panel of independent scientific experts to focus on areas that had changed since the original report, based on the latest information and predictions about climate change. Their resulting update report was published jointly by the Department and the Health Protection Agency on 12 February 2008.

Both reports are available on the Department's website at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Publications/PublicationsPolicyAndGuidance/DH_080702

Copies of the first report are available in the Library and copies of the update report have been placed in the Library.

Health: Telephone Services

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he plans to develop Payment by Results into the area of telephone consultations. [189594]

Mr. Bradshaw: The "Options for the Future of Payment by Results: 2008-09 to 2010-11" consultation document put forward proposals for developing a tariff for non-face-to-face consultations by 2010-11. We are putting in place the 'building blocks' that would enable this type of tariff to be introduced. No decision has yet been made for the date of its implementation.

Hospital Wards: Gender

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which new hospitals opened in each of the last five financial years; and what proportion of beds in each were in single rooms. [180856]

Mr. Bradshaw: Information for hospital build schemes with a capital value over £25 million is in the table.

Information is not held centrally for schemes below this threshold and could be collected only at disproportionate cost.

Since 2001, the Department's guidance is that the proportion of single rooms in new hospital developments should aim to be 50 per cent., but should not fall below 20 per cent. and must be higher than the facilities they are replacing. Each trust makes an informed choice regarding the appropriate percentage of single bed provision based on practical considerations such as site restrictions and affordability as well as clinical and operational restrictions. The policy and design guidance for the provision of single rooms in mental health accommodation is 100 per cent.

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many sexual assaults have been reported on mixed sex wards since 1997. [183821]

Ann Keen: This information is not collected centrally.

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many hospital beds are located in single sex wards. [183822]

Ann Keen: Information is not available in the format requested.

Hospitals: Cleaning Services

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the policy of hospital deep cleaning covers hospital supplied accommodation for nurses and junior doctors. [187112]

Ann Keen: The details of each trust's deep clean plan will vary according to local need and the configuration of local services. All trusts were required to submit and agree their deep clean plans with primary care trusts in their area and this process has been monitored and assessed by strategic health authorities.

Hospitals: Infectious Diseases

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many claims relating to healthcare associated infections the NHS Litigation Authority has dealt with in each year since 1997. [184513]

Ann Keen: Not all claims related to health care associated infection (HCAI) can be identified. The following table shows those claims where methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) and/or Clostridium difficile (C. difficile) are regarded as one of the injuries.

Information on HCAI-related claims prior to 1999 is not available due to the coding systems in place at that time, which do not allow analysis for HCAIs.

Claims data by notification year (notified to trust) for claims where MRSA and/or C. Difficile are recorded as one of the injuries (as at 31 December 2007) are as follows.

Number

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many cases of healthcare associated infections were voluntarily reported to the Healthcare Protection Agency in each of the last five financial years for which figures are available, broken down by (a) type of infection and (b) trust. [184515]

Ann Keen: The following table gives data collected from the voluntary reporting system from 2002 to 2006 for the nine most common causes of bacteraemia (bacterial bloodstream infections) and for Clostridium difficile (C. difficile), which is associated with diarrhoea and not the blood stream. These data are not available by trust or by financial year.

These organisms are associated with infections that are transmitted mainly or partly within hospitals.

Healthcare Protection Agency laboratory reports (voluntary reporting system).

The increase in bacteraemias is partly due to better reporting, surveillance and testing and may also reflect a changing hospital population, with more patients who are vulnerable to infection through conditions which compromise their immune systems being treated.

Incontinence: Medical Equipment

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many responses have been received to the consultation on Arrangements under Part IX of the Drug Tariff for the provision of stoma and incontinence appliances; and if he will make a statement. [189022]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department has received 140 responses to the consultation on Arrangements under part IX of the Drug Tariff for the provision of stoma and incontinence appliances—and related services—to Primary Care which closed on 28 December 2007.

Leukaemia: Drugs

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the South West Surrey and Hampshire Cancer Network recommends Dasatinib for the treatment of imatinib-resistant chronic myeloid leukaemia. [186265]

Ann Keen: Dasatinib has been licensed for the treatment of chronic myeloid leukaemia (CML) with resistance or intolerance to imatinib mesylate. The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) has not yet published guidance on the use of Dasatinib. Until NICE guidance is published, it is for primary care trusts (PCTs) to make decisions based on the evidence that is available on whether to fund drugs locally.

South East Coast strategic health authority has advised officials that Surrey, West Sussex and Hampshire Cancer Network has not produced any formal recommendations on the use of Dasatinib. It does, however, provide advice and recommendations to PCTs on an individual patient basis when requested to do so.

Maternity Services

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 13 December 2007, Official Report, column 875W, on maternity services, which trusts provided maternity services in each of the five years before 2005-06. [178009]

Ann Keen: We do not collect this information centrally. However, data for 2004-05 are in "NHS Maternity Statistics, England: 2004-05" copies of which are available in the Library. Copies of the 2002-03, 2001-02 reports are also available in the Library.

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the oral answer to the hon. Member for Nuneaton (Mr. Olner) of 5 February 2008, Official

Report, column 784, on maternity services, what the evidential basis is for his statement that the UK is the safest country in the world in which to deliver babies. [186874]

Ann Keen [holding answer 18 February 2008]: The United Kingdom is one of the safest countries in the world in which to deliver babies. The Confidential Enquiry into Maternal and Child Health's publication, "Saving Mothers' Lives: Reviewing maternal deaths to make motherhood safer—2003-2005" published in December 2007 (copies of which have been placed in the Library) indicated that there were just under seven maternal deaths per 100,000 live births in the UK in the three years to 2005. The UK is very near to the top in any league table, with much lower death rates than the United States or France.

Maternity Services: Standards

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to paragraph 2.50 of the NHS in England's Operating Framework for 2008-09, how his Department defines 'sufficient numbers of maternity staff and neo-natal teams to meet local needs' in terms of (a) the population of a primary care trust and (b) the number of births at a maternity unit. [178304]

Ann Keen: It is for primary care trusts and national health service trusts to decide locally how to use their resources to provide services for the people for whom they are responsible, in line with the NHS Operating Framework. Staffing levels in maternity services vary throughout the country and are dependent on a range of factors including model of care and skill mix such as the use of maternity support workers.

Medical Records: Indian Subcontinent

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the percentage of NHS correspondence and typing of health service records of consultations that were sent to the Indian sub-continent for processing in the most recent period for which figures are available. [186657]

Mr. Bradshaw [holding answer 18 February 2008]: The effective management of patient records is the responsibility of the individual NHS organisation that creates them. Information is not held centrally on the number of national health service organisations that currently outsource aspects of patient record management, including the typing of patient records, to the Indian sub-continent. It is therefore not possible to make such an estimate.

Medical Treatments

Mark Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether his Department issues guidance to health care professionals on the involvement of patients in decisions on changing their medicinal regimes. [188289]

Dawn Primarolo: It is good practice for health professionals to involve patients in the decisions about their treatment, taking account of their values and beliefs.

While the Department has not issued guidance itself, the establishment of Medicines Partnership promotes the concept of concordance—or shared decision making—to help patients take their medicines better and to help them get the most from their medicines. Medicines partnership has, over the years, worked both with professionals and members of the public to promote shared decision making.

The Department also supports Ask About Medicines Week, which continues to develop initiatives to empower members of the public to ask questions of health care professionals about the medicines prescribed for them and be involved in the decisions about the medicines prescribed for them.

Medical Treatments Abroad: Transplant Surgery

Mr. Godsiff: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of people who travelled abroad for an organ transplant in the last year for which data are available. [185299]

Ann Keen: Information is only held for kidney transplants where we have a record of their being followed up in a United Kingdom hospital. In 2006, there were 31 UK residents who were transplanted with a kidney overseas and are being followed up in the UK. Two were from deceased donors, 28 from a living donor and one donor type not recorded. The majority were transplanted in Pakistan.

National Chemotherapy Advisory Group

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the membership of his Department's National Chemotherapy Advisory Group is; what areas of responsibility each member has; and if he will publish the membership on his Department's website. [184558]

Ann Keen: Membership of the National Chemotherapy Advisory Group is shown in the following table:

| Member | Area of responsibility |
|---|---|
| Co-chairs | |
| Professor Mike Richards | National Cancer Director Co-chair |
| Dr. Peter Clark | Medical Oncologist Co-chair |

The group collectively provide advice based on their areas of personal expertise and interest. This group has not yet reported. Membership of the advisory group will be included as an annex to their report due to be submitted in spring 2008.

NHS: Drugs

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will issue revised guidance to health trusts on the storage and use of medicinal drugs to ensure that patients are not given the wrong drug or the wrong amount of drug; and if he will make a statement. [187950]

Dawn Primarolo: Information on the safe handling and use of medicines is available to national health service trusts from a variety of sources including:

comprehensive guidance on the handling, storage and administration of medicines, "The Safe And Secure Handling Of Medicines: A Team Approach", was issued by the Royal Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain in March 2005. This updated guidance previously issued by the Department; guidance on good practice in the management of controlled drugs in primary care was issued by the National Prescribing Centre in February 2007 and the Department issued revised guidance for secondary care in October 2007;

the National Patient Safety Agency provides a range of practical resources to support NHS organisations and independent health care providers in learning from medication errors and reducing risk; and prescribers also have access to a wide variety of impartial, trustworthy information resources on prescribing and the use of medicines such as the British National Formulary, British National Formulary for Children, National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence guidance and information and advice.

Mrs. Riordan: To ask the Secretary of State for Health who is responsible for demonstrating the cost-effectiveness of a new drug treatment within the appraisal and authorisation process conducted by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence; and if he will make a statement.. [188140]

Dawn Primarolo: The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) draws on a number of different sources of information to appraise the clinical and cost-effectiveness of drugs assessed through its Multiple Technology Appraisals (MTA) process. The different sources of information are set out in more detail in NICE'S "Guide to the methods of technology appraisal" which can be found at www.nice.org.uk/niceMedia/pdf/TAP_Methods.pdf

When a single drug for a single indication is being appraised through NICE'S Single Technology Appraisals (STA) process, it is the responsibility of the drug's manufacturer to provide a submission that demonstrates the clinical and cost-effectiveness of the drug concerned.

In both the MTA and STA processes, the cost effectiveness models are independently reviewed by an academic group.

NHS: Public Participation

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what assessment he has made of patient and public involvement in Lord Darzi's reviews of (a) the NHS and (b) NHS London; [185580]

(2) how many requests Lord Darzi has received to meet members of the National Association of Patients' Forums; and how many times Lord Darzi has met members of the National Association of Patients' Forums in the course of his reviews of the NHS to hear their views on delivering effective patient and public involvement. [185581]

Ann Keen: The national health service "Our NHS, our future" next stage review is primarily a local process. Eight clinical pathway groups in each strategic health authority (SHA) region outside London are currently considering how to improve models of care across eight pathways from maternity and newborn care to end of life care. Local events are being held to ensure that the views and experiences of the public and patients inform the thinking of each clinical working group.

A second nationwide day of consultative events was held on 24 January 2008 to test the emerging findings of the clinical pathway groups with around 1,000 staff, patients and members of the public across the regions. The findings from the consultation events will contribute to each SHA's vision for healthcare due to be published in the spring.

An online questionnaire has also been launched to capture the views of patients and the public. This is available on the review's website at:

www.nhs.uk/ournhs

NHS London SHA undertook a similar process of engagement during the development of the "Healthcare for London: A Framework for Action" report. This included a telephone poll of 7,000 people, two deliberative events in February and March 2007 attended by over 100 people on each date and two feedback meetings in May and June 2007 attended by more than 60 people on each date.

Following the publication of the report, NHS London has convened a Patient and Public Advisory Group to contribute to the consultation, received over 12,000 visitors to their website, commenced a programme of 40 roadshows and met with stakeholder groups including patient and public involvement forums.

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State (Lord Darzi of Denham) has received three representations from the National Association of Patient Forums on engaging with the NHS Next Stage Review. Since July, Lord Darzi has visited and spoken to large numbers of stakeholders, including patient groups, and members of the public about the review. Thousands of people have already contributed their views at consultative events, via letter, email and other online channels. Representatives of patient groups also attended an International Clinical Summit in November 2007 to share ideas of leading edge care from the United Kingdom and around the world.

NHS: Social Services

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to monitor the level of contributions made by local authority social services departments to NHS local information networks. [183745]

Ann Keen: The level of the local authority contribution to the local involvement network (LINk) is a matter for individual councils. Government funding for local authorities' responsibilities in this area has been added into Area Based Grant.

As part of its annual reporting to the Secretary of State, a LINk will be asked to declare the amount of funding made available to it in order that it might carry out its activities as set out in the Local Government and Public Involvement in Health Act 2007.

Obesity

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his Department's estimate is of the average body mass index in (a) England, (b) the East of England, (c) Suffolk, (d) Bedfordshire, (e) Cambridgeshire, (f) Essex, (g) Hertfordshire and (h) Norfolk. [187678]

Dawn Primarolo: The information is not available in the exact format requested.

The latest data on average body mass index (mean BMI) for England and for the East of England Government Office Region can be found in the Health Survey for England 2006, in the cardiovascular disease and risk factors adults, obesity and risk factors children—Volume 1 Cardiovascular disease and risk factors in adults, published 31 January 2008, a copy is available in the Library. In England in 2006, the mean BMI for men aged 16 and over was 27.2 kg/m$^2$ and for women it was 26.8 kg/m$^2$. The Mean BMI for men and women aged 16 and over in the East of England Government Office Region in 2006 was 27.2 kg/m$^2$ and 26.9 kg/m$^2$ respectively.

Data for Suffolk, Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire, Essex, Hertfordshire and Norfolk are not available.

Obesity: Surgery

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what role surgery has in the treatment of severe obesity in the NHS; and what assessment he has made of the potential to increase the use of surgery in such cases. [187696]

Dawn Primarolo: Healthy Weight, Healthy Lives, the Government's strategy for promoting healthy weight, published in January 2008, reaffirmed the commitment that local health services should provide surgical interventions for obese patients where it is deemed clinically appropriate.

The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) recommends that surgery should only be considered in adults with severe obesity if they have a body mass index (BMI) of 40 or more or between 35 and 40 and other significant disease (for example, type two diabetes, high blood pressure), and after all appropriate non-surgical measures have failed to achieve or maintain adequate clinically beneficial weight loss, and only be considered as a last resort. Surgery can be considered as a first-line option for adults with a BMI of more than 50. NICE do not generally recommend surgery for children or young people and it should only be considered in exceptional circumstances.

Regarding the potential to increase the use of surgery to treat obesity, it is up to local areas to decide the best types of treatments, including the level of weight loss surgery, to provide for their own populations, in line with NICE guidance.

Pregnancy: Streptococcus

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the (a) incidence and (b) rate per 1,000 live births of group B streptococcal infection has been in babies aged (i) 0 to six days and (ii) seven to 90 days in each strategic health authority since 1997. [188906]

Ann Keen [holding answer 25 February 2008]: We do not collect this information centrally. The incidence rate of confirmed early-onset Group B streptococcal (GBS) infection in the newborn in the UK has been estimated from recent studies to range from 0.48-0.6 per 1,000 live births. There are about 600,000 live births in England each year.

A study of confirmed cases, published in 2003 by the Royal College of Obstetrics and Gynaecology (RCOG), identified 311 cases of early onset Group B streptococcus in England a year (0.5 per 1000 live births), of which 39 died. Since then, RCOG has produced "Prevention of Early Onset Neonatal Group B Streptococcal Disease in UK Obstetric Units: An audit of reported practice in England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland", which is available from the RCOG website.

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what information his Department holds on (a) the incidence and (b) the rate per 1,000 live births of group B Streptococcal infection in babies aged (i) 0 to 6 days and (ii) 7 to 90 days in each strategic health authority area since 1997. [181924]

Ann Keen: We do not collect this information centrally. The incidence rate of confirmed early-onset group B Streptococcal infection in the newborn in the United Kingdom has been estimated from recent studies to range from 0.48–0.6/1,000 live births. There are about 600,000 live births in England each year. A study published in 2004 of confirmed cases, identified 311 cases of early onset group B Streptococcus in England a year (0.5 per 1,000 live births) of which 39 died.

Primary Care Trusts: ICT

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much funding has been allocated under GP Systems of Choice to each primary care trust (PCT) in England for IT infrastructure upgrades; and what proportion such funding represents of the IT budget of each such PCT. [187204]

Mr. Bradshaw: Information on the funding allocated for GP Systems of Choice to each primary care trust (PCT) has been placed in the Library. However, the budgetary information on information technology for each PCT that is needed to calculate the requested proportion is not held centrally.

Primary Care Trusts: Maternity Services

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Health by what date primary care trusts are expected to have published their annual prospectuses, including their local vision for maternity services under the Maternity Matters strategy. [185018]

Ann Keen: The national health service operating framework for 2007-08 states that primary care trusts (PCTs) should produce their first prospectus during 2007-08. The prospectuses should include PCT proposals for increasing choice and improving maternity services as outlined in 'Maternity Matters'.

It is for strategic health authorities to ensure that PCTs complete their prospectuses and publish them.

Prostate Cancer

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many cases of prostate cancer he estimates there will be in (a) 2011, (b) 2016 and (c) 2021; how many cases of prostate cancer there were in 2006; and what estimate he has made of the (i) inpatient, (ii) outpatient and (iii) other costs of treating prostate cancer in (A) 2006, (B) 2011, (C) 2016 and (D) 2021. [184258]

Ann Keen: Estimates for cases of prostate cancer in individual years are not available, but estimates for the average annual registrations over a five year period are available:

| Time period | Number of cases |
| 2009-13 | 29,625 |
| 2014-18 | 33,026 |
| 2019-23 | 36,703 |

These estimates are projected from incidence rates from 1974-2003. Projections are not given for individual years because these would be subject to wide uncertainty.

The number of cases of prostate cancer in 2006 is not currently known, the most recently available data are for 2005, in which there were 28,886 registrations.

Source: Office for National Statistics.

The estimate of inpatient costs for prostate cancer are:

| Time period | Average annual cost (£ million) |
| 2009-13 | 67.4 |
| 2014-18 | 74.9 |
| 2019-23 | 82.7 |

All the cost estimates are in 2005-06 prices. The inpatient cost figures relate to admissions with a primary diagnosis of prostate cancer, and excludes chemotherapy and radiotherapy costs. It is not possible to provide reliable estimates of any other element of prostate cancer treatment costs because of the lack of appropriate data.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the mean waiting time for a patient with prostate cancer between (a) their first clinic appointment and (b) diagnosis in each year since 1997. [184263]

Ann Keen: Information on average waiting times between first outpatient attendance and diagnosis for cancer patients are not collected centrally and have not been estimated. The Department currently receives aggregate data on cancer waiting times that relate to the standards within the National Health Service Cancer Plan (2000).

For those patients following the 62-day referral to treatment pathway the Department monitors the time taken to complete the entire pathway. Performance against this standard for the most recent period for which figures are available (July, August and September 2007-08) was 97.2 per cent.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the (a) actual and (b) optimum workloads of sites offering prostatectomies, expressed in terms of the number of operations per site. [184278]

Ann Keen: The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) issued guidance on "Improving Outcomes in Urological Cancers" in September 2002. It stated that:

> "ideally, all radical prostatectomies undertaken in each network should be carried out by a single team. Radical prostatectomy should not be carried out by teams which carry out fewer than 50 radical operations (prostatectomies and cystectomies) for prostate and bladder cancers per year".

The guidance went on to recommend that

> "surgeons who currently carry out fewer than five radical prostatectomies per year should refer patients to designated surgeons who will become more specialised in this type of surgery."

This guidance was converted into a series of measures for inclusion in the "Manual of Cancer Services 2004" against which cancer networks are peer reviewed. The Manual includes measures to assess:

the total number of radical prostatectomies and, separately, the total number of total cystectomies, performed by the multidisciplinary teams during the year prior to the team's review; and the total number of radical prostatectomies and, separately, the total number of total cystectomies, performed by individual surgical members of the team.

If teams were not compliant with the criteria set out in the improving outcomes guidance during the peer review, the peer review team would have raised this as an immediate risk with the trust chief executive or their representative on the day of the visit following up this concern in writing. A trust would be expected to address this concern as a matter of urgency.

Individual cancer networks' performance against these measures in the 2004 to 2007 round of the national cancer peer review would be set out in their local peer review reports. These reports are available on the Cancer Quality Improvement Network System website at:

www.cquins.nhs.uk/published_reviews.php

A summary report of the 2004 to 2007 national cancer peer review process will be issued shortly.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent estimate he has made of the proportion of prostate cancer patients who are cared for by a multidisciplinary team. [184279]

Ann Keen: The recent round of cancer peer review (2004 to 2007) found that in 92 per cent. of local urology teams and 98 per cent. of specialist urology teams, all new patients with urological cancer, including prostate cancer, were reviewed by a multi-disciplinary team.

Prostate Cancer: Staff

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 18 December 2007, Official Report, column 1407W, on prostate cancer: staff, when the Leeds Teaching Hospitals NHS Trust plans to initiate its pilot to enhance multi-disciplinary team working and improve the quality of surgical techniques available to prostate cancer patients; when he expects the pilot to conclude; whether any interim findings have emerged from the development of the pilot; when he expects a final report on the pilot to be published; what funding his Department has provided in support of the pilot in (a) 2006-07 and (b) 2007-08; what funding his Department plans to provide in support of the pilot in 2008-09; and if he will make a statement. [184463]

Ann Keen: The prostate cancer multi-disciplinary team training programme was started in February 2007 with the appointment of Leeds Teaching Hospitals NHS Trust to deliver the pilot programme. The trust has been recruiting the necessary staff to develop and evaluate the research elements of the programme with the first training courses due to be delivered in spring 2008. The evaluation report is to be delivered at the end of the 18 month training programme. The pilot is funded by London strategic health authority on behalf of the national cancer action team with £190,000.00 being made available in 2006-07. Future funding levels will be agreed with the trust based on planned deliverable training activity.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 18 December 2007, Official Report, column 1407W, on prostate cancer: staff, in what ways (a) his Department and (b) the Healthcare Commission monitors progress against the action plans submitted by strategic health authorities to implement the improving outcomes in urological cancers guidance; what progress has been made to date; and if he will make a statement. [184465]

Ann Keen: Strategic health authorities (SHAs) submit six monthly reports to the Department to confirm whether their cancer networks have met any improving outcomes guidance (IOGs) milestones that had been due in the preceding six month period and also to confirm if future milestones are on schedule to be met.

The national health service cancer action team works closely with the cancer networks and the Department's Recovery and Support Unit liaises with SHAs where deadlines are unlikely to be met to ensure recovery plans are in place.

The Healthcare Commission expects primary care trusts (PCTs) to support the development of agreed action plans within cancer networks as well as to ensure services are commissioned in line with agreed action plans to achieve full implementation of these IOGs. The Department shares information on progress with the Healthcare Commission. The Commission use this information to inform the ratings they give to individual PCTs.

Radiotherapy: Waiting Lists

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, when he estimates that NHS providers will have sufficient capacity to meet the 31 day waiting time standard for all radiotherapy; and what the timetable is for ensuring that the recommendations set out in the National Radiotherapy Advisory Group's report are achieved. [183987]

Ann Keen: The Cancer Reform Strategy set a deadline for extension of the 31-day waiting time standard of December 2008 for chemotherapy and surgery. The deadline for extension of the 31-day standard for radiotherapy is December 2010. The later date for radiotherapy is in recognition of the length of time needed to increase radiotherapy capacity, for example building bunkers and purchasing and installing machinery.

The National Radiotherapy Advisory Group recommended that radiotherapy services should be developed to deliver up to 54,000 fractions per million population throughout the country by 2016, with an interim aim of delivering 40,000 fractions per million population by 2010. In addition, all departments were, as an immediate aim, to deliver at least 8,000 fractions per linac (linear accelerator) per year; increasing to at least 8,300 fractions per linac per year by 2010-11, and at least 8,700 fractions per linac per year by 2016.

Mechanisms for reviewing progress are under discussion. A national radiotherapy dataset is being developed and will be used from April 2009 to help monitor progress in radiotherapy centres around the country.

Sexually Transmitted Diseases: Drugs

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many recorded cases of drug resistant gonorrhoea have been confirmed in each of the last five years; what steps he has taken to tackle drug resistant gonorrhoea; whether he has received representations on (a) penicillin, (b) tetracycline and (c) fluoroquinolone resistant gonorrhoea; how many representations he has received on antibiotic resistance relating to the treatment of gonorrhoea; and if he will place in the Library copies of such representations. [187202]

Dawn Primarolo: The Gonococcal Resistance to Antimicrobial Surveillance Programme (GRASP) funded by the Department and run by the Health Protection Agency, monitors gonococcal antimicrobial resistance at a number of sentinel sites in England and Wales. The percentages of gonorrhoea isolates from genito-urinary medicine (GUM) clinic patients submitted to GRASP in England and Wales between 2002 and 2006 which had confirmed resistance to penicillin, tetracycline and ciprofloxacin (a fluoroquinolone) are contained in the following table:

Percentage of isolates resistant to specific antimicrobials, 2002-06

| Antimicrobial | 2002 | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | Percentage 2006 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Penicillin (MIC> = 1 mg/l) | 9.8 | 9.7 | 11.4 | 17.9 | 9.5 |
| Tetracycline (MIC> = 2 mg/l) | 44.8 | 38.2 | 44.4 | 48 | 36.9 |
| Ciprofloxacin (MIC> = 1 mg/l) | 9.8 | 9.1 | 14.0 | 21.7 | 26.5 |

Notes:
1. MIC means minimum inhibitory concentration and is defined as the lowest concentration of an antimicrobial that will inhibit the visible growth of a micro-organism after overnight incubation. The MICs shown for the specific antimicrobials define the cut-off for resistance to these antimicrobials.
2. Due to variations in the retrieval and confirmation of isolates submitted in different years, the data on resistance prevalence are statistically weighted. This is done to avoid resistance estimates being under representative of sites that have a low retrieval rate and over representative of sites that have a high retrieval rate.

Source:
GRASP from specimens collected at genito-urinary medicine clinics.

Data from GRASP provide the evidence-base for treatment guidelines in the management of gonorrhoea. In 2002, this led to prescribing policy being updated to recommend that gonorrhoea should be treated with third generation cephalosporins, ceftriaxone or cefixime. Further information is contained in the GRASP annual report (year 2006 collection) which has been placed in the Library. No specific representations have been received by the Department on this issue.

Skin Cancer

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the age is of (a) the youngest and (b) the oldest skin cancer patient who have been diagnosed where use of sunbed salons has been a contributing factor in their condition. [187729]

Angela Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 26 February 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking what the age is of (a) the youngest and (b) the oldest skin cancer patient who have been diagnosed where use of sunbed salons has been a contributing factor in their condition. I am replying in her absence. [187729]

The use of sunbed salons as a contributing factor in skin cancer is not recorded. The most recent available figures for newly diagnosed cases of malignant melanoma of skin registered in England are for the year 2005. The (a) youngest and (b) oldest patients were aged one and 103 respectively when newly diagnosed with malignant melanoma of skin in 2005. Figures by age group are available in a first release on the National Statistics website:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/StatBase/Productasp?vInk=7720

Earlier figures are published in the Annual Reference Volume, Cancer statistics: Registrations (Series MB1) available on the National Statistics website:

Testicular Cancer: Screening

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps the Government have taken to promote screening for testicular cancer. [188541]

Ann Keen: There is no effective screening method for testicular cancer, therefore no action has been taken to promote screening for testicular cancer.

Testicular cancer is almost always curable if found early and the Department has collaborated with Cancer Research UK in the production of a testicular self-awareness leaflet, "Testicular Cancer: Spot The Symptoms Early". Over 300,000 copies of this leaflet are printed each year.

Carbon Markets Expert Group

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when the first summit of the Carbon Markets Expert Group was held; which organisations were represented; what matters were discussed; and what decisions were taken. [188819]

Angela Eagle: The first meeting of the Carbon Markets Experts Group was held on 19 February 2008 and was attended by representatives from:

Barclays Capital;
Cameo Global;
Cantor Co2e;
CEAG Ltd;
Citigroup;
City of London Corporation;
Climate Change Capital;
Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs;
Ecosecurities;
European Climate Exchange;
Financial Services Authority;
HM Treasury;
JP Morgan plc;
KPMG;
Lehman Brothers;
Merrill Lynch;
Morgan Stanley;
Natsource Europe Ltd;
TFS;
UBS.

The meeting covered London's role in the global carbon market, the EU 2020 energy and climate change package and the progress of Phase II of the EU ETS. There was a detailed discussion on the opportunities and areas for further growth within the UK and market views on developing UK and European policy. Attendees generally supported the broad thrust of the EU's recent proposals, and welcomed the greater certainty they provide for the EU Emissions Trading Scheme post 2012. There was also discussion of the limits that the EU package proposes on the use of project credits. The group was encouraged to respond to the current Government consultation on UK plans for auctioning Phase II EU allowances.

The next meeting will be held in the summer.

Census: Data Protection

Mr. Drew: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make it his policy to ensure that all census data collected by private contractors will remain confidential. [188175]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 26 February 2008:

As National Statistician and Registrar General for England and Wales I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking if the Office for National Statistics will ensure that all census data collected by private contractors will remain confidential. (188175)

The data collected in the Census is owned by the Office for National Statistics (ONS) and the Crown. ONS has a well-established reputation of maintaining Census confidentiality which it intends to uphold. Safeguarding data confidentiality and security has carried the highest priority in defining all the legal and contractual arrangements for the 2011 Census.

Confidentiality is an overriding concern, and ONS has a stringent security policy which includes specific measures to safeguard the confidentiality of personal data provided by respondents to Census Tests and to a Census. These measures cover the physical, IT, communications and internet security requirements, and comply with all relevant Government policies and standards. As for previous censuses independent security reviews will be carried out at key stages of the Census operation.

All staff working with, or having access to, Census data, including any contracted service provider, will sign a confidentiality declaration to confirm their understanding and commitment to their legal confidentiality undertakings.

Currently, legal protection is afforded by the Census Act 1920 as amended by the Census (Confidentiality) Act 1991 which makes it a criminal offence for any person to disclose personal information from the Census without lawful authority. Census information is also generally protected in UK law by the provisions of the Data Protection Act and the Freedom of Information Act.

From April 2008 when the power to conduct a Census and other statistical functions of my post as Registrar General for England and Wales are transferred to the newly formed Statistics Board, data confidentiality will be protected by the Statistics and Registration Service Act 2007 (SRSA) which will replace the confidentiality provisions of the Census Act.

Any breach of the SRSA confidentiality provisions would be a criminal offence, subject to possible imprisonment and fines.

Debts

Adam Price: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment has been made by (a) the Bank of England, (b) his Department and (c) the Financial Service Authority of the effects of the problems in the US monoline debt default insurance sector on UK financial and economic stability. [188176]

Angela Eagle: The Bank of England and the FSA monitor developments related to the monoline insurance industry and assess the impact for financial and economic stability, in line with their responsibilities. The Bank of England and the FSA share assessments of risks to financial and economic stability with the Treasury. Such assessments may also, where relevant, be published in the Bank of England's Financial Stability Report and the FSA's Financial Risk Outlook.

Employment

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the employment rate was for (a) lone parents, (b) disabled people and (c) people aged over-50 in each year since 1997. [189320]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mow', dated 26 February 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question about the employment rate for (a) lone parents, (b) the disabled and (c) the over-50s in each year since 1997. I am replying in her absence. (189320)

The attached table gives the employment rates for the categories requested for the three month period ending June each year 1997 to 2007. Comparable estimates are not available for 1997 for disabled workers and 1998 and 2000 for all categories.

A historical series of lone parent employment rates is published in the 'Work and worklessness among households' First Release, which is available on the National Statistics website: http://www.statistics.gov.uk/statbase/Product.asp?vlnk=8552.

The LFS estimates at this detailed level are consistent with the UK population estimates published in February and March 2003, whereas those in the Labour Market Statistics First Release are based on more up-to-date population figures.

As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty.

(3) what recent assessment he has made of the contribution made to the economy by the brewing and public house industry. [188943]

Foreign Workers

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many foreign workers in the United Kingdom were aged (a) 16 to 21, (b) 22 to 30, (c) 31 to 40, (d) 41 to 50, (e) 51 to 60 and (f) over 61 years in the most recent period for which figures are available. [188462]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell dated 26 February 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question about how many foreign workers in the UK were aged (a) 16 to 21, (b) 22 to 30, (c) 31 to 40, (d) 41 to 50, (e) 51 to 60 and (f) over 61 years in the most recent period for which figures are available. (188462)

The attached table gives the number of people in the categories requested for the three month period ending December 2007.

The data for analysing migrant workers comes from the Labour Force Survey (LFS). The National Statistics method for estimating the number of migrant workers employed in the UK is based on the number of people at a given time who were born abroad and in employment. This question has been answered on this basis.

The LFS estimates at this detailed level are consistent with the UK population estimates published in February and March 2003, whereas data in the Labour Market First Release is based on more up to date figures.

As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty.

Foreign born population in employment by age group, three months ending December 2007, United Kingdom, not seasonally adjusted exclude students in halls of residence who do not have a UK resident parent; exclude people in most types of communal establishment (e.g. Hotels, boarding houses, hostels, mobile home sites etc); are grossed to population estimates that only include migrants staying 12 months or more;

are grossed to population estimates consistent with those published in spring 2003; which are significantly lower than the latest population estimates as used in the Labour Market Statistics.

Hospitals: Death

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many deaths in hospitals were recorded on each day of (a) August 2007 and (b) August 2006. [189135]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 26 February 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many deaths in hospitals were recorded on each day of (a) August 2007 and (b) August 2006.I am replying in her absence. (189135)

Data for deaths which occurred in 2006 and 2007 are not yet available, and we are therefore currently unable to provide daily counts of deaths for those years.

Job Creation

Alan Simpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many jobs were created in the UK in the last 12 months, broken down by sector. [188557]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 26 February 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking how many jobs were created in the UK in the last 12 months, broken down by sector. (188557)

While statistics of new jobs created are not available explicitly, statistics from surveys enable comparisons to be made of net changes in jobs from year to year.

The Workforce Jobs estimates combine Employee Jobs figures with self employment jobs from the Labour Force Survey, as well as HM Forces jobs figures and the number of Government sponsored trainees.

Attached is a table showing Workforce Jobs by industry for the UK for the latest available period, September 2007, and for September 2006.

Workforce Job statistics are published as part of the Labour Market Statistics First Release and can be obtained on the National Statistics website at:

Notes:

1. Workforce jobs figures are a measure of jobs rather than people. For example, if a person holds two jobs, each job will be counted in the workforce jobs total.
2. Workforce jobs figures come from a variety of sources, and where possible, from the employer rather than the individual. Employee jobs (which is much the largest component of workforce jobs) come from quarterly surveys of employers carried out by ONS.
3. Other data sources are as follows:

Self-employment jobs are provided by the Labour Force Survey
HM Forces figures are provided by the Ministry of Defence (MOD)
Government-supported trainees are provided from Administrative Sources.

Low Incomes

Alan Simpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the average earnings were of those on low incomes in employment in the last period for which figures are available, broken down by decile. [188559]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 26 February 2008:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking what the average earnings were of those on low incomes in employment in the last period for which figures are available, broken down by decile. (188559)

Levels of earnings for Standard Occupation Classification, including medians, deciles and quartiles, are estimated from the Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings (ASHE), and are provided for employees on adult rates of pay, whose pay for the survey period was not affected by absence. The ASHE, carried out in April each year, is the most comprehensive source of earnings information in the United Kingdom.

ASHE results for 2007 can be obtained on the National Statistics website at:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/ashe

Alan Simpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the average earnings of those in employment in each of the two poorest deciles were in each of the last five years. [188560]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Mortgages: Fraud

Margaret Moran: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether he has collected evidence of fraudulent mortgage lending as a result of identity theft. [188301]

Jane Kennedy: The Treasury does not collect evidence of this kind.

Northern Rock Foundation

Tim Farron: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will ensure that the guaranteed funds for the Northern Rock Foundation will go to funding arts and heritage projects. [188892]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 25 February 2008]: As part of the Government's decision to take Northern Rock plc into temporary public ownership, on 17 February the Treasury announced that the Northern Rock Foundation will receive from Northern Rock a minimum of £15 million a year in 2008, 2009 and 2010. The distribution of funds is a matter for the trustees of the Northern Rock Foundation.

Northern Rock: Freedom of Information

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many Freedom of Information requests the Treasury has received in respect of Northern Rock. [189111]

Angela Eagle: 31.

Tax Office: Dorchester

Mr. Letwin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make a statement on the future of the Dorchester tax office. [188227]

Jane Kennedy: No decisions have yet been taken on the future of the Dorchester Tax office. HMRC will announce plans to consult on all offices that have not yet been consulted on shortly after the Budget.

Taxation: Pensioners

Margaret Moran: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many pensioners in Luton paid tax in (a) 1996 and (b) the last financial year. [188245]

Jane Kennedy: The number of taxpayers with pension income in Luton can be found in Table 3.14 'Income and tax by borough and district or unitary authority' or Table 3.15 'Income and tax by parliamentary constituency' at the HM Revenue and Customs website http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/income_distribution/menu-by-year.htm#314. The information is based on the Survey of Personal Incomes of which 2004-05 is the latest available.

Similar information is not available for 1996-97 as sample sizes were too small to base reliable estimates on.

Voluntary Work

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what programmes his Department has in place to encourage volunteering among its employees. [189138]

Angela Eagle: The Treasury actively promotes employee volunteering, including by: providing special leave entitlements to enable staff to take a limited amount of time off each year to volunteer; holding regular events with voluntary sector organisations to raise awareness of volunteering opportunities; providing information on volunteering via an internal website; supporting a staff-led Volunteers Group.

JUSTICE

Absent Voting

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what percentage of votes were postal in (a) the 2005 general election, (b) the 2005 local elections and (c) the 2006 local elections; and how many postal vote applications were disallowed per local authority in each case. [188468]

Bridget Prentice: Research conducted by the Electoral Commission on turnout at the 2005 general and local elections concluded that 12.1 per cent. of the electorate opted to have a postal vote at those elections, and that postal votes accounted for 15 per cent. of all votes cast. The information for the 2006 local elections is not held centrally by Government.

The Government do not hold figures for how many postal vote applications were disallowed per local authority, though this may be held by local authorities.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what steps are being taken to (a) raise the awareness of postal voting availability and (b) reduce levels of disallowed postal votes. [188469]

Bridget Prentice: The Government have prescribed that the annual canvass form that is sent to every household each autumn contains a provision allowing an elector to request a postal vote application form. The Government have expanded the information that is included on the poll card that is sent to electors at an election, and it now includes information about how to apply for a postal vote and the deadline for making a postal vote application at the forthcoming election.

The Electoral Administration Act 2006 brought forward measures to increase the security of postal voting. While this increased the amount of data needed when electors completed their forms, this was balanced by the removal of the requirement for a witness signature. The available information suggests that the levels of disallowed postal votes remain low. We will wish to keep the matter under review and to explore the issues involved with the Electoral Commission and Association of Electoral Administrators.

Crime: Internet

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what prosecutions there have been involving the posting or accessing of illegal content online in which legal proceedings are complete in each of the last three years. [188322]

Maria Eagle: The number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates courts for various offences relating to the publication, possession or distribution of obscene matter, and indecent photographs (including of children), in England and Wales for the years 2004 to 2006 can be viewed in the following table.

Number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates courts for various offences relating to the publication, possession or distribution of obscene matter, and indecent photographs (including of children), in England and Wales for the years 2004 to 2006[1,2]

[1] These data are on the principal offence basis.
[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts and police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

Court proceedings database held by RDS Office for Criminal Justice Reform—Ministry of Justice

There is no specific offence of the posting or accessing of illegal content online as the UK prosecutes the offence, such as the creation or publication of illegal imagery, rather than the medium used. All published material is subject to the Obscene Publications Act 1959. Under the Protection of Children Act 1978 (as amended), the UK has an absolute prohibition on the production, circulation and possession with a view to distribution of any indecent photograph of a child under 18.

Court proceedings data for 2007 will be available in the autumn of 2008.

Departmental Sick Pay

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the cost of sickness pay to staff within his Department was in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187520]

Maria Eagle: It is estimated that the cost of sick pay within the public sector Prison Service during 2007 was £68 million. Estimated costs for other parts of the Department are not readily available and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

The Cabinet Office published a report on sickness absence in the civil service on 7 February 2008. The report included an analysis of the days lost due to sickness absence. The report included an estimate of £887.66 for 2006-07 as the cost of absence per staff year in respect of all civil servants.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what average hourly rate his Department and its predecessors paid to employment agencies for agency staff in each year since 1999, broken down by employment agency. [187909]

Maria Eagle: The Ministry of Justice was created on 9 May 2007 therefore my response refers to the former Department for Constitutional Affairs. The following table provides figures from 2001 to the end of the last full financial year. Information for the preceding financial years is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

My Department and its predecessor has a national framework contract with Kelly Services that began in April 2001 for the supply of agency staff.

Information relating to workers employed through other employment agencies is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Information on average hourly rates paid to agency staff employed through Kelly Services appears as follows.

|---|---|
| 2001 | 10.41 |
| 2002 | 10.43 |
| 2003 | 10.53 |

| 2005 | 10.57 |
| 2006 | 9.89 |

Domestic Violence: Rehabilitation

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the (a) longest, (b) average and (c) shortest waiting period for domestic violence perpetrators programmes was for each probation area in the latest period for which figures are available. [188270]

Maria Eagle: The information requested is contained in the following table. It covers the period from April 2006 to March 2007.

Offenders waiting for a place on a domestic violence programme are under the supervision of their offender manager from the day of sentence. The offender manager will monitor the risk posed by the offender and actively manage it. Additionally the offender manager will normally prepare offenders for the programmes by carrying out set work. This can take between six and 12 weeks.

These figures have been drawn from administrative IT systems, which, as with any large scale recording system, are subject to possible errors with data entry and processing. The data take no account of time that elapses because of the need to deliver other requirements of the sentence, or because the offender is recalled into custody, for example.

The domestic violence programmes are still relatively new and demand from the courts has exceeded expectations. A series of measures are in place to reduce the period of time before an offender can start a programme.

Information Services

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how he proposes to ensure that all providers of supervisory services for which his Department has responsibility have the same level of access to information and support systems. [188337]

Mr. Hanson: The Data Share project, in the new NOMIS Programme, will allow public prisons and probation areas access to a simple read-only database containing important case information held by the separate case management systems, to further support the management of offenders.

Information on violent and sexual offenders, managed under Multi-Agency Public Protection

Arrangements (MAPPA) will be shared across supervisory services (including the police) through a single, secure system; ViSOR. Once the deployment of the system is complete in spring 2008, ViSOR will become the first IT system to be jointly shared across probation, prison and police services.

Land Registry: Pay

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the (a) salaries and (b) bonuses paid to each of the directors of HM Land Registry were in (i) 2006 and (ii) 2007. [188339]

Mr. Wills: The table, taken from Land Registry's Annual Report and Accounts 2006-07, covers all taxable pay in 2006, including any performance or corporate bonus, if awarded. In accordance with the Financial Reporting Manual issued by HM Treasury, Land Registry is required to seek permission from each director before disclosing his/her salary, including any allowances, in bands of £5,000. Such permission is required in order to comply with the provisions of the Data Protection Act 1998.

The directors' salary details for 2007-08 will be available in similar bandings when this year's annual report and accounts has been audited. Copies will be laid before Parliament before the summer recess.

Magistrates Courts: Sentencing

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many and what proportion of sentences from magistrates courts were custodial sentences in each year since 1993; and if he will make a statement; [188160]

(2) how many and what proportion of offenders convicted in magistrates courts were given custodial sentences of (a) three months or less, (b) three to six months and (c) six to 12 months in each year since 1993; and if he will make a statement. [188205]

Mr. Hanson: The following tables show the number of custodial sentences handed down at the magistrates court, split by age and gender, and there associated proportions to the totals.

This information can also be found in table 2.1 of "Sentencing Statistics 2006", available at:

Ministry of Justice

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will give the dates of any meetings he had with (a) the Labour Party Registered Treasurer or Representative Officer, (b) the Conservative Party Registered Treasurer or Representative Officer or (c) the Liberal Party Registered Treasurer or Representative Officer since December 2006, other than those which took place during meetings with Hayden Phillips. [178769]

Mr. Straw: In my capacity as Secretary of State for Justice, I have not held any meetings with political party representatives since December 2006.

In addition to the information in the answer of 7 January 2008, Official Report, column 156W, I have met with representatives of political parties on party funding (including those of my own party), in my capacity as one of my party's representatives at the cross-party talks.

Offenders: Databases

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what arrangements are in place to ensure the effective (a) capture and (b) communication of relevant data throughout the offender management system. [188336]

Mr. Hanson: Prisons and probation have agreed a core dataset of relevant offender information to be captured and communicated at specified points in the offender journey, using a system of jointly agreed offender management forms, secure e-mail and dedicated offender management mailboxes.

Data on violent and sexual offenders, managed under Multi-Agency Public Protection Arrangements (MAPPA) will be shared across the offender management system through the ViSOR system. Once the deployment of the system is complete in spring 2008, ViSOR will become the first IT system to be jointly shared across probation, prison and police services.

Going forward, the newly revised and deliverable NOMIS programme will continue the roll-out of the prison NOMIS database to public prisons. At the same time, the programme will be replacing at-risk case management systems in probation areas, as well as providing a simple read-only database, that will allow staff in both services to have access to important information held on each others' systems to support the management of offenders. In addition, the OASys project, as well as improving the offender risk assessment systems in both prisons and probation, will also provide, for the first time, a single national database of offenders who fall within the agreed scope of offender management.

Offenders: Housing

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) what the total cost was of providing bail and home detention accommodation through (a) the Bail Accommodation and Support Service, (b) ClearSprings Management and (c) other private contractors in each month for which figures are available; and what the average cost per person per night was in each category over the latest period for which figures are available; [188347]

(2) how many people on (a) bail and (b) home detention curfew were provided with accommodation by (i) the Bail Accommodation and Support Service, (ii) ClearSprings Management and (iii) other private contractors in each month since July 2007; [188454]

(3) how many beds are available through the Bail Accommodation and Support Service; in how many properties; and how many of these are run by (a) ClearSprings Management and (b) other private contractors. [188455]

Mr. Hanson: The Bail Accommodation and Support Service (BASS) is provided by one contractor: ClearSprings Management Ltd. The total cost of providing the scheme and the cost of the services provided by ClearSprings are given in the following table for each month from June to December 2007:

| 2007 | Total BASS | £000 ClearSprings |
|---|---|---|
| June | 115 | 102 |
| July | 406 | 390 |
| August | 560 | 547 |
| September | 566 | 551 |
| October | 641 | 544 |
| November | 596 | 495 |
| December | 587 | 441 |

The average cost per person per night through BASS and ClearSprings Management for the latest period (December 2007) in which figures are available is £81 and £61 respectively.

I will provide as soon as possible information on the numbers of defendants and offenders released each month into accommodation provided by the ClearSprings Bail Accommodation and Support Service.

As at 20 February 2008 ClearSprings had supplied 539 bed spaces in 135 properties across England and Wales for the Bail Accommodation and Support Service.

Many more offenders, including some on Home Detention Curfew, are released into accommodation provided by other private landlords, local authorities, housing associations and the voluntary sector. The cost of the accommodation provided by these providers does not fall on NOMS and it is not possible to provide a total or unit cost. Nor is it possible to provide the number of those released into accommodation. The numbers of beds and properties available from other sources, including other private contractors, is not defined and no numbers can be given. NOMS has invested £14.5 million since 2003 to help prisoners access accommodation on release. The percentage of released prisoners without accommodation to go to has fallen from 46 per cent. in 2003-04 to 13 per cent. for 2006-07.

Open Prisons

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what recent changes he has made to the criteria for allocating prisoners to open prisons; and if he will make a statement. [189191]

Mr. Hanson: Public safety remains paramount and there is no relaxation of standards. The Prison Service Instruction issued in November 2007 identified additional measures to ensure suitable prisoners are allocated to open conditions. This includes: arrangements to ensure that categorisation reviews take place at six monthly intervals for all prisoners in the last 30 months of their sentence; reviews after successful completion of Release on Temporary licence; and that prisoners sentenced to less than 12 months in custody be considered as soon as possible after sentencing.

Prison Services: Travelling People

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much was spent by HM Prison Service on raising awareness of Gypsy and Traveller issues in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [188290]

Maria Eagle: Figures for monies spent by HM Prison Service on raising awareness of Gypsy and Traveller issues are not available centrally for individual establishments.

To collect the information required would require contacting all public sector prisons in England and Wales individually and for each establishment to conduct a manual check of their local records. To do so would be at disproportionate cost.

Prisoner Escapes

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners in each contracted-out prison (a) escaped from prison and (b) escaped from escorts in each of the last five years. [188307]

Mr. Hanson: Information on the number of escapes from prison and escapes from escort at each contracted prison is provided in the following tables for each financial year to 31 March and for the current year until 31 January 2008.

In the end of year Performance Report on Offender Management Targets 2006-07 (PROMT) published in July 2007 on the NOMS website, targets for the rate of escape from prison and prison escorts below 0.05 per cent. of the average population, were met by both the public sector and the contracted estate.

The target for fewer than one in 20,000 escapes from prison and prison escorts was also met.

Prisoners Release

Hywel Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many prisoners on indeterminate sentences have been released following the completion of rehabilitation courses; [188639]

(2) how many prisoners on indeterminate sentences have been released despite not having access to pre-release rehabilitation courses; and how many of those were sex offenders. [188640]

Mr. Hanson: Prisoners serving an indeterminate sentence of imprisonment for public protection (IPP) may be considered for release by the independent Parole Board once they have completed the period of imprisonment considered necessary to meet the requirements of retribution and deterrence (the tariff period). This period is set in open court by the trial judge when passing sentence. The Parole Board may direct the release of such a prisoner only if it is satisfied that it is no longer necessary for the protection of the public that the prisoner should be confined. The Secretary of State may release such prisoners at any time only if exceptional circumstances exist which justify release on compassionate grounds.

As at 31 January 2008, 17 IPP prisoners have been released on licence. The IPP licence will remain in force for at least 10 years, at which point the licensee can apply to have it cancelled. Similar applications can be made annually thereafter. Of those 17 cases, 16 were released on the direction of the Parole Board. One prisoner was released by the Secretary of State prior to tariff expiry on compassionate grounds.

Consideration of the files of the 16 prisoners released on the direction of the Parole Board indicates that 11 had completed courses specifically aimed at addressing identified risk factors. Such work could also continue as appropriate during the post release licence period.

Prisoners: Food

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the cost was of the daily food allowance for prisoners in each contracted-out prison in each of the last five years. [188345]

Mr. Hanson: Information on the cost of the daily food allowance for prisoners in each of the last five years for each contracted prison is provided in the table as follows.

[1] Due to information not being held centrally data have been supplied by each of the four contractors Serco, Kalyx, G4S and GSL.
[2] HMP Bronzefield did not open until June 2004.
[3] Information provided by Parc is the actual daily allowance per day, however the actual food cost varies over the period between £2.45 and £2.60.
[4] HMP Peterborough did not open until March 2005. Data also include providing free staff meals, as it is not possible for the contractor to provide a separated cost.

Prisoners: Skilled Workers

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners in each contracted-out prison started a work skills award in each of the last five years; and what percentage of these completed a work skills award. [188304]

Maria Eagle: Information on the number of completed work skills awards against the target in each contracted prison in each of the last five years is provided in the following table. Information is not centrally available for the number of prisoners who started work skills awards and can be provided only at a disproportionate cost.

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners in each contracted-out prison started (a) entry level, (b) level one and (c) level two basic skills awards in each of the last five years; and what percentage of these completed (i) entry level, (ii) level one and (iii) level two basic skills awards. ## Prisoners: Suicide

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners in each contracted-out prison (a) committed suicide, (b) attempted suicide and (c) deliberately self-harmed in each of the last five years. [188306]

Maria Eagle: In response to parts (a) and (c) of the question, the following tables list (i) the numbers of self-inflicted deaths and (ii) the numbers of self-harm incidents, for the 11 contracted prisons in England and Wales. Regarding part (b) of the question, attempted suicide is not recorded in prisons as it is not possible to measure suicidal intent.

| Percentage of all self-inflicted deaths | 4 | 0 | 9 | 7 | 2 |

[1] The Prison Service/NOMS definition of self-inflicted deaths is broader than the legal definition of suicide and includes all deaths where it appears that a prisoner has acted specifically to take their own life. This inclusive approach is used in part because inquest verdicts are often not available for some years after a death (some 20 per cent. of these deaths will not receive a suicide or open verdict at inquest). Annual numbers may change slightly from time to time as inquest verdicts and other information become available.

[1] The Prison Service/NOMS defines self-harm as any incident where a prisoner deliberately harms themselves irrespective of method, intent or severity of any injury. The numbers of self-harm incidents reported here are based on information supplied by prisons through the Prison Service Incident Reporting System. Many self-harm incidents often involve the same individuals, and changing numbers of incidents at different prisons can reflect the movement of such prisoners. Self-harm is a high volume incident that can be subject to technical and recording problems. While the system provides a sensible indication of the scale of self-harm the numbers of incidents should not be treated as absolute.

Prisons: Drugs

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many and what percentage of prisoners in each contracted-out prison were subject to yearly mandatory drug testing in each of the last five years; and (a) how many and (b) what percentage of those tested positive for drugs. [188348]

Mr. Hanson: Prisoners are subject to both random and targeted mandatory drug testing. The figures[1] for contracted out prisons in each of the last five years are given in the following tables. Some prisoners will have been tested more than once in any year.

[3] HMP Peterborough did not open until March 2005.

Notes:
1. Information has not been provided for the total number of tests that tested positive as this can be calculated by using the percentage of positive tests and the number of tests carried out.
2. There are two types of MDT—random and targeted. The random MDT positive rate is one of the prison service's key performance indicators. Initially, 10 per cent. of every prison's population was tested each month under the random programme, but since 1999 prisons with a population of 400 or above have tested 5 per cent. The reduced level of random testing was expected to be compensated for by an increase in targeted testing. Due to contractual obligations, some contracted out prisons have continued to test at the 10 per cent. random level.

Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what quantity of drugs has been detected by passive drug detection dogs since their introduction in each of the prisons in which they have been deployed. [188377]

Maria Eagle: The information requested is not held centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost. Records of passive drug dog indications and subsequent drug finds are held locally, so to obtain the information required would mean consulting all prisons that are operating or have operated passive drug dogs.

Prisons: Procurement

Mr. Streeter: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice whether he is considering allowing individual prisons to procure goods and services other than through the national procurement system where it can be demonstrated that better value for money is achieved in so doing. [189091]

Maria Eagle: Acquisition of goods and services in the Prison Service is now undertaken by procurement professionals utilising the national procurement system as part of the process. This model has been introduced to improve value for money and allows decisions to purchase on a local basis where that makes sense. It has been designed to allow front line staff to concentrate on the core business of managing prisoners rather than being diverted by procurement activity. There are no proposals to change the current model.

Probation: Databases

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what arrangements are in place (a) for staff in the National Probation Service to record relevant offender management information on the C-NOMIS database and (b) for offender information held on C-NOMIS to be transferred between the Prison Service and the National Probation Service. [188335]

Mr. Hanson: There are currently no arrangements in place for staff in probation areas to read or record offender management information directly to or from the prison NOMIS database.

Relevant offender information held on prison NOMIS is transferred between the prison and probation service staff using a system of jointly agreed offender management forms, secure e-mail and dedicated OM mailboxes.

The newly revised and deliverable NOMIS programme, will, through its constituent projects, provide a simple read-only database, that will allow staff in the community to have access to important information from prison NOMIS in support of offender management.

Probation: Finance

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what assessment he has made of the effect on offender management rollout of the planned reductions in funding to the National Probation Service over the next three years. [188334]

Mr. Hanson: Three phases of Offender Management have now been successfully rolled out. These cover offenders sentenced to Community Orders, Indeterminate sentences for Public Protection, Prolific and Priority Offenders and high/very high risk offenders in custody. An assessment will be carried out later this year of our capacity to rollout further phases.

Safety: Females

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many women's safety workers there are in each probation area. [188269]

Maria Eagle: Information about the number of women's safety workers in each probation area is not held centrally.

The cognitive behavioural programmes delivered by probation areas to tackle domestic violence are accredited by an independent panel of experts. The accreditation for the Integrated Domestic Abuse Programme and the Community Domestic Violence Programme requires that, in order for probation areas to deliver the programme as a component of a wider risk management system, they employ women safety workers either directly or under local partnership arrangements. A recent self-audit indicated that all probation areas were complying with this requirement.

Sentencing

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the average length of tariff for indeterminate sentences has been since their inception; and if he will make a statement. [188159]

Mr. Hanson: A research study into prisoners received into prisons in England and Wales under indeterminate sentences of imprisonment for public protection (IPP) between April 2005 and March 2006, showed that the median tariff (minimum term) given to these prisoners was 30 months. Findings from the research were published in Offender Management Caseload Statistics 2005, a copy of which can be found in the House of Commons Library.

This figure has been drawn from administrative IT systems and data returns from prison establishments which, as with any large scale recording system, are subject to possible errors with data entry and processing.

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many and what proportion of sentences from Crown courts were custodial sentences in each year since 1993; and if he will make a statement: [188202]

(2) how many and what proportion of offenders convicted in Crown courts were given custodial sentences of (a) six months or less, (b) six to 12 months, (c) one to two years, (d) two to four years, (e) four to six years, (f) six to 10 years and (g) 10 years or more in each year since 1993; and if he will make a statement. [188206]

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what objectives he has set for sentence planning by offender managers for the next three years. [188333]

Mr. Hanson: The objectives for completion of sentence plans by offender managers are laid out in the National Standards for the Management of Offenders 2007. The standards specify that offender managers should complete a sentence plan on all offenders under their supervision in the community, and upon those covered by phases 2 and 3 of the roll-out of the Offender Management Model. The standards also specify the time scales for completion and review of sentence plans. A target of 90 per cent. has been set for the timely completion of sentence plans on offenders in the community.

Sentencing: First Time Offenders

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many and what proportion of first time offenders brought before Crown courts were given custodial sentences in each year since 1993; and if he will make a statement; [188204]

(2) how many and what proportion of first time offenders given custodial sentences from Crown courts were reconvicted within two years of release from custody in each year since 1993; and if he will make a statement; [188937]

(3) how many and what proportion of first time offenders given custodial sentences by magistrates' courts were (a) juveniles and (b) young adults in each year since 1993; how many and what proportion of each category were reconvicted within two years of release in each of those years; and if he will make a statement; [188938]

(4) how many and what proportion of first time offenders sentenced by magistrates courts were given custodial sentences in each year since 1993; and if he will make a statement. [188939]

Mr. Hanson: The following table 1 shows the number of first time offenders sentenced at Crown and magistrates courts from 2000-05 based on a sample of offenders, and the percentage of these given custody. The sample is all offenders sentenced in the first quarter of each year. A first time offender is defined as an offender with no previous convictions or cautions.

Information on grants provided by the Department's agencies and non-departmental public bodies is held by the bodies themselves. This information is not held centrally.

Suicide: Internet

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will meet representatives of the Papyrus charity to discuss action to reduce incidents of internet-related suicides. [188280]

Maria Eagle: I will be meeting representatives of Papyrus to discuss their concerns very shortly.

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many cases of successful prosecutions for online promotion of suicide there have been. [188296]

Maria Eagle: Data collected on prosecutions for assisting or attempting to assist suicide do not differentiate between online and off-line actions but the overall number of prosecutions for these offences is low.

Young Offender Institutions: Restraint Techniques

Dr. Vis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many times restraint has been used in young offender institutions and secure training centres in England and Wales since April 2007. [188318]

Mr. Hanson: The following table, which is based on information supplied by the Youth Justice Board, shows the number of restraints by month in young offender institutions and secure training centres from April to December 2007. Data for January 2008 are not yet available.

| | YOI | STC |
| 2007 | | |
| April | 273 | 170 |
| May | 269 | 270 |
| June | 276 | 276 |
| July | 345 | 386 |
| August | 306 | 313 |

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Adoption

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children aged (a) nought to two, (b) two to 10 and (c) over 10 years old were adopted in each of the last five years. [186750]

Kevin Brennan: Statistical information on the total number of adoptions in England and Wales by age of child for the years 1996 to 2006 is included in Table 2a of the document "Adoptions 2006", published by the Office for National Statistics. A copy of this publication is available in the House Library and on the National Statistics website at:

http://www. statistics. gov.uk/StatBase/Product.asp?vlnk= 15049.

Data on the number of children adopted cannot be produced for the age groups requested by the hon. Member.

Adoption: Finance

John Hemming: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much he has budgeted for (a) adoption support and (b) special guardianship as part of children's services grant for each of the financial years 2008-09, 2009-10 and 2010-11. [179807]

Kevin Brennan: Local authorities fund adoption and special guardianship services from their formula grant allocations. This grant, which is paid by the Department for Communities and Local Government, is unhypothecated and does not identify funding for any specific area of local authorities' activity.

The children's services grant, which in 2006-07 and 2007-08 included an element of funding to support implementation of the Adoption and Children Act 2002, has been subsumed within the formula grant from 2008-09. The formula grant has been increased to reflect this transfer.

Antisocial Behaviour: Bournemouth

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will make a statement on the future funding of Bournemouth's Respect zone. [189170]

Beverley Hughes: The future funding allocated to Bournemouth borough council to tackle antisocial behaviour and provide parenting support is outlined in the following table.

| Funding stream | 2008-09 | 2009-10 | 2010-11 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Family Intervention Project | 79,412.90 | 55,589.00 | 38,912.30 |
| Parenting Practitioner | 50,000 | 50,000 | 50,000 |
| Area Based Grant | 35,000 | 35,000 | 35,000 |

Aviation

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many air miles were travelled by Ministers in his Department in each year since its establishment; and what estimate he has made of the total amount of carbon dioxide emissions produced as a result; [172231]

(2) how many miles he and other Ministers in his Department travelled on short haul flights in the last 12 months; and what estimate he has made of the total amount of carbon dioxide emissions produced as a result of these flights. [172574]

Kevin Brennan: Since 1999 the Government have published a list of all overseas travel by Cabinet Ministers costing over £500. Information for the last financial year was published on 25 July 2007. Details for the current financial year will be published as soon as possible after the end of the financial year. From next year, the list will include details of overseas visits undertaken by all Ministers. All ministerial travel is undertaken in accordance with the "Ministerial Code".

All central Government ministerial and official air travel has been offset from 1 April 2006. Departmental aviation emissions are calculated on an annual basis and subsequently offset through payments to a central fund. The fund purchases certified emissions reductions credits from energy efficiency and renewable energy products with sustainable development benefits, located in developing countries.

In addition, offsetting the flights of Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, the Department for International Development, and the Prime Minister has been backdated to 1 April 2005.

A list of Government Carbon Offsetting Fund members, their emission figures and what activities they have offset through the fund is available online at:

http://www.defra.gov.uk/environment/climatechange/uk/carbonoffset/government.htm

Capita

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much was paid by his Department to Capita Group plc and its subsidiaries in each financial year since 2000; which contracts were awarded by his Department to Capita Group plc in each year from 2000-01 to the most recent available date; what the cost was of each contract; what penalties for default were imposed in contract provisions; what the length was of each contract; whether the contract was advertised; how many companies applied for the contract; how many were short-listed; what criteria were used for choosing a company; what provision was made for renewal without re-tender in each case; and if he will make a statement. [180669]

Kevin Brennan: The total amount paid to Capita Group plc and its subsidiaries in each financial year since 2000 is set out in the following table:

| | £ |
|---|---|
| 2000-01 | 26,365,741 |
| 2001-02 | 42,377,830 |
| 2002-03 | 27,050,920 |
| 2003-04 | 35,895,108 |
| 2004-05 | 211,887,690 |
| 2005-06 | 198,944,409 |
| 2006-07 | 114,262,373 |
| 2007-08 | 96,520,046 |

The expenditure relates to payments recorded in the Department's integrated financial information system and credited against Capita Group plc or its subsidiaries. The figure for 2007-08 is for amounts credited up to December 2007.

A complete answer to the question which contracts were awarded by his Department to Capita Group plc in each year from 2000-01 to the latest available date; what the cost was of each contract; what the length was of each contract could be supplied only at disproportionate cost as the Department does not maintain a central record of all contracts.

I can tell you, however, from the records that the Department does hold on Capita and its subsidiaries the following information on contracts (this may not be a comprehensive list):

| Contract | Year let | Contract length (year) | Contract value (£ million) |
|---|---|---|---|
| Individual Learning Accounts | 2000-01 | [1]5 | 55 |
| Connexions Card | 2001-02 | [2]6 | 109 |

[4] This is a framework agreement and the value of the overall contract is dependant on the number of individual contracts awarded to Capita.

Project management and construction project management services for Academies let in 2004 for a period of 4 years (these are framework agreements and the value of the overall contract is dependant on the number of individual contracts awarded to Capita);

The supply of interim personnel and consultants for the Office of the Schools Commissioner (OSC). Information on contracts is supplied as follows (this may not be a comprehensive list).

| Contract | Year let | Contract length (year) | Contract value (£ million) |
|---|---|---|---|
| Local Authority Liaison | 2006 | 2 | 0.75 |
| Sponsor brokerage | 2006 | 1.5 | 0.34 |

An answer to the questions what penalties for default were imposed on contract provisions; whether the contract was advertised; how many companies applied for the contract; how many were short-listed; what criteria were used for choosing a company; what provision was made for renewal without re-tender in each case; could be provided only at disproportionate costs.

Children in Care: Housing

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what the average cost of housing a looked-after child in an independent children's home is in 2007-08; [186700]

(2) how many looked-after children are housed in (a) a local authority and (b) independent children's home; [186701]

(3) how many children have been placed for adoption with an extended family member in each of the last five years; [186702]

(4) how many children were adopted in each local authority in each of the last five years; [186749]

(5) how many adoption placements were made with extended family members in each of the last five years; [186752]

(6) how many children born to children in care were (a) taken into care and (b) adopted in each of the last five years; [186808]

(7) how many children in care were born to mothers aged under 16 years, broken down by age of mother, in the last 12 months; [186809]

(8) how many children have been (a) in foster placements and (b) in children's homes for over a year, broken down by age of child. [186810]

Kevin Brennan: The information is as follows:

PQ 186700

Information on the average annual cost of housing a looked-after child in an independent children's home is not collected centrally by the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF).

PQ 186701

Information on the number of children looked after that are housed in (a) a local authority and (b) independent children's homes is not collected centrally by the DCSF.

PQ 186702

Information on the number of children who have been placed for adoption with an extended family member in each of the last five years is not collected centrally by the DCSF. However, table A2 of the Statistical First Release (SFR 27/2007) entitled 'Children looked after in England (including adoption and care leavers) year ending 31 March 2007' shows the number of children looked after by English local authorities (LAs), who were placed for adoption at 31 March for each year from 2003 to 2007. The SFR is located at http://www.dcsf.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000741/index.shtml and table A3 can be found within the first set of excel tables on the website.

PQ 186749

Information on the number of children who were adopted in each LA in each of the last five years is not collected centrally by the DCSF. However, the number of children looked after by English LAs, who were adopted in each LA in each of the years ending 31 March 2003 to 2007 can be found in table LAE1 at the same aforementioned link. Table LAE1 can be found within the third set of excel tables on the website.

PQ 186752

Information on the number of adoption placements that were made with extended family members in each of the last five years is not collected centrally by the DCSF. Please see the first aforementioned paragraph answering PQ 186702 for the most readily available data.

PQ 186808

Information on the number of children born to children in care who were (a) taken into care and (b) adopted in each of the last five years is not collected centrally by the DCSF.

PQ 186809

Information on the number of children in care that were born to mothers aged under 16 years, is not collected centrally by the DCSF.

PQ 186810

Information on the number of children looked after in English LAs who have been (a) in the same foster placement and (b) in the same children's home for over a year, broken down by age at 31 March 2007 is shown in tables 1 and 2, as follows:

[2] Figures exclude children looked after under an agreed series of short-term placements.
[3] To ensure that no individual can be identified from statistical tables, we use conventions for the rounding and suppression of very small numbers. All numbers which appear in national tables have been rounded to the nearest 100 if they exceed 1,000 and to the nearest 10 otherwise. Numbers from 1 to 5 inclusive have been suppressed, being replaced in the table by a long dash '—'. It has been necessary to suppress other figures whenever it would be possible to calculate the value of a suppressed number by a means of simple arithmetic. The rule applied in these circumstances has been to suppress the next smallest data item provided its value is strictly less than 20.

Children in Care: Social Workers

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what percentage of children in care have a named qualified social worker assigned to them. [185459]

Kevin Brennan [holding answer 7 February 2008]: The percentage of children in care who have a named qualified social worker assigned to them in England has increased from 94.8 per cent. in 2005-06 to 95.5 per cent. in 2006-07.

Children: Databases

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families when the ContactPoint database will be operational; whose details will be included on it; who will have access to it; how much it will cost to establish and maintain; and if he will make a statement. [186261]

Kevin Brennan: ContactPoint is a key element of the Every Child Matters programme to transform children's services by supporting more effective prevention and early intervention. Its goal is to improve outcomes and the experience of public services for all children, young people and families. It will provide a quick way for practitioners to find out who else is working with the same child or young person.

ContactPoint will be deployed to the 'Early Adopter' local authorities and two of our seven national partners in October 2008. It will be deployed to all other local authorities and national partners by May 2009.

The information that must or may be included on ContactPoint is set out in the Children Act 2004 Information Database (England) Regulations 2007 made under section 12 of the Children Act 2004.

ContactPoint will contain records for all children and young people in England who are under the age of 18. To help support the transition to adult services, there is provision for records of young people leaving care or with learning disabilities to remain on ContactPoint up to the age of 25 but only with their consent.

Access to ContactPoint will be limited strictly to those who need it to do their job (currently estimated at around 330,000 practitioners). Before being granted access, users must complete mandatory face-to-face training, have obtained security clearance (including enhanced Criminal Records Bureau clearance) and have a user name, a password, a PIN and a security token to control their access to ContactPoint.

When accessing a child's record, all users will have to state a clear reason why they are accessing ContactPoint. All use of the system will be monitored and audited and every access to a child's record will be detailed in the ContactPoint audit trail. This will be regularly monitored by local authorities, using on-line user activity reports, to ensure that any misuse is detected and that appropriate action is taken.

One-off implementation costs will total £224 million. Operating costs will be £41 million per year, most of which will pay for the additional staff needed to ensure the on-going security, accuracy and audit of ContactPoint.

Children: Day Care

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what estimate he has made of the impact of proposed changes to registration and annual childminder fees on the future supply of registered childminders; [188193]

(2) if he will give consideration to the merits of phasing the increases in registration and annual fees for pre-schools and full-day nursery care centres. [188567]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 22 February 2008]: We published impact assessments on the proposed changes to the child care registration and fee arrangements as part of the consultation exercises. On the registration requirements, our assessment did not show an effect on the supply of childminders as we are making only minor adjustments to the existing arrangements. The new system of regulation will provide Ofsted with the information it needs to determine whether essential standards of child welfare have been met and our proposals were supported by a majority of respondents in our consultation exercise last year.

On the proposed fee changes we expect the impact on numbers of childminders to be small. As we made clear in the impact assessment and the consultation document, we are not proposing to remove the current subsidy for registration and inspection costs and we would intend to phase in changes to the fee arrangements over three years, with the changes not complete until 2010. Local authorities are required to secure sufficient childcare available to meet the needs of working parents and have allied powers to assist providers. The fees consultation exercise closed on 20 February 2008 and we will carefully consider all the responses before publishing the Government's response in the spring.

Children: Voluntary Organisations

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps the Government has taken to include the third sector in strategies to improve the lives of children. [188537]

Kevin Brennan: The third sector has played and continues to play a key role in the development and delivery of Every Child Matters. The sector is strongly represented on the Children's Plan Expert Groups which were set up in autumn 2007 to support the Department with developing the Children's Plan and to consider its implementation and the challenges to delivery.

Third sector organisations have been instrumental in the development of many individual policies, for example, Aiming High for Disabled Children (AHDC), the Government's transformation programme for disabled children's services. They continue to be key partners as we implement the AHDC programme and are represented on the Ministerial Implementation Group that oversees the programme.

Other groundbreaking areas of the Department's business where the third sector engagement has been very influential include support for parents, particularly fathers, early years provision, services for children in care and the provision of positive activities for young people. The sector's capacity to deliver innovative services, to reach out to some of the most disadvantaged and disengaged and to provide a voice for children, young people and families is highly valued by the Department.

Christmas

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether it is his Department's policy to use (a) incandescent light bulbs and (b) LED lights for festive decorations on departmental premises. [173506]

Kevin Brennan: The Department does not currently have a policy, but will undertake a review and where appropriate will move away from incandescent light bulbs to LED lights for festive decorations on the five buildings occupied by my Department.

Departmental Absenteeism

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the total number of absence days of staff in his Department was in 2007. [187891]

Kevin Brennan: The total number of sickness absence days taken by staff in the Department in the period July to December 2007 is 10,404 days.

It is not possible to provide a figure for the whole calendar year as the Department was created as part of the machinery of government changes on 28 June 2007. The total provided here is based on the six-month period 1 July to 31 December 2007 (the latest information available). The rolling average of working days lost per staff member at 31 December 2007 was 7.7. The Department is on target to achieve year on year sickness absence targets agreed with Cabinet Office, including a 2010 target to reduce sickness absence levels to 7.0 days per full-time equivalent member of staff.

Departmental Contracts

Jim Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the (a) objective and (b) value was of each contract placed with (i) Deloitte and Touche, (ii) Ernst and Young, (iii) KPMG, (iv) PricewaterhouseCoopers and (v) PA Consulting by his Department and its agencies in each year since 2004-05. [179036]

Kevin Brennan: Historical figures are not available for the Department for Children, Schools and Families and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

The Department does not hold a central record for the Department and its agencies, and cannot provide detailed information on the nature of all contracts, consultancies and other services placed with the stated companies. To do so would exceed the disproportionate cost threshold.

Our records for the Department for Education and Skills show the following departmental spend:

| Company | 2004/05 | 2005/06 | 2006/07 | £ Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Deloitte and Touche | 940,245.80 | 670,095.55 | 241,806.08 | 1,852,147.43 |
| Ernst and Young | 111,301.40 | 135,544.41 | 467,155.43 | 714,001.24 |
| KPMG | 106,297.10 | 0 | 241,898.28 | 348,195.38 |
| PricewaterhouseCoopers | 5,684,974.11 | 5,085,915.36 | 4,335,763.97 | 15,106,653.44 |
| PA Consulting | 543,832.85 | 607,789.42 | 2,282,954.23 | 3,434,576.50 |

Departmental ICT

Susan Kramer: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) male and (b) female members of staff working in his Department were issued with personal digital assistants in each year since 2001; and if he will make a statement. [181398]

Kevin Brennan [holding answer 24 January 2008]: The information as requested is not readily available centrally within the Department for Children, Schools and Families. To respond fully would involve an information collection exercise that would exceed the recommended disproportionate cost threshold. However, to be helpful, some information is available.

Central procurement records show that the following quantities of personal digital assistants have been purchased by the Department, and its predecessor, the Department for Education and Skills, since 2001.

There is no information available centrally to show the number of devices in use by (a) male or (b) female members of staff.

| Calendar year | Number of PDAs purchased |
|---|---|
| 2001 | 104 |
| 2002 | 66 |
| 2003 | 104 |
| 2004 | 45 |
| 2005 | 90 |
| 2006 | 39 |
| 2007 | 2 |

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) mobile telephones, (b) personal digital assistants and (c) laptop computers issued to staff in his Department or its predecessor were reported (i) lost, (ii) missing and (iii) stolen in each year since 2001. [184349]

Kevin Brennan: The number of items reported as lost, missing, or stolen are as follows:

| | Mobile telephone | Laptop | Desktop | PDA | Blackberry |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2007/08 | 2 | 8 | 0 | 0 | 5 |
| 2006/07 | 1 | 9 | 0 | 1 | 3 |
| 2005/06 | 3 | 19 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| 2004/05 | 6 | 37 | 3 | 3 | 0 |
| 2003/04 | 7 | 8 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| 2002/03 | 4 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |

Departmental Information Officers

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) press and (b) communications officers his Department employed in each year since establishment. [182526]

Kevin Brennan: The Department for Children, Schools and Families was established in June 2007 and employs the full-time equivalent of 20.5 press officers and 68.4 communication officers.

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department paid in bonuses to press and communication officers in each of the last 10 years; and what the (a) highest and (b) lowest such bonus was in each of those years. [182713]

Kevin Brennan: The Department was created on 28 June 2007. The first bonuses are due to be paid on 1 April 2008.

Departmental Labour Turnover

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the percentage turnover of staff was in his Department in (a) the last 12-month period and (b) the last 24-month period for which figures are available. [169030]

Kevin Brennan: In the period February 2006 to January 2007, 202 staff have joined and 653 staff have left my Department. 252 staff joined and 354 left in the following 12 month period to January 2008. Information about turnover rates is not available in the form requested.

Departmental Logos

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the cost was of introducing his Department's new logo; what the reasons were for the decision to change his Department's logo; and if he will make a statement. [188394]

Kevin Brennan: We now have a version of the Department's logo which features a rainbow. This cost £5,460 (excluding VAT) to introduce.

The logo is intended to make a quick visual link between DCSF and the Children's Plan, which itself uses a rainbow illustration to convey the principle of 'building brighter futures'.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the reasons were for the choice of the new logo featuring a rainbow for his Department; how many alternative logos were designed before the choice was made; and if he will make a statement. [188395]

Kevin Brennan: We now have a version of the Department's logo which features a rainbow. This is intended to make a quick visual link between DCSF and the Children's Plan, which itself uses a rainbow illustration to convey the principle of 'building brighter futures'.

We commissioned three options for this logo, one of which was chosen as the final design.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what his Department's policy is on recycling. [174408]

Kevin Brennan: The Department's environmental management systems ensure that our waste is managed in a responsible and legally compliant manner. We:

Departmental Sick Leave

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what percentage of working days lost by his Department's staff was attributed to stress-related conditions in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187893]

Kevin Brennan: The percentage of working days lost by my Department's staff attributed to stress-related conditions during the six months from July to December amount to 15 per cent. of all working days lost due to sickness absence. The Department was set up as part of the Machinery of Government changes on 28 June 2007, so the percentage is based on figures from 1 July to 31 December 2007 (the latest information available).

The Department is committed to providing a safe working environment and has put in place a range of measures to support managers and employees on health and wellbeing issues, including the provision of professional counselling and support from the Department's Employee Assistance Provider, Right Corecare. The Department has piloted a Health and Safety Executive (HSE) Stress Questionnaire in one part of the organisation and conducted Individual Stress Risk Assessments for employees who require them. It will shortly be launching a comprehensive Stress Prevention Policy, based on HSE Management Standards.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what average hourly rate his Department paid to employment agencies for agency staff in each year since 1999, broken down by employment agency. [187994]

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many vehicles were (a) owned and (b) purchased by his Department and its predecessor in each of the last 10 years. [183292] and Families and its predecessor is as follows and is subject to a statutory disposal schedule of seven years.

Kevin Brennan: Over £3.9 billion has been spent on technology in education since 2001. My Department does not disaggregate that figure for disability.

Employment Agencies

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department paid to recruitment agencies in relation to departmental appointments in each year since 1997. [184922]

Kevin Brennan: The Department was established on 28 June 2007. The costs paid to recruitment agencies for senior civil service (SCS) recruitment this financial year is £206,402.76. The costs for vacancies below SCS level are not recorded in the same way and figures could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Fair Trade Initiative

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what his Department's policy is on the use of fair trade goods (a) in staff catering facilities and (b) at official departmental functions and meetings; and if he will make a statement. [183876]

Kevin Brennan: The Department has an agreement with our catering supplier that a selection of fair trade food and drink products shall be available throughout all their catering operations.

Family Group Conferencing

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what plans he has to expand the use of family group conferencing. [186766]

Kevin Brennan: The Government recognise that Family Group Conferences (FGCs) can be important and useful mechanisms to assist decision making and planning around an individual child or children. While the use of FGCs is for local authorities or other agencies to determine in individual cases, the Government have taken steps to encourage their use where appropriate.

The Government's statutory guidance "Working Together to Safeguard Children" explains how FGCs can be used as part of systems to plan for children in need and to help in safeguarding children. It is clear that, where there are plans to use FGCs in situations where there are concerns about possible harm to a child, they should be developed and implemented under the auspices of the Local Safeguarding Children Board.

FGCs are specifically commended in the revised Children Act 1989 Court Orders statutory guidance, published earlier this year, and included in the practice flowchart. In all applications for care proceedings, local authorities will be required to show what efforts have been made to enable the child to live with wider family and friends. An FGC would be an excellent means for a local authority to demonstrate how they have fulfilled this duty.

An FGC is a complex service to provide and requires high levels of skill and competence. We have responded to concerns from stakeholders that there is a lack of skill and knowledge available in the field to deliver effective family group conference services. For this reason, we announced in "Care Matters: Time for Change" that we would fund a programme of regional training events to equip managers and practitioners with the necessary skills to develop and sustain the family group conference model.

Foster Care

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many private fostering arrangements have been registered cumulatively in each of the last five years. [186699]

Kevin Brennan: Information on notification of private fostering arrangements has been collected centrally only since 2004-05. The available information can be found in the following table.

| | Number of new private fostering arrangements that began during the year |
|---|---|
| 2006-07 | 1,420 |
| 2005-06 | 1,100 |
| 2004-05 | 630 |

Notes:
1. Based on year ending 31 March.
2. Where a child has had more than one private fostering arrangement during the year, each arrangement has been counted.
3. Numbers rounded to the nearest 10.
4. These figures are based on the PF1 collection which was introduced in 2004/05; figures for earlier years are not available.

These figures have been taken from SFR 37/2007 'Private Fostering Arrangements in England, year ending 31 March 2007', which was published on 8 November 2007 and is available on the Department's website here:

http://www.dfes.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000758/index.shtml

Health Education

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what progress has been made on the introduction of well-being classes in schools. [187586]

Kevin Brennan: Schools have a statutory duty to promote pupils' well-being. An important contribution to this is developing pupils' social and emotional skills. To help schools do this, the Department is rolling out the Social and Emotional Aspects of Learning (SEAL) programme, a comprehensive whole-school approach which includes a focus on school climate, learning opportunities for whole classes, learning and teaching approaches and continuing professional development for the whole staff of a school. Since the primary SEAL programme was launched in June 2005, over 60 per cent. of primary schools have started to implement SEAL, and we expect the first 15 to 20 per cent. of secondary schools to implement SEAL by July 2008. By July 2011, all schools will have had the opportunity to be supported to implement SEAL.

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether schools that participated in the social and emotional aspects of learning programme showed an improvement on emotional well-being measures included in Ofsted TellUs surveys. [187587]

Kevin Brennan: The TellUs survey provides an indicator of the quality of children's services at national and local authority level. It cannot be used to measure the progress of individual schools participating in the SEAL programme.

Honours

Mr. Pope: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many members of the Senior Civil Service in his Department have received an honour. [187132]

Kevin Brennan: The Department records those individuals who have been considered for state and non state honour nominations by the Department and the outcomes. Our records show that there are eight senior civil servants in the Department for Children, Schools and Families who have received an honour.

The Department does not routinely keep records on the numbers of awards held by individuals, or awards that are not related to official duties, or awards already held by staff before joining the Department, or the former Department for Education and Skills.

Institute of Education: Finance

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much was paid from public funds in each of the last five years to the Institute of Education. [186430]

Kevin Brennan: Details of the amount paid to the Institute of Education by the Department for Children, Schools and Families in each of the last five financial years are set out as follows:

| | Amount (£) |
|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 7,643,724.08 |
| 2004-05 | 11,597,487.50 |
| 2005-06 | 7,741,306.91 |
| 2006-07 | 7,662,021.35 |
| 2007 to 31 January 2008 | 6,541,994.12 |

The expenditure relates to payments recorded in the Department's Integrated Financial Information System and credited against the Institute of Education. The expenditure recorded for financial years 2003 to 2007 covers both the Department for Education and Skills and the Department for Children, Schools and Families. The expenditure recorded for 2007 to 31 January 2008 also includes the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills (DIUS). The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills was established under Machinery of Government changes on 28 June 2007. This response only relates to those areas of responsibility held by its predecessor the Department for Education and Skills. To extract details of expenditure solely relating to DIUS would incur disproportionate cost.

Learning Disability: Essex

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children entered moderate learning difficulty schools in Essex in each of the last five years. [178837]

Kevin Brennan [holding answer 30 January 2008]: Data on the number of children who entered a moderate learning difficulty school in Essex in each of the last five years are not collected and could be derived only at a disproportionate cost.

Overseas Students

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will list in tabular form by each UK university the proportion of post-graduate students who are from (a) the UK, (b) the EEA and (c) the rest of the world; and what assessment he has made of trends in such figures over the last 10 years. [163680]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 13 November 2007]: I have been asked to reply.

The available information is given in the table. Figures for 2006/07 will be available in January 2008.

Over the last 10 years, there has been significant growth in the overall number of students from all domiciles undertaking post-graduate studies in the UK. The trend has been for the proportion of post-graduate students from overseas to increase in relation to UK domiciled students. There has been a smaller increase in the proportion of post-graduate students from the European economic area (EEA).

Playgrounds: Capital Investment

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much capital funding was allocated to playgrounds in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the north-east and (d) England in each year since 1997. [187068]

Beverley Hughes: The Government do not collect statistics on or otherwise monitor how much capital is spent on playgrounds by local authorities. We do not separately identify individual capital grants that finance capital expenditure. Only the total used to finance expenditure in a year is collected.

In the Children's Plan, we recently announced £190 million capital funding to be spent on open-access, free play environments. Every local authority in England will receive funding by 2010-11. In addition, local authorities already receive substantial funding to support maintenance of public space. BIG lottery has just invested £124 million to 2010-11 to support play in local authorities.

Pre-school Education: Finance

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what funding was provided to each local education authority to provide free nursery education for three and four-year-olds in (a) 2003-04, (b) 2004-05 and (c) 2005-06 as part of the under-fives sub-block of authorities' education formula spending; and if he will make a statement. [187095]

Beverley Hughes: In 2003-04, 2004-05 and 2005-06 local authorities received funding to provide free nursery education for three and four-year-olds through the under-fives sub-block of their education formula spending (EFS). The funding figures broken down by local authority are as follows:

Primary Education: Pupil Exclusions

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what information his Department has collected on the number of fixed period exclusions from primary schools in 2005-06; and if he will place a copy in the Library. [185803]

Kevin Brennan: Prior to 2005-06 information on fixed period exclusions was collected via the Termly Exclusions Survey. For the 2005-06 academic year the collection of fixed period exclusions data was transferred to the School Census, which is collected termly, and the Termly Exclusions Survey discontinued. For the 2005-6 academic year the new termly School Census was completed by secondary schools only. This does present a gap in the information collected from primary schools on fixed period exclusions. For the 2006-07 academic year primary schools will make School Census returns termly and information on fixed period exclusions will be available.

Information published as SFR 21/07, Permanent and Fixed Period Exclusions from Schools and Exclusion Appeals in England 2005-6, has been placed in the Library.

Primary Education: Truancy

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of primary school pupils took unauthorised absence in primary schools with (a) fewer than and (b) more than 100 pupils in the latest period for which figures are available. [185399]

Kevin Brennan: The latest available absence rates relate to autumn term 2006 and spring term 2007 and are shown in the table:

Pupils: Intimidation

Stephen Hesford: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what research his Department has commissioned on methods used in different schools to tackle bullying; what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of different methods of preventing bullying; and what steps his Department is taking to tackle the causes of bullying in schools. [187848]

Kevin Brennan: The Department has taken a wide range of measures to tackle the causes of bullying and is providing around £1.7 million for anti-bullying programmes this year. Through the Social and Emotional Aspects of Learning programme, we are developing skills in pupils including empathy, a sense of social responsibility and assertiveness which directly contribute to a school climate in which bullying cannot thrive.

Prevention is also a key theme of the guidance entitled "Safe to Learn: Embedding Anti-Bullying Work in Schools" which we issued in September 2007. This includes specific advice on homophobic bullying and cyberbullying, and links to guidance on bullying around racism, religion and culture that we issued in 2006. We are currently preparing further advice on how to prevent and tackle the bullying of pupils with special educational needs and disabilities.

We have placed a legal duty on head teachers to determine measures to promote good behaviour, respect for others and to prevent all forms of bullying among pupils as part of their overall behaviour policy. The Education and Inspections Act 2006 also provides head teachers with the power, to such extent as is reasonable, to regulate the conduct of pupils when they are off-site or not under the control or charge of a member of staff.

We have issued the Anti-Bullying Charter, which includes a detailed list of questions for the school community to consider when formulating its anti-bullying policy. We have worked with and funded a number of partners, including the Anti-Bullying Alliance (ABA), who arrange the annual Anti-Bullying Week and provide a range of advice and support to local authorities; ParentLine Plus, who run a helpline for parents whose children are being bullied and provide other resources through their 'Be Someone to Tell' campaign; and ChildLine in Partnership with Schools (CHIPS) who currently run peer mentoring schemes for the Department. We also fund awards for anti-bullying work as part of the Princess Diana Memorial Awards scheme.

We have asked the National Strategies and Anti-Bullying Alliance to work with schools and local authorities to ensure the guidance is effectively implemented on the ground and we are monitoring this very closely. We have also asked the National Strategies to provide challenge and support to those schools which have been identified as weak or ineffective in their approach to dealing with bullying.

My Department has gone out to tender on research into the effectiveness of anti-bullying strategies. This should help inform any further development of Government policy in this area as well as helping schools decide which anti-bullying strategies are most effective in a range of circumstances. Our partners in the Anti-Bullying Alliance, and the National Strategies work at a local level to advise schools on their anti-bullying policies and monitor the implementation of the various anti-bullying strategies.

Schools: Crime

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what definition of a school-specific offence his Department uses; and if he will list those school-specific offences recognised by his Department. [187878]

Kevin Brennan: The Department does not use any particular definition of a school-specific offence. If 'school-specific offence' means an offence created by or under the Education Acts in relation to schools, or an offence framed by reference to schools, the offences listed as follows would seem to be relevant in relation to England. References are to sections of the Acts mentioned unless otherwise stated.

Education Act 1996

336(5) (failure to comply with requirement imposed by the Special Educational Needs and Disability Tribunal in respect of the discovery or inspection of documents or giving of evidence)

323(5) and paragraph 5 of schedule 26 (failure of parent to comply with requirements of a notice served by local education authority considering whether to make an assessment of special educational needs)

Education Act 2005

10(2) (obstructing the Chief Inspector in relation to the inspection of a school for the purposes of section 5 or 8)

139A(2) (having an offensive weapon on school premises)

Safeguarding Vulnerable Groups Act 2006

8(5) (acting as a member of the governing body of an educational institution for the provision of education to children, or a maintained nursery school, without being monitored in relation to regulated activity relating to children)

Schools: Procurement

Mr. Benyon: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many schools took part in the pilot for the Online Procurement for Educational Needs system; how many orders were sent as part of the pilot; and what the cost of the system has been. [186970]

Kevin Brennan: OPEN—the Online Procurement for Educational Needs system is the Department's e-procurement tool for schools that has been developed with and for schools to aid them in procuring their goods and services in one convenient location should they wish to use it.

During the OPEN pathfinder phase, which when complete will have run for one year, a total of 463 schools from five areas of England generously took the time to support the development and functionality testing of the system:

A group of Devon schools;

East Sussex county council;

e-Spi, a north west based consortium, hosted by Rochdale metropolitan borough council; and

The Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea.

The aim of the pathfinder was to rigorously test the system for reliability, appropriateness, ease of use and integration with schools' financial management systems.

During the period 15 March 2007 to 31 January 2008 a total of 630 orders were placed.

OPEN is a development of, and operates on, the Zanzibar public sector e-procurement solution operated by OGCbuying.solutions which is available to the whole of the UK public sector. OPEN is the schools portal to this e-marketplace.

The release of information relating to the amounts being paid to individual companies would prejudice commercial interests in this instance and could affect the Department's future negotiating position.

Mr. Benyon: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many invoices have been unsuccessfully submitted by schools under the electronic invoice system Online Procurement for Educational Needs. [186971]

Kevin Brennan: OPEN—the Online Procurement for Educational Needs system—is the Department's e-procurement tool for schools that has been developed with and for schools to aid them in procuring their goods and services in one convenient location should they wish to use it.

Schools do not submit invoices to OPEN, only fully authorised orders. Suppliers then receive the order via the supplier portal component of OPEN and can then raise an electronic invoice.

These invoices are currently sent to schools via email. The option to import these invoices directly to the schools' financial management system is currently unavailable as part of the pathfinder phase, but the Department is in discussion with FMS providers regarding the integration of OPEN into future releases.

Currently, in order to ascertain the number of orders unsuccessfully raised by schools, every school registered on OPEN would need to be contacted with a list of orders they had raised through OPEN, asked to provide the invoice numbers relating to those orders and then have these queried against the supplier portal (the area where suppliers transact with schools) to establish which had been created electronically.

At this time, and with existing functionality, to capture information to this detail would be an unnecessary burden to schools in administrative time required to ensure that the data and cross checking are complete. Furthermore, this is not something that the pathfinder phase of OPEN intended to assess. However, EPC has been working with FMS providers regarding subsequent releases of their systems to facilitate upgrades that will allow a full audit trail for invoices.

Mr. Benyon: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the annual cost has been of his Department's Purchasing Team for the Online Procurement for Educational Needs (OPEN) system; and how much has been paid to (a) PA Consulting and (b) Proc Serve to establish the OPEN system in the last three years. [186972]

Kevin Brennan: OPEN—the Online Procurement for Educational Needs system is the Department's e-procurement tool for schools that has been developed with and for schools to aid them in procuring their goods and services in one convenient location should they wish to use it.

Due to the complexity of the project, the development requirements of the system, and the number of schools that potentially may wish to avail of it, a decision was taken to fund OPEN for three years, up to 2011. This is within CSR07 financial period and is usual for programmes of this nature.

The OPEN system is based on the existing pan-Government platform Zanzibar which is provided by ProcServe. However, it was felt that this system would not be directly applicable to schools in its current format, hence the need to employ a consultancy with the specialist skills needed to support the development of this schools-focused solution.

The cost of the OPEN system to the Department's Purchasing Team has been incurred under a pan-Government contract with OGC.bs.

The cost of managing this contract, which has been running for 12 months, is £141,510.

The release of information relating to the amounts being paid to individual companies would prejudice commercial interests in this instance and could affect the Department's future negotiating position.

Mr. Benyon: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many of the suppliers to the Online Procurement for Educational Needs system had received orders by the end of January 2008. [186973]

Kevin Brennan: For the period 15 March 2007 to 31 January 2008; 77 different suppliers received orders placed by schools. As of 18 February 2008 729 suppliers are registered to use OPEN.

In order for a greater number of transactions to take place, a greater number of schools' suppliers also need to be available on OPEN for them to transact with. As this was a pathfinder, limited resources were available to engage with the educational supplier marketplace and effort was concentrated on those suppliers nominated by schools that they usually traded with in the first instance.

Schools: Sports

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what survey data his Department has collected on the average time (a) independent secondary and (b) maintained secondary school pupils spend participating in sport each week; and if he will make a statement. [188981]

Kevin Brennan: The annual PE and School Sport Survey collects data relating to participation in PE and School Sport. The 2006/07 survey found that 80 per cent. of pupils at maintained secondary schools take part in at least two hours of high quality PE and school sport each week. No comparable figure is available for independent secondary schools.

The Department supports the establishment of links between independent schools and School Sport Partnerships.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and which schools in (a) Southend and (b) Essex have established links with a (i) football, (ii) cricket, (iii) rugby union, (iv) rugby league and (v) tennis club in each of the last five years. [188996]

Kevin Brennan: The annual PE and School Sport Survey was introduced in 2003/04 and collects data relating to participation in PE and School Sport. The number of schools linked to these clubs are as follows:

|---|---|---|---|
| Southend | | | |
| Cricket | Primary | 17 | 16 |

Data prior to 2005/06 could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Social Workers: Training

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the level of professional training available to social workers working in (a) fostering and (b) adoption services. [188964]

Kevin Brennan: The Government engaged widely with stakeholders and service users to understand how best to improve the capacity and training of social workers in the 'Options for Excellence Review' (2006). Building on these findings DCSF is investing over £63 million between 2008 and 2011 in this area and announced in the 'Children's Plan' (2007) commitments to improve support and training for all social workers working with children and families. This includes:

- piloting a newly qualified social work status offering guaranteed induction and support; building a professional development framework setting out the standards expected of all social workers at each point of their career including those working in specialist areas, such as adoption and fostering;
- investing in additional support to social work supervisors; and enhancing initial social work training so that it better equips social workers with the practical skills and knowledge to work with children and families across all areas, including adoption and fostering.

More detail about these areas will be announced in the work force action plan due to be published early this year.

The General Social Care Council (GSCC) requires all qualified social workers to undertake at least 15 days of professional development in a three-year period as a condition of their registration. In October 2007 GSCC introduced a new post-qualifying award for social workers specialising in children and families services to better equip them with the specialist skills nceded in this area. The award has a focus on social workers' competence in assessing, planning, using professional judgment and managing risks to meet the needs of children and young people including in the areas of foster care and adoption.

Teachers: Vetting

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment has been made of the feasibility of introducing Criminal Records Bureau checks for private tutors or music teachers who work unsupervised with children. [188664]

Kevin Brennan: The Safeguarding Vulnerable Groups Act 2006 provides the legal framework for the new Independent Safeguarding Authority (ISA) and scheme.

Individuals such as private tutors will be able to make an application to register with the ISA. In order to register with the ISA all relevant information on the individual will be assessed. This will include criminal information and soft information which is assessed as part of the current Criminal Records Bureau disclosure process. The ISA will make the decision whether the individual should be barred as a risk of harm to children or whether to make them ISA registered.

For the first time, the scheme will allow parents to check that a self-employed person they use, such as a private music tutor, is ISA registered and therefore not barred as a risk or harm to children. This is an improvement on the current system, where private employers such as parents are unable to check whether a tutor they use to work with their child is on a barred list. Moreover, the ISA will continuously monitor new, relevant information on the individual from criminal convictions and referrals and will notify employers, including parents, if an individual ceases to be ISA registered.

An individual who is barred under the scheme commits an offence if they seek to engage in regulated activity which includes working as a private tutor for parents.

Truancy

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what the most common reasons for absence were of those students identified by dedicated local pupil tracking officers as missing from education for a period longer than 10 days in the latest period for which figures are available; [187726]

(2) how many students were identified by dedicated local pupil tracking officers as missing from education for a period of more than 10 days in the latest period for which figures are available. [187727]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested by my hon. Friend is not available. The statutory duty for local authorities to identify children missing from education commenced in February 2007 and local authorities have been implementing systems over the past year that should enable collection of local level data. However, national information is not available regarding periods of, and reasons for, absence from education as reliable information cannot be produced using current methods of collection. My Department will consider how to collect appropriate information in the future.

Vocational Guidance

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps the Government have taken to raise the aspirations of school children to aim for further or higher education since 1997. [184821]

Bill Rammell: I have been asked to reply.

Improving progression towards further and higher education and encouraging young people to continue learning for longer is vital to improve the life chances of young people and meet our economic needs. The total number of 16 to 18-year-olds in education and training increased by 15,500 to 1,547,000 at end 2006, the highest number ever. The 14-19 reforms—outlined in the '14-19 Education and Skills Implementation Plan' (2005) and 'Raising Expectations: staying in education and training post-16' (March 2007) are designed to encourage more young people to continue learning for longer and to gain the qualifications they need to progress to further and higher education.

Last month the Government published "World Class Apprenticeships: Unlocking Talent, Building Skills for All". It set out a wide range of steps which will improve apprenticeships for the future and ensure that an apprenticeship place is available for all qualified young people by 2013. This will play a major part in raising the participation age in learning to age 18.

We also aim to increase participation in higher education (HE) towards 50 per cent. of those aged 18 to 30, with growth of at least 1 percentage point every two years to 2010/11. In November 2006 the then Department for Education and Skills published "Widening participation in higher education". It showed the policies being pursued in four areas—raising educational attainment, raising aspirations, improving applications and admissions, and measuring performance—which individually and collectively help to encourage and enable people from a wider range of backgrounds to go on to HE. Since the publication of "Widening participation in higher education" my Department has announced that the successful Aimhigher initiative will continue for another three years in its efforts to raise young people's attainment and aspirations and improve their progression. The Government have also launched nine regionally-based excellence hubs—university partnerships which are delivering a national programme of outreach opportunities for gifted and talented learners, especially those from disadvantaged backgrounds.

The Government are convinced that there is much to be gained by encouraging stronger partnerships between schools and universities and wants every secondary school to have a university partner. To that end, last year the Department for Children, Schools and Families and my Department jointly published "Academies, Trusts and Higher Education: prospectus" which sets out one way in which universities can work more closely with schools to create a better understanding of HE, encourage a wider range of applicants and ensure young people are properly equipped to make the most of HE.

Young People

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many staff aged between 16 and 18 were employed by his Department and its predecessor (a) directly and (b) through an employment agency in each of the last 10 years; what proportion of these were given time off work to undertake some form of training; and what proportion were provided with some form of training (i) wholly and (ii) partially funded by his Department. [171280]

Kevin Brennan: The Department was established in June 2007. Information is available on 16 to 18-year-olds employed directly by its predecessor DfES from 2004 to 2006 and for DCSF in 2007.

Direct appointments prior to 2004 were not recorded in the same way and figures can be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Age-related information on temporary workers engaged by DCSF and DfES is not collected and so to isolate the number of 16 to 18 years engaged would incur disproportionate cost.

Information on training undertaken by individuals in specified age groups is not recorded and so could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Young People: Unemployed

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what percentage of people aged under 18 and not in education, employment or training there were in each English region in the latest period for which figures are available. [188583]

Beverley Hughes: The Department's estimate of the number of young people not in education, employment or training (NEET) cannot be disaggregated to regional level. However, we can estimate the number of young people NEET using figures drawn from the client management systems maintained by Connexions services. The following table shows the number and proportion of young people aged under 18 NEET in each Government office region at the end of December 2007 based on Connexions data.

The figures relate to 16 and 17-year-olds known to Connexions and are not directly comparable with statistics on 16 and 17-year-olds NEET published annually by the Department of Children, Schools and Families. This is because the Connexions NEET measure excludes those on gap years, or in custody and young people who attended independent schools or were at school outside England may also be excluded. In addition, the Department's statistics relate to the young person's academic age, rather than calendar age.

Number and proportion of 16 to 17-year-olds not in education, employment or training at the end of December 2007

Youth Opportunity Fund

Ann Coffey: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the Youth Opportunity Fund and Youth Capital Fund, with particular reference to hard-to-reach and disadvantaged children and young people who are not involved in formal organisations. [189028]

Beverley Hughes: The Youth Opportunity and Capital Funds (YOF and YCF) were established in April 2006 as complementary, universal funds operating under a single management framework. The funds demonstrate how innovative and creative young people can be when they are truly empowered, delivering a wide range of high quality projects and activities.

Interim findings from the independent evaluation of the funds were published in July 2007: Research report number DCSF-RR004 is available on the DCSF's website. The research found that the funds were meeting their objective to give young people a voice through consultation and control over resources. Local authorities had involved young people in the design and development of the funds, with young people involved as decision-makers.

Overall, around 570,000 young people have benefited directly from the funds. In addition, management information shows that over a third of the young people involved as decision makers or project leaders were from traditionally disadvantaged groups. The guidance for the funds is clear that particular care should be taken to encourage those groups who face barriers to participation. This includes young people from low income families, young disabled people, young care leavers, looked after young people, young offenders, young carers, young refugees, young lesbians and gay men, young black and minority ethnic people, travellers and those in rural areas.

On the basis of this evidence it was agreed in comprehensive spending review 2007 that the funds should continue until at least 2011, at the current rates of funding with an additional £25 million of new investment being made available in the most disadvantaged communities.

WOMEN AND EQUALITY

Departmental Marketing

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Minister for Women and Equalities what products featuring departmental or Government branding have been procured by the Government Equalities Office since its establishment. [183204]

Barbara Follett: A logo for the Government's Office for Equalities was produced. The cost for this was £1,300. This is used on a range of publications and letter heading. Two exhibition banner stands have been purchased costing £354.25 including VAT. In addition a number of canvas bags were purchased for the Office at a cost of £1,437.21 for use as part of the European Year of Equal Opportunity for All and at events organised by the Office.

Equal Opportunities

Ben Chapman: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality what recent research she has evaluated on the effect of the time spent on domestic tasks on women's career progression; whether she has received representations on this matter; and if she will make a statement. [181448]

Barbara Follett: There are a large number of factors that affect the career progression of women, and how much they earn. These include differences in men and women's labour market experience (for example as a result of women taking time out to look after children), skills and education, occupational segregation, lack of quality part-time work (especially for women returning from maternity leave), historical culture, gender stereotyping, and pay discrimination.

Research published in 2006 by the Department of Work and Pensions[1] tends to support the theory that gender differences in the labour market stem from the division of parental duties (including child care) between mothers and fathers in the home. Research published in the British Social Attitudes survey, published on 23 January 2008, suggests that only one in six men now believe that a woman's place is in the home, compared with one in three in 1989. However the same survey found that 77 per cent. of people with partners say that the woman usually or always does the laundry, a similar proportion to that found in 1994 (81 per cent.). The British Social Attitudes Survey also found that the most liberal division of labour between women and men is found among couples where the woman works full-time, earns more than her partner, or has a partner who does not work.

The Government are working to enable families to have real choices about how they live their lives, including how they balance responsibilities at home and at work. The Government is committed to reducing the inequalities that still exist at home and in the workplace, including reducing the gender pay gap, through the introduction of practical measures across a wide front, for example the encouragement of flexible and good quality part-time working, improved maternity and paternity leave, better access to child care, and introduction of the minimum wage.

Equal Pay

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality what recent steps the Government has taken to reduce the gender pay gap in the public sector. [185375]

Barbara Follett [holding answer 7 February 2008]: The gender pay gap for full-time public sector workers (based on the median) was 10.2 per cent. in 2007 compared to 20.0 per cent. in the private sector. In 1997 the figures were 13.5 per cent. and 23.8 per cent. respectively.

Closing the pay gap between men and women in both the public and private sectors is a high priority for us, as Harriet Harman made clear in my statement to Parliament on women's priorities last July. We see it as an essential part of enabling families to have real choices about how they live their lives, because the pay gap plays such a large part in the unequal division of labour in the home, preventing fathers from playing a more active role in their children's early years and preventing women from fulfilling their opportunities to work. To galvanise this, closing the pay gap is now one of the indicators in the new Equalities Public Service Agreement. This will help to build on other practical measures we have introduced, such as: giving the parents of young, or disabled, children and the carers of adults the right to request flexible working, and providing more access to child care.

In the field of local government, we have issued £500 million of capitalisation directions to 46 local authorities in the current financial year (which enables those authorities to treat equal pay costs as capital expenditure, which they can then borrow against) to enable them to make equal pay back-payments. The Minister for Local Government confirmed on 5 February that the Government will continue to support councils through a further equal pay capitalisation round in 2008-09. Capitalisation can only be used by local authorities to meet equal pay back-payments, and not for any other costs.

Through the Equality Act 2006, which came into effect in April 2007, we also introduced a general duty on public authorities to promote gender equality and eliminate unlawful discrimination and harassment. The Act and subsequent legislation also imposed specific duties on certain listed public authorities, including central and local government, which include:

drawing up and publishing a gender equality scheme every three years, which shows what authorities plan to do to improve gender equality (including the gender pay gap), and how they will do this. In drawing up such a scheme, authorities must gather relevant information and data, and consult employees and stakeholders to identify specific gender equality objectives.

ensuring that the impact of new legislation, policies, employment and service delivery changes on men and women is assessed. These assessments must also be published.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Afghanistan: Infrastructure

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of the (a) number of infrastructure projects, (b) amount spent on such projects and (c) number of people employed on these projects in Afghanistan in each of the last two years, broken down by province. [188216]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The data requested are not held centrally in Afghanistan and to obtain them would incur disproportionate cost.

Fairtrade Initiative

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will take steps to promote Fairtrade Fortnight 2008 amongst staff within his Department; and if he will make a statement. [189510]

Mr. Thomas: During Fairtrade Fortnight DFID is organising a seminar showcasing fair trade and ethical sourcing businesses. In addition to the range of Fairtrade products available to staff throughout the year, our catering provider is running special deals on Fairtrade tea, coffee and confectionery, and special Fairtrade menus are available throughout Fairtrade Fortnight.

Furthermore, East Kilbride—home of DFID's Abercrombie House offices—was officially named a Fairtrade Town on 23 February, showing a commitment to ensuring that small producers of the developing world get a fair deal.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development when he will reply to the letter of 13 November 2007 from the hon. Member for the Forest of Dean, on IMF and World Bank contributions. [189882]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: A reply to the hon. Member's letter of 13 November 2007 has been issued.

Non-Governmental Organisations: Overseas Aid

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much aid was channelled through UK-based non-governmental organisations in each of the last five years, broken down by type of aid budget line; and what allocations have been made for 2007-08 on the same basis. [187163]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Total DFID expenditure channelled through UK Civil Society Organisations (CSOs) in each of the last five years and planned expenditure for 2007-08 through the Civil Society Challenge Fund and Partnership Programme Agreements is set out in the following table. The table also includes planned funding in respect of the Development Awareness Fund and the Strategic Grant Agreement for 2007-08.

DFID also provides ad-hoc funding to agencies and CSOs working in country or at a regional level responding to specific emergencies. DFID's Conflict, Humanitarian and Security Department (CHASE) estimate that in 2007-08 £8 million was spent on humanitarian relief across a range of natural disasters, from an earthquake in Peru to cyclones and floods in Bangladesh, India, Mexico, North Korea and Pakistan, to winter shelter for extreme winter conditions in Kyrgyzstan. Of this, £5 million was provided through NGOs.

There is no central allocation of funding through CSOs for humanitarian assistance projects or other parts of the DFID programme.

Multilaterals also allocate funding to CSOs, among these are the European Commission, United Nations High Commission for Refugees (UNHCR), United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF). Because multilaterals do not report the proportion of their expenditure allocated to CSOs, DFID are unable to attribute multilateral expenditure to CSOs.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Crime: Drugs

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many (a) cases were brought and (b) convictions there were for (i) possession and (ii) distribution of (A) cocaine, (B) heroine, (C) ecstasy, (D) amphetamine and (E) cannabis in Northern Ireland in each of the last two years. [186983]

Paul Goggins: Table 1 gives the number of persons charged for possession and supply of cocaine, heroin, ecstasy, amphetamine and cannabis for 2005-06 and 2006-07.

The court datasets do not hold information on the number of prosecutions and convictions for different drug types as these do not constitute separate offences by legislation. It is possible, however, to determine the class of drug. Table 2 outlines this information for the number of prosecutions and convictions for possession, possession with intent to supply unlawfully and the unlawful supply of illegal drugs. Data cover the calendar years 2005 and 2006 (the latest available years) and are collated on the principal offence rule; so only the most serious offence with which an offender is charged is included.

It is not possible to reconcile PSNI data routinely on the number of persons charged with offences and prosecution and conviction data as PSNI data denote each offence as it has been initially recorded and this may differ from the offence for which a suspect or suspects are subsequently proceeded against in the courts.

Departmental Correspondence

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many letters his Department received in each of the last five years. [187047]

Mr. Woodward: The Department collates information on letters from the public for the annual departmental report, as part of the six national standards for central Government which were introduced to the Department and its Executive agencies from April 1997.

The following table provides figures on the number of letters from the public and ministerial correspondence for the calendar years 2002 to 2006. Figures for 2007 are currently being collated.

|---|---|
| 2002 | 27,212 |
| 2003 | 21,088 |
| 2004 | 101,314 |
| 2005 | 103,141 |
| 2006 | 17,449 |

Departmental Retirement

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many of his Department's staff retired on the grounds of stress-related illness in each of the last three years. [187886]

Mr. Woodward: Within the Northern Ireland Office fewer than five people have retired on the grounds of stress-related illness in each of the last three years. It is normal practice not to release the precise figures where the number retiring is less than five; to do so increases the potential of the individuals being identified.

Departmental Sick Leave

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what percentage of working days lost by his Department's staff was attributed to stress-related conditions in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187863]

Mr. Woodward: Within the Northern Ireland Office 27.9 per cent. of lost working days have been attributed to stress-related illness during the period 2006-07.

The health and safety of everyone in my Department is of paramount importance; we have a duty of care to help prevent staff becoming ill and to support them when they are. The Northern Ireland Office already has a series of effective policies and procedures in place which help achieve these aims. These include a Welfare Service and an independent confidential counselling service that is available 24 hours a day.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what documents his Department, associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies translate for people in the UK who do not speak English. [187994]

Mr. Woodward: The Northern Ireland Office, associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies, translate the following documents for people in the UK who do not speak English:

First night and induction information for prisoners;

Committal interview forms;

Visits information for prison visitors;

Information booklet for life sentenced prisoners;

Various forms for routine prison procedures—clothing, telephone, tuck shop;

Information sheet on adjudication process for prisoners;

Dealing with complaints against the police;

Summons to defendants—front cover to explain in simple terms the nature of the document;

Requirement to attend court—front cover to explain in simple terms the nature of the document;

Decisions on compensation claims (when required this would be translated into appropriate language);

Written representations on published proposals for boundary changes;

Probation Board information leaflets, letters, correspondence and all enforcement documentation;

Community safety leaflets;

Making a Bill of Rights for Northern Ireland: A Summary;

Your rights in Northern Ireland;

The Human Rights Commission routinely replies to written correspondence in the language used by the correspondent;

State Pathologist's Department—The Way Forward—A Consultation Document—January 2003.

In addition to this list of documents the Department is committed to providing any document in alternative languages or formats on request.

Electricity

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much his Department spent on electricity in each of the last five years. [187056]

Mr. Woodward: The following table shows the amount the Northern Ireland Office (excluding its agencies and NDPBs) has spent on electricity in each of the last five years.

| Financial year | Electricity costs (£000) |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 400 |
| 2003-04 | 470 |
| 2004-05 | 452 |
| 2005-06 | 494 |
| 2006-07 | 540 |

Eurostar

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much his Department and its agencies spent on (a) first and (b) other class travel by Eurostar in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [187744]

Mr. Woodward: The information requested is as follows.

(b) £1,052.50

Northern Ireland Prison Service: Long Service Awards

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what consideration is being given to awarding long service and good conduct medals to prison officers in Northern Ireland; and if he will make a statement. [189066]

Paul Goggins: The Northern Ireland Prison Service is included in the case taken by the Ministry of Justice for the introduction of a long service and good conduct medal to operational staff in the UK Prison Services. A paper has been submitted to the Committee on the Grant of Honours, Decorations and Medals and is currently under consideration.

Police Service of Northern Ireland: Driving Offences

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many serving police officers within the Police Service of Northern Ireland who have committed a driving offence have (a) retained and (b) been issued with firearms certificates within the last 12 months. [186160]

Paul Goggins: The Chief Constable of the Police Service for Northern Ireland has advised that no serving police officers convicted of a motoring offence within the last 12 months have retained or been granted a firearms certificate in this period. Information on driving convictions before this period and relevant to firearms certificate applications are not readily available and could be obtained by means of an extensive manual check only at disproportionate cost to public funds.

DEFENCE

Aircraft Carriers: Procurement

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether he has made any changes to the planned in-service dates of the Future Aircraft Carriers. [189279]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: No.

Armed Forces: Pay

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he expects outstanding payments arising from the operation of the Joint Personnel Administration to be made to security forces personnel. [188354]

Derek Twigg [holding answer 25 February 2008]: Once identified, under payments are normally corrected in the next available pay run. If this is not possible arrangements are put in place for payments to be made at unit level. Without knowing which specific personnel the hon. Member is referring to, it is not possible to provide more information.

Astute Class Submarines: Procurement

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether he has made any changes to the number of Astute class submarines to be ordered. [189277]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: It remains our plan to order seven Astute submarines.

European Fighter Aircraft

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether he has made any changes to the number of aircraft to be ordered for the third tranche of Typhoon. [189274]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Negotiations with Partner Nations and industry are under way on Tranche 3, and decisions will be taken once these are complete.

Iraq: Peacekeeping Operations

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what information coalition forces have on the activity of Iranian Ministry of Intelligence and security agents and members of the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps occupying accommodation in the Al-Mansur Hotel, Baghdad; and if he will make a statement. [188393]

Des Browne: The Government do not comment publicly on intelligence matters of this nature.

Nuclear Weapons

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much (a) low level, (b) intermediate level and (c) high level nuclear material is held in the UK, where the material in question is subject to a report from the US Secretary of Defence to his Department. [162281]

Des Browne: I have been unable to identify any reports from the US Secretary of Defence to this Department referring to the nuclear material we hold in the UK.

Qinetiq

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how much has been received from QinetiQ following the sale of each former Government-owned site as a result of the clawback agreement; and in relation to which sites the money has been received; [178249]

(2) in relation to the sale of which sites he expects to receive monies from QinetiQ as a result of the clawback agreement during 2008; how much he expects to receive in relation to each such site; and for which sites he does not expect to receive monies; [178250]

(3) what acreage of land has been transferred from his Department to QinetiQ; how much of that land has subsequently been disposed of and at what price; and if he will make a statement. [178976]

Des Browne: The requested information is not held centrally or in a consistent form. However, it should be possible to compile the requested information without incurring disproportionate cost. I will write to the hon. Member as soon as the work has been completed and place a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

Substantive answer from Des Browne to Mike Hancock:

I undertook to write to you in answer to your Parliamentary Question on 21 January 2008 (Official Report, column 1604W) about monies received from QinetiQ following the sale of land as a result of the clawback agreement and what acreage of land has been transferred to QinetiQ and has subsequently been disposed of.

The table at Annex A shows the acreage of land transferred to QinetiQ together with an indication as to whether it has been substantially sold and if clawback has been received by the Ministry of Defence (MOD).

In respect to the value of the land transferred, I refer you to the answer by the then Under Secretary of State gave on 13 January 2003 (Official Report, column 404W) to the hon. Member for North Essex (Mr. Jenkin). In terms of the actual receipts, the attached table cross references the relevant passages of QinetiQ's Annual Accounts. However, additional details are withheld on grounds of commercial confidentiality.

In 2003, when a stake in QinetiQ was being sold to the Carlyle Group, the Aquilla and Chertsey sites had already been identified as surplus to QinetiQ's business requirements. QinetiQ's obligation to pay the proceeds to the Department were set out in the Aquilla and Chertsey loan note. As a result, £60m of the proceeds from the sale of these sites came directly to the MOD.

I am unable to comment on the likely future receipts from clawback as this very much depends on the future use of sites by QinetiQ, along with the company's schedule for disposal, the timing and terms and conditions of any sale. MOD officials are aware of two prospective sales at Bincleaves in Weymouth and Eastney in your constituency. This information is in the public domain as a result of planning applications or consultations made by the company.

I am placing a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

SCOTLAND

Departmental Correspondence

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how many people were employed in his Department's ministerial correspondence unit in each of the last five years; and how much it cost to run the unit, including utilities and other expenses, in each year. [187048]

David Cairns: The Scotland Office currently has one member of staff dedicated to processing correspondence. The Office does not maintain a central record of the number of staff undertaking this function in previous years but, in 2006-07, had two members of staff undertaking these duties. The Office does not disaggregate its corporate and central running costs to this level of detail.

Departmental Sick Pay

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what the cost of sickness pay to staff within his Department was in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187518]

David Cairns: The staff in the Scotland Office are seconded from other Departments who are reimbursed by the Office for salaries etc. The Office does not have a record of any sick pay element involved; that is a matter for the parent Departments.

Personal Injury: Applications

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how many personal injury claims for pleural plaques he estimates the Government will be liable to pay as (a) an employer and (b) the funder of the liabilities of former nationalised industries if the Scottish Parliament passes legislation making pleural plaques a compensatable condition; and what estimate he has made of the size of the Government's potential liability. [186303]

David Cairns: The Scottish Parliament has not yet legislated to facilitate compensation for pleural plaques through the Scottish civil courts. We are therefore unable to offer any accurate assessment of the associated potential Government liability for claims. Any estimates which could be drawn from the current numbers and value of claims across Government Departments may well be affected by legislation that is passed.

OLYMPICS

Olympic Games 2012: Gun Sports

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what the estimated total cost is of providing for the 2012 Olympics shooting events at the Royal Artillery Barracks; what provision for shooting will remain following the games; and if she will make a statement. [188745]

Tessa Jowell: The total budget for the shooting venue has not been announced. Until such time as detailed venue requirements are agreed and contract negotiations are complete, the information about construction costs remains commercially sensitive.

It is important we deliver a legacy beyond 2012 and we are one of the first games to have made legacy a core component of our planning from the outset. We are still four-and-a-half years away from the opening ceremony and the Olympic stakeholders are making sure that we scope out an appropriate legacy. In the case of shooting, this will include LOCOG working with the Royal Artillery Barracks, the Home Office and Greenwich council to determine what is practical in terms of legacy at Woolwich after the games.

TRANSPORT

Boats: Licensing

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps she is taking to enable operators in tidal Category C waters to obtain a Boatmaster's licence under the new Boatmasters Licence Scheme. [189318]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Subject to satisfying the requirements of procedures published on the website of the Maritime and Coastguard Agency under Marine Guidance Note 333, an existing master in tidal category 'C' waters will be issued a 'tier 2' Boatmaster's licence which will allow same type and area of operation. If an applicant wishes to change, or extend, his/her area or/and type of operation, beyond that authorised by their old licence, further assessment(s) may be required.

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the reasons are for the time taken to introduce the new examination procedure for candidates wishing to take their Boatmaster's examination; and if she will take steps to ensure that these arrangements will be in place before the start of the tourist season in March 2008. [189447]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The examination procedures for new Boatmaster's licence (BML) regulations are already in place. The regulations allow the assessment of the candidate's knowledge underpinning his/her practical skills to be assessed through a written or oral test. Currently, the Underpinning Knowledge (UPK) for a BML generic licence is tested orally. However, preparations are in hand for assessment to be undertaken by written examination. This system is expected to be fully operational by the end of the current year.

Department Equality

Mrs. Humble: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what changes in human resources policy her Department has made to comply with the gender duty. [189095]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport has had a policy of promoting gender equality since it was formed in 2002. No specific changes in human resources policy were introduced in response to the gender duty.

Individual actions to improve gender equality are set out in our Gender Equality Scheme, which is published on our web-site. The scheme action plan will be reviewed 12 months after publication in April 2008.

Mrs. Humble: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether judicial review proceedings have commenced against her Department concerning its implementation of the gender duty. [189096]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The PCS union has challenged by way of judicial review the Department for Transport's Gender Equality Scheme for 'allegedly' failing to comply with its duty to eliminate sex discrimination, and failing to consult the PCS in generating the Gender Equality Scheme.

Mrs. Humble: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport for each of her Department's and its agencies' bargaining units (a) how many equal pay claims have been lodged, (b) which grades of staff are making the claims and (c) which grades of staff the claims are being made against. [189097]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The PCS has issued equal pay claims in the employment tribunal on behalf of 37 of its members employed at the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency. The claimants are female executive officers and compare themselves with driving examiners and/or senior driving examiners employed by the Driving Standards Agency.

Mrs. Humble: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether (a) the Equal Opportunities Commission and (b) the Equality and Human Rights Commission has made representations to her to conduct a cross-departmental equal pay audit. [189098]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Equal Opportunities Commission wrote to the Secretary of State for Transport on the 4 September 2007 in relation to a cross-departmental equal pay audit. The contents of the letter were noted and the Secretary of State replied on 1 October 2007 stating consideration will be given to the issues raised.

Driving Tests: Interpreters

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport with reference to the answer of 30 October 2007, Official Report, column 1301W, on driving tests: interpreters, what the cost of providing interpreters for practical car tests was in (a) 2003-04, (b) 2004-05, (c) 2005-06, (d) 2006-07 and (e) in 2007-08 to date. [188084]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Driving Standards Agency does not provide an interpreter for candidates who require this assistance when they take a practical driving test. It is the candidate's responsibility to arrange and pay for this service, therefore the agency does not incur any direct costs.

Lorries: Foreign Companies

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport for what reason plans to introduce a vignette for foreign lorries have not been proceeded with. [188477]

Jim Fitzpatrick: We have carried out a study of options for compiling a database of foreign haulage operators and their vehicles to assist in the targeting of enforcement activity, including a "vignette" scheme whereby lorries would pay a charge for use of the roads for a given period of time. We published a progress report alongside the 2007 pre-Budget report. The study has raised a number of legal, technical and practical issues and we are considering the way forward.

Motor Vehicles: Repairs and Maintenance

Colin Burgon: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many and what proportion of vehicles which did not receive an MOT certificate failed due to faulty front suspension springs in each of the last three years. [189233]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Figures provided by the Vehicle and Operator Services Agency (VOSA) from MOT computerisation give an indication of the rate of failure of all suspension springing components; these include front and rear spring leaf and coil springs, torsion bars, rubber bonded components etc. Individual figures for front suspension springs are therefore included in the overall failure rate figure.

For the year April 2006 to March 2007 out of 26,297,141 Class 3 and 4 vehicles tested, 490,776 failed for "springing" defects. That indicates a fail rate of 1.9 per cent. If it were possible to 'drill down' to the failure of front suspension springs, it is likely that defects relating to fracture of front road suspension springs would be significantly below 1.9 per cent.

For the year April 2005 to March 2006 out of 12,136,297 Class 3 and 4 vehicles tested, 228,432 failed for "springing" defects, making the fail rate 1.9 per cent.

Railways: Exhaust Emissions

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps she is taking to require (a) new and (b) existing railway rolling stock to lessen its carbon footprint. [188501]

Mr. Tom Harris [holding answer 22 February 2008]: Starting with the Intercity Express, the Department for Transport is working with the rail industry to ensure that all new train designs meet increasingly demanding energy efficiency targets. The Department is also working closely with the industry to identify and support the implementation of cost-effective carbon reduction measures. Notable current initiatives include the roll-out of regenerative braking on electric trains and trials of biofuels.

Railways: Planning

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps she has taken to identify and protect routes for a high speed line from London to Scotland. [188486]

Mr. Tom Harris: There is no existing or disused alignment for a route from London to Scotland. The July 2007 White Paper made clear there was no case for new lines in the immediate future but did not rule them out in the longer term. It would be premature to embark on any formal protection at this stage.

Registered Travellers Programmes

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions her Department has had with the Home Office on the use of registered Traveller programmes within the UK's borders programme. [188645]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department seeks to maintain an understanding of all elements of the UK border security programme, through its very regular contacts with the Home Office, insofar as these may have potential implications for its own regulation of transport protective security. That regulatory regime does not itself include registered Traveller programmes.

Rolling Stock

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what requirement she places upon the rolling stock companies to consult Network Rail before considering new rolling stock. [188483]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Secretary of State has no direct contracts with the rolling stock leasing companies and therefore cannot place any requirements on them.

Rolling Stock: West Coast Main Line

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what extra costs were incurred by Network Rail as a result of the measures taken to facilitate the introduction of tilting trains on the west coast main line; and what contribution towards these costs was received from Virgin. [188484]

Mr. Tom Harris: Some 20 per cent. of the total cost of £8.125 billion, to renew and upgrade the west coast main line, has been incurred to upgrade the line for greater capacity and higher speed operation. Virgin Trains, along with other passenger and freight train operators meet this total expenditure through the access charges they pay to Network Rail.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

Drinking Water

Mr. Spellar: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission how much bottled water was (a) sold and (b) provided in the House in the most recent year for which figures are available. [189814]

Nick Harvey: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 8 October 2007, Official Report, column 18, in which I told the House that a total of 105,957 litres of bottled water are recorded as being sold by the House of Commons Refreshment Department in the financial year 2006-07, the last year for which figures are available. In the same year, 16,200 litres of bottled water were supplied to the Serjeant at Arms' Department for use in the Committee Rooms, and an estimated 34,000 litres of bottled water were provided—mainly in water coolers—to staff of the House.

Translation Services

Mr. Spellar: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission what the cost was of translating the About Parliament pages on the parliamentary website into (a) Welsh and (b) Scots Gaelic. [189769]

Nick Harvey: The cost of translating the About Parliament pages on the website into Welsh and Scots Gaelic was £19,440.40. This covered the cost of translating 226 pages into each language (i.e. translating 452 pages in total).

WORK AND PENSIONS

Departmental Consultants

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions which external consultancy received the highest payments from his Department in each of the last four years. [185652]

Mrs. McGuire: The external consultancy suppliers who received the highest payments from DWP in the last four years are as follows:

| | Consultancy |
|---|---|
| 2004-05 | Capgemini |
| 2005-06 | Capgemini |
| 2006-07 | IBM |
| 2007-08 | Accenture[1] |

[1] The highest expenditure in the current financial year to date is with Accenture. This may change at year end and once expenditure figures have been collated and validated.

Departmental Data Protection

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what audits his Department and its agencies carried out in relation to personal data and IT equipment in each of the last 10 years. [176485]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department, as a major data custodian, takes the security of personal data extremely seriously. The Departmental Audit Committee—which is chaired by an independent non-executive director—supervises an annual programme of reviews by the Department's Internal Audit function. The precise scope of each review is set out in specific and detailed terms of reference.

The Department has conducted a very large number of such audit reviews over the past 10 years. Many of these audits have examined system performance in relation to the management and processing of information, including personal and other data. Details of each such review could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Angela Browning: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what investigation he undertook into the reasons that documents containing personal information relating to benefit claimants were left by the roadside near Exeter Airport on 17 January 2008; and if he will make a statement. [184631]

Mrs. McGuire [holding answer 7 February 2008]: As soon as the incident was discovered, the Department's permanent secretary launched an immediate investigation. All the documents involved have now been recovered and accounted for. The contracted courier company have undertaken an inquiry, and have assured the Department that they are further tightening their procedures as a result of this incident.

Departmental Information Officers

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many (a) press and (b) communications officers his Department employed in each of the last 10 years. [182503]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department for Work and Pensions was formed on 8 June 2001 from parts of the former Department of Social Security, the former Department for Education and Employment and the Employment Service. Information on costs prior to 2001 is not held centrally and could be obtained at disproportionate cost only.

The Department for Work and Pensions does not have a "communication officer" grade. The "White Book" of contacts in Government Departments and agencies contains listings for the Department and this book is updated twice yearly.

The numbers of Press Officers for full financial years (1 April to 31 March) is in the following table:

| | National press officers | Regional press officers |
|---|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 21 | 0 |
| 2002-03 | 13 | 16 |
| 2003-04 | 20 | 20 |
| 2004-05 | 19 | 23 |
| 2005-06 | 23 | 22 |
| 2006-07 | 19 | [1]25 |

[1] Two part-time

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much his Department paid in bonuses to press and communication officers in each of the last 10 years; and what the (a) highest and (b) lowest such bonus was in each of those years. [182709]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department for Work and Pensions does not have a "communication officer" grade. The "White Book" of contacts in Government Departments and agencies contains listings for the Department and this book is updated twice yearly. The following table relates to press officers only.

DWP employees in pay bands below the senior civil service are eligible for an annual individual performance bonus if they attain a 'Top', 'Higher' or 'Majority' rating under the annual performance and development system (PDS). The amount of bonus awarded is differentiated on the basis of the employee's pay band and the performance level achieved. However information relating to totals and individual awards could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

In addition all DWP employees are eligible to be nominated for a special bonus. The scheme enables managers to incentivise and reward valuable or exceptional contributions to business performance made by employees or teams. Amounts are not comparable from year to year or related to the number of staff involved. The following table contains information relating to press officer grades. Information on costs prior to 2004-05 is not held centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

| 1 April-31 March | Total (£) | Highest | Lowest |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2004-05 | 750 | 250 | 250 |
| 2005-06 | 4,050 | 100 | 350 |
| 2006-07 | 900 | 50 | 350 |

Departmental Official Engagements

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many engagements he and his predecessor have undertaken since 28 July 2007. [185657]

James Purnell: My predecessor and I carried out the full range of our ministerial responsibilities since 28 July 2007.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions for which regulators and inspectorates his Department has had responsibility in each year since 1997; what the budget was of each such body in each year; and what the cost to the public purse was of any restructuring of each such body in each year. [175312]

Mrs. McGuire: The annual budget information in respect of regulators and inspectorates for which DWP has responsibility is shown in the following table.

£ million

| Financial year ending | The Pensions Regulator | Health and Safety Executive | Benefit Fraud Inspectorate | Independent Case Examiner | Independent Review Service for the Social Fund |

| 2007 | 31.92 | 232.85 | 3.44 | 2.79 | 4.19 |

[1] The Independent Case Examiner's office was operational from 7 April 1997.
[2] Include accommodation costs—budgeted centrally under PRIME from 1999.
[3] Occupational Pensions Regulatory Authority prior to 2006.
[4] The 2005/06 outturn has been restated (for comparison purposes) to reflect the transfer of responsibility for rail regulation from HSE to the Office of Rail Regulation on 1 April 2006. The total amount before the transfer was £244.3 million.

The information on restructuring costs is not available/held centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Security

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will list the (a) special advisers and (b) ministerial appointees in possession of a security pass enabling access to his Department's main building in the month prior to the prorogation of Parliament for the 2005 general election. [182256]

Mrs. McGuire: It is established practice not to provide details on pass access to government buildings for security reasons

Departmental Telephone Services

Mr. Rob Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many non-geographic telephone numbers are in use by his Department and its agencies; and what revenue was generated from them in each year for which figures are available. [180896]

Mrs. McGuire [holding answer 7 February 2008]: 11,764 non-geographic telephone numbers are in use by my Department and its agencies.

The Department received a rebate of £1,463,738.45 for the period covering 1 October 2005 to 30 November 2007 and this was used to pay for other telecommunication services. No information is available for any earlier period and no breakdown of this figure is available. The Department ceased this arrangement on 14 December 2007 and no longer receives any rebate. This change in arrangement does not affect the charge a customer pays for contacting the Department.

Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many 0845 or similar cost telephone numbers are used by (a) his Department and (b) related departmental bodies for public access to services. [181602]

Mrs. McGuire [holding answer 28 January 2008]: The information requested is as follows:

Dismissal

Jim Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many of his Department's staff in (a) total, (b) England, (c) Scotland, (d) Wales, (e) Northern Ireland and (f) each region of England were dismissed because of (i) their attendance record and (ii) their attendance record on grounds of sickness in each year since 2005. [179309]

Mrs. McGuire [holding answer 16 January 2008]: The Department introduced a new personnel computer system incrementally from November 2006, being fully implemented by April 2007. The following information reflects data recorded on that system for the number of staff dismissed because of their attendance record on grounds of sickness. Information is not available from this system prior to April 2007.

April 2007 to November 2007

| Government Office region | Number |
|---|---|
| East Midlands | 25 |
| East of England | 18 |
| London | 32 |
| North East | 51 |
| North West | 136 |
| South East | 28 |
| South West | 40 |
| West Midlands | 47 |
| Yorkshire and the Humber | 65 |
| Total England | 442 |
| Scotland | 86 |
| Wales | 47 |
| Grand total | 575 |

Information about the number of staff dismissed because of their attendance record on grounds other than sickness is not available. This is because dismissals resulting from disciplinary action is not sub-divided.

Eyesight: Testing

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners aged 60 and over have claimed a free eye test in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the North East and (d) the UK in each year since the scheme's inception. [186672]

Ann Keen: I have been asked to reply.

Information broken down by patient eligibility type is currently only available at country level, and not strategic health authority (SHA), primary care trust (PCT) or constituency level. The Information Centre for health and social care (IC) only has information for England and Wales, not the United Kingdom. The information is shown in the following table.

Information on persons aged 60 and over receiving sight tests paid for by the national health service will be available in the publication "General Ophthalmic Services: Activity Statistics for England and Wales, April to September 2007". Information will be available at PCT and SHA level. This report will be published by the IC in late March 2008.

Patients aged 60 and over became eligible for free NHS sight tests from 1 April 1999.

Total number of NHS sight tests paid for by the NHS in England and Wales for persons aged 60 and over in the specified years ending 31 March

| | England | Wales |
|---|---|---|
| 2000 | 3,301,412 | 244,840 |
| 2001 | 3,753,315 | 242,426 |
| 2002 | 4,012,946 | 255,251 |
| 2003 | 4,135,712 | 273,660 |
| 2004 | 4,308,889 | 279,228 |
| 2005 | 4,303,128 | 295,752 |
| 2006 | 4,450,007 | 312,452 |
| 2007 | 4,518,672 | 287,446 |

Note:
All figures are the total number of sight tests and do not take into account individuals who may have had more than one sight test in the same area within the same time period.

Pensioners: Nottinghamshire

Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many pensioners in Nottingham North constituency were aged over 75 years in the most recent period for which figures are available; [187297]

(2) how many pensioners there were in Nottingham North constituency in the most recent period for which figures are available. [187299]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: As at May 2007 there were 14,890 recipients of state pension in the Nottingham, North parliamentary constituency of whom 6,250 were aged 75 or over.

Notes:

Figures are rounded to the nearest 10.

Sexual Harassment

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many complaints of (a) sexual harassment and (b) sexual discrimination have been made by staff in (i) his Department and (ii) its agencies in the most recent year for which figures are available. [184681]

Mrs. McGuire: Statistics are kept on the number of cases reported to managers under the combined heading "harassment, discrimination and bullying" but complaints of sexual harassment and discrimination cannot be separately identified from these statistics.

However, it is possible to identify the number of complaints referred for investigation to the central investigations team on grounds of sexual harassment. These figures are shown as follows and represent the cases referred from January 2007 to December 2007. For confidentiality reasons they cannot be broken down by agency, as the numbers would be below five.

Based on Cabinet Office guidance the number of sexual discrimination complaints has been withheld for confidentiality reasons because of low numbers. Sexual harassment

Total number of complaints: 9

Social Security Benefits

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assumptions he has made of the level of take up of (a) jobseeker's allowance, (b) incapacity benefit, (c) income support for lone parents and (d) pension credit in determining planned benefit spending for the next spending period. [180137]

Mr. Plaskitt: Of those entitled, we assume that the proportion who will receive benefit remains broadly constant.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people below the age of (a) 35 years and (b) 24 years were claiming (i) incapacity benefit, (ii) jobseeker's allowance and (iii) income support or predecessor benefits in each year since 1984; and if he will make a statement. [187148]

Mr. Plaskitt: Information is not available in the format requested. Information is not available from 1984. Different historical information is available for each of the benefits; the available information is in the following tables.

Incapacity benefit and severe disablement allowance claimants by age in Great Britain, as at May each year

| | All under 35 | Under 25 | 25-34 |

Social Security Benefits: Personal Records

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the answer of 8 January 2008, Official Report, column 438W, on social security benefits: personal records, what the method of the transfer of data is; and what safeguards he has put in place to ensure security. [179365]

Mrs. McGuire [holding answer 15 January 2008]: The Department provides information to the National Audit Office either electronically or by paper copy.

The safeguards in place to ensure the security of such data include rigorous courier arrangements and a requirement that physical transfers of data must have the specific authority of a member of the senior civil service.

Winter Fuel Payments: Nottinghamshire

Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners received the £200 winter fuel payment in Nottingham North constituency in the most recent period for which figures are available. [187298]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: In winter 2006-07, 16,680 people received winter fuel payments in Nottingham, North. We expect the number to be similar for winter 2007-08.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners living in each country overseas were entitled to receive the winter fuel payment in the most recent period for which figures are available. [181765]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: European Community law means that some benefits acquired in one member state must be paid to people when they move to another country within the European economic area. Winter fuel payments are only paid to former UK residents living in the European economic area if they qualified for a payment before leaving the UK. The number of winter fuel payments made to former UK residents living in the EEA in winter 2006-07 is in the following table.

Community Relations: Migration

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when her Department's migration directorate plans to examine the business case for setting up a national body to manage the integration of new migrants, as referred to in the Government's response to the Commission on Integration and Cohesion. [190158]

Mr. Dhanda: Communities and Local Government will be examining the business case for setting up a national body to manage the integration of new migrants during the course of this year. Work will include considering the role and future of existing bodies dealing with integration, for example the Advisory Board on Naturalisation and Integration (ABNI), and determining a national strategy for integration drawing on existing experience and good practice.

Departmental Databases

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what databases are (a) owned and (b) maintained by (i) her Department and (ii) its agencies. [185421]

Mr. Dhanda: The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Dhanda: During the last 12 months the Department has spent £377,390 on hospitality.

All expenditure on hospitality is made in accordance with published departmental guidance on financial procedures and propriety, based on principles set out in Government Accounting and the Treasury handbook on Regularity and Propriety.

The response from the Department's agencies is as follows:

Departmental Pay

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 18 December 2007, Official Report, column 1312W, on departmental pay to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar (Mr. Pickles) whether any staff in the home information pack division have received a bonus. [183021]

Caroline Flint: Staff in this division, like all others in the Department, are covered by the policy on the payment of bonuses as stated in a reply by my hon. Friend the Member for Gloucester (Mr. Dhanda) to the hon. Member for South Holland and the Deepings (Mr. Hayes) on 18 December 2007, Official Report, columns 1310-11W. Given the small number of staff in the home information packs division, it would be a breach of confidentiality and therefore inappropriate to give details.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much was claimed in reimbursable expenses by senior civil service staff in her Department and its agencies in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [187534]

Mr. Dhanda: The breakdown of information in the format requested could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

All departmental expenditure is claimed in accordance with published departmental guidance on financial procedures and propriety, based on principles set out in Managing Public Money.

Departmental Written Questions

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many and what proportion of Parliamentary questions for answer on a named day to her Department and its predecessors received a (a) holding and (b) substantive answer on the named day in each year since 2001. [190283]

Mr. Dhanda: The information in respect of Communities and Local Government (CLG) and its predecessor Department the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister (ODPM) is set out as follows:

Domestic Wastes: Waste Disposal

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether moving from a weekly rubbish collection of household waste to a fortnightly rubbish collection is deemed to be a cut in service provision, according to the methodology used by her Department for the purposes of meeting Gershon targets. [189553]

Mr. Dhanda: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Surrey Heath (Michael Gove) on 29 March 2007, Official Report, column 1736W.

Eco-Towns: National Parks

Mr. McLoughlin: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether the sites of any of the proposed eco-towns fall within the boundaries of a national park. [188924]

Caroline Flint: I can confirm that none of the eco-town proposals submitted fall within the boundaries of a national park.

Fair Trade Initiative

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will take steps to promote Fair Trade Fortnight 2008 among staff within her Department; and if she will make a statement. [189496]

Mr. Dhanda: Communities and Local Government is taking various steps to promote Fairtrade Fortnight 2008 in its headquarter buildings. Over the next two weeks, our catering supplier is providing an increased range of Fairtrade products, including various snacks and drinks. A wider range of Fairtrade teas and coffees is also being offered in our vending machines. We are advertising the fortnight and new products with various posters in our staff restaurants.

This is in addition to the Fairtrade products that are normally supplied within our buildings.

Family Courts

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what research her Department has evaluated on parental alienation syndrome; what conclusions she has drawn; whether steps are being introduced to take into account research into parental alienation syndrome in family court proceedings; and if she will make a statement. [183530]

Kevin Brennan: I have been asked to reply.

We have not undertaken or evaluated research on this subject and have no plans to do so. Many difficulties can emerge following divorce or parental separation and children can be affected in a variety of ways. The Government believe that, where possible, parents should work together to agree contact and residence arrangements themselves and in the best interests of their children. The Children's Plan contains a commitment to improve support during and after family breakdown, including helping children to maintain contact with both parents. Where contact cases come to court, the child's welfare must be the court's paramount consideration. The Children and Adoption Act 2006 has extended the maximum duration of Family Assistance Orders from six to 12 months. This will expand the potential support that CAFCAS8 can provide in assisting families to respect agreements over contact The other provisions in the 2006 Act, when implemented, will give the courts more flexible powers in contact cases, including introducing contact activities, monitoring court-ordered contact, and new enforcement powers.

Gambling: Internet

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many companies are registered in the UK to operate online gaming. [187480]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 21 February 2008]: I have been asked to reply.

As of 1 February 2008, the Gambling Commission has issued 144 remote operating licences to companies that allow those licensed to operate online gambling sites. 17 remote casino licences have been granted which allow those licensees to provide online gaming.

Home Condition Reports

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield of 29 October 2007, Official Report, column 652W, on home condition reports, what reports she has received on the progress of the Ipsos MORI independent evaluation of the home information pack trial. [188820]

Caroline Flint: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar (Mr. Pickles) on 21 January 2008, Official Report, columns 1526-27W.

IPSOS-MORI is still in the process of finalising its conclusions and a copy of the research report will be placed in the House Library once the project has been finalised.

Housing: Complaints

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many complaints were (a) received, (b) investigated and (c) upheld by the Housing Ombudsman in each of the last 10 years, broken down by the councils and agencies against which complaints were made. [189134]

Mr. Iain Wright: There are about 2,500 bodies registered with the Housing Ombudsman Service (HOS) owning and managing 2.5 million properties. The majority of these are registered social landlords (RSLs—housing associations registered with the Housing Corporation). It is a condition of the Housing Act 1996 that all RSLs are members of an approved housing ombudsman scheme. There are also a small number of members which are private rented sector landlords (just under 100) who join on a voluntary basis. The remit of the HOS does not cover councils or local and central Government agencies.

The HOS does not keep statistical information broken down by the body against whom a complaint is made. The HOS received the following number of complaints in each of the last 10 years.

| | Total cases received |
|---|---|
| 1998 | 1,303 |
| 1999 | 1,153 |
| 2000 | 1,861 |
| 2001 | 2,275 |
| 2002 | 2,208 |
| 2003 | 2,112 |
| 2004 | 2,395 |
| 2005 | 2,852 |
| 2007 | 2,895 |

This includes cases received which were not subsequently considered to fall within the housing ombudsman's remit and those which were dealt with using mediation and other forms of dispute resolution. The HOS deals with most disputes in a conciliatory manner, using a range of alternative forms of dispute resolution as well as working with landlords and tenants through prevention initiatives to sustain and improve their relationship.

Formal investigations account for a minority of the work considered by the housing ombudsman. The average percentage of investigations into cases over the 10-year period has been 14 per cent., of which 27 per cent. resulted in findings of maladministration and 77 per cent. non-maladministration (although in the latter cases, the ombudsman frequently makes recommendations for improvements to the bodies involved).

The number of cases considered by the HOS has increased over the last 10 years. The number of properties within the housing ombudsman's remit has doubled over this period and awareness of the service and that of member landlords' own complaints procedures has increased resulting in the higher volume of complaints submitted to the HOS.

Housing: Construction

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the number of (a) houses and bungalows and (b) flats and maisonettes built in each year since 2000; and if she will make a statement. [179248]

Mr. Iain Wright [holding answer 15 January 2008]: The proportions of new build completions in England that are houses and flats are tabled as follows. The information is presented as proportions not absolute numbers because dwelling type is collected centrally for only about half of the new build activity.

| | Percentage | |
|---|---|---|
| | Houses | Flats |
| 2000-01 | 80 | 20 |
| 2001-02 | 77 | 23 |
| 2002-03 | 73 | 27 |
| 2003-04 | 66 | 34 |
| 2004-05 | 59 | 41 |
| 2005-06 | 54 | 46 |
| 2006-07 | 53 | 47 |

The information is published in the Housing Statistics Live Tables (table 254) on the Communities and Local Government website.

Housing: Floods

Mr. Binley: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment the Government have made of the use of West Northamptonshire Development Corporation planning grants for housing on flood plains in Northamptonshire. [189836]

Mr. Iain Wright: To date, West Northamptonshire Development Corporation has referred one housing application in an area of flood risk to the Secretary of State. On assessment, it was decided that there was no reason to call in the application for my right hon. Friend's determination.

Housing: Leicester

Sir Peter Soulsby: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what her target is for the number of new (a) houses and (b) family-sized houses to be built in Leicester in the next 25 years. [188931]

Mr. Iain Wright: The target for the number of new homes to be built in local authority areas is stated in the relevant regional spatial strategy. For the Leicester city council area, this is the regional spatial strategy for the East Midlands (RSS8) adopted in March 2005. However, that document only covers the period to 2021, and only specifies a figure for the former structure plan area of Leicestershire, Leicester and Rutland. That figure is 3,150 homes a year over the period 2001-2021.

The regional spatial strategy for the East Midlands is under review. That review is intended to cover the period 2001-26 and to apportion housing targets down to the local authority level. The Secretary of State is currently considering the recommendations of the panel report into the examination in public of the East Midlands Regional Assembly's draft, with a view to adopting the strategy with any amendments towards the end of this year.

Neither the adopted 2005 regional spatial strategy nor the emerging review includes targets for the size of housing to be delivered. This is because it is not Government policy for the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government to determine the size of housing that should be built in local authority areas. Instead, Government policy on planning for housing which is set out in Planning Policy Statement 3 requires local planning authorities to state the proportions of market housing demand likely to arise from multi-person households including families with children, and to specify the size and type of affordable housing required in particular areas, through their local development frameworks.

Housing: Planning

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will place in the Library a copy of her letter sent in reply to Mr. Ed Murphy of Kent Road, Peterborough, on the planned residential development on the site in Peterborough known as the Grange Road Allotments. [189981]

Mr. Dhanda: A response was sent to Mr. Murphy on the 21 February 2008. A copy of the reply has been placed in the Library.

Housing: Unemployment

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the evidential basis was for the policy proposals on worklessness and housing made recently by the Minister for Housing in a speech to the Fabian Society; what research she has (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on these matters; and what advice she received from officials on those policy proposals. [188225]

Caroline Flint: In my speech to the Fabian Society's conference on 5 February—which can be read at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/speeches/corporate/fabiansocietyaddress

I called for a wide-ranging debate about how best to tackle the challenge of worklessness in social housing, examining the full range of options.

Development of future policy proposals will be informed by this debate and by the range of available evidence, which includes the Hills Review of social housing, Housing Corporation research on "Housing associations tackling worklessness", CORE data on new social lettings, labour force survey data, family resources survey data and survey of English housing data.

John Healey: The Interreg Monitoring and Steering Committees determine their own operating procedures and have decided that their discussions should be confidential to ensure that projects can be appraised objectively.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar (Mr. Pickles) of 30 January 2008, Official Report, column 442W, on the Interreg Programme, if she will place in the Library a copy of the draft IVA programmes submitted to the European Commission and copies of the outline of the IVB and IVC programmes that have been approved. ## Local Authorities Standards

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will place in the Library the comprehensive performance assessment scores, and sub-scores, assigned to each local authority by the Audit Commission in each year since comprehensive performance assessment was introduced. [189551]

John Healey: CPA scores for single tier and county councils were introduced in 2002. Information on CPA and the scores themselves are publicly available on the Audit Commission's website at http://www.audit-commission.gov.uk/cpa/index.asp?page=index.asp&area=hpcpa

Local Authorities: Autism

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what training staff who undertake assessments for (a) Supporting People and (b) local authority housing allocation receive in autism spectrum disorders. [187234]

Mr. Iain Wright: Information on autism spectrum disorders training provided for staff who undertake assessments for Supporting People and local authority housing allocation is not collected centrally. Training needs associated with the provision of Supporting People services is a matter for the local authority and the service providers.

Local Authorities: Cost Effectiveness

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will place in the Library copies of the value for money scores assigned to each local authority by the Audit Commission in its most recent comprehensive performance assessments. [189552]

John Healey: The Audit Commission's tailored frameworks for CPA cover single tier and county councils, district councils and fire and rescue authorities. The frameworks pull together a range of information in an objective and comparable way to reach an overall judgment on a council's or fire and rescue authority's performance, and have four common components:

corporate assessments;

use of resources assessments;

service assessments; and direction of travel assessments.

Value for money is reported on as one of the themes under the use of resources assessment, and the VFM scores assigned to each local authority in the comprehensive performance assessments are all publicly available on the Audit Commission's website at

http://www.audit-commission.gov.uk/cpa/index.asp?page=index.asp&area=hpcpa

Local Authorities: Facilities

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what guidance her Department has given to local authorities on leasing or renting local authority facilities at below market rates. [183529]

Mr. Dhanda: The Department does not issue guidance to local authorities on leasing or renting their facilities at below market rates.

Local Authorities: Property

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what guidance she has given to local authorities on the (a) terms and (b) rates at which council property should be lent, rented or leased to (i) trades unions and (ii) other external organisations or individuals. [183260]

Mr. Dhanda: The Department does not issue guidance to local authorities on the terms and rates at which council properties should be rented or leased to trade unions or other external organisations or individuals.

Local Government Finance: Foreign Workers

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what discussions she has had with HM Treasury on the funding formula used to fund local services in light of the increase in migrant workers in some rural communities following recent EU enlargements. [188597]

John Healey: We have worked closely with local government, HM Treasury and other departments during CSR07 to identify all pressures over the next three years and the ways that they can be managed. We have been able to provide a fair and affordable settlement for local government in a tight spending round, providing an average real terms increase of 1 per cent. per year over the next three years.

When we calculated the distribution of formula grant between all authorities in England, we used the best data that were available on a consistent basis for all authorities and were available at the time.

In addition to formula grant, we have already announced a £50 million fund to address community cohesion. That money is there to help local authorities respond to their own particular challenges—including issues relating to migration.

Local Government: Standards

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will place in the Library copies of the monthly performance management framework reports produced by her Department's local management accounting team for the Deputy Prime Minister's Office in 2006-07. [189539]

Mr. Dhanda: The Deputy Prime Minister's Office ("DPMO") was created as a separate Government department in May 2006 with a Resource DEL of £2.5 million. For administrative purposes Communities and Local Government ("CLG") maintained the DPMO's accounting records and produced monthly performance reports during 2006-07 as an integral part of the CLG monthly reports. No separate monthly reports were produced for the DPMO.

The DPMO has produced an Annual Report (Cm 7102) and Resource Accounts (HC 837) for 2006-07 and these have been placed in the Common's Library.

Migration Directorate

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many people her Department's Migration Directorate employs; what work it undertakes; and when it plans to publish the cross-Government action plan to ensure a co-ordinated approach to migration policy referred to in the Government's response to the Commission on Integration and Cohesion. [190120]

Mr. Dhanda: The migration directorate in Communities and Local Government currently employs 10 members of staff and receives support from many other parts of the Department dealing with housing, cohesion and local government finance policy. It also works closely with CLG's analytical and economic advisers.

The directorate's role is to co-ordinate the Department's work on migration issues and to draw together the work being undertaken across Whitehall on supporting communities in managing the local impacts of migration. The directorate will be developing an evidence base on the local impacts of migration, working closely with local government and other stakeholders, to increase our understanding of how migration affects different localities. CLG will be co-ordinating a cross-government action plan setting out practical steps central government can take to support local areas in managing the impacts of migration. Migration Directorate is working closely with the National Statistician, who is leading a cross-government programme to improve population projections. The directorate also provides the secretariat, jointly with the Home Office, for the Migration Impacts Forum.

Communities and Local Government plans to publish the cross-government action plan on the local impacts of migration in the spring.

Minister for the South West

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what meetings the Minister for the South West has held with other Government Ministers in her capacity as the Minister for the South West. [188911]

Mr. Dhanda: The Regional Minister for the South West has engaged both formally and informally with other Government Ministers but information relating to internal discussion and advice is not disclosed in order to protect the frankness and candour of internal discussion and advice.

National Muslim Women's Advisory Group

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government who the members of the National Muslim Women's Advisory Group are; and which organisations they represent. [187893]

Hazel Blears: The National Muslim Women's Advisory Group comprises the following 19 women who are in positions of leadership or are working with the Muslim communities in Britain:

Siddika Ahmed
Fareena Alam
Parvin Ali OBE
Batool Al-Toma
Naheed Arshad-Mather MBE
Farkhanda Chaudhry MBE
Zulekha Dala MBE
Reedah El-Saie
Rokhsana Fiaz
Shaista Gohir
Rukaiya Jeraj
Samina Kauser
Shahda Khan
Sabira Lakha

Members of the advisory group serve in their individual capacity, and do not represent the organisations they work for.

Out-of-Town Shopping Centres

Mr. Binley: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether the Government plan to abolish the needs test for out-of-town retail development. [189835]

Mr. Iain Wright: In the Planning White 'Paper Planning for a Sustainable Future', we set out our intention to replace the current need and impact tests in Planning Policy Statement 6: 'Planning for Town Centres', with a new test which has a strong focus on our town centre first policy, and which promotes competition and improves consumer choice, avoiding the unintended effects of the current need test.

We will carry out a consultation on our proposed revisions to PPS6 shortly.

Sunbeds: Greater London

Mrs. James: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what by-laws regulate sunbed salons in (a) London and (b) Birmingham. [186334]

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many sunbed salons in (a) London, (b) Birmingham and (c) the west midlands have been investigated for alleged breaches of the bye-laws that regulate their operation. [187760]

Mr. Dhanda: Communities and Local Government has no responsibility for the regulation of sunbed salons.

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what records her Department holds on the number of sunbed salons which are licensed by local authorities in (a) London, (b) Birmingham and (c) the West Midlands. [189598]

Mr. Dhanda: The Department for Communities and Local Government does not collect data on the number of sunbed salons which are licensed by local authorities.

Supermarkets: Planning Permission

Ann Coffey: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will make it a requirement of planning permission for supermarkets that supermarkets have to create provision for small market traders within the curtilage of their stores. [189131]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government's planning policy "Planning Policy Statement 6: Planning for town centres" (PPS6) recognises that street and covered markets (including farmers' markets) can make a valuable contribution to local choice and diversity in shopping, to the vitality of town centres and to rural economies.

PPS6 asks local authorities to seek to retain and enhance their existing markets and, where appropriate, reintroduce or create new ones, taking account of their local needs and particular circumstances. They are also asked to ensure that existing markets remain attractive and competitive by investing in their improvement.

It is for local authorities to decide for themselves how they use their powers and the level of support they give to street markets and market traders in their areas, having regard to local circumstances and their vision and strategy for their area.

Working Neighbourhoods Fund

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Torbay of 31 January 2008, Official Report, column 592W, on the Working Neighbourhoods Fund (WNF), how the criteria for WNF differs from the criteria previously used to allocate Deprived Areas Fund. [189403]

John Healey: Following Spending Review 2004 the Deprived Areas Fund (DAF) was allocated to wards based on benefit claim rates. The following wards attracted DAF allocations:

Any ward with a benefit claim rate of 25 per cent. or above; and

Any ward in the 10 local authorities with the lowest employment rates with a benefit claim rate of 20 to 25 per cent.

Three criteria were used to determine eligibility for the Working Neighbourhoods Fund (WNF):

Any authority that has 20 per cent. or more of its lower super output areas (LSOAs) in the most deprived decile on the employment domain; or

Any authority that has 20 per cent. or more of its lower super output areas (LSOAs) in the most deprived decile on the overall TMD; or Any authority that ranks among the top 40 districts on an equally weighted measure of key benefit claim rate and employment rate.

Local authorities were only required to meet one of the above criteria to qualify for the fund.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Alcoholic Drinks: Advertising

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what discussions he has had on the introduction of bans on (a) the broadcasting of alcohol advertising before 9 p.m., (b) sponsorship by the alcohol industry of sporting, music and other entertainment events aimed primarily at young people and (c) the marketing of pre-mixed alcoholic drinks aimed at young people. [189454]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Government's national alcohol strategy, 'Safe. Sensible. Social.' includes a commitment to look at the relationship between alcohol price, promotions (including advertising), consumption, and harm. Discussions on these issues are ongoing within Government.

Archaeology

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent meetings he and officials in his Department have had with finds liaison officers on the Portable Antiquities Scheme; and what assessment he has made of the Museums, Libraries and Archives Council's proposals for funding for the Scheme in 2008-09. [185612]

Margaret Hodge: The Museums, Libraries and Archives Council (MLA) recognises that the Portable Antiquities Scheme (PAS) is of national importance. The British Museum and the MLA are fully committed to the continued success of the PAS and are working together with other stakeholders to ensure that this is achieved.

My right hon. Friend the Member for Stalybridge and Hyde (James Purnell) met the Finds Liaison Officer for the North West region in December 2007.

The PAS is funded by the Museums, Libraries and Archives Council (MLA) and administered on their behalf by the British Museum. Any assessment regarding the scheme is therefore a matter for the MLA and the British Museum.

English Sports Council: Education

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport whether Sport England has made any representations on the amount of physical education training undertaken by primary school teachers as part of their initial teacher training since 1997. [189590]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 26 February 2008]: The Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF) have responsibility for the provision of teacher training.

The focus of Sport England is on community sport. We are not aware that it has made any representations on the amount of physical education training included in primary initial teacher training.

Mass Media: Middle East

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will hold discussions with UK (a) print and (b) broadcast news providers under the Public Diplomacy Strategy on the balance of media coverage of the Israel/Palestinian conflict. [188147]

Dr. Howells: I have been asked to reply.

Mr. Sutcliffe: The grants awarded by the Big Lottery Fund and its predecessors, the Community Fund and the New Opportunities Fund, in each of the last five completed financial years for the Braintree constituency are listed in the following table.

The information is location specific. That is, the list includes only grants that are specific to locations in the constituency and excludes grants that might have gone to addresses in the constituency, to headquarters offices for example, but are not otherwise related to it. The Department's lottery grants database is searchable at www.lottery.culture.gov.uk and uses information supplied by the lottery distributor.

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what progress has been made towards achieving the target in his Department's 2002 publication Game Plan—a strategy for delivering the government's sport and physical activity objectives to increase the proportion of the adult population who participate in 30 minutes of moderate physical activity five or more times a week to 70 per cent. by 2020. [189023]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The 2002 Game Plan strategy document suggested an aspirational goal to increase the proportion of the adult population who participate in 30 minutes of moderate physical activity five or more times a week to 70 per cent. by 2020.

The Government's official target, set out in DCMS's current public service agreement is to increase the proportion of adults from priority groups participating in both moderate level intensity sport and active sport by 3 per cent. by 2008.

The table sets out the most recent data available measuring the proportion of adults who participate in 30 minutes of moderate intensity activity at least five times a week.

Sports: Essex

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assistance his Department gave to (a) amateur sports clubs and (b) sport in schools in (i) Southend and (ii) Essex in each year since 1997; what projects were supported; whether there were restrictions on the use of this funding; and if he will make a statement. [189003]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Financial support for community sport from public sources is primarily channelled through Sport England which dispenses Exchequer and lottery funds for sport The tables show how much Exchequer and lottery funding has been allocated through Sport England to (a) amateur sports clubs and (b) sport in schools in (i) Southend and (ii) Essex.

In addition, the Big Lottery Fund has allocated £9.1 million from the New Opportunities for PE and Sport initiative to sports facilities projects in Essex and the Football Foundation has awarded a further £12 million in grants. We do not hold data giving the yearly breakdown of awards or grants made by the Big Lottery Fund or the Football Foundation, nor do we hold details of specific awards made by these organisations to projects in Southend.

Figures given prior to 2001-02 are lottery only as Sport England advises that it is not possible to provide the requested information for Exchequer Funding back to 1997. This is because it changed its budget management software at the start of 2001-02 and does not have information before that date readily available.

At the end of January 2008, there are 170 amateur sports clubs registered with the Community Amateur Sports Club Scheme (CASCs) in Essex and Southend in the following sports:

As of 1 April 2004, registered CASCs enjoy the following benefits:

Mandatory relief of 80 per cent. on non-domestic (business rates) rates for CASCs in England and Wales.

Exemption from corporation tax on:

bank and building society interest trading income up to £30,000.

income from property up to £20,000 and

Exemption from capital gains tax on disposals of assets.

Donors to CASCs are able to give using the following relief's:

Gift aid for individuals. A registered CASC can reclaim up to 28p in tax for every £1.

Inheritance tax

Gifts of assets to a CASC on a no gain/no loss basis for capital gains purposes for both individuals and companies.

Gifts of trading stock and plant and machinery by businesses.

The precise value of these benefits to registered clubs in Southend and Essex is not known.

I will place a summary of projects in Southend and Essex that have benefited from funding in the Libraries of both Houses.

In terms of restrictions on the use of funding, these have been consistently in line with lottery policy and each application for funding is assessed on its individual merits.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what public funding was made available for sports clubs and facilities in (a) Southend and (b) Essex in each year since 1997; how much and what proportion of these funds was earmarked for Paralympic sports; what restrictions were placed on the use of these funds; and if he will make a statement. [189004]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The full range of information requested could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Since 1997, over £4 billion has been invested in sport in England by Government and the national lottery distributing bodies. Since 2000, £47 million has been invested in Paralympic sport in Great Britain—we do not hold data about specific awards to Paralympic sports projects below this level.

Figures from Sport England show that £29.6 million has been awarded to sports projects in Essex and £2 million to projects in Southend. The table gives details of grants and awards made by Sport England to Essex and Southend during the period 1997-98 to 2007-08.

In addition, the Big Lottery Fund has allocated £9.1 million from the New Opportunities for PE and Sport initiative to sports facilities projects in Essex and the Football Foundation has awarded a further £12 million in grants. We do not hold data giving the yearly breakdown of awards or grants made by the Big Lottery Fund or the Football Foundation, nor do we hold details of specific awards made by these organisations to projects in Southend.

Each of the individual Sport England, Big Lottery Fund or Football Foundation programmes or initiatives has its own set criteria which must be met before funding can be awarded.

Sports: Schools

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many school sports co-ordinators were introduced in (a) Stockton South constituency, (b) Teesside, (c) the North East and (d) England in each year since their inception. [188966]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The School Sport Partnership (SSP) infrastructure of Partnership Development Managers, School Sport Coordinators and Primary Link Teachers was rolled out in stages between 2000 and 2006.

Information on the numbers of School Sport Co-ordinators is only held on a live basis. The following table details information that is readily available.

| | 2005 | 2006 | 2008 |
|---|---|---|---|
| (a) Stockton, South | 5 | 5 | 9 |
| (b) Teesside | 35 | 38 | 38 |
| (c) North East | 132 | 211 | 209 |
| (d) England | 1,790 | 2,765 | 3,255 |

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to the Answer of 29 October 2007, Official Report, column 639W, on sports: schools, how many of the competition managers will be senior competition managers. [189354]

Mr. Sutcliffe: When completed, our national network of at least 225 competition managers will include 49 senior competition managers leading teams of competition managers across 49 county areas.

Sports: Young People

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) what percentage of (a) boys and (b) girls under the age of 16 met the physical activity recommendations of 60 minutes or more of activity of at least moderate intensity on all days of the week in each year for which figures are available; [189024]

(2) what percentage of (a) boys and (b) girls under the age of 16 undertook less than 30 minutes of physical activity per day in each year for which figures are available. [189025]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The information requested is not collected centrally. The National School Sport Survey measures the percentage of children aged five to 16 doing at least two hours of high quality PE and school sport each week. The 2006-07 survey shows that this currently stands at 86 per cent. Copies of the survey results have been placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

Swimming Pools

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many swimming pools (a) there are and (b) are planned in the (i) Southend, (ii) Essex, (iii) Hertfordshire and (iv) London. [188997]

Mr. Sutcliffe: According to the Active Places database the number of swimming pools in the regions requested is as follows:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Essex (including the unitaries of Southend and Thurrock) | 178 |
| Southend | 14 |
| London | 567 |
| Hertfordshire | 140 |

The number of swimming pools planned is as follows:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Essex (including the unitaries of Southend and Thurrock) | 4 |
| Southend | 1 |
| London | 6 |
| Hertfordshire | 4 |

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many swimming pools (a) closed and (b) opened in England in each year since 1997; and how many diving pools are open to the public. [188998]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Information on pool openings and closures across England was not collected centrally prior to 2004, when the Active Places database of sports facilities across England was established. The most recent information from Sport England indicates the number of pools (not sites) opened and closed in each year since 2004 is:

| | Opened | Closed |
|---|---|---|
| 2004 | 117 | 13 |
| 2005 | 93 | 60 |
| 2006 | 87 | 58 |
| 2007 | 57 | 33 |
| Total | 354 | 282 |

There are 64 diving pools open to the public with one temporary closure at Crystal Palace.

LEADER OF THE HOUSE

Ministers: Allowances

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Leader of the House what the cost to the public purse of ministerial allowances was in each year for which figures are available, broken down by department. [187578]

Mr. Watson: I have been asked to reply.

I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 31 January 2008, Official Report, column 503W.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster when he will reply to the letters of 16 July and 22 October 2007 from the hon. Member for North East Hampshire, requesting an internal review and revised decision under the Freedom of Information Act 2005. [184777]

Edward Miliband: I have received the hon. Member's letter of 6 February requesting that his letters of 16 July and 24 October 2007 be treated as a request for information under the Freedom of Information Act 2000. A response will be sent shortly.

Regulatory Impact Assessments

Mike Penning: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what advice or guidance his Department provides to other departments on (a) the stage in the legislative process at which impact assessments should be carried out and (b) the purpose of impact assessments. [187637]

Mr. McFadden: I have been asked to reply.

In May 2007 Government introduced the revised impact assessment process to improve clarity and transparency of new regulations, including new requirements to summarise both the rationale for government intervention and evidence supporting the final proposal.

The revised guidance supporting this process is clear that impact assessments should be developed from the earliest stages of policy making in order to assess the costs, benefits and impact of regulatory proposals. This guidance is available at:

http://www.berr.gov.uk/bre

Trade Unions

Mr. Tyrie: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what guidelines he has issued for trade union representatives in the Civil Service on their use of (a) paid and (b) unpaid time off work on trades union duties, with particular reference to (i) political campaigning and (ii) party political activity. [186694]

Mr. Watson [holding answer 18 February 2008]: No central guidelines have been issued. These matters are delegated to individual Departments to determine with their trade unions.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Agriculture: Subsidies

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Copeland of 10 January 2008, if he will publish single farm payments (a) made to individual farmers, (b) broken down by size of farm and (c) broken down by size of payment. [187835]

Jonathan Shaw: Once all single payment scheme payments have been completed a decision will be taken on the level of detail that will be published.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many farmers have not yet received (a) a 2005 and (b) a 2006 single farm payment. [187974]

Jonathan Shaw: There are currently nine outstanding cases for SPS 2005.

For SPS 2006 there are currently 69 claims where processing is not yet complete.

Agriculture: Waste Disposal

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs why farmers are not permitted to bury fallen stock; and what regard has been given to the environmental effects of such a ban. [187975]

Jonathan Shaw: The ban on burying fallen stock on-farm was introduced by the EU Animal By-Products Regulation 1774/2002. The Regulation aims to protect public and animal health from any potential risks associated with the burial of fallen stock. It was introduced on a precautionary basis, influenced by evidence provided in a number of scientific opinions from the EU's scientific steering committee.

The environmental effects of such a ban have not been assessed. However, the voluntary National Fallen Stock scheme, run by the National Fallen Stock Company (NFSCo), operates in a way that encourages as many local operators as possible to collect fallen stock and limits the "carcase miles" travelled.

The EU Animal By-Products Regulation that imposed the burial ban also provides for the approval of new disposal methods once their effectiveness has been assessed by the European Food Safety Authority. One potential method undergoing research, and in which the NFSCo has taken an interest, is the use of bioreducers. Subject to this research eventually being submitted for, and passing, such an assessment, these may provide a route for on-farm disposal of some fallen stock in the future.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will reduce restrictions on farmers burying fallen stock. [187976]

Jonathan Shaw: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 7 February 2008, Official Report, column 1342W.

Animals: Quarantine

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs where animals other than cats and dogs are kept in quarantine in the UK; and under what conditions. [188283]

Jonathan Shaw: Animals can be kept in quarantine at zoos, research centres, and temporary holding facilities at ports or airports. On rare occasions, additional premises such as film sets have been approved using zoo specifications. All such quarantine facilities are inspected and approved by Animal Health and supervised by a veterinary superintendent.

Conditions are laid down for disease security, but the rabies order contains no provision for welfare rules in quarantine facilities. However, the normal welfare legislation conditions for zoos, research centres, etc. still apply.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) how his Department monitors the Voluntary Code in relation to the welfare of animals in quarantine premises; and if he will make a statement; [188527]

(2) whether there have been any breaches of the Voluntary Code in relation to the welfare of animals in quarantine premises since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [188528]

Jonathan Shaw: Animal Health monitors compliance with the Voluntary Code, but does not 'enforce' it. As the code is voluntary, Animal Health can only insist that transgressing quarantine kennels withdraw from the scheme and remove the compliance statement from their literature.

As Animal Health is not an enforcement or regulating body, no information on breaches of the Voluntary Code is being held.

Avian Influenza

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what advice his Department has received from (a) independent and (b) international experts on H5N1 virus surveillance strategy; and if he will make a statement. [188724]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 25 February 2008]: The Veterinary Laboratory Agency (VLA), in its role as a World and EU Community Reference Laboratory for avian influenza, collaborates at an international level with many leading institutes so that information and expert advice can be shared. In particular, the VLA chairs and leads a working group, which conducts detailed scientific analysis of wild bird surveillance (AIWBS) data on avian influenza from all EU member states; this helps to continually advise and develop the European AIWBS strategy. In addition, the VLA provides direct advice, through its expert consultants, to DEFRA, EU member states, and the European Commission.

The VLA also participates in global projects to improve and continuously develop surveillance strategies with a particular focus on HPAI H5N1. This is achieved via a number of formal partnerships funded through EU projects, and also by close interactions with international organisations such as the World Animal Health Organisation (OIE) and the Food and Agricultural Organisation (FAO).

DEFRA obtains expert advice on the ecology and biology of waterfowl and other wild birds from the Ornithological Expert Panel, which comprises representatives from the major international non-governmental organisations working in this field, along with Natural England and the Joint Nature Conservation Committee.

My Department also exchanges information with the Health Protection Agency and the Department of Health.

Bass: Fisheries

Mr. Streeter: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps he is taking to support inshore recreational bass fishing. [188987]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 25 February 2008]: Scientific advice from the International Council for the Exploration of the Sea in 2004, and subsequent advice to DEFRA from the Centre for Environment, Fisheries and Aquaculture Science, suggests that the bass stock is fished sustainably. With a view to providing additional protection for stocks of bass, I announced last year a review of bass nursery areas and inshore netting restrictions, for the benefit of both inshore recreational and commercial bass fishing. I am also currently consulting on a draft recreational sea angling strategy which considers a package of measures for the development of recreational sea fishing. The consultation closes on 31 March.

Mr. Streeter: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the (a) state of the inshore bass fishing industry and (b) availability of large mature adult bass. [188988]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 25 February 2008]: The most recent advice on bass from the International Council for the Exploration of the Sea was produced in 2004. This was based on analytical assessments of UK inshore bass stocks and concluded that bass stocks appear to be fished sustainably. Updated assessments have been carried out on behalf of DEFRA by the Centre for Environment, Fisheries and Aquaculture Science (CEFAS) in 2006 and 2008. These confirm the earlier assessment and indicate that levels of bass landings by the commercial fishing industry (including the inshore sector) reflect the increase in stock abundance since the mid 1990s.

Bass are fully mature at eight years and older. Although stock assessments by CEFAS indicate that adult bass are more abundant than historically, large adult bass tend to be less available inshore, where smaller younger bass are more prevalent.

Birds

Ms Angela C. Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how birds issued with Transaction Specific certificates under the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species regulations may be traced for DNA testing once they have been sold to another birdkeeper. [188505]

Under most circumstances, there is no requirement for bird keepers to notify Animal Health if they sell CITES-listed birds, providing that they possess a valid sales certificate. If there is a need to trace specific species or specimens because of conservation fears, then the UK CITES management authority can apply a condition to any certificate which stipulates the seller must inform the management authority of any sale and who the specimen is sold to. This condition could not be applied retrospectively and could only apply to birds certificated from that date forward, not to birds already provided with certificates.

It would, however, be an abuse of the powers contained in the EU regulations to apply such conditions in a "blanket fashion" and we would need to be able to prove from a conservation viewpoint that such additional conditions were fair and reasonable.

Dairy Farming: Competition

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he has had with the Department of Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform on ensuring greater competition in the dairy industry whilst protecting farm incomes. [188562]

Jonathan Shaw: We have had no such discussions. We consider that individual dairy producers are in the best position to be able to maximise their income by making individual business decisions.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much was claimed in reimbursable expenses by Senior Civil Service staff in his Department and its agencies in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [187537]

Jonathan Shaw: A total of £229,702.30, including VAT, was paid to senior civil service staff in DEFRA and its agencies, in respect of reimbursable expense claims for the 12 month period to 31 December 2007.

Energy: Conservation

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what representations he has received from the UK heating industry about the proposals for heating and hot water products contained in the Ecodesign of Energy-using Products Directive. [189046]

Joan Ruddock [holding answer 25 February 2008]: DEFRA Ministers have received representations from a number of trade associations and companies in the boiler and water heater supply chains highlighting their concerns with the proposed Energy-using Products Directive.

My officials have also held a range of meetings with members of the industry to present the Commission proposals and to discuss their concerns on the implications for the UK industry. The Commission is currently analysing responses from the industry on its proposals.

DEFRA officials will shortly be attending meetings with the European Trade Associations in order to learn more about the issues the industry face across Europe.

European Fisheries Fund Operational Programme

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs for what reasons the European Fisheries Fund Operational Programme was not developed between October and December 2006 as planned; and if he will make a statement. [188548]

Jonathan Shaw: The development of the UK Operational Programme is a continuous process. I am not aware of any particular period during which this process was halted.

Farmers

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many employees of his Department have farming experience. [187973]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA does not hold information centrally on employees who have farming experience in the agricultural sector and to collate this information would incur disproportionate cost.

Fisheries

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent changes he has made to the licensing scheme arrangements for the 10 metre and under fleet; and if he will make a statement. [188423]

Jonathan Shaw: I have made no recent changes to the licensing scheme arrangements for the 10 m and under fleet.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what consultations he has held on changing the licensing scheme arrangements for the 10 metre and under fleet; and if he will make a statement. [188424]

Jonathan Shaw: I have held no consultations on changing the licensing arrangements for the 10 m and under fleet. However, I have recently written to 10 m and under vessel licence holders informing them that I plan to consult them later this year on possible changes to the current licensing system.

Fisheries: Quotas

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs who is on each quota management advisory group; and if he will make a statement. [188441]

Jonathan Shaw: The aim of these groups is to gather the views and opinions of a wide range of interested groups involved in the inshore fishing industry around the coast of England and Wales. As such, there is no set membership for each group. They are currently being set up by the district inspectors of the Marine and Fisheries Agency (MFA). Once established, it is intended that the details of the meetings held, those that attended and notes of the issues discussed at each meeting will be made available through the MFA website.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs for what reason the Quota Management Change Programme formal consultation paper was not published between January and March 2007 as planned; and if he will make a statement. [188596]

Jonathan Shaw: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 1289W.

Fishing Vessels

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether the European Fisheries Fund can be used to decommission fishing vessels; and if he will make a statement. [188433]

Jonathan Shaw: Information on what can be funded from the European Fisheries Fund can be found in Council Regulation (EC) No. 1198/2006, which is available on the Europa website.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans he has to decommission UK fishing vessels; and if he will make a statement. [188589]

Jonathan Shaw: I am currently considering the possibility of running a limited decommissioning scheme targeted at those under 10 m vessels that catch at, or close to, the monthly catch limits set by the Marine and Fisheries Agency.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what his policy was on fishing vessel decommissioning in (a) 2006, (b) 2007 and (c) 2008; and if he will make a statement. [188590]

Jonathan Shaw: Departmental policy on fishing vessel decommissioning in the years 2006 to 2008 has been that general decommissioning schemes are not the most effective, nor the fairest way of reducing fleet capacity. Specifically, they do not encourage fishermen to make long-term business decisions, or provide value for money.

However, smaller targeted schemes can work when linked with other management measures. For example, the 2007 scheme for South-West beam trawlers was linked to the agreement of a long-term management plan for Western Channel sole.

Fly Tipping

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will bring forward proposals to treat fly-tipping on private land in the same way as that which occurs on public land. [187564]

Joan Ruddock: Where there is refuse or fly-tipping on public land, then the relevant local authority has a duty to clear it and bear the cost of removal. However, neither the local authority nor the Environment Agency are under any legal obligation to assist with the removal of illegally dumped waste from privately owned land.

Some authorities are ready to work with landowners to investigate and prosecute repeated incidents of fly-tipping and to tackle specific problems or issues. However, to place a duty on the authorities and the Environment Agency to remove waste from private land would create a fly-tippers' charter. This would encourage illegal dumping rather than tackle the problem. Moreover, such a duty would place significant additional burdens on local authorities and the Environment Agency.

For these reasons, we do not intend to bring forward proposals that would mean fly-tipped waste on private land is be treated in the same way as on public land.

Among recent measures that have been introduced, the Clean Neighbourhoods and Environment Act 2005 gave courts the power to make an order against anyone convicted of the main offence of illegal waste disposal to pay for costs incurred by a landowner in removing waste that has been illegally deposited.

DEFRA also sits on the National Fly-tipping Prevention Group which identifies better ways of preventing and tackling fly-tipping on private land by working closely with organisations like the National Farmers Union, the Country Land and Business Association, Network Rail and the National Trust. It has also issued guidance to landowners on how to deal with this problem.

Fuels: Imports

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much refuse-derived fuel was imported into the United Kingdom from each country in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [188080]

Joan Ruddock [holding answer 21 February 2008]: In the last five years, England and Wales have only given their permission to import refuse derived fuel in 2006 and 2007. The following table gives details of those imports. In all cases, the waste was imported for use as a fuel, (a recovery operation).

| | Amount imported (tonnes) | Country of origin |
|---|---|---|
| 2006 | 482.77 | Germany |
| | 90.74 | Ireland |
| 2007 | 57.45 | Germany |
| | 231.58 | Netherlands |
| | 5.52 | Netherlands |

Gangmasters: Licensing

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many licences were (a) granted, (b) refused and (c) revoked by the Gangmaster Licensing Authority in each year since 2005; and if he will make a statement. [188390]

Jonathan Shaw: The Gangmasters Licensing Authority (GLA) started issuing licences to gangmasters in April 2006. The number of licenses granted, refused and revoked in the last two financial years is as follows:

|---|---|---|
| Granted | 538 | 628 |
| Refused | 26 | 9 |
| Revoked | 1 | 44 |

[1] To 22 February 2008.

The GLA will continue to refuse licence applications from, and to revoke the licences held by, gangmasters who fail to meet their licensing standards.

Greenhouse Gas Emissions

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what representations he has received from the Welsh Assembly Government on the inclusion of mechanisms to enforce reductions in greenhouse gas emissions in the Climate Change Bill. [188169]

Mr. Woolas: In accordance with the general principles set out in the overarching Memorandum of Understanding between Devolved Administrations, the UK Government have consulted the Welsh Assembly Government from an early stage in the development of legislative proposals in the Climate Change Bill.

We are also drawing up a Concordat which will set out detailed procedures for working together under the Bill. This will be finalised once the Bill is enacted and the full implications are confirmed.

Livestock: Diseases

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps have been taken on covering the costs relating to major outbreaks of disease in livestock. [187566]

Jonathan Shaw: I refer the hon. Member to the written statement on 11 December 2007, Official Report, column 22WS.

Livestock: Transport

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will review the six-day standstill rule. [187978]

Jonathan Shaw: We have no plans to review the six day standstill rule which has the support of the industry.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make it his policy to allow animals subject to the six-day rule to be quarantined on a separate part of the farm. [188015]

Jonathan Shaw: One of Bill Madder's recommendations in the Review of Livestock Movements Controls was: that animals which had spent six days in an approved isolation unit should be exempted from any standstill on the wider holding. Implementing this recommendation requires amending legislation, which is currently being planned.

Nitrate Vulnerable Zones: Farmers

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the effects on farmers of the EU Nitrate Vulnerable Zones Directive. [187568]

Mr. Woolas: Regulations were made in December 2002 increasing the area designated as nitrate-vulnerable zones (NVZs), to 55 per cent. of England. The regulatory impact assessment made at the time estimated the total annual cost to farmers of complying with the NVZ regulations to be £21.7 million.

A consultation on proposals to revise the NVZ regulations closed on 13 December 2007. The partial regulatory impact assessment published with that consultation estimates annual costs to farmers of implementing the proposals if they were to proceed, (based on a proposed 70 per cent. NVZ area) to be in the range of £52.8-£105.9 million; it is estimated that mitigating measures identified in the assessment could reduce this to £35.5-£80.8 million.

Radioactive Materials: Waste Management

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he has had with the US Administration on its policies for the management of nuclear waste; and what contribution such discussions have made to the formulation of UK policy. [188316]

Mr. Woolas: DEFRA has lead responsibility for radioactive waste policy and was involved in discussions in early February with the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform and the US Administration about the Global Nuclear Energy Partnership. This included potential opportunities for sharing international best practice and technology development in waste management and disposal.

In formulating its recommendations to Government for the long term management of higher activity radioactive waste, the Committee on Radioactive Waste Management engaged a wide range of international experts including a number of US specialists. The Committee's recommendations provided a strong basis for the Government consultation 'A Framework for Implementing Geological Disposal' that closed on 2 November 2007.

Recycling

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much (a) paper and cardboard, (b) metal, (c) glass, (d) plastic and (e) other material was collected for recycling and exported for reprocessing in each of the last five years for which figures are available, broken down by region. [187943]

Joan Ruddock: The tonnages of materials collected from household sources sent for recycling and composting by all local authorities in England, and by each region in the last five years for which figures are available, are shown in the following tables[1]. This information is also available on the DEFRA website. Tonnages of recyclable materials from non-household sources are not available.

[1] 'Household waste sent for recycling' includes all materials sent for recycling, composting or reuse by local authorities as well as those collected from household sources by 'private/voluntary' organisations. Material which was collected for recycling but actually rejected at collection, by the Material Recycling Facility or at the gate of a recycling reprocessor is excluded. Material diverted from the residual waste stream and accepted for recycling is included.

DEFRA municipal waste statistics.

Where non-hazardous wastes (such as separated recyclables) are exported, they are generally subject only to commercial controls and not to the prior notification and consent procedures which apply to exports of hazardous wastes. Precise data on the amounts and destinations of exported recyclables are not, therefore, available.

However, based on HM Revenue and Customs figures, it is estimated that in 2006 (the last year for which figures are available), the UK exported some 8 million tonnes of metal scrap, 4 million tonnes of paper, 441,000 tonnes of plastic and 136,000 tonnes of glass cullet. These figures will include recyclable materials collected from all sources including households, commerce and industry.

Red Kites

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many red kites have been illegally killed in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [188606]

Joan Ruddock: Data on the number of red kites illegally killed are not available. Statistics relating to the number of prosecutions and convictions for the illegal killing of wild birds do not distinguish between species.

River Stour: Floods

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans there are to review the flood plains along the river Stour in Dorset following last summer's heavy rains. [189173]

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 26 February 2008]: The Environment Agency carried out a detailed hydraulic and hydrological modelling project on the River Stour in 2006-07. This project produced new 100 and 1,000 year flood risk areas for the river, particularly in the lower reaches where the Environment Agency has flood defences. The Environment Agency are also using this information to revise flood warning procedures in this area.

Rural Areas: Low Incomes

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate has been made of the proportion of (a) English farming households and (b) households in rural areas with incomes below the Department for Work and Pensions' low income threshold. [187440]

Jonathan Shaw: The only source of farm household income data measures income before tax is deducted. The official DWP low income threshold is based on income after tax. One would expect the number below 60 per cent. of the median to be lower after tax as the tax system is designed to reduce some of the inequalities in income. Household income data for rural households are not available so the answer to part (b) is based on working age adults living in low income households. Therefore, the answers given in part (a) and part (b) are not directly comparable. In addition it should be noted that the data used to answer part (a) are based on the English population while those in part (b) are based on incomes in the United Kingdom.

For the population as a whole, the Government have a preferred measure of "low income" defined as 60 per cent. of the median equivalised income for all UK households after tax. It may be presented either before housing costs or after housing costs. The Farm Business Survey is not able to provide figures for household income net of tax, so farm household incomes cannot be compared directly with the low income threshold. Instead they are compared with a modified low income threshold defined as 60 per cent. of the England median, equivalised income before tax (and before housing costs). This has been calculated from 2004-05 Family Resources Survey data. Table 1 shows that:

i. the mean income for farm households was higher than the national mean but the median income was about the same;

ii. both mean and median farm incomes were lower than for the population of self-employed households; and

iii. 31 per cent. of farm households were below the modified low income threshold (gross before housing costs) in 2005-06 compared with 21 per cent. for all households and 18 per cent. for self-employed households.

Table 1: Equivalised household income and low-income threshold, England 2005-06

|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Mean | Median | | |
| Households of principal farmers | 33,900 | 22,700 | — | 31 |
| All households | 30,200 | 23,000 | 13,800 | 21 |
| Self-employed households | 38,000 | 27,200 | — | 18 |

(b) Households in rural areas—after deduction of tax

Table 2 shows the percentage of working age people living in England in households with an income of 60 per cent. below the UK median. Figures are broken down by DEFRA's local authority classification. The classification divides local authorities into the following six categories:

i. Rural-80: districts with at least 80 per cent. of their population in rural settlements and larger market towns;

ii. Rural-50: districts with at least 50 per cent. but less than 80 per cent. of their population in rural settlements and larger market towns;

iii. Significant Rural: districts with more than 37,000 people or more than 26 per cent. of their population in rural settlements and larger market towns;

iv. Other Urban: districts with fewer than 37,000 people or less than 26 per cent. of their population in rural settlements and larger market towns;

v. Large Urban: districts with either 50,000 people or 50 per cent. of their population in one of 17 urban areas with a population between 250,000 and 750,000;

vi. Major Urban: districts with either 100,000 people or 50 per cent. of their population in urban areas with a population of more than 750,000.

Table 2: Percentage of working-age adults living in low income households in England, by LA classification (2005-06)

| | Before housing costs | After housing costs |
|---|---|---|
| Rural R80 | 12 | 16 |
| Rural R50 | 11 | 15 |
| Significant Rural | 12 | 16 |
| Other Urban | 13 | 18 |
| Large Urban | 16 | 21 |
| Major Urban | 16 | 22 |

Notes:
1. Estimates are based on three-year averages. 2005-06 uses data for 2003-04, 2004-05 and 2005-06.
2. Low income is defined as households with an income of below 60 per cent. of the median income for the United Kingdom.

Seas and Oceans: Nature Conservation

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether he has (a) set up and (b) planned a marine protected area trial; and if he will make a statement. [188595]

Jonathan Shaw: We are committed to designating an ecologically coherent network of well-managed protected areas by 2012, and are currently developing plans to achieve this. Marine protected area trials are being considered as part of these plans.

Seas and Oceans: Treaty of Lisbon

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) whether, under the provisions of the Lisbon Treaty granting the European Union exclusive competence over the conservation of marine biological resources, the European Union will be able to determine the allocation of quota opportunities within the UK; and if he will make a statement; [189040]

(2) what discussions he has had on the granting of exclusive competence over the conservation of marine biological resources to the European Union with (a) Government colleagues, (b) the devolved administrations, (c) the European Commission, (d) other EU member states and (e) other organisations; and if he will make a statement;. [189041]

(3) what assessment he has made of the effect of the provisions granting the European Union exclusive competence over the conservation of marine biological resources in Article 2B of the Lisbon Treaty on (a) the governance of the UK marine environment, (b) UK fishing policies, (c) the maintenance of the UK's 12 nautical mile limit after 31 December 2012 and (d) the making of policy affecting the marine environment and fisheries; what competences in relation to the marine environment and fisheries will remain within the sole jurisdiction of the UK Government and devolved administrations; what competences in relation to the marine environment and fisheries that are currently shared with the European Union or within the sole jurisdiction of the UK Government and devolved administrations will become the exclusive competence of the European Union; and if he will make a statement. [189042]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 25 February 2008]: The text of the new treaty reflects the extent of current powers under the common fisheries policy and we do not therefore envisage any changes to the various processes concerned. For this reason we have not seen the need to discuss the provision further or re-assess its significance.

Wildlife: Crime

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what response he has made to the recommendations of the Environmental Audit Committee's Twelfth Report of the 2003-04 session on wildlife crime; which recommendations have been implemented; and if he will make a statement. [188604]

Joan Ruddock: The Government's response to the Environmental Audit Committee's report was published on 17 March 2005. It can be found in the 2004-05 Session documents, posted in the publications and records section of the UK Parliament website.

The Government have made good progress in taking forward those of the Committee's 41 recommendations and conclusions which were accepted. As specific details of progress on each of the 41 recommendations may take some time to collate, I will write to the hon. Member separately and place a copy of the information in the House Library.

TREASURY

Child Benefit

Anne Main: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how many families were receiving child tax credit for children who were not resident in the United Kingdom in each of the last five years [189555]

(2) how many families were receiving child benefit for children who were not resident in the United Kingdom in each of the last five years. [189531]

Jane Kennedy: The information requested is not available.

Corporation Tax

Jon Trickett: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the implications of rulings by the European Court of Justice for the Government's ability to set corporate tax levels. [188888]

Jane Kennedy: The rate of corporation tax is a matter for member states.

Customs: Appeals

Mr. Harper: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what percentage of cases appealing the seizure of excise goods by HM Revenue and Customs officers resulted in the restoration of goods to importers in the most recent period for which figures are available. [189884]

Jane Kennedy: Appeals against the legality of seizures are heard by magistrates courts not HMRC.

Departmental Labour Turnover

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many civil servants have voluntarily ceased employment, excluding redundancies, with his Department in each month since May 1997. [189105]

Angela Eagle: The question could be answered only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Marketing

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 4 February 2008, Official Report, column 828W, on departmental marketing, which of his Department's agencies have procured products featuring (a) Government and (b) its own branding in each of the last five years. [189378]

Angela Eagle: All agencies, except for the Debt Management Office, have procured products featuring their own or Government branding in each of the last five years.

A breakdown between Government branding and own branding is not readily available and could be supplied only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 4 February 2008, Official Report, column 828W, on departmental marketing, how much HM Revenue and Customs spent on HM Revenue and Customs branded products in each of the last five years. [189379]

Jane Kennedy: Since the formation of HMRC in April 2005, £99,231 has been spent on branded products. These promotional items are used at a variety of exhibitions and events across the UK. They raise awareness of the HMRC website as a means of providing further information for individuals and businesses about their tax obligations and entitlements.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the salary range is for each pay band of civil servants in his Department. [188807]

Departmental Written Questions

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many and what proportion of parliamentary questions for answer on a named day to his Department received a (a) holding answer and (b) substantive answer on the named day in each year since 2001. [190294]

Angela Eagle: The information requested in respect of each parliamentary Session since 2000-01 is given in the table:

| Session | Named day questions received | Answered substantively on the named day[1] | Proportion answered substantively on the named day (Percentage) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2000-01 | 603 | 380 | 63.0 |
| 2001-02 | 1,653 | 1,210 | 73.2 |
| 2002-03 | 620 | 432 | 69.7 |

| 2007-08[2] | 358 | 183 | 51.1 |

[1] All questions not answered substantively on the named day receive a holding answer. [2] To date.

Excise Duties

Mr. Harper: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what guidance has been issued to HM Revenue and Customs officers in assessing whether goods subject to excise duty are for personal use; [189883]

(2) what circumstances goods subject to excise duties may be seized by HM Revenue and Customs officers where the total amount imported is within the personal allowance. [189885]

Jane Kennedy: For travellers within the EU there are no personal allowances for excise goods. However, minimum indicative quantities are used as one of the criteria in assessing whether goods are for own use, and therefore not liable to UK tax or excise duty. All of the criteria are set down in legislation, and HMRC officers take account of these in assessing whether or not excise goods are for own use.

Travellers entering the UK from a non-EU country are permitted to bring with them limited amounts of excise goods without paying UK tax or duty, provided they are transported by them and are for their own use. Anyone with goods within these limits is assessed using similar criteria to that applied to EU travellers to determine whether the goods are for own use or for a commercial purpose.

HMRC publishes information for travellers in Public Notice 1 ("Travelling to the UK"), copies of which are available at UK ports and airports.

Excise Duties: Alcoholic Drinks

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether he has any plans to (a) increase duty on alcoholic products and (b) link the rates of duty on alcoholic products to the amount of alcohol in the product. [189453]

Angela Eagle: Decisions on alcohol duty rates are made by the Chancellor as part of the Budget process.

Beer and spirits are already taxed in proportion to their alcoholic strength. Wine and cider are taxed according to strength bands as required by EU legislation.

Housing Finance Review

Mr. Betts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer which organisations his Department has met to discuss the Housing Finance Review. [188830]

Angela Eagle: Since mid August the housing finance review team has engaged with around 70 stakeholders involved in different aspects of housing finance. Consultations have covered mortgage lenders, investment banks and investment houses, housing associations, consumer groups, public institutions, overseas experts and academics. Interested parties have also been able submit their views via a dedicated housing finance review web page on the HM Treasury website.

Married Personal Allowance

Anne Main: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate his Department has made of the number of couples receiving married couple's tax allowance where one partner was not resident in the United Kingdom in the latest period for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [189556]

Jane Kennedy: The information requested is not available.

Metronet: Finance

Adam Price: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the value of Barnett consequentials are for the £1.7 billion to be paid to Transport for London to cover the cost of the guarantee with respect to Metronet. [188308]

Yvette Cooper: The Barnett formula applies to changes in the Department's overall DEL provision in the comprehensive spending review and produces block increases for the Welsh Assembly government, which it then allocates to programmes to reflect its own priorities. The Department for Transport has not received any additional provision beyond its CSR settlement in respect of the £1.7 billion for Transport for London.

Minimum Wage: Stockton on Tees

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many families in Stockton South constituency were in receipt of no more than the national minimum wage in the last period for which figures are available. [189327]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 27 February 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking how many families in Stockton South constituency were in receipt of no more than the national minimum wage in the last period for which figures are available. I am replying in her absence. (189327)

The Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings (ASHE) is the principal source of statistics on employees' earnings. The information requested is not available from the ASHE because the survey does not collect details of employees' family circumstances. The Labour Force Survey (LFS) collects information about each individual of participating households and can therefore be used to estimate how many people are in employment. However, the LFS cannot be used to estimate the average earnings for families. This is because the statistics for family units are produced from the LFS household datasets, which do not contain information on earnings within each family unit.

Negative Equity: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate his Department has made of the number of people who have gone into negative equity in each London borough since 2000. [188971]

Angela Eagle: The Government have made no estimate of the number of people who have gone into negative equity in each London borough since 2000. Land Registry data show an average monthly increase in house prices since May 2000 in each London borough of between 0.7 per cent. and 1.0 per cent., reducing the probability that individuals in London boroughs will have experienced negative equity in that period.

Public Expenditure

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he expects to publish the next Long-Term Public Finance Report. [183717]

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he expects the Long Term Public Finance Report for 2007 to be published. [183915]

Yvette Cooper: The Government publish the Long-term Public Finance Report to provide a comprehensive analysis of long-term socio-economic and demographic developments, and their likely impact on the public finances, based on the most up to date information available.

The population projections provided by the Office for National Statistics (ONS) are central to this analysis. Given that ONS did not publish the new population projections until 23 October 2007, after publication of the 2007 pre-Budget report and comprehensive spending review, the next Long-term Public Finance Report will be published once it has been finalised.

Revenue and Customs: Data Protection

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 31 January 2008, Official Report, columns 675-6W, on Revenue and Customs: data protection, how many of the new data guardians will be based in (a) London, (b) Tyne and Wear and (c) elsewhere. [189371]

Jane Kennedy: Since November 2007 each of HMRC's Business Units has appointed a data guardian to strengthen the management of the Department's data assets. 37 have been appointed in all.

The data guardians are appointed on a functional basis covering all areas of HMRC's business and offices throughout the UK. Data guardians are not appointed by reference to a particular geographical area, but it happens that 24 are based in London, two in Tyne and Wear and 11 in other locations.

Royal Botanic Gardens Kew: Public Expenditure

Adam Price: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer on what basis the Barnett formula comparability factor for Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, was changed from 100 per cent. in the 2004 Treasury Statement of Funding to 0 per cent. in the corresponding 2007 statement. [188309]

Yvette Cooper: The Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew currently performs functions which benefit the UK as a whole and it was therefore treated on that basis in the Statement of Funding Policy published in 2007.

Taxation: Gambling

Mr. Betts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what representations he has received on the effective tax rates for (a) bingo and (b) other gaming products. [189824]

Angela Eagle: Treasury Ministers and officials receive representations from a wide range of organisations and individuals in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such representations.

Mr. Betts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what information his Department requests from the gaming industry when calculating effective tax rates for gaming products; [189741]

(2) pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 369W, on taxation: gambling, what method his Department uses to calculate the average effective rates of taxation on (a) bingo, (b) casinos, (c) gaming machines and (d) betting. [189864]

Angela Eagle: Effective tax rates for gambling products are calculated as: total tax divided by the tax base. Total tax is equal to duty receipts, plus net VAT where applicable (bingo and gaming machines), while the tax base is gross profits (stakes minus winnings i.e. net stakes).

Most of the information required to make these calculations is from statutory returns to HMRC (supported by data collected by the Gambling Commission). Any further information required is obtained during consultations, from reports commissioned by the industry or from industry representations (in which case we may ask for further information or clarification).

Taxation: Official Residences

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what guidance HM Revenue and Customs has issued on the tax liability of the use of official ministerial residences for those who (a) are and (b) are not Ministers of the Crown occupying a ministerial residence; and if he will place such guidance in the Library. [189530]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC has not issued any specific guidance on the tax liability in relation to the use of official ministerial residences.

Taxation: Romania

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent assessment he has made of progress on his Department's work with the Romanian Ministry of Finance on Risk Assessment Procedures for the selection of tax audits; and if he will make a statement. [188734]

Jane Kennedy: HM Revenue and Customs submitted a proposal to the Romanian Government on 21 January 2008 to assist the Ministry of Finance with strengthening tax administration reform, including the use of risk-based selection of taxpayers for audits. It is proposed that the work will be delivered jointly with the German Ministry of Finance via the European Union's twinning programme which entitles other member states to also bid for this work. The Romanian Government will decide which member state will be selected following presentations due to take place in Bucharest on 29 February 2008.

Unemployment: Stockton on Tees

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many unemployed people there were in Stockton South constituency in (a) 1997 and (b) 2007. [189328]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 27 February 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking how many unemployed people there were in Stockton South Constituency in (a) 1997 and (b) 2007. I am replying in her absence. (189328).

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) compiles unemployment statistics for Parliamentary Constituency's from the Annual Labour Force Survey and Annual Population Survey following International Labour Organisation (ILO) definitions.

Table 1, attached, show the number of people unemployed, resident in the Stockton South Parliamentary Constituency for the twelve months ending in February 1997 and June 2007.

This estimate is for a subset of the population in a small geographical area, and is based on small sample sizes, and is therefore subject to large margins of uncertainty.

The latest unemployment figures, along with other current and historical labour market indicators for the Stockton South Parliamentary Constituency are available on the Nomis Website at:

https://www.nomisweb.co.uk/reports/lmp/pca/2030941/report.aspx?town=stockton%20south

Working Tax Credit: Stockton-on-Tees

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what proportion of families received the childcare element of the working tax credit in Stockton South constituency in the last year for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [188935]

Jane Kennedy: The most recent estimates of the average number of families with tax credits awards, including those benefiting from the child care element of the working tax credit, by constituency, based on final family circumstances and incomes, are presented in table 3 of the HMRC publication "Child and Working Tax Credits. Finalised Awards. Geographical Analysis 2005-06". This publication is available on the HMRC website at:

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many of his Department's civil servants have been (a) suspended and (b) dismissed for accessing (i) obscene and (ii) other prohibited material on work computers in each of the last five years. [188783]

Mr. Lammy: DIUS was created by Machinery of Government changes in June 2007 from elements of the then Department of Trade and Industry and Department for Education and Skills. As a consequence it has not existed for the period covered in the question.

(a) The information requested does not exist in such a format centrally that the question can be answered fully and accurately, without incurring disproportionate costs.

(b) The Department does not hold the stock records of its agencies, but in the case of its agencies and NDPBs the majority of those products would carry their own agency brand.

Departmental Publicity

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what advertising campaigns his Department has run since its establishment; and what was the (a) date and (b) cost of each. [164504]

Mr. Lammy: The Department is currently undertaking an advertising and promotional campaign to ensure students and parents are aware of the financial support that will be available from April 2008. The campaign was launched on 5 November 2007 and will run through to spring 2008, to meet the information needs at the height of the college application process. £1,707,997 will be spent on advertising.

Departmental Reorganisation

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much has been spent by his Department on (a) signposts, (b) graphic designers, (c) stationery and (d) websites as a result of the reorganisation of the Department for Education and Skills. [166869]

Mr. Lammy: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills was formed on 28 June 2007, following the machinery of Government changes. The Department has spent the following to date as a result of the reorganisation of both the former DFES and DTI (it is not possible to split these costs further):

Mr. Lammy: DIUS was created by Machinery of Government Changes in June 2007 from elements of the then Department of Trade and Industry and Department for Education and Skills. As a consequence it has not existed for the period covered in the question.

However, over the period since June 2007 no staff retired on the grounds of stress-related illness.

Departmental Telephone Services

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what (a) 0800, (b) 0845 and (c) 0870 telephone numbers for the public are used by (i) his Department and (ii) agencies which report to his Department. [186178]

Mr. Lammy: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 21 February 2007, Official Report column 867W.

Dismissal

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many employees of his Department were dismissed in 2007; and what financial payments were made to such employees. [180352]

Mr. Lammy: DIUS was created in June 2007 by the amalgamation of elements from BERR (formerly DTI) and DCSF (formerly DfES). As a consequence it has not existed for the 12 months specified.

However in the Period June 2007 to January 2008, records show that there have been no dismissals.

Higher Education: Admissions

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many first time students (a) aged 21 to 24 and (b) aged 25 and over are expected to commence higher education courses at English institutions in 2008-09, broken down by mode and course of study. [175801]

Bill Rammell: The Government have a target to increase participation in higher education towards 50 per cent. of those aged 18 to 30 with growth of at least a percentage point every two years to the academic year 2010-11. The Government do not make projections of the number of students entering higher education in these specific age bands or by course of study.

Innovation: Education

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what innovations his Department and its predecessors have introduced into the (a) university and (b) further education system since 1997. [166268]

Bill Rammell: The major innovations which my Department and its predecessors have introduced into the higher and further education systems since 1997 have been set out each year in the departmental annual reports (copies of which have been placed in the Library).

For higher education these include the Higher Education Innovation Fund to promote better links between HE and business; funding for the AimHigher programme which promotes outreach in schools and colleges to widen participation; personal support for part-time students for the first time; and the introduction of programmes involving employer co-funding of both HE and FE courses. Our comprehensive programme of reforms is transforming the FE system into the skills powerhouse for the future. The FE sector is now more able to respond to business needs for innovative people and we are embedding innovation in national skills academies.

Mature Students

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many and what percentage of mature students began their course aged (a) 21 to 35, (b) 26 to 30, (c) 31 to 40, (d) 41 to 50, (e) 51 to 60 and (f) over 61 years of age in the most recent period for which figures are available. [183207]

Bill Rammell: The Register of Education and Training Providers has been operating since 1 January 2005. Since that date, the following colleges in England at the addresses listed have been removed from the Register. Colleges are removed from the Register at their own request, for cessation of trading or if they are found to be in breach of Immigration Rules or other compliance criteria. ## Sign Language: Education

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many sign language courses are funded by the Learning and Skills Council; and what the average annual cost is of providing a sign language course place. [175750]

Bill Rammell: There are 25 sign language related courses recorded on the Learning and Skills Council's (LSG) learning aims database.

Based on the LSG individual learner records the following table shows the most popular sign language qualifications with LSG funded learners in 2006-07. Of the nearly 16,000 learners on funded places, the vast majority enrolled on the certificate in British Sign Language.

| Learning aim title | Notional NVQ level of the learning aim: Level 1 and entry | Level 2 | Level 3 | Level 4, 5 or higher | Total |

| Certificate in British Sign Language | 10,845 | 4,621 | 110 | — | 15,576 |

LSC individual learner records (ILR) for 2006-07 academic year (FE ILR F05 2006-07)

The fee charged for a sign language course will vary between colleges and providers, and information on individual courses offered by providers is not held centrally. The fees charged to a learner for a sign language course will be based on the level of funding the college or provider receives from the LSC for that learner, for example whether they are a priority learner. It is therefore not possible to provide an average cost of a sign language course,

The Government continue to provide full fee remission to learners that fall within the national entitlement categories, i.e. where the learner is in receipt of an income-related benefit and studying on an LSC funded course. Learners with learning difficulties and/or disabilities are also a priority for Government funding. The national fee assumption for adult learners who are required to contribute to their learning is 32.5 per cent. for 2006-07 with the public purse meeting the remainder of the costs of the course.

Skilled Workers

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps he has taken to improve the skills base in his Department in the last 12 months. [180354]

Mr. Lammy: DIUS was created in June 2007 by the amalgamation of elements from BERR (formerly DTI) and DCSF (formerly DfES). As a consequence it has not existed for the 12 months specified.

Both DTI and DfES; prior to the creation of DIUS had established processes and policies for the development of skills. These involved a range of training, education and coaching activities which were aimed at individual employees and team.

During the period June 2007 to January 2008 any previously planned and commenced activities have continued to take place, providing a continuity of support for individuals and teams who transferred from both prior departments. The Department is currently undertaking skills audits to ascertain development needs going forward.

Students: Loans

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what discussions he has had with the Student Loans Company on the comprehensibility of the bursary consent statement on the PN1 student finance application form. [188040]

Bill Rammell: The Student Loans Company (SLC) is responsible for producing the student loans application forms and guidance. In previous years, the application form has proactively sought the student's consent to share financial information with their HE institution. The SLC share this information with HE Institutions registered with the Higher Education Bursary Scholarship System, so that entitlement to a bursary can be assessed. The Office for Fair Access monitoring shows 12,000 students on full state support have declined to give consent so failing to collect their bursaries, DIUS ministers and officials have therefore worked closely with the SLC to improve the bursary consent arrangements on the 2008-09 student finance application form The introduction of an opt-out clause, giving both the student and their sponsor an opportunity to opt out of consenting for their personal information to be shared with universities for bursary purposes, should increase the numbers of students assessed for and receiving bursaries. Clear guidance states that a decision to opt out of sharing data with universities does not affect entitlement to other forms of student support.

Vocational Education

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many students studied in work-based learning in each of the last 10 years. [172270]

Bill Rammell: Figures for those participating in work based learning (WBL) funded by the learning and Skills Council (LSC) can be derived from the individualised learner record (ILR).

The following table shows the number of learners participating in WBL since 2001/02, the first time that a figure for the total number of learners in WBL during the academic year was published by the LSC. Train to Gain (TTG), a national service to support employers to improve the skills of their employees, was launched in April 2006.

Figures are included in the table for the last two years.

| | Number of learners in: WBL | TTG[1] |
|---|---|---|
| 2001/02 | 503.9 | n/a |
| 2002/03 | 521.3 | n/a |
| 2003/04 | 535.9 | n/a |

| | Number of learners in | |
|---|---|---|
| | WBL | TTG[1] |
| 2004/05 | 519.5 | n/a |
| 2005/06 | 489.1 | 27.3 |
| 2006/07 | 463.9 | 169.4 |

[1] Prior to the launch of TTG, the Employer Trainee Pilots (ETP) programme operated but data from ETP are not available on a comparable basis.

HOME DEPARTMENT

101 Calls

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the reasons were for not continuing with the 101 non-emergency phone pilot. [186431]

Mr. McNulty: The Government recognises the benefits that have been demonstrated by the 101 single-non emergency number service in the initial live areas, but it is vital that we target our resources to those areas which will have the greatest impact and which will contribute most to the protection of the public and security of the country. It is on this basis and in the context of significant pressures on resources and competing policing and security priorities, that it was decided not to continue to fund centrally the ongoing operation and roll out of the 101 service.

However, the Home Office will continue to provide funding for the national 101 infrastructure and will be making the learning and good practice from 101 available, to help enable and encourage local areas to embed the benefits in local services and to develop locally funded 101 services where possible. I welcome the work currently being taken forward to this effect by the Greater London Assembly together with London Councils, individual boroughs and the Metropolitan police in their plans to pilot the 101 service locally.

Alcoholic Drinks: Staffordshire

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people were arrested for offences related to alcohol consumption in (a) Tamworth constituency and (b) Staffordshire in each of the last four years. [187859]

Mr. Coaker: The data requested are not available centrally. The arrests collection undertaken by the Ministry of Justice provides data on persons arrested for recorded crime (notifiable offences), by age group, gender, ethnicity, and main offence group, i.e. violence against the person, sexual offences, robbery, burglary, etc. More detailed data about specific offences do not form part of this collection.

Crimes of Violence: Jews

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many violent attacks on Jewish people have taken place in each of the last five years. [187445]

Mr. Coaker: The information requested is not available centrally.

The Home Office collects statistics on the number of racially or religiously aggravated offences recorded and detected by the police. It is not possible to separately identify those offences of a specific religious nature from those of a specific racial nature.

Departmental Accountancy

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which budget lines in her Department are subject to regular in-year reporting to HM Treasury; and with what frequency such reporting takes place. [189335]

Mr. Byrne: Along with all Government Departments the Home Office reports its year to date spend and full year forecast spend, against the departmental budget as detailed in the supply estimates, to HM Treasury on a monthly basis.

Departmental Legislation

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which Acts for which her Department is responsible passed before 2002 contain provisions which have not been brought into force. [188314]

Mr. McNulty: The information requested could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

However, as regards legislation passed between 1 May 1997 and 1 January 2002 for which the Home Office is currently responsible, the following provisions have not yet been brought into force:

Immigration and Asylum Act 1999, sections 16,17 and 117(5)

Anti-Terrorism, Crime and Security Act 2001, section 78

Criminal Justice and Police Act 2001, sections 78(7), 80(4) and Schedule 7, paragraph 6 (in part)

Private Security Industry Act 2001, section 17

Vehicle (Crime) Act 2001, sections 8, 34, 35, 36 and the Schedule paragraphs 1 and 2

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether any of her Department's special advisers also work for organisations outside her Department. [178488]

Mr. Byrne: Special advisers are appointed under terms and conditions set out in the "Model Contract" and "Conduct for Special Advisers", copies of which are in the Library of the House.

Departmental Official Residences

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many Ministerial residences were available to her Department's Ministers in each of the last 10 years. [183182]

Mr. Byrne: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given by my hon. Friend the Parliamentary Secretary for the Cabinet Office (Mr. Watson) on 19 February 2008, Official Report, column 688W.

Departmental Security

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will list the (a) special advisers and (b) Ministerial appointees in possession of a security pass enabling access to her Department's main building in the month prior to the prorogation of Parliament for the 2005 general election. [182195]

Mr. Byrne: It is established practice not to provide details on pass access to government buildings for security reasons.

Domestic Violence

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average waiting time is for admission to an integrated domestic abuse perpetrator programme in each police authority area. [188954]

Maria Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

I refer the hon. Member to my answer of 26 February 2008, Official Report, columns 1492-94W.

The integrated domestic abuse programme is delivered by 34 probation areas in England and Wales. The remaining eight probation areas (Cheshire, Cumbria, Durham, Lancashire, Merseyside, Northumbria, Teesside and Thames Valley) deliver the community domestic violence programme.

Honours

Mr. Pope: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many members of the senior civil service in her Department have received an honour. [187125]

Mr. Byrne: The Home Office does not have records of those staff who were awarded an honour before they joined the Department or for achievements unrelated to official duties.

Eight senior civil servants in the Home Office (including the Home Office Headquarters, Border and Immigration Agency, Criminal Records Bureau, and the Identity and Passport Service) have received an honour since the new year honours list published at the end of December 2002, beginning of 2003.

Five remain in the Department, one is currently on secondment to an outside organisation, and two have transferred to the Ministry of Justice following the Machinery of Government changes in May 2007.

Four hold a Companion of the Order of the Bath, three hold a Commander of the Order of the British Empire, and one holds an Officer of the Order of the British Empire.

Human Trafficking: Eastern Europe

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent discussions she has had with her counterparts in (a) Ukraine, (b) Belarus and (c) Moldova on the combating of illegal migration and human trafficking. [189180]

Mr. Byrne [holding answer 26 February 2008]: I have not recently held discussions with my counterparts in Ukraine, Belarus or Moldova on illegal migration or human trafficking. However, the UK supported the EU Council conclusions of June 2007 which extended the EU-wide global approach to migration strategy to countries to the east and south east of Europe, including those listed. As part of the implementation of this strategy, the UK has provided some financial support to two EU-funded projects in the Ukraine which are building the capacity of the Government of the Ukraine to manage migration and offer in-region protection to refugees.

Immigration: Rural Areas

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of levels of immigration to rural communities in England of people from countries which acceded to the EU in (a) 2004 and (b) 2007. [188600]

Mr. Byrne: The Border and Immigration Agency (BIA) provides information on both nationals of countries acceding to the European Union in 2004 who have registered with the Worker Registration Scheme (WRS) and Bulgarian and Romanian nationals taking employment in the United Kingdom since those countries joined the EU in 2007. These data are published quarterly in two separate reports: the Accession Monitoring Report and Bulgarian and Romanian Accession statistics, both of which include regional and sector breakdowns.

A further breakdown of the WRS figures by local authority (based on employer's address) is available for local authorities.

The most recent publications, relating to the last quarter of 2007, were published on 26 February 2008 and are available on the Border and Immigration website:

http://www.ind.homeoffice.gov.uk/aboutus/reports/

I will make copies available in the House Library.

The data in these publications are based on Management Information, are provisional, and may be subject to change. The data are not National Statistics.

Independent Police Complaints Commission

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many complaints the Independent Police Complaints Commission has (a) received, (b) investigated and (c) upheld in each of the last 10 years, broken down by police force against which complaints were made. [189139]

Mr. McNulty: Responsibility for the collation and publication of complaints against the police rests with the Independent Police Complaints Commission.

Merseyside Police: Modernisation

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answers of 25 February 2008, Official Report, column 2252W, on Merseyside Police: modernisation, whether the restructuring of the personnel, finance, marketing and audit staff of Merseyside Police has been notified to her by the Chief Constable of Merseyside Police. [188610]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 22 February 2008]: Merseyside police have commissioned a review of support functions which has yet to conclude. Decisions on such a review are a matter for the chief constable in consultation with the Merseyside police authority.

Opium: Crops

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 19 February 2008, Official Report, columns 585-6W, on opium: crops, what tonnage of opium crop was produced from each location in each year. [189725]

Mr. Coaker: Information on the tonnage of opium crop produced at each location each year is not available. Details of the total annual of crop produced each year are held, as follows:

| | Total crop grown (tonnes) |
|---|---|
| 2001 | [1] |
| 2002 | c. 136 |
| 2003 | c. 700 |
| 2004 | c. 1,050 |
| 2005 | c. 830 |
| 2006 | c. 480 |
| 2007 | c. 3,900 |

[1] No crop—research only.

Passengers: Personal Records

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what role she expects passenger name record data to play within the Government's e-Borders programme. [188652]

Mr. Byrne: Passenger name record data are included within the Other Passenger Information (OPI) which will be electronically collected from carriers for a sub-set of passenger journeys. The data will be used by the Agencies (e-Borders is a joint project, led by the Border and Immigration Agency in partnership with HM Revenue and Customs, UKvisas and the police service, working with the security and intelligence agencies) to perform risk assessments of the passengers prior to their entry to the UK.

This analysis will, in the first instance, use automated rules based systems. Where a potential match is identified trained officers will undertake a final assessment before issuing an alert to the relevant agency. It is expected that carriers will be required to provide these data initially 24-48 hours in advance of departure to facilitate advanced risk assessments to be made.

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what information will be included within the category of other passenger information within the Government's e-Borders programme. [188642]

Mr. Byrne: e-Borders intends to capture reservations information that is available from travel industry booking systems. Details of the other passenger information to be collected are detailed in the Immigration and Police (Passenger and Service Information) Order 2008 which was laid before Parliament on 10 January 2008.

The duty to share this information (Immigration, Asylum and Nationality Act 2006 (Duty to Share Information and Disclosure of Information for Security Purposes) Order 2008) was passed by the House of Commons on 19 February and will be debated in the other House on 25 February.

Passports: Interviews

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much her Department and its agencies have spent on interpreters and translators for use in passport interview centres since interviews commenced. [181665]

Meg Hillier: Since interviews for first time passport applicants commenced in July 2007, the Identity and Passport Service has spent £106,108 on interpreters and translators for use in passport interview centres.

Police Authorities: Westminster

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which (a) police authority area, (b) police force area and (c) criminal justice area each Westminster parliamentary constituency is in for reporting purposes. [188514]

Mr. McNulty: With the exception of the seat of the Cities of London and Westminster, all constituencies in England and Wales will be in co-terminal police areas, police authority areas and criminal justice areas, which will have the same name. For example, the seat of Epsom and Ewell is within the Surrey police area, the Surrey police authority area and the Surrey criminal justice area.

The seat of the Cities of London and Westminster is unique as it shares two police areas and two police authority areas, namely the Metropolitan area and that of the City of London. It falls within the London criminal justice area.

I have placed in the House Library a full list of the police area, police authority area and the criminal justice area of each constituency in England and Wales.

Police: Bureaucracy

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what her policy is on reducing administrative burdens on the police; and if she will make a statement. [186903]

Mr. McNulty: I refer the hon. Member to the statement given by my right hon. Friend, the Home Secretary, on 7 February 2008, Official Report, columns 1440-51, relating to Sir Ronnie Flanagan's Independent Review of Policing, published on Thursday 7 February 2008. The report details a number of recommendations on tackling bureaucracy in policing, and forms a major programme of work designed specifically to free up operational police officers to spend more time on front line duty. This programme will be taken forward by the Home Office, the National Policing Improvement Agency, the Association of Chief Police Officers and the wider criminal justice system community.

Police: Cheshire

Helen Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) police officers and (b) police community support officers were employed in (i) Cheshire and (ii) Warrington in each year since 1997. [189487]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 26 February 2008]: Warrington was a Basic Command Unit (BCU) of Cheshire police up to March 2005. From April 2005, the Cheshire police BCUs were consolidated from six (Chester and Ellesmere Port, Congleton and Vale Royal, Crewe, Halton, Macclesfield and Warrington) to three (Eastern, Northern and Western). Therefore from April 2005 onwards Warrington falls within the Northern Area BCU of Cheshire police.

The available data are given in the following tables.

Police strength[1] (FTE)[2] within Cheshire police force area as at 31 March 1997 to 31 March 2007

| As at 31 March: | Police officers[3] | PCSOs[4] |
|---|---|---|
| 1997 | 2,046 | — |
| 1998 | 2,042 | — |
| 1999 | 2,071 | — |
| 2000 | 2,011 | — |
| 2001 | 2,002 | — |
| 2002 | 2,059 | — |

| 2005 | 2,186 | 52 |
| 2006 | 2,174 | 75 |

[1] This table contains full-time equivalent figures that have been rounded to the nearest whole number. Because of rounding, there may be an apparent discrepancy between totals and the sums of the constituent items.
[2] For police officers only, full-time equivalent excludes those on career breaks or maternity/paternity leave. For police community support officers only, full-time equivalent includes those on career breaks or maternity/paternity leave.
[3] For police officers only. Comparable strength (excludes those on career breaks, or maternity/paternity leave). The Police Numbers Task Force (2001) recommended that a clear presentation was made of the numbers of staff employed by police forces including those seconded into the force and those on any type of long or short term absence. These new calculations were first used in 2003, and are not comparable with data prior to March 2003. The police officered data from 2003 onwards used here are termed comparable because they have been calculated on the old basis to allow comparison.
[4] Police community support officers were introduced in statute in 2002, therefore data is not available prior to 2002-03.

Police strength[1] (FTE)[2] within Warrington basic command unit of Cheshire police as at 31 March 2003 to 31 March 2005[3]

| As at 31 March: | Police officers | PCSOs[4] |
|---|---|---|
| 2003 | 318 | — |
| 2004 | 318 | — |
| 2005 | 333 | — |

[1] This table contains full-time equivalent figures that have been rounded to the nearest whole number. Because of rounding, there may be an apparent discrepancy between totals and the sums of the constituent items.
[2] Full-time equivalent includes those on career breaks or maternity/paternity leave.
[3] Data have been collected at the basic command unit level from 2002-03 onwards. Warrington BCU existed up to March 2005.
[4] PCSO data have been collected at the basic command unit level from 2006-07 onwards.

Police strength[1] (FTE)[2] within Northern area basic command unit of Cheshire police as at 31 March 2006 to 31 March 2007[3]

| As at 31 March: | Police officers | PCSOs[4] |
|---|---|---|
| 2007 | 513 | 79 |

[1] This table contains full-time equivalent figures that have been rounded to the nearest whole number. Because of rounding, there may be an apparent discrepancy between totals and the sums of the constituent items.
[2] Full-time equivalent includes those on career breaks or maternity/paternity leave.
[3] Data have been collected at the basic command unit level from 2002-03 onwards. Northern area BCU existed from April 2005.
[4] PCSO data have been collected at the basic command unit level from 2006-07 onwards. However, the Home Office Police Human Resources Unit carried out two separate collections of police community support officer data, and as at 30 June 2005 there were 46 PCSOs, and as at 30 June 2006 there were 44.

Police: Information and Communications Technology

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will make a statement on the way in which funds for technology have been allocated to police forces in England and Wales. [180150]

Mr. McNulty: Police forces in England and Wales have been allocated £220 million in Capital Grant and Supported Capital Expenditure in 2008-09. The Home Office is responsible for allocating funding to police areas as a whole.

Local investment and technological development in police information and communications technology is a matter determined by individual chief officers and their police authorities. It is a matter for the chief officer to determine the allocation of resources within the force, in accordance with both the local policing plan and day to day operational demands.

The National Policing Improvement Agency was created in order to provide a single central source of advice for forces and the wider policing community across a wide range of policing issues, including police technology. It is responsible for the operation and development of national policing systems on behalf of the UK police service. The NPIA 2007-08 budget to run and develop national policing systems allows for gross capital and resource expenditure in the region of £129 million and £290 million respectively.

Police: Recruitment

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the (a) target for and (b) number of police officers recruited in England and Wales was in each of the last five years. [187856]

Mr. McNulty: The information is as follows:

(a) It is a matter for individual chief constables, in consultation with police authorities, to determine the number of police officers that are recruited to their local police force.

| | 2002-03 | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 |
| England and Wales | 7,457 | 10,867 | 8,058 | 6,549 | 6,531 |

[1] Recruits include those officers joining as police standard direct recruits and those who were previously special constables. This excludes police officers on transfers from other forces and those rejoining.
[2] Financial year runs 1 April to 31 March inclusive. Comparable data are not available prior to 2002-03.
[3] Full-time equivalent figures that have been rounded to the nearest whole number. Because of rounding, there may be an apparent discrepancy between totals and the sums of the constituent items.

Police: Road Traffic

Mr. Willis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what powers police forces in England and Wales have to control and manage traffic on (a) trunk roads and (b) local roads. [188722]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 25 February 2008]: The police have powers on all roads to stop and direct traffic and to remove vehicles that are illegally, dangerously or obstructively parked or broken down or abandoned. They have a range of other powers connected with the enforcement of road traffic legislation. These powers are contained primarily in the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, the Road Traffic Act 1988 and the Road Traffic Offenders Act 1988.

Rape

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many incidents of rape were reported to the police in (a) 2005, (b) 2006 and (c) 2007. [188569]

Mr. Coaker: The requested information is given in the table. Since 1997, recorded crime statistics have been published on a financial year basis, therefore available figures have been provided for 2004-05, 2005-06 and 2006-07.

Number of rape offences recorded by the police in England and Wales from 2004-05 to 2006-07

| Financial year | Rape of a female | Rape of a male | Total rape |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2004-05[1] | 12,869 | 1,144 | 14,013 |
| 2005-06 | 13,327 | 1,116 | 14,443 |
| 2006-07 | 12,630 | 1,150 | 13,780 |

[1] The Sexual Offences Act 2003 introduced in May 2004 altered the definition and coverage of sexual offences.

Security: Aviation

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what role she expects registered traveller programmes to play in the UK's airline security requirements. [188646]

Jim Fitzpatrick: I have been asked to reply.

As indicated in my reply to the hon. Member's question about the Department's discussions with the Home Office in this area (UIN 188645 today), the regulatory regime for transport protective security does not include registered traveller programmes. The Government have no plans to change that position.

Serious Organised Crime Agency: Performance Standards

Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will take steps to establish a performance target for the Serious and Organised Crime Agency relating to the seizure of Class A drugs. [188497]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 22 February 2008]: Setting a target relating to the seizure of Class A drugs would risk creating perverse incentives by encouraging the pursuit of seizures at the expense of a focus on the criminal networks and markets doing the most harm. We believe that the performance of SOCA is better measured on the basis of the quality of understanding of serious organised crime; the amounts of criminal assets recovered; evidence that criminals are finding the UK a less attractive market; and the quality of SOCA's relationships with others. SOCA reports against these measures in its annual reports.

Terrorism: Arrests

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people arrested under (a) the Terrorism Act 2000, (b) the Anti-Terrorism, Crime and Security Act 2001, (c) the Prevention of Terrorism Act 2005 and (d) the Terrorism Act 2006 since 20 January 2004 have been held for (i) one to 12 days, (ii) 13 to 14 days, (iii) 15 to 26 days and (iv) 27 to 28 days. [184743]

Mr. McNulty: The power of arrest in section 41 of the Terrorism Act 2000 allows police to arrest a person upon reasonable suspicion of being a "terrorist", which is defined in section 40. It also allows arrests to be made at an earlier stage than if there was a requirement for suspicion of a specific offence. There is no power of arrest under any of the other Acts mentioned.

Information on the number of individuals held in pre-charge detention under terrorism legislation is not broken down in this way. The latest figures available are for individuals held for 14 to 28 days and are provided in the following table. To date, 11 individuals have been held for over 14 days in pre-charge detention.

The following table provides a breakdown of these numbers.

Pre-charge detention

| Period of detention | Number of persons held | Charged | Released without charge |
|---|---|---|---|
| 14-15 days | 1 | 1 | — |
| 18 -19 days | 1 | 1 | — |
| 19-20 days | 3 | 3 | — |
| 27-28 days | 6 | 3 | 3 |

Terrorism: Orders and Regulations

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what (a) statutory instruments, (b) departmental circulars and (c) other documents she (i) has issued and (ii) plans to issue in the next 12 months consequential to the provisions of counter-terrorism legislation passed since 2001. [167429]

Mr. McNulty: The Department has published 40 statutory instruments regarding the provisions of counter-terrorism legislation since 2001. A list of the statutory instruments follows. Copies can be found on the Office for Public Sector Information website:

www.opsi.gov.uk

13 departmental circulars regarding the provisions of counter-terrorism legislation have been issued since 2001. A list follows. Departmental circulars from 2003 onwards are available on the Home Office website:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/about-us/publications/home-office-circulars/?version=2

Since 2001, the Department has produced numerous documents regarding the provisions of counter-terrorism legislation. There is no central database of the documents and to provide them would incur disproportionate costs. Information on the government's counter-terrorism legislation can be found on the Home Office website:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/security

We continue to keep our counter terrorism legislation under review and the Counter-Terrorism Bill was introduced to Parliament on 24 January 2008.

Wildlife: Crime

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many wildlife crimes were reported in each year since 1997, broken down by police force; and if she will make a statement. [188575]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office collects crime statistics on specific offences recorded by the police. All indictable and triable-either-way offences are included together with certain closely associated summary offences.

At present there are five wildlife offences included in the recorded crime statistics because they are triable-either-way offences. These are:

Carrying out an operation likely to damage part of an area of special scientific interest

Impersonating a wildlife inspector

Introduction of a new species

Importation of products of animal origin

Import and export of animals and animal products

However, these offences are included in the "Other" offence classification and cannot be separately identified from all the other offences that are recorded under this heading.

Written Questions: Government Responses

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will give a substantive reply to Question 185046, tabled by the hon. [1] The Insolvency Trade Classification (ITC) was used to classify trading-related bankruptcies (and company liquidations) until end September 2006. However, only the period from January to June 2006 is provided because of the way the data are held.

Notes:

1. Figures for 2007 are not yet available for London boroughs.
2. Classifying bankrupts into geographic areas is done using the postcode that the bankrupt individual provides. The use of this in assigning an individual to a borough is thus as reliable as the postcode information provided, which is subject to an element of missing or unusable data. Nationally, this has been decreasing from around 12 per cent. in 2000 to 4 per cent. in 2006.
3. Figures for England and Wales provided here for comparative purposes are not consistent with published annual totals for the reasons given above.

Departmental Accountancy

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the answer of 24 January 2008, Official Report, column 2187W, on departmental accountancy, what measure of inflation is used in uprating concessionary fuel payments. [185260]

Mr. Thomas: Concessionary fuel payments are linked to different RPIs: cash in lieu increases are linked to the fuel and light RPI index (the increase is applied from October onwards). Coal prices are linked to the solid fuel index.

However, RPI increases are not included 'in the forecast' of concessionary fuel provisions.

Departmental ICT

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the (a) start date, (b) original planned completion date, (c) current expected completion date, (d) planned cost and (e) current estimated cost is for each information technology project being undertaken by his Department and its agencies; and if he will make a statement. [180563]

Mr. Thomas: The information is as follows:

Notes:

1. The draft answer refers to the core BERR Department only. The agencies will provide their own responses.
2. The increased costs of e-HR relate to:

(a) Increases in scope;

(b) Implementation delays through MOG changes and gaining agreement on configuration and customisation. The system will be used by core BERR, INSS, UKIPO and NWML.

Letter from Gareth Jones, dated 27 February 2008:

I am responding on behalf of Companies House to your recently tabled Parliamentary Question to the Secretary of State for Business Enterprise and Regulatory Reform.

Please find in the attached appendix the details you requested regarding IT projects currently being undertaken within Companies House.

The CHIPS programme is a highly complex bespoke development, which has been custom designed and built, to replace the existing bespoke application that supports the Companies Register.

The project, initially contracted out, was brought in house in February 2004. The original planned completion date for the in-house development was August 2006, but this date changed subsequently and I have detailed revised plans for your information.

Impairment reviews in the last two financial years have led to a write down in value of £12.1m. This represents the value of all contractual work undertaken on behalf of Companies House on the project prior to February 2005.

Employment

Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which 10 job classifications have shown the greatest (a) growth and (b) decline in employment in (i) the United Kingdom and (ii) Nottingham North constituency since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [188513]

Angela Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 27 February 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question on the ten job classifications which have shown the greatest (a) growth (b) decline in employment in (i) the United Kingdom and (ii) Nottingham North constituency since 1997. I am replying in her absence. (188513)

The Office for National Statistics compiles employment statistics for local areas from the Annual Population Survey (APS) following International Labour Organisation definitions.

Table 1 attached provides estimates of total employment for people resident in the. UK and in the Nottingham North Parliamentary constituency, by occupation. The figures provided are for the twelve months ending February 2002 and for the latest period, the twelve months ending March 2007. The source data used is the APS, using Standard Occupational Classification 2000 (SOC2000), The twenty-five occupational classifications are ranked according to the largest positive change in Nottingham North. Data prior to 2002 are classified using Standard Occupational Classification 1990 (SOC90). Consequently it is not possible to provide a consistent time series for the period requested.

Since these estimates are for a subset of the population in a small geographical area, they are based on small sample sizes, and are therefore subject to large margins of uncertainty. In this case, for the Nottingham North, the sample sizes are not sufficient to give accurate estimates in all instances.

Flexible Working: Carers

Helen Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what information his Department holds on levels of take-up of the right to request flexible working by those with caring responsibilities. [188991]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 25 February 2008]: BERR have conducted four surveys of flexible working which collected data specifically on employees with caring responsibility. These are the second and third Work-Life Balance Employee Surveys, and the first and second Flexible Working Employee Surveys. Reports on these surveys can be downloaded or ordered from the BERR website:

www.berr.gov.uk/publications/index.html

The most recent figures, from the 2006 Third Work Life Balance Employee Survey, estimate that 64 per cent. of employees with caring responsibilities for adults either said they were currently working flexibly, or had done so in the last 12 months. This compares with 56 per cent. of all employees.

Industrial Health and Safety

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what discussions he has had with the (a) Secretary of State for Work and Pensions and (b) Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster on the co-ordination of Government policy on health and safety at work and the role of the Better Regulation Task Force in such co-ordination. [186411]

Mr. McFadden: Government policy on health and safety at work is a matter for DWP's Health and Safety Commission and Health and Safety Executive.

The Better Regulation Task Force no longer exists. The Better Regulation Executive was created in 2005. On 28 June 2007, the Better Regulation Executive moved from the Cabinet Office to form part of the Department of Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform.

Last July, the Better Regulation Executive, with support from the Health and Safety Executive, launched a review to consider how the health and safety regime impacts on businesses whose overall risk is relatively low, focusing in particular on low risk smaller businesses.

The review is not considering the co-ordination of Government policy on health and safety at work and the role of Better Regulation Executive in such co-ordination. The review is due to report in spring.

National Secretariat of the Regional Development Agencies

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many staff are employed by the National Secretariat of the Regional Development Agencies for England; what the National Secretariat's office expenditure was in each of the last five years; and what its total staffing cost was in the last year for which figures are available. [188900]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 25 February 2008]: The Secretariat of England's regional development agencies currently employs six full-time and one part-time staff. Its annual expenditure in each of the last five years is shown in the following table, split into staffing costs, office costs, and other costs where the information is available.

| | Staffing costs | Office costs | Other costs | Total annual cost |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2002-03[1] | n/a | n/a | n/a | 253 |
| 2003-04[2] | [3]82 | [3]55 | [3]18 | 457 |
| 2004-05 | 238 | 87 | 180 | 505 |
| 2005-06 | 257 | 102 | 252 | 611 |
| 2006-07 | 345 | 109 | 227 | 682 |

[1] 2002-03: The Secretariat was administered by and located in Advantage West Midlands. The information requested is not held centrally and can be provided only at disproportionate cost.
[2] 2003-04: The Secretariat was administered by three RDAs in this period and records are in archive. The information requested is not held centrally and can be provided only at disproportionate cost. During this period, the Secretariat shifted from a purely secretarial function in Birmingham to a more 'shared services'/co-ordinating function in London.

Phoenix Consortium: Rover Group

Peter Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what progress has been made in the investigation of the affairs of Phoenix Venture Holdings Ltd, MG Rover Limited and related companies under section 432 of the Companies Act 1985; and what the reasons are for the length of the investigation. [188663]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 25 February 2008]: The investigation is ongoing. The inspectors, who are independent of BERR, are seeking to complete the report as quickly as possible, with due regard for the fairness of the process and the thoroughness of the task. It would not otherwise be appropriate to comment on the details of a current investigation or to speculate on when it might be completed.

Post Offices: Closures

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many letters his Department has received from (a) members of the public and (b) hon. Members and Members of the House of Lords on the subject of post office closures, broken down by region. [187231]

Mr. McFadden: The information is not available in the format requested.

Adam Afriyie: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment his Department has made of the impact on the local area of the proposed closure of the (a) Springfield road and (b) Winkfield post offices in Windsor constituency. [189415]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 26 February 2008]: The Government require Post Office Ltd., in drawing up its proposals for post office closures, to take account of geographical factors and consider a range of local socio-economic factors including the impact on local economies and availability of public transport to access alternative service provision.

Assessment of the impact of the proposed closure of specific individual post offices is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd., with input from Postwatch, in developing its area plan proposals and consulting locally on them.

Post Offices: Reorganisation

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what estimates his Department has made of the number of people that will reside more than three miles away from a post office following the restructuring of the Post Office branch network, broken down by region of residency. [189103]

Mr. McFadden: The Government have set national access criteria to ensure that post office services continue to be available across the country. These include criteria requiring that, nationally, at least 99 per cent. of the UK population are within three miles of their nearest post office outlet, and that at least 95 per cent. of the total rural population of the UK are within three miles of their nearest post office outlet.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many post offices within Vale of York constituency will be within three miles by road of another post office following the proposed restructuring of the network. [189863]

Mr. McFadden: This is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd. (POL). I have therefore asked Alan Cook, Managing Director of POL, to reply direct to the hon. Member.

Copies of the letter will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Regional Development Agencies: Travel

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much each regional development agency spent on (a) travel agency services, (b) travel within the UK and (c) overseas travel in each of the last five years. [182786]

Mr. McFadden: The tables shows how much each RDA spent on travel agency services, travel within the UK and overseas travel in each of the last five years.

Temporary Employment: Conditions of Employment

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what measures the Department has introduced to protect the employment rights of agency workers; and what plans he has to introduce further such measures. [187415]

Mr. McFadden: Agency Workers are already entitled to employment rights such as the national minimum wage and working time entitlements such as paid annual leave, and new regulations to protect vulnerable agency workers will come into force on 6 April 2008.

The Employment Bill will also give greater investigative powers to Agency Inspectors, increase the potential level of fines for breaching the regulations and reform the current system of dispute resolution at work.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Children: Care Homes

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will take steps to make Ofsted inspection reports on children's homes available on the Ofsted website. [184396]

Kevin Brennan [holding answer 4 February 2008]: There is currently no duty on the Chief Inspector for Education, Children's Services and Skills to publish any inspection reports on the internet. However, the reports of all social care inspections, with the exception of children's homes, are available on the website of the Chief Inspector and Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted). Reports relating to children's homes are excluded to ensure that inappropriate individuals cannot access the addresses of children's homes and that individual children within those homes cannot be identified.

While the existing legislative framework does not prevent the publication of children's homes reports, the National Care Standards Commission (Registration) Regulations 2001, as amended, currently prohibit the Chief Inspector from publishing that part of her register which includes the address of a children's home. Therefore, when a children's homes report is requested, a copy of a redacted report—which excludes the address of the home is made available. The Chief Inspector will shortly be launching a consultation to take account of the views of children, service providers and local authorities as to whether children's homes reports should be published on the Ofsted website. We will consider what steps to take, if any, when the findings of that consultation become available.

Children: Homicide

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will commission an independent inquiry into the circumstances leading up to the death of Jessica Randall. [188711]

Kevin Brennan: Jessica Randall died tragically, just 54 days old, on 21 November 2005 at the hands of her father who was subsequently jailed for life in March 2007. On 13 February 2008 Northamptonshire Local Safeguarding Children Board published the Executive Summary of a Serious Case Review (SGR) into Jessica Randall's death. It found that those procedures which were designed to protect Jessica were never activated, and that the outcome for her might have been different had the various indicators and signs noticed by agencies been acted upon. Every child death is a tragedy and Jessica's particularly so. I do not see, however, any reason at this time for an independent inquiry. The perpetrator of Jessica's murder has been jailed for life and local services have accepted unreservedly the serious case review's conclusions and are committed to implementing the changes necessary to better protect children in the future. That is the best way forward to ensure the lessons of Jessica's short life are fully learnt.

Christmas

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what his Department's policy is on the selection of (a) real and (b) artificial Christmas trees for his Department's festive decorations; and how real trees are disposed of. [173533]

Kevin Brennan: A 10ft fully decorated tree was hired for our Head Office building in London and was taken away after the festive season to be shredded and recycled. The three remaining buildings occupied by the Department all used existing artificial trees.

Departmental Carbon Emissions

Mr. Kemp: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps he has taken to reduce his Department's carbon dioxide emissions in 2008-09. [181843]

Kevin Brennan: To continue to reduce carbon dioxide emissions in 2008-09 my Department has taken the following steps:

Findings from Carbon Trust energy surveys on our headquarters buildings have been adopted and are being actioned within my Department's environmental management system;

An ongoing major refurbishment project in our London headquarters building is expected to generate significant reductions in energy use through adoption of new ways of working and energy conserving lighting;

Launching and delivering an internal communications campaign to raise awareness on sustainability issues, highlight successes and initiate activities so leading to a more careful use of scarce resources.

Departmental Consultants

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what consultancy contracts his Department issued in each year since 2005; what the (a) value, (b) purpose and (c) contractor was in each case; and whether the consultant's report is publicly available in each case. [181890]

Kevin Brennan: Information on all consultancy contracts issued by the Department since 2005, their value, purpose, contractor details and whether the consultant's report is publicly available could only be provided at disproportionate cost

Departmental Marketing

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many posters or displays there are in the offices of his Department and its agencies displaying the names and photographs of Ministers; and how much was spent by his Department and its predecessor on producing such posters or displays in the last five years. [179916]

Kevin Brennan: The Department has two displays containing the names and photographs of the ministerial team at its head office in Sanctuary Buildings. These photographs have been updated at a total cost of £2038.

There are no posters dedicated to this information, although Ministers are included secondarily on a general organisation chart.

Records are not held centrally for any expenditure made by agencies to display this information.

Departmental Public Relations

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many external contracts his Department held with public relations companies since its inception; and what the total cost of those contracts was. [183192]

Kevin Brennan: The information provided relates to both the Department for Children, Schools and Families and the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills, which were formed following the machinery of government changes in June 2007. It is not possible to provide separate costs for each Department during 2007-08 except at disproportionate cost.

Both Departments employ public relations agencies for specific communications tasks, most commonly working alongside our press offices to provide campaign support in local, regional and specialist media companies. They have used such agencies for 15 campaigns at a cost of £1.085 million since June 2007. These figures include contracts placed by both Departments using a framework agreement and by the Central Office of Information (COI) on our behalf.

Departmental Recycling

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what recycling schemes are in operation in each building operated by his Department. [176377]

Kevin Brennan: The Department manages the following recycling initiatives as a co-ordinated scheme throughout all its headquarters buildings:

Redundant furniture and electronic equipment (that cannot be re-used) is sent for recycling by third parties;

Waste from food production and consumption (where it can be separated and is in sufficient volume) is sent for recycling;

Our Department's print suppliers are required to use the Dft Recycled Printing Papers framework, all paper used for printing publications must be recycled and the paper from any publications sent for disposal is recycled for use by participants of the DfT Printing Papers framework;

External contractors provide the safe collection and recycling of a variety of materials e.g., paper, cardboard, plastic cups and cans, glass, toner cartridges, plastic bottles, batteries, light bulbs and tubes;

All waste is constantly monitored, to identify further potential areas for recycling;

Green waste from grounds maintenance is sent for recycling by our contractors; and

Waste at our Sheffield office that cannot be reclaimed or re-used is sent to be turned into steam for heating and bought back .for use in the Sheffield building.

We also manage the following re-use and reclaim schemes that count as part of our performance on recycling for departmental returns:

Surplus furniture and electronic equipment is reclaimed for reuse within the Department itself or sent for re-use by third parties;

Surplus mobile phones are collected and donated for sale by charities to re-use;

Electronic noticeboards are available to advertise surplus office materials and so minimise the need for ordering further Items and potentially increasing wastage;

As part of office moves, contacts are encouraged to use the electronic noticeboard when preparing to disperse surplus and redundant materials to other teams; and

Staff are encouraged to use suitable paper waste as scrap pads.

In the Department's Sustainable Development in Government return for 2005/06 we were pleased to report 43 per cent. of our waste recycled and the 2010 target already met The Department's return for 2006/07 is due for publication by the Sustainable Development Commission soon.

Disabled

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which buildings occupied by his Department (a) are and (b) are not fully accessible to people with disabilities; and if he will make a statement. [163953]

Kevin Brennan: The Department has made assessments of access to their premises and of the need for reasonable adjustment.

Of the five buildings occupied by the Department five are considered to be fully accessible to disabled people.

Educational Visits

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps the Government have taken to encourage schools to make school trips (a) affordable by and (b) available to all pupils. [188538]

Jim Knight: Through the manifesto for Learning Outside the Classroom, we are encouraging schools, local authorities and visit providers, to sign up to the vision that > "every young person (0-19) should experience the world beyond the classroom as an essential part of learning and personal development, whatever their age, ability or circumstances".

Almost 900 have already done so.

Through our manifesto partners and other channels we are promoting the personal and educational benefits of learning outside the classroom to schools and parents. The 'Out and About package' of guidance, practical tools, resources and training modules for schools will be published in the summer term.

With the new secondary curriculum being introduced from this September, we are emphasising the importance of relevant practical experiences as part of subject teaching.

Not all learning outside the classroom incurs a financial cost, for example, many schools use their grounds and local area. When schools do go further afield, for example on day visits, they are not permitted to charge pupils if these visits are wholly or mainly during school time, or are linked to the curriculum or external examination courses, although they may request a contribution towards costs.

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what estimate he has made of the percentage of A-level geography students who had the opportunity to participate in a half-day field trip in the school year ended 1997; [189162]

(2) what estimate he has made of the percentage of A-level geography students who did not have the opportunity to conduct course related field-work in the school year ended 1997; [189163]

(3) what estimate he has made of the percentage of A-level geography students who had the opportunity to participate in a course related field trip in the school year ended 1997; [189164]

(4) what estimate he has made of the percentage of GCSE geography students who had the opportunity to participate in a course related field trip in the school year ended 1997; [189165]

(5) what estimate he has made of the percentage of A-level biology students who had the opportunity to participate in a half-day field trip in the school year ending 1997; [189174]

(6) what estimate he has made of the percentage of A-level biology students who did not have the opportunity to conduct course-related field-work in the school year ending 1997; [189175]

(7) what estimate he has made of the percentage of A-level biology students who had the opportunity to participate in a course-related field-trip in the school year ending 1997; [189176]

(8) what estimate he has made of the percentage of GCSE science students who took a course-related residential field trip in the school year ending 1997; [189177]

(9) what estimate he has made of the percentage of GCSE science students who had the opportunity to participate in a course-related field trip in the school year ending 1997; [189178]

(10) what proportion of (a) A-level and (b) GCSE (i) geography, (ii) sciences and (iii) biology students were offered the opportunity to participate in a course-related (A) field trip and (B) half-day field trip in the school year (1) 1994-95, (2) 1995-96 and (3) 1997-98. [189206]

Jim Knight [holding answer 26 February 2008]: The Department for Children, Schools and Families does not collect this information broken down by subject and qualification.

I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 21 February 2008, Official Report, column 853W.

Health Education: Sex

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what research his Department (a) has commissioned, (b) plans to commission and (c) has evaluated on the effectiveness of the teaching of sex education in schools; and if he will make a statement. [189029]

Kevin Brennan: The Department has not commissioned research on the teaching of sex education in schools. However, as part of the Children's Plan we have given a commitment to review best practice in effective sex and relationship education (SRE) and how it is delivered in schools. We have listened to young people and recognise that many feel that they do not currently have the knowledge they need to make safe and responsible choices about relationships and sexual health. We will involve young people fully in the review to make sure that future SRE better meets their needs.

Playgrounds: Capital Investment

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much capital funding was allocated to playground development in (a) Stockton South constituency, (b) Teesside and (c) England in each year since 1997. [188932]

Beverley Hughes: The Government do not collect statistics on or otherwise monitor how much capital is spent on playgrounds by local authorities. We do not separately identify individual capital grants that finance capital expenditure. Only the total used to finance expenditure in a year is collected;

In the Children's Plan, we recently announced £190 million capital funding to be spent on open-access, free play environments. Every local authority in England will receive funding by 2010-11: In addition, local authorities already receive substantial funding to support maintenance of public space. BIG Lottery has just invested £124 million to 2010-11 to support play in local authorities.

Pupils: Per Capita Costs

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 20 February 2008, Official Report, column 770W, on pupils: per capita costs, what the (a) current and (b) planned per capita costs are for students in Wirral. [189726]

Jim Knight: The current per capita Dedicated Schools Grant guaranteed unit of funding is £3,765, and the guaranteed units of funding for 2008-09, 2009-10 and 2010-11 are £3,937, £4,089 and £4,269 respectively. The Dedicated Schools Grant is purely revenue funding and does not include any capital allocation. In addition to the Dedicated Schools Grant, there are other revenue grants for the period 2008 to 2011 that support the schools budget whose allocations have not yet been finalised and which are not reflected in the answer.

The capital element of allocations, included in the four figures in the following chart, can vary greatly from year to year. This is because capital grants are based on need as well as on pupil numbers, and form part of an expanding capital programme. Capital expenditure at local authority level may occur in a different year to the year of allocation, as it is dependent on a local authority's capital planning arrangements.

School Day

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what information is available to his Department on the average duration of lunch breaks in maintained schools; [188980]

(2) what estimate his Department has made of the average length of the lunch-break in (a) secondary schools and (b) primary schools in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [188979]

Kevin Brennan: The Department does not collect information on the average length of the school lunch break. Schools are required by law to hold two sessions per day during a school term, with a break in between. But it is for schools to decide how long that break should be. We are aware that some schools have reduced the length of the lunch break for a variety of reasons. But we are also aware that having insufficient time to eat lunch can put pupils off taking a school lunch. That is why my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families wrote to schools last year asking them to consider their lunchtime arrangements as a means of improving school lunch take-up. As part of its Million Meals campaign to improve school lunch take-up, the School Food Trust is also working closely with schools to improve lunchtime arrangements, including ensuring that pupils have sufficient time to eat their meal.

Schools: Procurement

Mr. Benyon: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the effects on costs has been of the introduction of the Online Procurement for Educational Needs system; and what the target savings were. [186974] to rigorously test the system for reliability, appropriateness, ease of use, and integration with schools' financial management systems;

Kevin Brennan: The aim of the OPEN pathfinder was:

to ascertain the user-opinion from a small number of schools using OPEN to determine if it should be made more widely available for schools across England; and to engage with suppliers to understand functionality and user needs from their perspective when trading with schools, and encourage signup to OPEN.

In order for a greater number of transactions to take place, a greater number of schools' suppliers also need to be available on OPEN for them to transact with. As this was a pathfinder, limited resources were available to engage with the educational supplier marketplace and effort was concentrate on those suppliers nominated by schools that they usually traded with in the first instance.

As such, no savings target was set for the pathfinder phase.

At present savings are only made in the form of transactional savings, i.e. the amount of time being saved by schools' purchasers compared to that where a 'traditional' transaction (their usual method of purchasing) would have taken place. The process of developing the methodology for savings made on the price of goods being purchased is still under development.

Due to the limited number of suppliers on OPEN during this pathfinder phase, the Department expected rates would be lower than could be reasonably expected with full take-up by both schools and suppliers.

For the period 15 March 2007 to 31 January 2008

| From the processing of orders (630 orders x £3.50) | 2,205 |
| From the processing of requisitions (367 requisitions x £21.00) | 7,707 |

| Total transactional savings | 10,117 |

Schools: Sports

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 23 October 2007, Official Report, column 216W, on schools: sport, (1) what the duties of a sports co-ordinator for schools are; [189364]

(2) what the average annual salary of a sports co-ordinator is in the current financial year. [189363]

Kevin Brennan: School sport co-ordinators (SSCos) are existing secondary school teachers released from teaching for two days per week. They are responsible for the co-ordination and development of after school activity, out of school hours learning, intra school competition and local community links in their own school and partner primary/special schools. Their specific duties will vary according to local circumstances.

As part of a School Sport Partnership's grant, £2,000 is allocated for each SSCo in the partnership. The grant also allocates £13,000 (£14,500 in London) for teacher cover to backfill the teacher release. 16 per cent. on costs are added to these amounts. How School Sport Partnerships deploy their funds is a local decision.

Shropshire

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the value was of each grant provided by his Department, its associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies to (a) Shrewsbury and Atcham Borough Council, (b) Shropshire County Council and (c) Telford and the Wrekin Borough Council in (i) 2006-07 and (ii) 2007-08; and what grants have been planned for 2008-09. [184106]

Kevin Brennan: The Department does not make grant payments to Shrewsbury and Atcham borough council. However it does make payments to Shropshire county council and Telford and Wrekin borough council which provide children, schools and families services. The information on capital and revenue allocations made by the Department to both councils is set out in the tables.

Information on grants provided by the Department's agencies and non-departmental public bodies is held by the bodies themselves. This information is not held centrally.

Students: Forced Marriage

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will issue guidance to schools and colleges to ensure that advice and support is available for students who might be the subject of (a) forced and (b) arranged marriages. [189115]

Kevin Brennan: A forced marriage is a marriage conducted without the full consent of both parties and where duress is a factor. It is a human rights abuse and is not sanctioned by any culture or religion. In an arranged marriage both parties consent of their own free will, and so arranged marriages are legal. We have encouraged schools through guidance to make available information about helplines and access to support for students who might be the subject of forced marriage. Following recent concerns that information was not being provided to students, my Department is looking into this issue, jointly with the Forced Marriage Unit. We will report back to the House in March.

Youth Services

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the targeted youth support pathfinders set out in the Respect Action Plan. [167542]

Beverley Hughes: Evaluation started in October 2006 and will continue until September 2008. Findings from the interim report (due to be published at the end of November) suggest early benefits from the pathfinders: at a strategic level improved multi-agency working and better engagement of practitioners and schools has been perceived.

At an operational level there are reports of raised profile of services, collective ownership and a better understanding of the holistic needs of young people. Practitioners report early gains such as more tailored, coordinated support for those below the statutory thresholds, and therefore earlier intervention.

Evaluation is at too early a stage to provide robust information about the impact on young people. These findings will emerge during the course of next year.

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department and its predecessor has taken to develop youth and community facilities for children over the age of 11 years (a) nationally and (b) in West Lancashire constituency in the last five years. [189794]

Beverley Hughes: The Government do not collect specific information on youth and community facilities as responsibility for these rests with local authorities.

However, Government are committed to investing in facilities for young people. 'Aiming high for young people: a ten year strategy for positive activities', which was published in July 2006, announced the launch of a new programme of capital investment based on the reinvestment of unclaimed assets from dormant bank accounts and £60 million of new DCSF funding. Our ambition is that this will lead to new and improved youth facilities in every constituency over the next 10 years.

The Children's Plan subsequently announced a further £160 million of DCSF investment over the next two years to support this ambition.

In addition a total of £115 million over two years (2006-08) has been made available through the Youth Opportunity Fund (YOF) and the Youth Capital Fund (YCF), to fund activities and improve facilities for young people in their neighbourhood. The two funds which are designed to work in tandem and are spent at young people's discretion are allocated through local authorities. The YCF can be used to provide new or improving existing facilities and equipment. This investment will continue over the next three years up to 2011.

Lancashire local authority has a combined YOF/YCF allocation of £1,226,929 (YOF £657,899/YCF £569,030).

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Aceh: Earthquakes

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the earthquake in Indonesia's western province of Aceh. [189608]

Meg Munn: Indonesia sits along a volatile seismic strip called the 'Ring of Fire' in the Pacific. The possibility of volcanic eruptions, earthquakes and tsunamis is ever present. An earthquake measuring 7.5 on the Richter scale struck undersea near Aceh Province on 20 February. The community which recorded the strongest tremor is reported to be Meulaboh, Aceh. Five people were killed, 52 seriously injured and many buildings were damaged. Our embassy in Jakarta continues to monitor the situation, but reports no British casualties.

In addition, a further earthquake measuring 7.2 on the Richter scale struck off the Indonesian island of Sumatra on 25 February. The Indonesian authorities report that there does not appear to be any visible damage. In both cases, tsunami warnings were issued but later lifted. Again, our embassy in Jakarta continues to monitor the situation.

British Indian Ocean Territory: Diego Garcia

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many British Indian Ocean Territory officials are based in Diego Garcia; what access they have to US military commanders; and to whom they report. [189825]

Meg Munn: Commander British Forces (CBF) British Indian Ocean Territory (BIOT) is the UK authority on Diego Garcia, leading a team of currently 42 military personnel. CBF BIOT is responsible for the conduct of UK civil and military activity reporting to the BIOT Commissioner in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and to the Chief of Joint Operations at Northwood, respectively. CBF has daily and routine access to the United States Commanding Officer on Diego Garcia.

Climate Change: Finance

Colin Challen: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the levels of additional climate change mitigation expenditure made by other countries to date intended to meet the target of one per cent of global gross domestic product recommended by the Stern Review. [188294]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office is pursuing an extensive programme of engagement with the UK's international partners to build the necessary political will to reduce global carbon emissions levels and secure the commitment of Governments in key countries to ensuring that high quality climate change mitigation work is undertaken.

Departmental Property

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what property has been lost or stolen from his Department since 1997; and what the cost of replacement was. [187463]

Meg Munn: This information is not held centrally. To compile it would be disproportionately costly.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what proportion of his Department's translation and interpreting work is outsourced through framework agreements with commercial providers; and if he will make a statement. [189193]

Mr. Jim Murphy: None of the translation work undertaken by the Translation and Interpreting Unit, Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) Services is outsourced through a framework agreement.

Translation work which cannot be handled by our in-house team of translators is outsourced to a panel of individual freelance translators with whom the FCO has had a long and successful working relationship.

Decisions on outsourcing translation assignments are based on a combination of quality and price, therefore ensuring value for money.

Departmental Travel

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much his Department spent on travel (a) within and (b) outside the UK for officials in each of the last 10 years; and what percentage of his Department's overall expenditure was spent on such travel in each such year. [181523]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The amount spent by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office on UK and overseas travel in each of the last 10 years is provided in the following table.

| | Overseas travel | | UK travel | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Financial year | Spend (£ million) | Percentage of total[1] | Spend (£ million) | Percentage of total[1] |
| 1997-98 | 30.1 | — | 0.9 | — |
| 1998-99 | 29.8 | — | 0.8 | — |
| 1999-2000 | 35.0 | 2.98 | 1.0 | 0.09 |

| 2005-06 | 45.8 | 2.43 | 2.0 | 0.11 |
| 2006-07 | 53.6 | 2.80 | 2.4 | 0.13 |

The expenditure is shown as a percentage of the Department's net resource outturn, as given in the departmental resource accounts published for each year.

The figures include the costs of duty travel, for officials based in the UK and overseas, and the costs of travel for UK based staff and their families on their arrival at and departure from post, as well as leave journeys undertaken whilst at post.

The recent increase in expenditure can be attributed in part to the increased number of staff based in posts in Iraq and Afghanistan, where the costs of travel out of the country are high. Another contributory factor is that some travel payments which were formerly paid as allowances to staff are now paid from the travel budget. It is not possible to provide further detail without incurring disproportionate cost.

Diego Garcia: Military Bases

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations he has received from the Government of Mauritius on (a) the use of Diego Garcia and (b) the future military use of the Chagos Islands. [189820]

Meg Munn: The Prime Minister of Mauritius, Dr. Navinchandra Ramgoolam, last raised the issue of sovereignty of the British Indian Ocean Territory with my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister in the margins of the Commonwealth Heads of Government meeting in Kampala in November 2007. The Government have no doubt about their sovereignty over the British Indian Ocean Territory, but my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister agreed to establish a dialogue between the Mauritian high commission in London and officials at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office on issues relating to the British Indian Ocean Territory.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions (a) his Department and (b) British Indian Ocean Territory officials have had with the US on the future military use of Diego Garcia and the Chagos archipelago. [189821]

Meg Munn: Officials from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, including the British Indian Ocean Territory Commissioner and Administrator, and the Ministry of Defence hold annual talks with their United States counter-parts to discuss issues surrounding Diego Garcia and the outer islands. Officials also have regular contact with the United States on an ad hoc basis as needed.

Diego Garcia: Rendition

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when his US counterparts first told him of the use of Diego Garcia for rendition flights; and what steps he took in response. [189822]

Dr. Howells: As set out in my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary's statement to the House on 21 February 2008, Official Report, columns 547-48, UK officials were informed of this development on 15 February. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has asked officials to compile a list of all the flights where we have been alerted to concerns regarding rendition through the UK or our Overseas Territories. Once this is ready we will be sending this list to the US and seeking their specific assurance that none of these flights were used for rendition purposes. He has also asked officials to continue to work through, with their US counterparts, the details and implications of this information.

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which (a) individuals and (b) organisations have expressed concern to his Department at the use of Diego Garcia for rendition flights since 2002; what steps he took in response to their comments; and what responses were provided. [189823]

Dr. Howells: As set out in my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary's Statement to the House on 21 February, Official Report, columns 547-548, he has asked officials in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) to compile a list of all the flights where we have been alerted to concerns regarding rendition through the UK or our overseas territories. In this context we will be reviewing correspondence to Ministers on these issues, including from hon. Members, non-governmental organisations and members of the public. In responding to such concerns in the past, the FCO has made reference to explicit assurances by the US that detainees had not been and would not be held or transported via Diego Garcia.

Diplomatic Service: Official Cars

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will give guidance to UK consulates on the procurement of UK-built cars for ambassadors and staff. [189606]

Meg Munn: The procurement of vehicles for the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) is based on achieving value for money, normally by competition and in a manner that conforms with appropriate UK regulations and EU directives. Within that approach, we prefer British missions abroad to buy British cars for heads of posts, where they are readily available and represent value for money.

Currently, the FCO's preferred suppliers for vehicles, used by its heads of posts, are Jaguar for saloon cars and Land or Range Rover where four wheel drive capability is essential. This arrangement is supported by central contracts with those companies, which have been negotiated against strict value for money criteria. Posts which consider that there are overriding reasons on either value for money, security or maintenance grounds not to purchase flag cars manufactured by our preferred suppliers must submit a detailed case for ministerial approval.

Pool cars for day to day operational use by staff at posts are sourced locally on the basis of value for money taking into account the full cost of ownership, including local maintenance and spares issues.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will place in the Library a list of cars used by UK ambassadors and staff; and how many of the cars were built in the UK. [189607]

Meg Munn: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) in the UK operates 20 cars, these are used by FCO Services staff in both the Hanslope Park fleet operations area and by London car service/London external messengers operating from King Charles street, details are as follows:

12 Fords manufactured in Portugal;

1 Rover manufactured in the UK;

1 Toyota manufactured in the UK; and

6 Vauxhalls manufactured in Germany and Spain.

Since the acquisition of vehicles in the overseas fleet is the responsibility of the individual posts, and detailed records are not held centrally, it would incur disproportionate cost to collate the information requested by my hon. Friend. We are, however, aware of 381 Land Rovers operated by FCO posts overseas, and all of these vehicles have been manufactured in the UK.

Electronic Surveillance

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what national and international bodies based in the UK are authorised to conduct covert electronic surveillance of UK residents. [188213]

David Miliband: The Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000 (RIPA) sets out those public bodies that can be authorised to undertake covert surveillance activity covered by that Act. Schedule 1 to RIPA, as amended, lists all bodies who can apply for direct surveillance.

Iraq

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what information coalition forces have about the blowing up by insurgents on 8 February 2008 of the power station supplying water to Ashraf City and the surrounding Iraqi population; and what relief action was taken by coalition forces. [188392]

Dr. Howells: On 6 February 2008 terrorists blew up one of the two water pumps supplying water to Ashraf City. The second pump was not affected. Coalition forces are actively working with the local council to fix the damaged water pump.

Maldives: Diplomatic Service

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on how many occasions and for how many days UK diplomatic staff based in Sri Lanka but accredited to the Republic of the Maldives have stayed in the Maldives over the last 12 months. [188460]

Dr. Howells: British officials based in our high commission in Colombo, but accredited to the Republic of the Maldives, made 12 official visits to the Maldives in 2007, totalling 34 days. In January 2008 they visited Maldives twice for a total of four days. The Foreign and Commonwealth Office does not keep records of private visits.

Maldives: Elections

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what contribution the UK plans to make to observer missions to the Maldives to monitor elections there. [188215]

Dr. Howells: The UK intends either to join international observation missions as short term observers, or to provide an independent field presence as we did during the August 2007 referendum campaign.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on how many occasions UK diplomatic staff have met leaders of opposition parties in Maldives (a) on social occasions and (b) for formal meetings; and if he will make a statement. [188459]

Dr. Howells: British officials based in our high commission in Colombo, but accredited to the Republic of the Maldives, have met formally with the three official opposition parties, the Maldivian Democratic Party (MDP), the Islamic Democratic Party and the Adallath (Justice) Party, and two unofficial opposition groups, the New Maldives Movement and Social Liberal Party, at a senior level at least once in the last 12 months. Officials frequently meet with the MDP either in Colombo or the Maldives. Officials are in regular contact with opposition politicians.

The Foreign and Commonwealth Office does not keep records of social contacts with Maldivian politicians.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will take steps with the Commonwealth Secretary General and other Commonwealth countries to deploy election observers in the Republic of the Maldives in advance of the election planned for October 2008. [188461]

Dr. Howells: The Government of the Maldives has formally invited the Secretary-General of the Commonwealth to deploy observers. The Secretariat is planning to send an assessment mission to the Maldives over the summer to explore options for the feasibility, scope and form of such an observer mission. The Foreign and Commonwealth Office has discussed the possibility of deploying UK election observers with the Commonwealth Secretariat.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the United Kingdom's representative to the Republic of the Maldives has made representations to the Government of the Republic of the Maldives following the arrest of members of the opposition party, the MDP, on the Dhidoo atoll on 18 February 2008; and if he will make a statement. [188472]

Dr. Howells: The UK has not made specific representations to the Government of the Maldives on this issue. We maintain regular contact with the Maldivian Government and key stakeholders in the Maldives.

Maldives: Human Rights

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Government of the Maldives on the practice of charging people with offences without then prosecuting; and if he will make a statement. [188197]

Dr. Howells: The UK has not made specific representations to the Government of the Maldives on the practice of individuals being charged but not prosecuted. British officials based in our high commission in Colombo, and accredited to the Republic of the Maldives, have however made several representations on the issue of politically motivated arrests and prosecutions. Most notably these representations helped to lead to the negotiations between the Government of Maldives and the main opposition party in 2006 and the release of most political prisoners.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the observance of human rights in the Republic of the Maldives; and what representations the UK Government have made to the Government of the Republic of the Maldives on human rights over the past two years. [188457]

Dr. Howells: The human rights situation in Maldives has improved in recent years. The Foreign and Commonwealth Office has concerns about some criminal investigations by the police which appear politically motivated, the treatment of detainees, the use of corporal punishment and inconsistent sentencing policy. Freedom for the media and political activists has improved noticeably over the last two years, but concerns remain. The first multi-party elections, scheduled for later in 2008, will be the first real test for these developments.

The transition to a multi-party democracy is the best basis for continued improvement. When my noble Friend the Minister for Africa, Asia and the UN, the right hon. Lord Malloch-Brown, met President Gayoom of Maldives in July 2007, he underlined the need to keep the reform process on track and the importance of this year's elections being free, fair, inclusive and supported by the Maldivian people.

Nuclear Disarmament

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make it his policy to maintain staff numbers at the multilateral arms control and disarmament office of the UK permanent mission to the conference on disarmament in Geneva during the period of the UK presidency of the conference on disarmament, and in the lead-up to the 2010 review conference of the nuclear non-proliferation treaty; and if he will make a statement. [188357]

Dr. Howells: The number of staff at the multilateral arms control and disarmament office of the UK permanent mission to the conference on disarmament in Geneva will be increased by one official this summer. The staffing requirements will be kept under regular review during the period of the UK presidency of the conference on disarmament and in the lead-up to the 2010 review conference of the nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what responses he has received to his speech to the conference on disarmament in Geneva on 5 February setting out United Kingdom disarmament commitments. [189565]

Des Browne: I have been asked to reply.

My speech to the conference on disarmament re-emphasised the UK commitment to furthering the multilateral nuclear disarmament agenda, in line with our NPT Article VI obligations. It has been widely welcomed.

Papua: Human Rights

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the human rights situation in West Papua; what recent diplomatic steps he has taken on that issue; and if he will make a statement. [188343]

Meg Munn: Indonesia has undergone a remarkable transformation over the last 10 years. Overall the human rights situation has improved significantly. Nevertheless, we recognise that many challenges remain and we continue to hear reports of human rights abuses in Papua. Many of these are difficult to verify but there do appear to be problems with access to justice and intimidation of human rights defenders.

We judge that the Indonesian Government is committed to promoting development efforts in Papua and further improvements in the human rights situation. We welcome their increasing openness to international scrutiny, as evidenced by their invitations to the UN Special Representative on Human Rights Defenders, Hina Jilani, in June 2007 and Professor Manfred Nowak, UN Special Rapporteur on Torture, in November 2007, to visit Papua.

Our embassy in Jakarta follows the situation in Papua closely and embassy officials were in Papua most recently from 15 to 20 February. While there, they held discussions with local officials, non-governmental organisations and representatives of religious organisations, on a range of issues, including human rights. We continue to support organisations working to promote human rights in Papua, such as Peace Brigades International.

I met the Governor of Papua, Barnabus Suebo, on 25 October 2007. We discussed the situation in Papua, including human rights. We will continue to raise our concerns with the relevant authorities.

Services Trading Fund

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the basis is for the Government's position that the proposed FCO Services Trading Fund will be financially viable. [188324]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has assessed FCO Services' business projections, which have been deliberately built on cautious assumptions. To protect FCO Services' cash flow in the early years as a Trading Fund the FCO will make a short-term working capital loan of £10 million, repayable with interest over the first five years of trading. The FCO is content that FCO Services is not being burdened with excessive debt at start up.

FCO Services income from the FCO over the next few years is expected to be in the region of 80 – 90 per cent. of the total volume of FCO Services business.

Ministers have agreed a five year corporate plan for FCO Services and will agree its business plan on an annual basis. FCO Services Executive and Non-Executive Directors review performance throughout the year. In addition, FCO Services has in place corporate risk assessment processes, in line with best practice, which its Audit Committee oversees.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will ensure that the proposed FCO Services Trading Fund is not sold into private ownership. [188325]

Meg Munn: There are no plans to privatise Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) Services. We have set up the Trading Fund on the basis that it gives the right combination of overall FCO control and reliability of supply, coupled with commercial disciplines and freedoms for FCO Services.

FCO Services has developed a comprehensive five year corporate plan, agreed with Ministers, to direct its future business activities which includes maintaining a strong, long-term strategic partnership with the FCO, delivering services at best value for money and guaranteeing the supply of business-critical services to the FCO.

South Africa: Chemical and Biological Warfare

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what Government-sponsored collaboration there is between UK (a) scientists and (b) public servants and their counterparts working on Project Coast in South Africa. [186458]

Dr. Howells: There was no Government-sponsored collaboration between UK scientists or public servants and Project Coast in South Africa. However, in the course of their normal duties, including attendance at international conferences, some Government officials and scientists did have contact with South African counterparts who were subsequently identified as having worked on Project Coast. When allegations of UK assistance to Project Coast emerged, full investigations were held. These found no evidence to suggest UK Government officials knowingly provided assistance to any South African Chemical and Biological Weapons Programme.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on the Government's involvement with South Africa's Project Coast. [186459]

Dr. Howells: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply I gave him on 16 January 2006, Official Report, columns 985-86W.

Vietnam: UN Security Council

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make a statement on Vietnam's position as a non-permanent member of the United Nations Security Council. [189609]

Meg Munn: Vietnam was elected on to the UN Security Council as a non-permanent member for the period of 2008-09. The UK works with all members of the UN Security Council to ensure that the body is effective in tackling threats to international peace and security.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions he has had with the Vietnamese Government on its role on the UN Security Council, with particular reference to that country's relations with China. [189610]

Meg Munn: The UK works closely with all members of the UN Security Council to ensure the body is effective in tackling threats to international peace and security. Officials in New York and London have held meetings with officials of newly elected members, including Vietnam, to explore how we can work together on the Council. A Vietnamese ministerial team, lead by Vice-Minister Le Van Bang, visited the UK on 29-30 November 2007. The Vice-Minister had meetings with me and Whitehall officials on various issues before the Council, including Burma, counter-terrorism and counter-proliferation.

Work Permits

Mr. Lilley: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the implications of the judgment in the case of Regina (Payir and others) v. Secretary of State for the Home Department (Case C-294/06 in the Court of Justice of the European Communities) for the provision of work permits by the UK under EU association agreements with (a) Turkey and (b) other countries; and if he will make a statement. [189319]

Mr. Byrne [holding answer 26 February 2008]: I have been asked to reply.

The Government are carefully considering the outcome of the judgment in the case of Payir and Ozturk (Case C-294/06). Our initial assessment indicates that the judgment will have no direct effect on the issue of work permits to Turkish nationals.

Other international agreements do not have the same provisions as the EU-Turkey agreement.

JUSTICE

Administration of Justice: Complaints

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many complaints about the judiciary in (a) Essex and (b) England and Wales were received by his Department and its predecessors in each of the last five years; how much it cost to investigate each complaint; what the budget for 2007-08 is for investigating such complaints; what legislation governs complaints against the judiciary; what amendments have been made to this legislation since its enactment; what recent representations he has received on this matter; and if he will make a statement. [189009]

Mr. Straw: With regard to the number of complaints about the judiciary in England and Wales received in the last five years, I would refer the hon. Member to my written answer of 31 January 2008, Official Report, column 568W, to the same question asked by the hon. Member for Bexleyheath and Crayford (Mr. Evennett). Recording of complaints is not categorised by geographical area, I regret therefore I cannot provide information on the number of complaints for Essex.

My Department does not currently hold information on the cost of investigating individual complaints over this period. The budget for the Office for Judicial Complaints for 2007-08 is £1,141,305.16. I am encouraging the OJC to improve its data. The OJC is moving towards a system of unit costs for the forthcoming financial year, which will provide an indicative figure for the cost of each investigation for 2008-09.

The relevant legislation governing handling of complaints against members of the judiciary is: sections 108 to 121 of the Constitutional Reform Act 2005; the Judicial Discipline (Prescribed Procedures) Regulations 2006, which are made under section 115 of the Constitutional Reform Act 2005; and the Judicial Complaints (Tribunals) Rules 2006 and 'the system for handling magistrates conduct, pastoral and training matters', which are both made under section 117 of the Constitutional Reform Act 2005.

No amendments have been made to this legislation since its implementation, but a Review of the Judicial Discipline Regulations 2006 is currently in progress.

I have not received any recent representations about the overall system for handling judicial complaints, but I do from time to time receive letters from hon. Members which forward individual complaints about judicial office holders from their constituents, or which seek information about the handling of a constituent's complaint. Any complaint about a judicial office holder forwarded to me by an hon. Member is dealt with according to the provisions of the Judicial Discipline Regulations 2006.

Crime: Pregnant Women

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will bring forward legislation to enable unborn children to be treated as separate victims in criminal cases; what recent representations he has received about the issue; and if he will make a statement. [189010]

Maria Eagle: It is not necessary to change the law so that unborn children may be treated as separate victims. Under section 58 of the Offences against the Person Act 1861 it is an offence to act to procure a miscarriage (subject to the Abortion Act 1967). And under the Infant Life (Preservation) Act 1929, it is an offence for any person intentionally to destroy the life of a child capable of being born alive. Injury to a foetus, if proved, is likely to be treated in law as an injury to the mother and prosecutable under the Offences Against the Person Act 1861. The loss of an unborn child may also be taken into account as an aggravating factor in sentencing any person convicted of killing or harming the mother.

We have received correspondence on this issue from relatives of a murder victim who was pregnant at the time of her death; and a petition with 910 signatures following the death of an unborn child as the result of a road traffic accident.

Debt Collection

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will implement (a) the certification procedures for bailiffs and (b) the taking control of goods provisions of the Tribunals, Courts and Enforcement Act 2007; and if he will make a statement. [188633]

Maria Eagle: My Department remains committed to implementing (a) the certification procedures for bailiffs and (b) the taking control of goods contained in the Tribunals, Courts and Enforcement Act 2007.

To implement these provisions, underpinning rules and regulations will be required. A scoping exercise has now commenced to determine the development of these with the results informing the timetable for consultation and implementation. We expect this timetable to be completed by May 2008.

Departmental Public Participation

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many consultations undertaken by private contractors his Department commissioned in the last 12 months; who carried them out; and what the cost was of each. [188356]

Maria Eagle: In the last 12 months my Ministry has not commissioned private contractors to carry out any consultations in their entirety. However, private contractors, including third sector organisations, have carried out certain aspects of a number of consultations for the Ministry of Justice. Details are in the following table.

| Name of consultation(s) | Name of private contractor | What they have been commissioned to do | Cost (£) |
|---|---|---|---|
| MoJ Third Sector Strategy: Improving policies and securing better Public services through effective Partnerships (and NOMS Third Sector Strategy) | Sand Resources Ltd | 35 days' consultancy work, contracted to draft MoJ consultation paper, help analyse responses and help produce final strategy paper. Also contracted to help analyse responses to NOMS Third Sector Action Plan and help develop final NOMS Action Plan | 35,000 |
| Draft Coroners Bill—reporting restriction provisions | Opinion Leader Research | One day workshop with stakeholders including representatives from the media and voluntary sectors and with coroners | 6,830 |
| NOMS Third Sector Strategy | CLINKS (Third sector organisation) | Run four Third Sector stakeholder events | 20,000 |
| NOMS Believing We Can | CLINKS | Run two Faith stakeholder events in the North West | 10,000 |
| NOMS Thirds Sector Strategy/Believing We Can | Lincolnshire Action Trust (Third sector organisation) | Run consultation events and develop third sector and faith alliances in the East Midlands | [1]8,950 |
| NOMS Thirds Sector Strategy/Believing We Can | Futures Unlocked (Third sector organisation) | Run consultation events and develop third sector and faith alliances in the East Midlands | [1]9,010 |
| Review of remuneration of Tribunals' Judiciary | PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) | Advise the senior salaries review on remuneration of tribunals' judiciary, which included job evaluation and consultation on behalf of SSRB | [2]185,841 |

[1] Grant funding.
[2] Please note that while this consultation was funded by the Ministry of Justice it was commissioned by the Office of Manpower Economics (OME). OME provides the secretariat for the Senior Salaries Review Body (SSRB).

Departmental Redundancies

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the cost was of redundancies in his Department in the 12 months preceding (a) 30 June 2004, (b) 30 June 2005 and (c) 30 June 2006. [175338]

Maria Eagle: There have been no involuntary staff exit schemes.

While there have been some voluntary early departures between 1997 and 2005, information about redundancy costs is not held centrally due to previous machinery of Government changes and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

For the ex DCA cost of voluntary redundancies since 30 June 2006 is £17,488,631. The cost for HMPS since it became part of MoJ on the 5 May 2007 is £4,804,164. There have been no voluntary or compulsory redundancies from NOMS since they became part of the Ministry of Justice. There are also three cases for early departure from CICA, which is sponsored by OCJR which have been approved at a cost of £244,971.

Firearms: Sentencing

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people received (a) custodial and (b) non-custodial sentences on conviction for offences which included the carrying or use of a firearm in each of the last five years. [185634]

Mr. Straw: Information on possession of a firearm is contained in the following table. Statistics for 2007 will be published in the autumn.

In such instances as a robbery or violent assault where an individual has used a firearm or other offensive weapon then they will principally be sentenced for the more serious transgression, and the figures for such more serious offences do not isolate the specific use of a firearm in such circumstances.

Offensive Weapons: Sentencing

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people received (a) custodial and (b) non-custodial sentences on conviction for offences which included the carrying or use of a knife in each of the last five years. [185635]

Mr. Straw: Information on possession of a knife is contained in the following table. Statistics for 2007 will be published in the autumn.

In such instances as a robbery or violent assault where an individual has used a knife or other offensive weapon then they will principally be sentenced for the more serious transgression; the figures for such more serious offences as robbery do not isolate the specific use of a knife in such circumstances.

Open Prisons: Prisoner Escapes

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how his Department defines a prisoner in an open prison who absconds and fails to return. [189817]

Mr. Straw: Prisoners are classed as 'absconders' if they absent themselves from Prison Service custody without lawful authority and without overcoming physical security restraints such as that provided by fence, locks, bolts and bars, a secure vehicle, handcuffs or direct supervision of staff. This latter category are classed as escapes.

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice whether there have been any changes to the criteria for recording absconds or other unauthorised absences from open prisons since 1997. [189818]

Mr. Straw: There have been no changes to the criteria for recording absconds or other unauthorised absences from open prisons since 1997.

Prison Accommodation

Mr. Heath: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) what the certified normal accommodation was for (a) each prison and (b) the prison estate in each month since November 2007; [188195]

(2) what the operational capacity was for (a) each prison and (b) the prison estate in each month since November 2007. [188196]

Mr. Straw: The following table shows the in-use certified normal accommodation (CNA)[1] and operational capacity for each prison in England and Wales and for the total in-use CNA and useable operational capacity[2] for the prison estate. Figures provided are for the final Friday of each month since November 2007.

[1] In-use certified normal accommodation (in-use CNA), is the uncrowded capacity of an establishment after adjusting for accommodation out of use.

[2] Useable operational capacity is the total number of prisoners that the estate can hold taking into account control, security and the proper operation of regimes, less the operating margin of 2000 places. This is because of constraints imposed by the need to provide separate accommodation for different classes of prisoner, i.e. by sex, age, security category, conviction status, single cell risk assessment and due to geographical distribution of prisons and prisoners.

Prisoners

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners were on End of Custody Licence on 22 February. [189816]

Mr. Straw: On 19 June 2007, the then Lord Chancellor announced the introduction of a presumption in favour of release from custody on licence for prisoners serving between four weeks and four years for the final 18 days of their sentence subject to meeting strict eligibility criteria and providing a release address.

At the end of December 2007, it is estimated that the number of offenders under licence as part of the ECL scheme was approximately 1,350 (data rounded to the nearest 50). This is taken from the latest monthly publication of "End of Custody Licence releases and recalls" (1-31 December 2007), published on 31 January 2008.

This publication can be found at:

The next publication, covering the period 1-31 January 2008, is due to be published on 29 February.

These figures have been drawn from administrative IT systems, which, as with any large-scale recording system, are subject to possible errors with data entry and processing.

Prisoners: Legal Advice and Assistance

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the cost was of legal advice for prisoners in adjudication proceedings in each of the last three years in each prison. [189442]

Maria Eagle: The cost of legal advice for adjudication proceedings is not recorded separately. The Legal Services Commission (LSC) record the cost of adjudication proceedings under the category of assistance at prison discipline hearings. The cost of this category for the last three years are:

| Financial year | £000 |

Prisons: Crimes of Violence

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 29 January 2008, Official Report, columns 307-9W, what additional reports of (a) prisoner on prisoner and (b) prisoner on officer assaults have been received for each prison establishment in 2007 since the answer was given. [188949]

Maria Eagle: The information requested as set out in the table is subject to important qualifications. The Prison Service Incident Reporting System processes high volumes of data which are constantly being updated. The numbers provide a good indication of overall numbers but should not be interpreted as absolute. Assault data are complex and may include threatening behaviour, projection of bodily fluids and other non-contact incidents and allegations. Information on assault incidents may involve more than one assaulter or more than one victim. In a proportion of incidents only the victim is known.

Assault information is recorded at establishment level in four categories:

Prisoner on Prisoner, Prisoner on Officer, Prisoner on Other and Other. Recording of assaults on prison officers sometimes includes assaults on other prison staff.

Prisons: Finance

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how much and what proportion of the funding announced for building new prisons is expected to be spent on (a) purchasing land, (b) architectural costs, (c) prison accommodation construction costs and (d) legal costs; and if he will make a statement; [188157]

(2) how much and what proportion of the funding allocated to building new prisons is expected to be spent on prison (a) healthcare facilities, (b) exercise and recreational facilities, (c) educational facilities, (d) detoxification facilities and (e) workshops; and if he will make a statement. [188158]

Mr. Straw: The prison capacity programme has £2.2 billion allocated to deliver around 11,700 places. Further to this, up to £120 million has been provisionally allocated for the land purchase including three Titans in the post—2011 SR period and this will be subject to the usual SR process.

This programme will provide around 2,300 places in three new prisons and a further 7,500 places to be provided in three Titan prisons. The remaining places in the programme are provided in expansions to existing prison sites and conversions of some surplus MOD and NHS sites.

Although land is still to be purchased for the Titans, no additional expenditure on land purchase has been required for the other three prisons as the land is already in NOMS ownership.

It is estimated that the proportion of costs across the whole capacity programme will be 3 per cent. for architectural or design fees, 90 per cent. for construction fees and less than 1 per cent. for legal fees.

Where new prisons are to be procured through the Design, Construct Manage Finance (DCMF) process, the bids are evaluated on the cost per prisoner place over the lifetime of the proposed contract. A breakdown of the regime elements at the new prisons such as health care, exercise, education and detoxification facilities cannot be provided at this stage of the current ongoing DCMF competition.

Repossession Orders: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many home repossessions there have been in each London borough in each year since 2000; [188974]

(2) how many home repossessions there have been in each London court in each year since 2000. [188975]

Bridget Prentice: The following table shows the number of mortgage possession orders made in all London county courts since 2000.

These figures do not indicate how many houses have been repossessed through the courts, since not all the orders will have resulted in the issue and execution of warrants of possession.

The civil procedure rules state that all claims for the repossession of land must be commenced in the district in which the land is situated. However, county courts jurisdictions are not coterminous with London borough boundaries, and therefore any single court's repossession actions are likely to relate to homes in a number of different boroughs.

[1] Local authority and private.
[2] The court, following a judicial hearing, may grant an order for possession immediately. This entitles the claimant to apply for a warrant to have the defendant evicted. However, even where a warrant for possession is issued, the parties can still negotiate a compromise to prevent eviction.
[3] Includes suspended orders and orders made.
[4] Does not include the small number of possession actions entered in the High Court.
[5] The figures for Ilford and Woolwich county courts, which are without access to the possession claim on-line (PCOL) system, are aggregated for 2007. This is due to county courts with access to possession claim on-line (PCOL) drawing mortgage and landlord possession orders on behalf of other county courts which has resulted in data being excluded from the Department's Management Information System (MIS), from which the figures in this table are sourced. An aggregate upward adjustment has therefore been applied to the numbers of orders made at these two county courts.

Wills: Royal Family

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what representations he has received from lawyers acting for the royal family on publication practice on royal wills in the last 10 years. [188632]

Mr. Straw: Neither my predecessors, nor I have received any representations from lawyers acting for the royal family on publication practice on royal wills in the last 10 years. An application to seal a royal will is made to the Principal Registry of the Family Division and is decided by the President. In the last 10 years there have been two such applications; namely those in respect of Her Royal Highness Princess Margaret, Countess of Snowdon and Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother.

Young Offenders

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many and what proportion of young people appearing before restorative peer panels in (a) Preston and (b) England subsequently broke contractual obligations agreed with the panel in the latest period for which figures are available; [189719]

(2) what the ages have been of the young people who have appeared before restorative peer panels in (a) Preston and (b) England since the hearings started; [189720]

(3) how many cases have been (a) heard and (b) resolved by restorative peer panels in (i) Preston and (ii) England since the hearings started; [189721]

(4) for which offences restorative peer panels may be used; [189722]

(5) which contract options have been taken up by young people appearing before restorative peer panels in (a) Preston and (b) England since their inception. [189723]

Mr. Hanson: The peer panel project in Preston is still in its very early stages and there have been relatively few young people referred to it to date. The expectation however is that numbers will increase as the project develops. The Invest to Save Bid monies have been allocated to the project in Preston alone. In answer to the individual questions:

no young people to date have broken the terms of the agreement they reached with the panel the ages of young people appearing before a peer panel have ranged from 11 to 16

there have been 15 panel meetings to date involving people aged under 18; four have been completed, four are still proceeding and seven have been referred back to the referring officer as the young person did not attend peer panels can be used for a variety of offences but are particularly suitable for "quality of life low-level offences" such as vandalism, minor shoplifting and also for bullying and other school related matters. They are not used for serious matters.

the options taken up to date include, apologising to the victim verbally or in writing, agreeing to change behaviour, payment for the damage caused, to act responsibly on public transport in future and to work with a mentor to facilitate a return to school. There have also been agreements to attend local agencies to address issues which affect the young person.

HEALTH

Accident and Emergency Departments

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the Answer of 5 February 2008, Official Report, column 1063W, on accident and emergency departments, how many of each type of accident and emergency services there were in each region of England in each year for which figures are available since 1997. [188508]

Mr. Bradshaw: Figures for the numbers of accident and emergency (A and E) departments at the end of each of the financial years 2005-06, 2006-07 and the latest 2007-08 date (position as at end December 2007) have been provided. More historic data have not been provided as the information could be produced only at disproportionate cost.

Accident and Emergency Departments: Standards

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health to what factors his Department ascribes the increase in the number of people waiting more than four hours in accident and emergency departments indicated in the most recent quarterly figures. [188178]

Mr. Bradshaw: The A and E data at national level do not allow us to examine causes of poor performance.

It is for primary care trusts and strategic health authorities (SHAs) to work with national health service organisations to ensure they are providing an appropriate level of high quality care for patients. SHAs are actively engaged in this and working closely with challenged organisations to address issues that may arise which affect performance. These issues vary depending on local circumstances. All trusts need to be working to this operational standard.

Autism

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much was spent on services for adults with autism by each primary care trust in London in the last five years for which figures are available. [185734]

Mr. Bradshaw: This information is not held centrally.

However, the Government recently announced, through the comprehensive spending review, that local authority funding will increase by £2.6 billion by 2010-11 and national health service funding will increase from £35 billion in 1997-98 to £110 billion in 2010-11. It is for local NHS organisations to best determine how to allocate these funds.

Autism: Children

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what funding is available to families with children diagnosed with autism to help them with medical expenses; [187731]

(2) what the (a) mean and (b) median waiting time was from diagnosis of children with autism to treatment in (i) 2004-05, (ii) 2005-06 and (iii) 2006-07; [187733]

(3) what expenditure the NHS incurred on the treatment and care of a child diagnosed in each level of autism spectrum in the last 12 months. [187861]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: It is for individual national health service trusts to determine the level of funding available from their general allocations for the medical needs of children with autism, taking into consideration locally identified needs and assessments of individuals.

We do not hold information centrally on waiting times or NHS expenditure for autism.

Autism: Training

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what training staff who undertake assessments through Fair Access to Care Services receive in autism spectrum disorders. [187233]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Staff training is the responsibility of local authorities.

"Better Services for people with an autistic spectrum disorder: A note clarifying current Government policy and describing good practice" was published on 16 November 2006. A copy is available in the Library. It clarifies the nature and intent of existing Government policy as it relates to adults with an autistic spectrum disorder.

Care Homes: Elderly

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many care homes for older people were found by the Commission for Social Care Inspection to be in breach of each of the national minimum standards in the last year for which figures are available. [188180]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: We have been informed by the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI) that its inspectors assess the performance of care homes against each national minimum standard (NMS) and rate them on a four point scale. A score of four indicates that a standard has been exceeded. A score of three shows that it has been met. A score of two denotes that the standard was almost met with minor shortfalls—this indicates that one of the numerous sub-sections in the standard has not been completely met. A score of one means the standard has not been met.

The following table shows the numbers of care homes for older people inspected and their performance against the NMS for the year ending 31 March 2007.

Care Homes: Fees and Charges

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the standard charge for residential care home accommodation provided by (a) local authorities and (b) independent providers is in each local authority area. [188181]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Cervical Cancer: Screening

Mr. Crausby: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to improve the take up rate among young women for cervical cancer screening. [186386]

Ann Keen: Women invited to participate in the national health service cervical screening programme need to understand the potential benefits and harms in doing so and to be able to make an informed choice about whether or not they wish to take part in the programme.

This is why all eligible women receive a national information leaflet on cervical screening, Cervical Screening - The Facts. This leaflet is included with each screening invitation and contains comprehensive and understandable information about cervical screening. It can be viewed at:

www.cancerscreening.nhs.uk/cervical/publications/in-04.html

The Cancer Reform Strategy noted concerns about the fall in the number of young women taking up their invitation to be screened. That is why the NHS cancer screening programme have commissioned the Improvement Foundation to undertake work at a local level targeting this age group. The lessons learned from this work, due in 2009, will be shared with strategic health authorities and local screening programmes to develop best practice.

The NHS cancer screening programme's press office is developing an information pack to be issued to all local screening programmes and also developing a public relations strategy, including articles in appropriate media publications, posters etc. In addition, Cancer Research UK have commissioned research on this issue, which we will monitor closely and will share the findings.

Continued local action in this area is also essential and we will continue to monitor levels of cervical screening coverage through the Office for National Statistics/Information Centre for health and social care annual cervical screening statistical bulletin.

Chesterfield Primary Care Trust: Manpower

Paul Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) nurses, (b) midwives and (c) doctors were working in the NHS in (i) Chesterfield primary care trust and (ii) Derbyshire county primary care trust in each year since 1997. [187036]

Ann Keen: The information is not available in the format requested. However, the number of staff working within Derbyshire County Primary Care Trust[1] (PCTs) in each year from 2002-2006 is shown in the following table.

[1] In 2006 Derbyshire PCT was formed from a complete merger of Amber Valley PCT, Chesterfield PCT, Derbyshire Dales and South Derbyshire PCT, Erewash PCT, High Peak and Dales PCT and North Eastern Derbyshire PCT. Figures prior to 2006 are an aggregate of these predecessor organisations. The Midwives for the areas covered by these PCTs are all employed by the Chesterfield Royal NHS Foundation Trust.

[2] General medical practitioners (excluding retainers and registrars) includes GP providers and GP Others.
[3] More accurate validation processes in 2006 have resulted in the identification and removal of 9,858 duplicate non-medical staff records out of the total workforce figure of 1.3 million in 2006. Earlier years' figures could not be accurately validated in this way and so will be slightly inflated. The level of inflation in earlier years' figures is estimated to be less than 1 per cent. of total across all non-medical staff groups for headcount figures (and negligible for full time equivalents). This should be taken into consideration.

Childbirth

David Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many babies were born in NHS hospitals in England in each month since 1997, broken down by (a) gestation period in which they were born and (b) birth weight. [175247]

Ann Keen: Information is not available in the format requested. The following table shows the latest information on live births by birth weight and gestational age at birth.

Children: Malnutrition

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many children under 13 years were classified as malnourished in each NHS authority in each of the last five years. [189166]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 26 February 2008]: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Dental Health

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the advice issued by the British Association for the study of community dentistry advising dentists to classify teeth showing signs of moderate to severe fluorosis as sound. [187570]

Ann Keen: The guidance is appropriate since teeth showing signs of fluorosis still enjoy the same protection from decay that fluoridation offers.

Dental Services

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of people who had veneers fitted to their teeth (a) with the costs covered by the NHS and (b) on referral by an NHS dentist to a private clinician in the latest period for which figures are available, broken down by strategic health authority. [187622]

Ann Keen: This information is not available centrally.

Dental Services: Chesterfield

Paul Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many (a) 18 to 65 and (b) under 18 year-olds were registered for NHS dental treatment in Chesterfield in each year since 1997; [187037]

(2) how many NHS dentists in Chesterfield (a) admitted new adult patients to their list and (b) treated NHS patients between the ages of 18 and 65 years in each of the last five years. [187038]

Ann Keen: Information on dental patients aged between 18 and 65 is currently not available. Information is available by child/adult where a child is defined as being aged 17 and under, and an adult is defined as being aged 18 and over.

Under the old contractual arrangements, which were in place until 1 April 2006, patients had to register with an individual national health service dentist to receive NHS care.

The numbers of adult and child patients registered with an NHS dentist at primary care trust (PCT) and strategic health authority (SHA) area are available in Annex A of the NHS Dental Activity and Workforce Report, England: 31 March 2006. This provides data for 1997 to 2006.

This report is available in the Library and is also available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/statistics-and-data-collections/primary-care/dentistry/nhs-dental-activity-and-workforce-report-england-31-march-2006

Under the new contractual arrangements, introduced on 1 April 2006, patients do not have to be registered with a NHS dentist to receive NHS care. The closest equivalent measure to 'registration' is the number of patients receiving NHS dental services, 'patients seen' over a 24-month period. However, this is not directly comparable to the registration data for earlier years.

The numbers of patients seen by an NHS dentist in the 24 month periods ending 31 March 2006, 31 March 2007 and 30 June 2007 are available in Table C1 of Annex 3 of the NHS Dental Statistics for England, Quarter 1: 30 June 2007 report. Information is available by PCT/SHA area, and by Child/Adult.

This report, published on 28 November 2007, is available in the Library and is also available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/pubs/dentstatsq10708

Both reports have been published by The Information Centre for health and social care.

Information on NHS dentists admitting new NHS adult patients to lists, and on NHS patients between the ages of 18 and 65 years of age treated, can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Paul Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many dentists were recruited to (a) part-time and (b) full-time NHS work in (i) Chesterfield Primary Care Trust and (ii) Derbyshire County Primary Care Trust area in each of the last five years; and what estimate he has made of such recruitment in each of the next three years. [187039]

Ann Keen: Information on recruitment of NHS dentists working part-time and full-time is not collected centrally.

The information on the number of dentists recruited by primary care trust (PCT) is based on the old contractual arrangements. To provide information on the new contractual arrangements, introduced on 1 April 2006, could only be produced at disproportionate cost.

The following table shows the number of dentists leaving and joining Chesterfield PCT and Derbyshire Dales and South Derbyshire PCT between 2001 and 2006.

| | | 2002 | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Chesterfield PCT | Leaver | 1 | 2 | 4 | 3 | 0 |
| | New Entrant | 4 | 2 | 2 | 5 | 3 |
| Derbyshire Dales and South Derbyshire PCT | | | | | | |
| | Leaver | 2 | 1 | 2 | 2 | 1 |
| | New Entrant | 2 | 1 | 3 | 2 | 1 |

Notes:
1. Leaver means the dentist did not have an open general dental services (GDS) or personal dental services (PDS) contract in March of the specified year but did have a GDS or PDS contract in England in March of the previous year.
2. New entrant means the dentist did have an open GDS or PDS contract in March of the specified year but did not have a GDS or PDS contract in England in March of the previous year.
3. A dentist may have joined a GDS or PDS contract within more than one PCT or strategic health authority (SHA) area, in which case they would appear in figures from each individual PCT or SHA area. The figures are based on GDS and PDS contracts. The dentists include principals, assistants and trainees. Prison contracts have not been included in this analysis. The areas have been defined using practice postcodes.
4. A dentist with a GDS or GDS contract may provide as little or as much National Health Service treatment as he or she chooses or as agreed with the PCT.
5. The Dental Practice Board has no information concerning the amount of time dedicated to NHS work by individual dentists. 6. The Dental Practice Board has no information concerning private dentists.

Dental Services: Fees and Charges

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the revenue from patients' charges (a) was in the last year of the previous NHS dental contracts and (b) has been in the first year of the new contract. [187461]

Ann Keen: A simplified system of banded national health service dental charges was introduced in 2006-07, alongside new commissioning and remuneration arrangements for NHS primary dental care services. Services were also evolving ahead of the changeover as increasing numbers of dental practices converted from the former general dental services (GDS) contract to personal dental service (PDS) pilots where remuneration was based on levels of care rather than item of service fees. However, levels of charge income reduced in PDS pilots because of the need to retain the old charge structure which was not calibrated to take account of the new ways of working stimulated by the new terms of service. This effect was particularly noticeable in 2005-06 when the number of PDS pilots reached their peak. The following table shows charge income for the four-year span 2003-04 to 2006-07 to give a perspective on these trends ahead of the adoption of the new charge structure in April 2006.

Income from NHS dental charges, England

| | Dental charge income (£ million) | Dental charge income as a proportion of the gross cost of primary dental care services (Percentage) |
|---|---|---|
| 2003-04 | 484 | 26.6 |
| 2004-05 | 466 | 23.9 |
| 2005-06 | 410 | 18.6 |
| 2006-07 | 472 | 21.3 |

Note:
Charge income totals are compiled from NHS accounts data and represent income collected in the former GDS, PDS pilots, and from April 2006, all primary dental care services provided under the unified commissioning arrangements managed by primary care trusts.

Dental Services: Finance

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what financial assistance is given by the NHS to help newly qualified or returning dentists set up and equip dental practices. [188315]

Ann Keen: Dentists wishing to operate as independent contractors and planning to establish a new dental practice or surgery would generally fund the facilities themselves and secure an appropriate return on their investment from their annual service contract with their primary care trust (PCT) to provide an agreed level of national health service dental services. However, PCTs may offer dentists assistance with the start up costs of establishing new dental practices at their discretion, if they consider this appropriate and necessary. The Government have also made £100 million capital funds available to PCTs over the two years 2006-07 and 2007-08 to give them additional scope to help dentists modernise or expand dental practices for the benefit of NHS patients.

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how much was spent on NHS dental provision in (a) Manchester and (b) Birmingham in (i) total and (ii) per head of population in the latest period for which figures are available; [187620]

(2) what the cost was of dental provision per head of population in the strategic health authorities covering (a) the five most deprived areas in England where water is fluoridated and (b) the five most deprived areas in England where water is not fluoridated in the latest period for which figures are available. [187621]

Ann Keen: The information requested is shown in the following tables. Fluoridation of water offers the best prospect of reducing inequalities in oral health, but comparisons between expenditure levels in different areas are affected by a number of factors. There is no simple and direct relationship between expenditure levels and relative oral health needs. The legacy of the previous general dental service contract is that the pattern of services largely reflects where dentists previously chose to set up in practice, and how much national health service dental work they chose to undertake. In addition, levels of patient demand for dental care may not necessarily reflect levels of oral health need. The Department has no data on the levels of private dental care provided in different areas. Expenditure per head is calculated from resident population figures, but patients may attend dental surgeries outside their areas of residence.

Gross expenditure on primary dental care (PDC) in Manchester and Birmingham in 2006-07

| Primary care trust (PCT) | 2006-07 gross expenditure on primary dental care (£000) | 2006-07 gross expenditure on primary dental care per head of population (£) |
|---|---|---|
| Manchester | 22,797 | 50.44 |
| Heart of Birmingham teaching | 12,473 | 45.99 |
| South Birmingham | 18,047 | 53.22 |
| Birmingham East and North | 14,871 | 37.53 |

Notes:
1. Expenditure figures are based on the aggregate gross expenditure on primary dental care reported by PCTs with their 2006-07 end of year accounts.
2. Expenditure per head figures are based on the aggregate gross expenditure on primary dental care and the Office of National Statistics 2006 mid year population figures.

Gross expenditure on PDC in strategic health (SHAs) authorities with the most deprived PCT areas receiving fluoridated or non fluoridated water supplies (2006-07 figures)

| SHA receiving proportion of fluoridated water supplies | 2006-07 Gross expenditure on primary dental care per head of population (£) | SHA Receiving no or few fluoridated water supplies | 2006-07 Gross expenditure on primary dental care per head of population (£) |
|---|---|---|---|
| West Midlands | 44.52 | North Western | 48.83 |
| North East | 50.59 | London | 45.75 |

Notes:
1. The five PCTs which receive fluoridated water supplies and have the highest deprivation scores are South Birmingham, Heart of Birmingham Teaching, Birmingham East and North, and Wolverhampton PCTs (within the area of the West Midlands SHA), and Hartlepool PCT (within the area of the North East SHA). The five PCTs with the highest deprivation scores which do not receive fluoridated water supplies are Liverpool, Manchester, and Knowsley PCTs (within the area of the North West SHA), and City and Hackney Teaching and Tower Hamlets PCTs (within the area of the London SHA).
2. The distribution of fluoridated water supplies is not entirely uniform even across those SHAs which have the highest proportions of fluoridated areas.

Departmental Databases

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what obligations his Department and its agencies place on contractors in relation to the audit of personal data and IT equipment. [176463]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department and its agencies have non-disclosure agreements with their contractors and contractual obligations for them to permit and facilitate any audit of personal data and IT equipment. Contracts include terms and conditions covering confidentiality, data protection and freedom of information.

Departmental Official Residences

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many ministerial residences were available to his Department's Ministers in each of the last 10 years. [183181]

Mr. Bradshaw: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to him by the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Cabinet Office (Mr. Watson) on 19 February 2008, Official Report column 688W.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what average hourly rate his Department paid to employment agencies for agency staff in each year since 1999, broken down by employment agency. [187914]

Mr. Bradshaw: The average hourly rates paid to employment agencies for agency staff in January 2008 are shown in the following table. These rates cover staff of different grades, with various skill levels, working in a range of locations.

Doctors: Foreign Nationals

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many European doctors have sought work in the United Kingdom since the implementation of the EU Professional Qualifications Directive for Health Professionals in October 2007. [186639]

Ann Keen: The number of European doctors who have sought work in the United Kingdom is not collected centrally. However, for information the General Medical Council will be able to identify the number of European doctors who have applied for UK registration. The last workforce census showed that there were a total of 7,261 qualified medical staff working in the national health service from the European Economic Area as at 30 September 2006.

Peter Bottomley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what safeguards are in place to ensure that European doctors applying for hospital posts in the United Kingdom are able to communicate in English and are fit to practise, following the implementation of the EU Professional Qualifications Directive for Health Professionals; [186641]

(2) what criteria are used to assess whether European doctors applying for hospital posts in the United Kingdom are fit to practise following the implementation of the EU Professional Qualifications Directive for Health Professionals; [186642]

(3) what mechanisms are in place to support European doctors working in the UK without the required language and communications standards and competencies; and how such support is funded. [186643]

Ann Keen: The Department's code of practice for the International Recruitment of Healthcare Professionals, which covers recruitment from inside and outside the European economic area, emphasises that all international healthcare professionals should have the appropriate level of English language to enable them to undertake their role effectively and that they should be registered with the relevant regulatory body. The General Medical Council are responsible for assuring themselves that a doctor is fit to practise before granting registration.

In addition NHS Employers' guidance makes clear that > "It is important to remember that all international healthcare professionals need to demonstrate their communication skills... the employer should satisfy themselves of a candidate's ability to communicate to the required standard for the post."

All applicants for foundation programmes or specialty registrar training opportunities are required to demonstrate competence in the English language.

It is the responsibility of the employer to ensure that any concerns about a doctor's competence are addressed.

The European Union Professional Qualifications Directive has not changed the position in relation to European doctors qualifications, or English language competence on entering the United Kingdom.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many foreign nationals were employed as doctors by the NHS in (a) 2007 and (b) each of the previous 10 years; [187158]

(2) what percentage of NHS doctors were EU nationals in the last five years; [187159]

(3) what percentage of doctors working in the NHS were non-EU foreign nationals in 2007; [187160]

(4) what percentage of doctors working in the NHS were UK nationals in the most recent period for which figures are available; [187161]

(5) what percentage of doctors who migrated to the United Kingdom were EU nationals in the last five years. [187156]

Ann Keen: The national health service work force census does not collect the nationality of NHS Staff; it does however collect the country of primary qualification. The available information is shown in the following tables. The publication of the 2007 figures is provisionally planned for this March.

Doctors: Vacancies

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many posts were available for trainee (a) doctors and (b) physiotherapists in the NHS in each of the last five years. [185317]

Ann Keen: The number of places available for trainee doctors in the national health service was not collected centrally prior to 2007. In 2007, 5,020 foundation programmes were filled through the Medical Training Service in England. This was in addition to posts that were filled locally.

In 2008, 5,900 places on Foundation Programmes in England have been advertised on the Application Modernising Medical Careers Service. In addition, approximately 300 academic programmes have been recruited to separately.

There are no trainee places for physiotherapists in the NHS. The number of qualified physiotherapists employed in the NHS is 19,820 (as at 30 September 2006) this is an increase of 5,577 or 39 per cent. since September 1997.

Drugs: Rehabilitation

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 19 February 2008, Official Report, column 670W, on drugs: rehabilitation, what definition of in treatment is used in the answer. [189169]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 26 February 2008]: The figures given in the answer of 19 February 2008, Official Report, column 670W, are taken from the National Drug Treatment Monitoring System (NDTMS). NDTMS is a data collection system used to maintain treatment activity.

The definition used by the treatment providers submitting data to NDTMS is contained within the Models of Care guidance document is as follows:

"... a range of interventions that are intended to remedy an identified drug-related problem or condition relating to a person's physical, psychological or social (including legal) well-being. This data should include:

drug misusers being treated/assessed/referred for tier 3 or 4 services;

(substitute/detox prescribing, structured counselling, structured day care programme, other psychotherapeutic interventions such as cognitive behavioural therapy and motivational interventions, residential rehabilitation or community-based aftercare programmes);

those referred from the criminal justice system;

drug misusers in treatment who are resident in the drug action team area regardless of where they are being treated;

all drug misusers for whom a service is provided, irrespective of setting and funding (but excluding drug misusers treated in prison). This will include drug misusers receiving services from national health service, voluntary and private residential and non-residential drug treatment agencies as well as general practitioners treating drug misusers.

Structured drug treatment follows assessment and is delivered according to a care plan, with clear goals, which is regularly reviewed with the client."

General Practitioners

Mark Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department has taken to incentivise general practitioners to accept new patients. [185928]

Mr. Bradshaw: The new general medical services contract introduced a number of steps to incentivise and improve access to general practice. New allocation and funding mechanisms such as the global sum, Quality and Outcomes Framework and enhanced services reward the work associated with each additional patient under new practice-based contracts. Therefore, every new additional patient registration attracts additional funding for each practice. In addition, substantial investment in primary care has enabled new and extended premises for general practices to increase their capacity and accept a greater number of patients to their lists.

Mark Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department has taken to (a) clarify the rules on eligibility and (b) streamline the process for patients to register with a GP practice. [185929]

Mr. Bradshaw: The current system of patient registration is relatively straightforward. However, the Department acknowledges that the current rules on eligibility to register for free primary medical services for foreign nationals are unclear and much is left to the discretion of individual general practitioners (GPs) and practices. The Department is undertaking a joint review of Access to the NHS by foreign nationals with the Home Office. The review is due to be completed shortly and any new proposals will then go out to public consultation.

Key information about all GP practices, including information on how to register, has also been made available via the NHS Choices website on www.nhs.uk. This service provides people with reliable and accessible information on GP practices to help them choose which a local practice that is likely to best meet their needs.

Mark Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what percentage of GPs' practices' lists are (a) open, (b) open and full and (c) closed. [185930]

Mr. Bradshaw: Under the contractual arrangements, general practitioner practice lists are either 'open' or 'closed'. In England, as at October 2007, 2 per cent. of practices reported operating 'closed lists'. These data are collected quarterly through the Primary Care Trust Primary Care Access Survey.

Mark Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps have been taken to provide individuals with information on GP practices and their services since the publication of Our Health, Our Care, Our Say. [185933]

Mr. Bradshaw: The public are now able to access key information about all general practitioner (GP) practices—including the results of the patient survey, practice opening times and performance against key quality indicators via the NHS Choices website on www.nhs.uk. This service provides people with reliable and accessible information on GP practices to help them choose which one is likely to best meet their needs.

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what (a) guidance and (b) rules have been set for existing GP practices which wish to bid to become alternative providers of medical services. [186878]

Mr. Bradshaw: It is for primary care trusts (PCTs) to develop open and transparent tendering processes where all health care providers, including existing practices, voluntary and independent sector organisations, can bid to deliver primary medical care services under an alternative provider medical services (APMS) contract.

General Practitioners: Working Hours

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health for what reasons he is planning to re-open negotiations with GPs on out-of-hours services to patients. [185646]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Government have no proposals to re-open negotiations with the general practitioners on taking back responsibility for out of hours services to patients.

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what estimate he has made of the effect of requiring GP surgeries to extend their opening hours on GPs' income; [185826]

(2) whether he plans to amend the General Medical Services contract to include a requirement for GPs to extend their surgery opening hours; [185827]

(3) what additional financial support he will provide to GP surgeries to cover increased costs associated with extended opening hours. [185829]

Mr. Bradshaw: There is no requirement for any general practitioner (GP) practice to extend their opening hours. Under proposals put to the BMA's General Practitioners Committee, the average GP practice which provides three hours extended opening per week could expect to receive around £19,000 per year, where they choose to provide such services to their patients. This would be funded by making more effective use of existing resources within the current GP contract arrangement. In addition, we have offered to invest an additional 1.5 per cent. increase through the GP contract, worth just over £100 million. This would be a further boost in investment, provide greater improvements for patients and is a good deal for GPs.

Physical/Mental Ill-Health

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what research he has evaluated on links between ill health and unhappiness. [187592]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The Department is currently reviewing the evidence of the relationship between physical and mental ill-health; there is likely to be a two way interaction between them.

In the longer term, this work will support the Government's commitment to address inequalities in health outcomes across the country.

Health and Social Care Information Centre

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 10 December 2007, Official Report, column 309W, on Health and Social Care Information Centre, when the Information Centre began reviewing the information for which data should be made available in the future; which interested parties are contributing to the review; when he expects the review to conclude; and if he will make a statement. [185575]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Information Centre for Health and Social Care is consulting with the Department and a range of other organisations on its products. The outcome and timing of this is a matter for the Chief Executive of the Information Centre for Health and Social Care.

Health Services

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what guidance he has issued to primary care trusts on spending under the alternative providers of medical services budget to develop and expand existing primary care provision; [186879]

(2) what directions he has given to local health trusts in respect of the spending of moneys under the alternative providers of medical services scheme. [186883]

Mr. Bradshaw: The £250 million access fund announced by Secretary of State (Alan Johnson) on 10 October will be devolved to primary care trusts (PCTs) to enable them to develop a general practitioner (GP) led health centre each and at least 100 new GP practices across the 50 PCTs with poorest provision. It will be for PCTs to design these services so that they reflect local health need and health care strategies.

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what (a) timetable has been set for and (b) geographical area will be covered by the initial phases of the alternative providers of medical services scheme. [186880]

Mr. Bradshaw: During 2008-09 primary care trusts (PCTs) will undertake open and transparent procurements for new general practitioner (GP) practices and GP-led health centres. Every PCT in the country will procure on new health centre, however, only those 50 PCTs that have been identified as having the poorest provision will procure new GP practices. A table of these PCTs is shown as follows. The precise geographical locations of these services will be determined locally by PCTs based on their local needs assessment.

PCTs with poorest provision (i.e. those with fewest primary care clinicians, lowest patient satisfaction with access and poorest health outcomes) where at least 100 new GP practices will be located

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what representations he has received on the alternative providers of medical services scheme and its implementation. [186881]

Mr. Bradshaw: This is not a matter for the Department. It is for primary care trusts to engage appropriately with patient and public groups, clinicians and the local health authority on all aspects of service planning, including the development and consideration of service changes and decisions that affect service operation.

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how he consulted (a) local trusts, (b) GPs, (c) scrutiny bodies and (d) patients representatives on the delivery of the alternative providers of medical services scheme. [186882]

Mr. Bradshaw: Decisions on the form of consultation process to adopt, who to consult and the time allowed for this process will be made by each primary care trust and will need to be considered in light of all relevant factors, including any consultation already conducted or underway.

Health Services: Standards

Mark Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the targets on (a) financial savings and (b) improvements in care will be for the next basket of Better Care, Better Value indicators. [188282]

Mr. Bradshaw: The final indicator set for the third quarter of 2007-08 is currently being finalised. There are no plans to introduce metrics on financial savings as part of this process.

Hospitals: Costs

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health with reference to the answer of 6 July 2007, Official Report, column 656W, on hospitals: costs, which buildings procured under the private finance initiative his Department's Private Finance Unit has assessed as not representing better value for money overall when compared with the public sector; and if he will make a statement. [175350]

Mr. Bradshaw: Private finance initiative (PFI) was considered for the schemes listed as follows but in each case did not produce a suitable value for money solution:

| | | £ million |
|---|---|---|
| | | Capital value |
| 1997 | Rochdale NHS Trust[1] | 24 |
| | Central Sheffield University Hospitals NHS Trust[1] | 24 |

Notes:
1. The figures show the median waiting times for patients still waiting for admission at the end of the period stated. Inpatient waiting times are measured from decision to admit by the consultant to admission to hospital.
2. Median waiting times are calculated from aggregate data, rather than patient level data, and therefore are only estimates of the position on average waits. In particular, specialties with low numbers waiting are prone to fluctuations in the median. This should be taken into account when interpreting the data.
3. Medians are not provided for inpatients not seen with total of less than 50 because this population is too small for a statistically meaningful median to be calculated so a n/a shown in that case.
4. Up to March 2002, Cornwall and Isles of Scilly health authority was in existence. From April 2002 up to the end of September 2006, West of Cornwall PCT, North and East Cornwall PCT and Central Cornwall PCT represented the area. From October 2006 onwards these three trusts were merged to form Cornwall and Isles of Scilly PCT. Source:

Medical Records

Mr. Letwin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he has made an assessment of the process for patients who wish to opt out of the new NHS Care Records Service computer system; and if he will make a statement. [188826]

Mr. Bradshaw: The summary care record (SCR), part of the national health service care records service started to be introduced into early-adopter primary care trusts in spring 2007. The Department is working with the summary care record advisory group and with independent evaluators based at University College London to ensure that all significant learning from the early adopters is taken into account as soon as it is available so that the results can be incorporated into future deployment plans for the SCR.

Among the key aspects of the evaluation will be an assessment of patient's experience of the SCR consent/dissent model and the guidance that has been issued to all general practices on how they should respond to patient inquiries about having a summary care record. The evaluation will draw from extensive fieldwork done to capture the views and experiences of patients, general practitioners, practice managers, nurses and other NHS clinical and management staff.

The Department intends to publish the findings of the evaluation later this year.

Cannabis

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what funding will be made available in the forthcoming financial year to (a) educate the public on the risks of cannabis use, (b) fund primary research into the link between cannabis and psychosis and (c) assist mental health service users to discontinue their cannabis use. [184181]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The Department will be making an announcement shortly on how much funding it will making available to the FRANK campaign in 2008-09.

The FRANK campaign is the key mechanism used by the Government for making the public aware of the harms associated with drug use.

In 2007-08 the Department made £2 million available to the FRANK campaign. We are not able to provide a breakdown of spend by individual drug but in 2007-08 there was an enhanced focus on cannabis within the FRANK programme.

In addition to this funding the Department for Children, School and Families and the Home Office also invest resources for the purpose of educating the public on the use of cannabis.

Implementation of the Department's research strategy "Best Research for Best Health" is resulting in an expansion of our research programmes and in significant new funding opportunities for health research. The National Institute for Health Research, set up as part of that implementation process, has awarded a £2 million programme grant to support research on improving physical health and reducing substance use, particularly cannabis use, in severe mental illness. Research on cannabis use and psychosis will also form part of the work programme of the Institute's South London and Maudsley NHS Trust and Institute of Psychiatry Biomedical Research Centre which the Department began funding in April 2007.

Over the past three years alone, total spending on the national health service in England has increased from £69 billion in 2004-05 to over £90 billion in 2007-08. Following the settlement of the comprehensive spending review last October, total expenditure on the NHS will rise to £110 billion by 2010-11. We have made very substantial resources available to the NHS from which to provide treatments and services for the population. However, the responsibility for the provision of all NHS services now rests with primary care trusts (PCTs) and NHS funds are not ringfenced for particular treatments. Ultimately, PCTs in conjunction with their relevant strategic health authority should plan, develop, commission or provide heath services, and decide what proportion of their budgets they spend on particular health services, including mental health services, according to the needs of their local communities.

To ensure that people with mental health problems are aware of the risks associated with cannabis use the Department have published a "Cannabis and Your Mental Health" resource pack which includes a range of resources to help highlight the harmful effects of cannabis use for people with mental health problems.

The Department is also committed to improving the help and care available to people with concurrent mental illness and substance misuse problems—known as dual diagnosis. The Department has published "Dual Diagnosis in in-patient and day hospital settings" to take forward this aim. This guidance makes clear that the ability to provide dual diagnosis patients with the treatment and care they require, should be the norm in mental health services.

In addition there are people with less severe mental health problems who receive their treatment for cannabis use within a specialist drug treatment service setting. To support practitioners in treatment services in providing the most appropriate treatment for cannabis misuse we have made available substantial resources to drug treatment services through the Pooled Treatment Budget and also National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence have published guidance on treatment for cannabis users as part of their psycho-social guidelines "Drugs Misuse Psycho-Social Intervention Guidelines", published in July 2007.

Mid Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust: Finance

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 29 November 2007, Official Report, column 724W, on Mid Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust: finance, if he will place a copy of the NHS Operating Framework for 2008-09 in the Library. [188510]

Mr. Bradshaw: A copy of "The Operating Framework for the NHS in England 2008-09" is available in the Library. This document is also available on the Department's website at:

Neurology

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many neurosurgeons on average are on call each morning after midnight in England. [178724]

Ann Keen: This information is not collected centrally.

Workforce planning is a matter for local determination as service planners are best placed to assess the local neurology needs of their local population.

NHS: Industrial Health and Safety

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the financial cost of workplace accidents in the NHS in (a) loss of staff hours and (b) other costs in each of the last three years. [182848]

Ann Keen: The information is not available in the format requested. However, the following tables show the number of injuries to workers reported to the Health and Safety Executive (HSE)[1] in public hospitals, including national health service trusts[2], in England between 2004-05 and 2006-07.

| Over-3-day injuries | Employee | 7,026 | 38,643,000 |
| | Self-employed | 2 | 11,000 |
| | Total | 7,028 | 38,654,000 |
| Total | | | 80,398,500 |

[1] Injuries are reported and defined under the Reporting of Injuries, Diseases and Dangerous Occurrences Regulations (RIDDOR) 1995. These include injuries to employees and self-employed people (workers). The information available under RIDDOR 95 includes three categories of severity of injury to workers: fatal injuries, defined major injuries and other injuries leading to more than three days absence (over-3-day).

[2] Identified by Standard Industrial Classification 1992 (SIC92) code 85.111, which covers activities of hospitals with or without NHS trust status. Such activities are:
medical and surgical technical care activities such as diagnosis, treatment; operations, analyses, emergency activities, etc;
accommodation activities such as boarding, meals, etc; and
This includes short or long term hospital activities of general and specialised hospitals, sanatoria, preventoria, asylums, mental hospital institutions, rehabilitation centres, leprosaria and other health institutions which have accommodation facilities, including military and prison hospitals.
The activities are chiefly directed to in-patients and carried out under the direct supervision of medical doctors. This classification excludes:
health activities for military personnel in the field (code 75.22);
private consultants' services to in-patients (code 85.12); dental activities without accommodation (code 85.13); and ambulance and rescue activities (code 85.14).

[3] Provisional.

Note:
Results are not adjusted to reflect reporting levels.
The overall unit cost to society of an incident is divided into its component costs: human costs; cost of lost output; and resource costs. The HSE estimates the cost of fatal accidents in the workplace to staff to be £1,435,000. That figure is £38,500 for non-fatal major injuries and £5,500 for other injuries requiring over three day's absence.

NHS: Managers

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance his Department issues to NHS trusts on the recruitment and remuneration of chief executives. [187091]

Ann Keen: National health service trusts are independent employers in their own right and are responsible for employment decisions about their staff, including chief executives and other executive directors, in accordance with general employment law and human resources (HR) best practice.

NHS Employers is the body that provides HR advice and guidance to NHS organisations.

There are separate arrangements for foundation trusts. "The NHS Foundation Trust Code of Governance" published by Monitor sets out a common overarching framework for the corporate governance of NHS foundation trusts and complements the statutory and regulatory obligations on them.

The NHS chief executive wrote to NHS trusts and primary care trusts in October 2006 restating the importance of external assessors in the recruitment of senior staff. The letter can be found at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Lettersandcirculars/Dearcolleagueletters/DH_4139976

NHS trusts may pay their staff such remuneration and allowances, and employ them on such terms and conditions, as they consider appropriate.

The Department introduced a "Pay framework for very senior managers in strategic and special Health Authorities, Primary Care Trusts and Ambulance Trusts" in 2006 (updated in 2007), copies of which are available in the Library. Although it does not apply to NHS trusts, they are free to adopt its principles.

NHS: Pensions

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when his Department plans to publish the NHS Pension Scheme and NHS Compensation for Premature Retirement Scheme Resource Accounts 2006-07. [187086]

Ann Keen: The NHS Pension Scheme Resource Accounts for the 2006-07 year were laid before Parliament on 22 October 2007.

NHS: Recruitment

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department paid the NHS Confederation to provide the NHS jobs website in the latest period for which figures are available. [185600]

Ann Keen: The Department has allocated £12.5 million in 2007-08 to NHS Employers for the provision of a range of services, including NHS Jobs and its website. The NHS Employers Organisation is part of the NHS Confederation.

NHS: Reorganisation

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which of his Department's officials are working on the NHS next stage review; and what the main areas of responsibility relating to the review of each are. [184564]

Ann Keen: The national health service next stage review is core business for all civil servants in the Department. National working groups have been set up to consider emerging issues which will require action at a national level, including quality improvement, innovation, workforce, leadership, primary and community care strategy. Further work is also being carried out on systems and incentives, informatics and the case for a NHS constitution.

More information on these groups is available on the "Our NHS, our future" website at www.nhs.uk/ournhs.

Palliative Care: Wirral

Stephen Hesford: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent assessment he has made of the effectiveness of palliative care services in Wirral; and if he will make a statement. [184954]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Primary care trusts (PCTs) are responsible within the national health service for commissioning and funding services for their resident population, including end of life care. It is their responsibility, working with the relevant clinical managed networks and key local stakeholders, including those in the voluntary sector, to consider these issues, taking into account evidence from their local population-based needs assessments. Strategic health authorities are responsible for monitoring the PCTs in their area to ensure they are effective and efficient. This includes the provision of end of life care services.

The Government are committed to improving care and people's choices at the end of life, regardless of their condition or their location. We are taking this work forward through the development of a national end of life care strategy for adults, this country's first. The strategy will deliver increased choice to all adult patients, regardless of their condition, about where they live and die. It will help to take forward the commitments in the election manifesto and in the white paper "Our health, our care, our say".

Development of this strategy is being supported by the NHS next stage review, led by Lord Ara Darzi. The next stage review is producing reports on eight key areas of care, including end of life care. Publication of the End of Life Care Strategy has been delayed until summer 2008, to allow the findings of the next stage review to inform and strengthen the national strategy.

Private Finance Initiative

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the total capital value is of each private finance initiative scheme overseen by his Department which has reached financial close, broken down by scheme; and, for each such scheme, (a) over what period repayments will take place and (b) what the total cost of repayment will be, expressed in (i) real terms and (ii) cash terms. [184561]

Note:
For convenience of calculation, the real terms figures do not take account of the minor variations to date included in the cash figures. The overall effect though is negligible i.e. the aggregate real terms figure of £39 billion is almost identical to the effect of simply stripping out compound inflation at 2.5 per cent. from the total cash figure of £59 billion.

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will list his Department's (a) current and (b) planned private finance initiative and public private partnership contracts by (i) total end of life debt owed by the state by final year of payment and (ii) annual state payment by year; and what the total comparative value is of the assets provided. [170540]

Mr. Bradshaw: There are many hundreds of contracts negotiated annually between national health service bodies and private sector suppliers for a full range of services and equipment that involve elements of public private partnerships. These range from service contracts with private hospitals and social care placements to leases of equipment and private finance initiative contracts.

Of the three major areas of public private partnership contracts for which information is collected centrally—private finance initiative (PFI) schemes, NHS local improvement finance trusts (NHS LIFT) and independent treatment centres (ISTCs)—lists have been placed in the Library. For PFI and NHS LIFT the lists show only those schemes which have reached financial close as it is not possible to predict final capital values and annual payments on schemes which are still in the planning or procurement stages. The lists show the estimated capital value of each scheme (an approximation to asset value), where appropriate, as well as the annual unitary payment made by each NHS body to their private sector partner.

For ISTCs, the table shows the total contract value for Wave 1 schemes. The total contract value represents the estimated nominal value at the time of signing, calculated in accordance with an estimate of the inflation index as specified in each contract. Procurement of Phase 2 of the ISTC programme is ongoing and all contractual values remain commercial in confidence at this time.

In the case of the PFI schemes, under current accounting standards the facilities do not appear on the balance sheet of the NHS body during the life of the contract; and by the end of the contract all the debt raised by the private sector has been paid back. So although the facility will have a residual value when it reverts to the ownership of the NHS trust or primary care trust at the end of the contract, it will go on their balance sheets as an asset without an off-setting liability or 'debt'.

In the case of NHS LIFT schemes the facilities also do not appear on the balance sheet of the NHS body during the life of the contract. However, the shorter contract lengths (typically 25 years compared with 30 or more in a PFI scheme) mean there is a small outstanding debt owed by the NHS LIFT project company at the end of the contract (i.e. their outstanding borrowings). In NHS LIFT this is a project company 'risk' in terms of recouping enough from the future use or disposal of the asset to meet this debt (known as 'residual value risk'). The NHS body has an option to buy the facility or walk away from the contract, in which case the project company must look to sell the facility on the open market or lease it out again. So again, there is no 'debt' owed by the NHS body at the end of the contract.

In the case of the ISTCs, where the contract lengths are much shorter, many of the contracts involve a residual value payment to the contractor at the end of the term. This means that in this case the 'residual value' risk lies with the NHS (i.e. the risk here is that the theoretical residual value will exceed the actual market value that can be achieved). So there is a 'debt' owed by the NHS body at the end of the contract.

Information on the ISTC contracts that involve residual value (RV) payments and the amounts in each case have also been placed in the Library.

Psychiatry: Waiting Lists

Stephen Hesford: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what average length of time a patient waited to be referred for psychological therapies in (a) England and (b) Wirral, West constituency in the last 12 months. [187847]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The length of time a patient treated by Wirral primary care trust waits for psychological therapies varies with the severity of their condition. However, since December 2007, waiting times for mild to moderate mental health treatment are under 18 weeks, and waiting times for more complex therapies and cognitive behaviour therapy are, in the vast majority of cases, a maximum of 18 weeks.

Average waiting times for psychological therapies are not collected centrally. These waiting times will improve over the next few years as the Government's substantial additional investment in improving access to psychological therapies, announced in October last year, begins to be rolled-out across England.

Regional European Offices: Health

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the address is of each of the regional health Brussels offices. [184646]

Dawn Primarolo: Where health is covered at a European Union (EU) level by regional offices in Brussels, it is addressed as part of a broad range of policies. Decisions to fund and prioritise health in regional offices in Brussels are the responsibility of Regional Assemblies and local authorities.

At present, the Northwest Health Brussels office is the only office established by a United Kingdom region to work solely on health affairs at an EU level. This is the office is located at:

North West Health Brussels Office

Sexually Transmitted Diseases: Young People

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many under 25-year olds received treatment for sexually transmitted infections in (a) Romford, (b) Essex and (c) Greater London in 2007. [179664]

Dawn Primarolo: Currently data are only collected nationally on diagnoses in genito-urinary medicine (GUM) clinics and at primary care trust (PCT) level in the National Chlamydia Screening Programme (NCSP).

Information on the diagnoses of sexually transmitted infections (STIs) in GUM clinics is only available at strategic health authority (SHA) level. The London SHA includes Romford and the Greater London areas. The East of England SHA includes Essex.

The number of selected sexually transmitted infections diagnosed in those under the age of 25 in the London SHA and the East of England SHA represented by gender in 2006, the latest date for which information is available, is shown in table 1.

The total number of chlamydia screens and chlamydia positive screens done by the NCSP, by PCT of residence in 2006 for the London SHA and East of England SHA is given in tables 2 and 3.

Table 1: Number of selected STIs diagnosed in those under the age of 25 in the London SHA and the East of England SHA represented by gender: 2006

| | SHA | Male diagnoses | Female diagnoses | Total diagnoses |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2006 | London | 8,872 | 12,534 | 21,406 |
| 2006 | East of England | 4,192 | 6,230 | 10,422 |

Notes:
1. Data by age group are only available for the five main STIs, primary and secondary syphilis, uncomplicated gonorrhoea, uncomplicated chlamydia, anogenital herpes (first attack) and anogenital warts (first attack). As such the figures provided in table 1 are for these five STIs only. Data on the treatment of STIs are not available.
2. Data by age group are only available in the following age groups: <20, 20-24, 25-34, 35-44 and 45+.
3. The data available from the KC60 statutory returns are for diagnoses made in GUM clinics only. Diagnoses made in other clinical settings, such as general practice, are not recorded in the KC60 dataset.
4. The data available from the KC60 statutory returns are the number of diagnoses made, not the number of patients diagnosed. For example, individuals may be diagnosed with chlamydia several times in one year and each diagnosis will be counted separately.
5. The information provided has been adjusted for missing clinic data.
6. Data are unavailable for 2007.

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his policy is on the introduction of a smoking permit; and if he will make a statement. [187446]

Dawn Primarolo: The introduction of smoking permits is not Government policy.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Departmental Publications

Mr. Randall: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what public information booklets were published by his Department in 2007; and what the (a) print run and (b) cost to the Department was in each case. [185799]

Mrs. McGuire: The Department for Work and Pensions began a complete review of all its public facing leaflets during 2006. This initiative has reduced the number of leaflets published by the Department from 178 in June 2006 to just 66 today.

The Department has also procured, from July 2007, a single supplier for its print and associated services which, among other things, will enable us to capture the costs of producing material for the public in the future.

The review of all the Department's leaflets, coupled with the change of supplier, means that obtaining the costs of all of the material published in 2007 could be done only at disproportionate cost.

Disability Living Allowance: Partially Sighted

Kerry McCarthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the answer of 28 January 2008, Official Report, column 61W, on disability living allowance: partially sighted, if he will include severe sight loss as a criterion for qualifying for the higher-rate mobility component of the Disability Living Allowance. [187951]

Mrs. McGuire: I refer the hon. Member to the written answer I gave the hon. Member for Portsmouth, South (Mr. Hancock), on 8 January 2008, Official Report, column 434W.

Housing Benefit: National Insurance

Mr. Rooney: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions by what mechanisms the requirement for a national insurance number to make an application for housing benefit and council tax benefit was introduced. [190269]

Mr. Plaskitt: The requirement to provide a national insurance number in order to claim all social security benefits, including housing benefit and council tax benefit, was introduced from 7 November 1997 by section 19 of the Social Security Administration (Fraud) Act 1997.

Lone Parents: Employment

Helen Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps he is taking to help single parents who are in employment to gain the skills to make progress in the workplace. [184665]

Mr. Lammy: I have been asked to reply.

We have a range of measures to ensure that everyone in the work force, including lone parents, has the opportunity to realise their potential and progress in their careers.

Train to Gain is the Government's premier service to employers, helping them to improve business performance by investing in the skills of all of their employees. Employers can access full public funding for employees who undertake skills for life or a first full Level 2 qualification as well as subsidies to aid individuals progress on to higher level skills.

Individuals on a low income undertaking full time learning for their first full Level 2 or first full Level 3 qualification are eligible for the Adult Learning Grant. This pays adults (aged 19 plus) up to £30 per week, during term time to help with additional costs of learning (for example; books and travel). Adults can also access free information and advice about learning, work and careers through the national learndirect telephone and online advice service and local nextstep face-to-face service.

By 2010-11 we aim to create an adult advancement and careers service which will help people to progress their careers. We will also work with partners to develop a joined-up advice service covering issues such as housing, employment rights, child care, financial and personal advice and support as well as jobs and skills.

Mobility Allowance: Sight Impaired

Mr. Rooney: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions under what regulation the automatic entitlement of registered blind claimants to the higher rate of mobility allowance was removed. [190268]

Mrs. McGuire: People who are registered blind have never had automatic entitlement to the higher rate mobility component of disability living allowance or its predecessor mobility allowance.

Pension Service: Disability and Carer's Service

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his estimate is of the likely effect on his Department's expenditure for the Department in each year until 2025 of merging the Pension Service and the Disability and Carer's Service. [187706]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Department's three Year Business Plans for 2008-11 will be published on 28 February 2008, and will be placed in the Library. These will include information about the Department's spending on administration over that period. The business plan for the new Pension, Disability and Carers Service Agency will be published ready for its launch on 1 April 2008, and will contain information about resources.

The merging of the Pension Service and the Disability and Carers Service will create an opportunity to streamline elements of existing functions, particularly in senior management and internal support services, allowing more resource to be redirected to front-line customer service than would have been possible without the merger. Detailed plans have yet to be drawn up about the size and phasing of this redirection.

The merger itself is not expected to have an impact on expenditure on state benefits (Annually Managed Expenditure (AME)). Levels of benefit expenditure are driven principally by demography and benefit policy. It is not expected that the new Agency will execute policy in a way that will change expenditure levels from what they would have been under two separate agencies.

Pension Service: Manpower

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of staff in the Pension Service and the Disability and Carer's Service in each year until 2018. [187707]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: No estimates of work force plans to 2018 have been drawn up. The Department's three Year Business Plans for 2008-11 will be published on 28 February 2008, and will be placed in the Library. The business plan for the new Pension, Disability and Carers Service Agency will be published ready for its launch on 1 April 2008, and will contain information about resources.

Social Security Benefits: Tranquillisers

Jim Dobbin: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many tranquiliser addicts are in receipt of disability benefits. [190357]

Mrs. McGuire: The information is not available.

Winter Fuel Payments

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people received winter fuel payments in West Lancashire constituency in the most recent period for which figures are available. [189826]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: In winter 2006-07, 20,270 people in the West Lancashire constituency received a winter fuel payment. We expect the number to be similar for this winter.

Notes:

1. Figures rounded to the nearest 10.

2. Parliamentary constituencies are assigned by matching postcodes against the relevant ONS postcode directory.

Information directorate 100 per cent. data.

The following questions and answers were received for publication on 14 January 2008.

Aviation

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many miles he and other Ministers in his Department travelled on short haul flights in the last 12 months; and what estimate he has made of the total amount of carbon emissions produced as a result of these flights; [172565]

(2) how many air miles were travelled by Ministers in his Department in each year since 2000; and what estimate he has made of the total amount of carbon dioxide emissions produced as a result. [172240]

Mrs. McGuire: Since 1999 the Government have published a list of all overseas travel by Cabinet Ministers costing over £500. Information for the last financial year was published on 25 July 2007. Details for the current financial year will be published as soon as possible after the end of the financial year. From next year, the list will include details of overseas visits undertaken by all Ministers. All ministerial travel is undertaken in accordance with the Ministerial code.

All central Government ministerial and official air travel has been offset from 1 April 2006. Departmental aviation emissions are calculated on an annual basis and subsequently offset through payments to a central fund. The fund purchases certified emissions reductions credits from energy efficiency and renewable energy projects with sustainable development benefits, located in developing countries.

In addition, offsetting the flights of Departmental for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, the Department for International Development, and the Prime Minister has been backdated to 1 April 2005.

A list of Government Carbon Offsetting Fund members, their emission figures and what activities they have offset through the fund is available at:

http://www.defra.gov.uk/environment/climatechange/uk/carbonoffset/government.htm

Carers' Allowances

Mr. Henderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether it is his policy to maintain the value of the carer's allowance in real terms. [177029]

Mrs. McGuire: Carer's allowance is increased every April in line with movement in the retail prices index and there are currently no plans to change these arrangements. However, the future of carer's allowance is now being examined as part of the review of the Prime Minister's 1999 national carers' strategy. The review is due to be published in spring 2008.

Child Support Agency

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many child support cases have been passed to the clerical team in Bolton Child Support Agency Office to progress from (a) the Vale of York and (b) England; and if he will make a statement; [167257]

(2) what the average length of time was taken by the clerical team in Bolton Child Support Agency Office (a) to progress to each stage and (b) to resolve a child support case passed to them from another area was in the last period for which figures are available; [167258]

(3) how many people work at the (a) Falkirk and (b) Bolton office of the Child Support Agency. [167260]

Mr. Plaskitt: The administration of the Child Support Agency is the matter for the Chief Executive.

He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 11 January 2008:

In reply to your recent parliamentary question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, how many child support cases have been passed to the clerical team in Bolton to progress from (a) the Vale of York and (b) England; and if he will make a statement. [167257] and

What the average length of time taken by the clerical team in Bolton (a) to progress to each stage and (b) to resolve a child support case passed to them from another area was in the last period for which figures are available. [167258] and

How many people work at the (a) Falkirk and (b) Bolton office of the Child Support Agency. [167260]

The Agency contracted out the management of its clerical cases to Vertex Data Science Ltd in September 2006. They process this work on our behalf at the Bolton site. The Agency's six regional centres refer clerical cases to the Bolton site. Each of these centres are responsible for clients within regions that are not determined by parliamentary constituency or national boundaries. The information you request on the number of cases referred to the Bolton site is therefore not available. However, what I can tell you is that there are around 23,400 live cases in Bolton.

Child maintenance applications are processed clerically where, due to technical issues, they cannot be advanced on our computer system. The point at which this occurs, and the activity required to work the case through to a successful outcome for clients, varies significantly. Cases processed on the computer system are automatically monitored and information recorded. The extra resources required to replicate this for clerical cases, has instead been focused on improving maintenance outcomes for children. The information you requested on the time taken to progress to each stage is therefore unavailable.

There are currently around 1,035 Agency people in the Falkirk Centre, of whom 106 are currently working on clerical cases. Vertex Data Science Ltd is responsible for employing the necessary staff to deliver the clerical case service from the Bolton site.

I hope you find this answer helpful.

Child Support Agency Office

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when he last visited a Child Support Agency office. [172131]

Mr. Plaskitt: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions has not visited any Child Support Agency offices since his appointment in June 2007, but has planned visits in the new year. However, both myself and my noble Friend Lord McKenzie of Luton made several visits to Child Support Agency offices in 2007.

Child Support Agency: ICT

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many times the specification for the CS2 IT project entered into with EDS in September 2000 was changed in each year since 2000. [165077]

Mr. Plaskitt: The administration of the Child Support Agency is a matter for the Chief Executive. He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Community Care Grants

Mr. Rooney: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what percentage of internal reviews of community care grant decisions were successful (a) at each benefit delivery centre and (b) nationally in the latest period for which figures are available; [174972]

(2) what the average time taken to determine an internal review request on a community care grant decision was (a) at each benefit delivery centre and (b) nationally in the latest period for which figures are available; [174973]

(3) how many outstanding internal review requests there were on community care grant decisions at each benefit delivery centre in each month between March and August 2007. [174974]

Mr. Plaskitt [holding answer 18 December 2007]: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, Lesley Strathie. I have asked her to provide my hon. Friend with the information requested.

Letter from Lesley Strathie, dated 14 January 2008:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your questions asking what percentage of internal reviews of Community Care Grant decisions were successful at each Benefit Delivery Centre and nationally in the latest period for which figures are available; what the average time taken to determine an internal review request on a Community Care Grant decision was at each Benefit Delivery Centre and nationally in the latest period for which figures are available and how many outstanding internal review requests there were on Community Care Grant decisions at each Benefit Delivery Centre in each month between March and August 2007. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

Over the course of 2007 there has been a very large increase in Crisis Loan applications. Extra resources have been provided and we have now nearly doubled our staffing to meet this rising demand. We have had to temporarily divert staff from review activity until these extra resources were in place. Crisis Loan delivery is a priority and unfortunately this has led to backlogs of reviews occurring in some locations. We are working hard to eradicate these backlogs where they have occurred and have instigated activity to prioritise urgent cases.

An 'internal review' has been interpreted as a review at Jobcentre Plus requested by an applicant, i.e. a first review.

The percentage of first reviews of Community Care Grant decisions which were successful at each Benefit Delivery Centre and nationally for October 2007 is given in table 1. A first review is defined as successful if the award is increased on review (where the initial decision was either a partial award or a refusal).

The average time taken to determine a first review request on a Community Care Grant decision at each Benefit Delivery Centre and nationally for October 2007 is given in table 2.

The time to determine an individual first review request is measured in whole working days from the date of receipt of the request to the date of the decision, inclusive. The minimum time recorded to determine an individual first review request is one day, even if the request is determined immediately.

The number of outstanding first review requests on Community Care Grant decisions at each Benefit Delivery Centre at the end of each month from March to August 2007 is given in table 3.

Copies of the tables have been placed in the House of Commons Library.

I hope that this is helpful.

Consolatory Payments

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the answer of 27 November 2007, Official Report, column 329W, on consolatory payments, what the total value of consolatory payments made by the Child Support Agency was in each year since 1992; and what the value was of the single largest such payment. [175485]

Mr. Plaskitt [holding answer 18 December 2007]: The administration of the Child Support Agency is a matter for the chief executive. He will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Stephen Geraghty, dated 11 January 2008:

In reply to your recent Parliamentary Question about the Child Support Agency, the Secretary of State promised a substantive reply from the Chief Executive.

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, pursuant to the answer of 27 November 2007, Official Report, column 329W on consolatory payments what the total value of consolatory payments made by the Child Support Agency was in each year since 1992; and what the value was of the single largest such payment.

Such information as is available is included in the following table. Information prior to 1 December 2001 is not available.

| | Consolatory payments (£ million) |
|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 0.696 |
| 2002-03 | 0.661 |
| 2003-04 | 0.406 |
| 2004-05 | 0.582 |
| 2005-06 | 0.608 |
| 2006-07 | 0.666 |

The largest single consolatory payment made by the Agency is £1,550.00.

I hope you find this answer helpful.

Council Tax Benefits: Scotland

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much the Government transferred each year to the Scottish Executive for the payment of council tax benefit in Scotland in each of the last five years. [176677]

Mr. Plaskitt: No payments are made by the UK Government to the Scottish Executive for the payment of council tax benefit (CTB) in Scotland.

However, local authorities in Scotland claim subsidy directly from DWP for CTB they pay. The amounts of subsidy paid since 2002-03 are as follows:

Council tax benefit subsidy paid to Scottish local authorities

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 294 |
| 2003-04 | 307 |
| 2004-05 | 345 |
| 2005-06 | 354 |
| 2006-07 | 359 |

Note:
All information is from audited subsidy claims with the exception of that for 2006/07 which is from unaudited claims.

Departmental Buildings

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what (a) buildings and (b) land of (i) his Department and (ii) the (A) non-departmental public bodies, (B) agencies and (C) independent statutory bodies for which his Department is responsible have been sold since 7 May 1997; what the sale price of each (1) was at the time of sale and (2) is at current prices; and whether the money received was (x) retained by his Department or (y) claimed by the Treasury in each case. [174892]

Mrs. McGuire: The entire DWP estate was sold (freehold, feuhold and long leasehold interests) or transferred (short leasehold interests) through its "PRIME" PFI contract to Land Securities Trillium (LST), in April 1998 for the original DSS estate (comprising 972 buildings) and further in December 2003 when PRIME was expanded to include the former Employment Service (ES) estate (comprising 1108 buildings). The proceeds of £250 million for the DSS Estate in April 1998 were released to HM Treasury. In 2003, the Department and LST agreed a vacant possession value of £140 million for the properties covered by the expanded PRIME contract. The Department decided to receive this amount split into an up-front payment of £100 million, which was released to HM

Treasury, and a reduction in the annual unitary charge over the life of the contract, equivalent to the £40 million balance.

Following the expanded PRIME contract in 2003, DWP retained two properties (Ranmoor Hall, Sheffield and Storey Street, Hull) which were subsequently sold in 2005 and 2006 respectively for a total of £5.075 million and the funds transferred to DWP.

We are unable to provide current prices for the full 2080 buildings due to the commercially sensitive nature of the information for the PFI provider.

The Health and Safety Executive (HSE), at the end of 2004-05, and, as part of a PFI contract, handed over all of the land and buildings at the Sheffield site to ICB Ltd. A prepayment for their fair value of £4.6 million, as determined by the contract, is recognised in the accounts and amortised evenly over the life of the PFI contract. No cash was received for this transaction.

As part of the same deal, HSE received an additional cash payment of £600,000 in 2004-05 (£650,000 at current prices) which was retained by HSE as a profit on disposal and sold the Royal Exchange Building (Sheffield) for £530,000 in 2005-06 (£562,000 at current prices). There was no profit or loss on this sale and HSE retained the cash.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many and what proportion of his Department's staff are employed within each salary band; what the title and role of each position within each salary band is; and for each salary band what the (a) bonus structure, (b) retirement provision, (c) expenses provision, (d) total expenses incurred in each of the last 10 years, (e) average age of employee, (f) number of (i) women and (ii) men and (g) ethnic composition is. [171409]

Mrs. McGuire: The information is as follows:

1. Number and proportion of Department for Work and Pension (DWP) staff employed within each salary band

The following table shows the number of staff employed by DWP at September 2007.

| Civil service grade | Total staff | Percentage of staff by grade |
|---|---|---|
| SCS | 293 | 0.28 |
| Grade 6 | 621 | 0.5 |
| Grade 7 | 1,470 | 1.41 |
| SEO | 2,699 | 2.58 |
| HEO | 7,552 | 7.21 |
| EO | 37,469 | 35.79 |
| AO | 49,072 | 46.87 |
| AA | 5,511 | 5.27 |
| DWP Total | 104,687 | 100 |

Notes:
1. The numbers shown are whole time equivalent (WTE).
2. The data do not include the Rent Service or the Health and Safety Executive.
3. Temporary staff are not included

2. The title and role of each position within each salary band

The Department's HR data are compiled using definitions and standards provided by the Office for National Statistics from their Annual Civil Service Employment Survey September 2007.

Each role within every salary band/grade in the Department can be categorised in accordance with the Professional Skills for Government (PSG) career groupings as follows:

|---|---|
| Corporate Service Delivery | Communications/Marketing |
| | Finance |
| | Human Resources |
| | Information Technology |
| | Legal |
| | Other |
| | Procurement |
| Operational Delivery | Operational Delivery |
| Policy delivery | Policy Delivery |

It would be disproportionately costly to collate information about the specific title and role of every position in DWP.

3. The bonus structure for each salary band

(a) Junior Bonus Structure

DWP employees in pay bands below SCS are eligible for an annual individual performance bonus if they attain a 'top', 'higher' or 'majority' rating under the annual performance and development system (PDS). There is a guided distribution for performance ratings awarded through PDS which is top 15-20 per cent., higher 30-35 per cent., majority 40-45 per cent. and lower 3-8 per cent. The amount of bonus awarded is differentiated on the basis of the employee's pay band and the performance level achieved.

(b) SCS Bonus Structure

The structure for bonuses for the SCS pay bands 1, 2 and 3 is set out in the recommendations from the Senior Salaries Review Body (SSRB) and the Government's response to those recommendations.

Pay band 1 and 2 (excluding Executive team) individual bonuses are awarded by the DWP SCS Pay Committee on the recommendation of line managers, based on the level of success with which an SCS member has met their in-year objectives, and relative to all others in their pay band.

Executive team bonuses are awarded by the DWP Remuneration Committee and currently comprise two elements; 80 per cent. of the overall bonus cost envelope for individual bonus (on the same basis as SCS PB1 and 2), and 20 per cent. dependent on the assessment of DWP performance overall.

4. The retirement provision for each salary band

DWP has no mandatory retirement age for grades below SCS and subject to satisfactory performance and a requirement for their services, allows employees to choose how long they want to remain in work. For the SCS, the mandatory retirement age is 65.

DWP offers all employees, regardless of grade, an occupational pension scheme when they join the Department. Employees have the choice of a career earnings scheme or a partnership scheme that provides pension benefits based on contributions made.

5. The expenses provision for each salary band

Where extra costs are incurred by individuals in connection with their work for the Department expenses are paid against the following categories:

Travel including public transport costs, private mileage for use of own car where appropriate.

Subsistence to covering meals and potential extra costs for being away from normal place of work—including day and overnight rates and hotel costs.

Miscellaneous expenses such as those incurred in connection with permanent transfers and selection interviews.

6. Total expenses incurred in each of the last 10 years for each salary band

Total expenses incurred in each of the past two years is as follows:

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2005-06 | 85.1 |
| 2006-07 | 91.9 |

The figure for 2006-07 represents approximately 2.9 per cent. of total staff costs.

Information is not available for each salary band or, other than at disproportionate cost, prior to 2005-06. The figures provided do not include the Rent Service or the Health and Safety Executive.

7. Average age of employee and number of (i) women and (ii) men in each salary band

The following table shows the breakdown of staff at September 2007.

| Civil service grade | Men | Women | Total | Average age (years) |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| SCS | 189 | 104 | 293 | 46.10 |
| Grade 6 | 359 | 262 | 621 | 45.75 |

2. The data do not include the Rent Service or the Health and Safety Executive.
3. Temporary staff are not included.

8. Ethnic composition

The following table shows the ethnic mix of DWP staff by grade as at September 2007.

| Ethnic | SCS | Grade 6 | Grade 7 | SEO | HEO | EO | AO | AA |

Notes:
1. Numbers less than 5 have been replaced with (*) because we cannot disclose the information due to protocols which are in place to protect personal information.
2. The numbers in the table show the ethnicity of those staff that have declared their ethnic origin. Not all DWP employees have chosen to do so and therefore the numbers do not add up to the total DWP work force.
3. Temporary staff are not included.
4 The data do not include the Rent Service or the Health and Safety Executive.

Departmental Pay

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the value is of (a) pay supplements, (b) bonuses and (c) other incentive packages that are payable in his Department on the basis of geographic location; how many people are in receipt of each payment; and what the total cost to his Department of each payment was in 2006-07. [171192]

Mrs. McGuire: The information is as follows:

(a) DWP has four geographical pay areas:

national;

inner London;

outer London; and specified location zone (SLPZ).

The differential cost is not a standard amount but is calculated in each individual pay range.

The current numbers of staff in post in each individual pay area, the April 2007 value of the average additional cost above national rates for each of the main grades and the estimated total additional cost in 2006-07 are contained in the following tables:

Table 1: Staff in post (April 2007) and additional average salary value above national rates in 2006-07

| | SLPZ | | Outer London | | Inner London | | Total staff |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Staff | £ | Staff | £ | Staff | £ | |

| Band F/Grade 7 | 8 | 3,604 | 19 | 2,220 | 228 | 3,497 | 255 |
| Band G/Grade 6 | 3 | 3,186 | 5 | 1,921 | 71 | 3,518 | 79 |
| Total | 1,910 | — | 5,002 | — | 10,118 | — | 17,030 |

The lower than expected average differences for Grades 6 and 7 in the outer London pay area are because a larger proportion of salaries are lower down the pay scale for this group than elsewhere.

Table 2: Estimated total additional cost of pay areas in 2006-07

In addition to these pay areas, DWP pays a location based recruitment and retention addition (RRA) to staff based on a number of Scottish islands:

Orkney (Kirkwall);

Shetland (Lerwick); and Outer Hebrides (Stornoway).

In 2006-07 an estimated 106 staff were eligible for payments at a total cost of some £125,000.

(c) DWP does not have any incentive packages in place that is based on any particular geographical locations.

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many Departmental employees were paid (a) over £60,000 and (b) over £100,000 per annum, inclusive of bonuses, in the most recent financial year for which figures are available. [173106]

Mrs. McGuire: The information is in the following table:

| | Number of employees |
|---|---|
| Over £60,000 | 405 |
| Over £100,000 | 48 |

Note:
The number of employees shown as being paid over £60,000 does not include those being paid over £100,000.

The table gives figures for the number of employees who were paid over £60,000 and over £100,000 (gross) in total during the financial year April 2006 to March 2007. The figures in the table include bonus payments to employees. The award of performance bonuses, which are used to help drive performance, are dependent on achievement of business objectives, and relative to performance of others within the same pay band.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many (a) loans, (b) lump sum payments, (c) grants, (d) crisis loans and (e) budgeting loans have been made by his Department to people in each region in each month since January 2000. [174730]

Mr. Plaskitt [holding answer 17 December 2007]: The available information on Social Fund awards based on Government Office Regions has been placed in the Library.

Disability Living Allowance

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what checks are made on the immigration status of applicants for disability living allowance who declare themselves to be British; and if he will make a statement. [174752]

Mrs. McGuire: The administration of disability living allowance is a matter for the acting chief executive of the disability and carers service, Mrs. Vivien Hopkins. She will write to the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Vivien Hopkins, dated 11 January 2008:

You asked the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions, what checks are made on the immigration status of applicants for disability living allowance who declare themselves to be British; and if he will make a statement.

The Minister for Disabled People, Anne McGuire MP, promised you a substantive reply from the Acting Chief Executive of the Disability and Carers Service.

I can confirm that where an applicant to Disability Living Allowance declares themselves to be British, they have a National Insurance Number and there is nothing in the information we hold or the customer has provided to contradict the declaration they have made, we enquire no further about their immigration status.

In order to get a National Insurance number applicants have to undergo rigorous checks in respect of their nationality and right to remain in the United Kingdom. This includes document validation.

I hope this reply is helpful.

Disability Living Allowance: Mentally Ill

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent representations he has received on the rights of people with mental illnesses to claim the higher level of mobility benefit under the disability living allowance. [176006]

Mrs. McGuire: Our records show that we have received a small number of recent representations relating to the rights of people with mental illnesses to claim the higher rate mobility component.

Disability Living Allowance: Sight Impaired

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many (a) blind and (b) partially sighted people are claiming disability living allowance mobility component. [178954]

Mrs. McGuire: The information is not available in the format requested. At May 2007 there were 61,420 people in receipt of the mobility component in disability living allowance whose main disabling condition was that they were blind or they were deaf and blind.

EU Grants and Loans

Mr. Heathcoat-Amory: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people employed in his Department work on administering EU structural funds, and what the cost of such staff was in 2006-07. [176043]

Mr. Plaskitt: In 2006-07, 46 people were employed in the Department for Work and Pensions on administering EU structural funds, and the running costs related to these staff were £2.2 million.

Health and Safety Executive: Manpower

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many inspectors were employed by the Health and Safety Executive in 2006-07; and how many are expected to be employed in (a) 2007-08 and (b) 2008-09. [173798]

Mrs. McGuire: At 1 April 2007, the Health and Safety Executive (HSE) employed 1,439 inspectors and it estimates that it will employ approximately 1,400 by 31 March 2008. HSE should be able to provide an estimate of the number of inspectors it expects to employ in 2008-09 following confirmation of its resource settlement for the period April 2008 to March 2011.

Housing Benefit

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many people had their (a) housing benefit and (b) council tax benefit claim backdated by more than three months in each of the last five years; [175242]

(2) how much was spent on backdating of (a) housing benefit and (b) council tax benefit claims for those whose claims were backdated by (i) less than three months and (ii) three months or more in each of the last five years. [175243]

Mr. Plaskitt: Prior to April 2007 no information was collected from local authorities on the number of people or the amount of backdating paid out to housing benefit and council tax benefit claimants.

Following the introduction of a new data source, this information will become available in the future but at the moment there are insufficient data to estimate the number of people or the amount spent on backdating.

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what measures have been put in place to ensure that the proposed reduction in backdating of housing benefit claims and council tax benefit claims does not have an adverse impact on vulnerable households. [175244]

Mr. Plaskitt: We have worked to ensure that people can gain access to housing benefit and council tax benefit quickly and simply by allowing combined claims with DWP administered benefits, creating new opportunities to claim benefits via third sector partners and enabling local authorities to take telephone and electronic claims.

This current package will build on these existing measures to simplify the claims process for pensioners further by allowing people who apply for pension credit by telephone to also claim their council tax and housing benefit at the same time, without the need to submit a claim form. These measures will reduce the need for backdating for all claimants, including those in vulnerable households.

Incapacity Benefit

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many and what proportion of applicants for incapacity benefit underwent a face-to-face assessment as part of the process to approve their claim in each year since 1997. [173911]

Mrs. McGuire: Information about the proportion of applicants for incapacity benefits who underwent a face to face assessment and data prior to September 1998 is not available. The available information is in the following table.

Number of medical examinations for incapacity benefits

| | £ Number |
|---|---|
| 1 September 1998 to March 1999 | 330,551 |
| April 1999 to March 2000 | 450,962 |
| April 2000 to March 2001 | 374,140 |
| April 2001 to March 2002 | 485,221 |
| April 2002 to March 2003 | 520,419 |
| April 2003 to March 2004 | 497,614 |
| April 2004 to March 2005 | 457,410 |
| April 2005 to March 2006 | 493,907 |
| April 2006 to March 2007 | 507,695 |
| April 2007 to 30 November 2007 | 362,773 |

Notes:
1. The figures cover recipients in all age groups.
2. The figures represent all medical examinations and include repeat assessments—not just assessments for new claims.

Jobseeker's Allowance

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if an applicant for job seeker's allowance (JSA) is to be fast-tracked on to the new gateway from day one of their application, what duration that applicant must have spent previously claiming JSA. [178997]

Mr. Plaskitt: I refer my right hon. Friend to the answer I gave him on 10 January 2008, Official Report, column 718W.

Occupational Pensions

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the aggregate size of contributions to pension funds was in each year since 1997. [175053]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The information requested is as follows.

Total contributions to private pension schemes, 1997 to 2005

| | Total contributions to pension schemes (£ billion) |
|---|---|
| 1997 | 38.8 |
| 1998 | 41.2 |
| 1999 | 44.0 |
| 2000 | 47.4 |
| 2001 | 49.0 |
| 2002 | 54.4 |
| 2003 | 62.5 |
| 2004 | 67.6 |
| 2005 | 75.5 |

Notes:
1. All figures are estimates for the United Kingdom. 2005 is the latest year for which the data are available.
2. The answer covers funded occupational schemes, unfunded occupational schemes, and personal pension schemes.
3. Total pension contributions include both employee and employer contributions.

Source:
Office for National Statistics (ONS)

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many occupational pension schemes have entered wind-up procedures in each year since 1997; and what percentage of occupational pension schemes operating in each year each figure represents. [175074]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The information requested is not available in the format requested.

Occupational Pensions: Low Incomes

Mr. MacNeil: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what steps his Department is taking to ensure that employers provide access to an occupational pension scheme for their employees; [175326]

(2) what plans he has to give low income employees access to an occupational pension. [175327]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Through the Pensions Bill 2007 currently before Parliament we will introduce a requirement on all employers to automatically enrol workers who are eligible into a qualifying workplace pension scheme. This will help to overcome barriers to saving such as inertia. Our estimates indicate this will result in between six and nine million people newly participating or saving more in workplace pensions, transforming the savings culture in the UK.

The Bill will introduce for the first time a mandatory employer contribution which will provide a clear incentive to save, and help those on low and moderate incomes to build up their pension funds. Overall annual pension contributions are estimated to increase by up to around £10 billion by 2015.

Pension Credit: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners in each London constituency did not take up their entitlement to pension credit in each of the last five years. [175357]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Estimates of eligibility and take-up are not available below the level of Great Britain. It is not therefore possible to say how many people are eligible for pension credit and of those how many did not take up their entitlement in each London constituency.

Latest estimates of take-up rates and the number of pensioners who were entitled to but not claiming pension credit in Great Britain were published in the "Income Related Benefits Estimates of Take-Up in 2005/06" report. A copy of this report is available in the Library.

Pensions

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners receive (a) the basic state pension alone and (b) the basic state pension and pension credits. [174872]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: 9,327,800 pensioners receive state pension and 2,360,900 receive the state pension and pension credit.

Notes:

1. Data are taken from 5 per cent. extracts of the Pensions Strategy Computer System and Income Support Computer System, therefore figures are subject to a degree of sampling variation. They are also adjusted to be consistent with the overall caseload from the Work and Pensions Longitudinal Study.

2. Caseload figures are rounded to the nearest 100.

3. State pension awards include those receiving basic state pension, inherited basic state pension and basic state pension plus additional pension and/or graduated retirement benefit. The figures do not include those receiving only additional pension and/or graduated retirement benefit.

4. Pension credit awards include Guarantee Credit only, Guarantee Credit and Savings Credit and Savings Credit only

5. Includes state pension overseas cases.

6. State pension data for March 2007 have been merged with pension credit data for May 2007 to provide an estimated number getting both benefits. This method is consistent with that used to produce the 5 per cent. Client Group Analysis data.

Source:

5 per cent. sample, DWP Information Directorate.

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the percentage of pensioners who will retire in the 2007-08 fiscal year and are enrolled in an (a) final salary scheme and (b) defined contribution scheme. [175060]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The information is not available in the format requested.

Pensions: Financial Assistance Scheme

Susan Kramer: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much the Financial Assistance Scheme for pensions has paid out to individuals in each year for which figures are available. [175722]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Total assistance paid out to scheme members since the Financial Assistance Scheme was announced in May 2004 is shown in the following table.

| | Gross expenditure (£) |
|---|---|
| 2005-06 | 99,333 |
| 2006-07 | 3,730,468 |
| 2007-08 up to and including 28 December 2007 | 8,658,973 |
| Overall total up to and including 28 December 2007 | 12,488,774 |

Pensions: Insolvency

Mr. Waterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his estimate is of the number of companies which face increases in their annual payments to the Pension Protection Fund as a result of their overturned appeals against its levy. [175065]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Board of Pension Protection Fund (PPF) is responsible for the calculation of the Pension Protection Levy and is required by law to publish in advance the rules it has determined for calculating the levy for each financial year. No eligible scheme is required to pay more than the amount correctly calculated in accordance with the rules determined by the board.

Eligible schemes may use a statutory appeals process to challenge whether an individual levy invoice has been calculated correctly, in accordance with the rules and using the relevant scheme data. As at 31 November 2007, 3,520 invoices have been issued to eligible schemes. Of these 3,520 invoices issued, less than 1 per cent. of schemes (34) had applied for their 2007-08 invoice to be formally reviewed by the PPF. 25 of the applications met the criteria for a review. Nine did not meet these criteria for a number of reasons, including not meeting the 28-day deadline for querying a levy invoice. 10 reviews have been completed. One application for review was successful, resulting in a revised invoice being issued. In nine cases the original invoice was found to be in accordance with the published rules. 15 appeals await completion of the review process. No scheme has been re-invoiced for a higher amount for 2007-08 as a result of an overturned appeal.

Schemes may apply to the Pension Protection Fund Ombudsman if they are dissatisfied with the decision of the PPF's Reconsideration Committee. No applications have been received by the PPFO for 2007-08.

Pensions: Overseas Residence

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many overseas recipients of the graduated pension have their pensions frozen. [176736]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: In March 2007 there were around 300,000 pensioners living overseas with their state pension, which includes graduated retirement benefit, frozen.

Note:

The answer covers pensioners with graduated retirement benefit in payment whether as a result of their own accruals or through inheritance.

Pensions: Wales

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many residents of Wales had cases managed by the Pension Service's Newcastle office in the last 12-month period for which figures are available. [174845]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: All new claims to state pension and pension credit in the last 12 months for residents in Wales have been managed by Swansea Pension Centre.

However the National Pension Centre in Newcastle currently manages a caseload of approximately 4.2 million state pension customers. Included in this are 180,000 residents of Wales. All of these cases are historically over 12 months old. National Pension Centre is also responsible nationally for cases requiring specialist action. They own these cases for the duration of the action and currently there are 1,638 cases that reside in Wales.

All the statistics are current as of October 2007.

Remploy

Chris Bryant: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the value is of work sub-contracted by Remploy's Furniture Group to other companies outside Remploy. [175280]

Mrs. McGuire: Remploy has contracted out work to the value of £81,229 from its furniture business in the first eight months of the 2007-08 financial year.

Retirement: West Midlands

Ms Gisela Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of people in the West Midlands who have not made financial provisions for their retirement; and if he will make a statement. [175441]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The information requested is not available.

Social Security Benefits: Depression

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what benefits can be claimed by parents of children who have been prescribed drugs for depression and attention deficit hyperactivity disorder; how many cases there were of benefits claimed on this basis in each year since 1996-97; and if he will make a statement. [174264]

Mrs. McGuire: There is a range of benefits that can be claimed by parents of children with health problems. Entitlement to disability living allowance is not linked to particular disabling conditions, but on the extent to which a severely disabled person has personal care needs and/or walking difficulties as a result of their disability. Parents can claim disability living allowance for children who have been prescribed drugs for depression and attention deficit hyperactivity disorder, as long as their disability meets the above criteria. Parents of children who are awarded the middle or highest rate of the care component of disability living allowance may also qualify for carer's allowance or income support if they satisfy the appropriate conditions of entitlement.

For disability living allowance, depression and attention deficit hyperactivity disorder fall into three categories of disabling condition. The available information about the number of cases is in the following table. Information about the number of parents who claim carer's allowance or income support for children who have been prescribed drugs for depression and attention deficit hyperactivity disorder is not available.

Disability living allowance cases in payment to people aged under 16

| | Learning difficulties | Behavioural disorder | Hyperkinetic syndrome |
|---|---|---|---|
| May 1996 | 45,500 | 13,400 | 200 |
| May 1997 | 50,200 | 17,400 | 400 |
| May 1998 | 53,900 | 22,600 | 500 |

| May 2003 | 69,130 | 58,600 | 1,010 |
| May 2004 | 71,680 | 64,340 | 1,060 |
| May 2005 | 74,480 | 69,500 | 1,130 |
| May 2006 | 77,920 | 72,080 | 1,140 |
| May 2007 | 83,080 | 72,690 | 2,150 |

Notes:

1. Figures for May 2002 to May 2007 are rounded to the nearest 10.
2. Figures are for cases in payment only, i.e. they exclude cases where payment has been suspended for example where the claimant is in hospital.
3. Figures for May 1996 to May 2001 are taken from a 5 per cent. sample and are therefore subject to sampling variation.
4. Figures for May 1996 to May 2001 have also been adjusted in line with the WPLS data and rounded to the nearest hundred.
5. Totals may not sum due to rounding.

State Retirement Pensions

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many people were underpaid their state pension in each of the last five years; and how many people complained about such underpayments in each year; [170560]

(2) what estimate he has made of the total amount underpaid to recipients of the state pension in each of the last five years; [170561]

(3) how many people have been refused the payment of money underpaid but due to them for their state pension as a result of a complaint taking place outside the one year guideline period since 2001. [170562]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 3 December 2007]: The information on the number of people who have been underpaid state pension in the last five years is not available and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

The Department derives annual estimates of the amount of state pension that is underpaid due to official error through examination of a random sample of cases. The sample is a small one, and as a result the estimates have wide margins of error. As such the estimates should not be used to draw conclusions about changes over time in the level of underpayments. They do allow us to say with confidence that the level has remained very low as a percentage of state pension expenditure over the last five years.

Estimates of underpayments of state pension for the last five years are in the following table.

| | Underpayments (£ million) | Underpayments as a percentage of expenditure |
|---|---|---|
| 2006-07 | 80 | 0.2 |
| 2005-06 | 60 | 0.1 |
| 2004-05 | 70 | 0.1 |
| 2003-04 | 20 | 0.0 |
| 2002-03 | 80 | 0.2 |

Notes:
1. Monetary estimates are rounded to the nearest £10 million.
2. Percentages are rounded to the nearest 0.1 per cent.

Data Source:
The State Pension Monetary Value of Error Exercise

Complaints data are not separated by individual benefit type and the categories used do not draw out underpaid benefit as a complaint type. We are, however, looking to rectify this in a planned change to our complaints database over the next three months.

Specifically, where it is discovered that a person has been underpaid state pension as a result of an error in the original calculation of their entitlement, arrears of pension are paid from the date from which the person first became entitled. Compensation is considered under the terms of the Departmental Guide to Financial Redress for Misadministration, a copy of which is available in the Library.

Winter Fuel Payments: Cleethorpes

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many eligible pensioners in Cleethorpes constituency received winter fuel allowance in each year since its introduction. [176867]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Information relating to winter fuel payments for the winters of 1997-98 and 1998-99 is not available. The information from winter 1999-2000 is in the following table.

Cleethorpes constituency

| | Payments made |
|---|---|
| 1999-2000 | 16,830 |
| 2000-01 | 18,910 |
| 2001-02 | 19,420 |
| 2002-03 | 19,810 |
| 2003-04 | 20,145 |
| 2004-05 | 20,150 |
| 2005-06 | 20,490 |
| 2006-07 | 20,980 |

Winter Fuel Payments: Hendon

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners in Hendon (a) were entitled to receive and (b) have received winter fuel payments in 2007; how many received the over-80s rate of £300; what additional cold weather payments are available to those on pension credit; how many pensioners in Hendon received such additional payments in the last 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [177498]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: It is not possible to say how many people in Hendon are entitled to receive a winter fuel payment. This is because not everyone aged 60 or over will be entitled to a payment. A person is not entitled to a winter fuel payment if, for example, they are serving a custodial sentence or have been in hospital for more than 52 weeks. Figures for payments made this winter are not yet available. In winter 2006-07 we made 17,760 winter fuel payments to people in the Hendon constituency and of these 4,090 went to people aged 80 or over. We expect the figures for this winter to be similar.

Cold weather payments provide extra help towards heating costs for the poorest and most vulnerable members of our society, including pensioners receiving pension credit, in periods of exceptionally cold weather.

A cold weather payment of £8.50 is made automatically to people awarded pension credit when the average temperature is recorded as, or forecast to be, 0 degrees Celsius or below over seven consecutive days at the weather station linked to the customer's postcode. Savings are not taken into account and cold weather payments are paid in addition to winter fuel payments.

No pensioners in Hendon have received a cold weather payment in the last 12 months as the temperature criterion has not been met.

Elderly: Ministerial Responsibility

Margaret Moran: To ask the Prime Minister if he will appoint a Minister for older people; and if he will bring forward proposals to appoint a commissioner for older people. [189016]

The Prime Minister: The Secretary of State for Work and Pensions is responsible in this area at Cabinet level and has responsibility for delivering the agenda across Government. The Government have set a public service agreement (PSA) target to "Tackle poverty and promote greater independence and well-being in later life." This is the first time that Government have set a PSA target specifically for older people. It complements other PSAs on, for example, health care and employment that address key concerns for those over 50. Work to deliver this PSA target is being taken forward by a number of Departments.

There is currently no plan to appoint a UK commission for older people.

Honours

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Prime Minister if he will make it his policy to bring forward legislative proposals to require the revocation of (a) knighthhoods and (b) other honours where the behaviour or conduct of the holder is held to be dishonourable by the committee which recommended the conferral of the award. [188166]

The Prime Minister: Ministers have meetings with a wide range of organisations and individuals on a range of subjects.

Official Visits: India

Jeremy Corbyn: To ask the Prime Minister which representatives of (a) industry and (b) non-governmental organisations accompanied him on his visit to India in January. [189197]

WALES

Sustainable Development: Transport

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what discussions he has had with (a) the Chancellor of the Exchequer and (b) the Secretary of State for Transport to ensure that part of the new funding of £140 million to promote walking and cycling is made available to the devolved Administrations of the United Kingdom; and if he will make a statement. [189214]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I have regular discussions with all members of the Cabinet.

The funding made available to promote cycling and walking in England by the Department for Transport has come from the existing comprehensive spending review settlement for that Department. The settlements for the devolved Administrations were determined by the application of the Barnett formula in the normal way.

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what discussions he has had with Ministers of the Welsh Assembly Government and the UK Government to ensure that adequate matching funding is available to the successful Connect 2 lottery bid; and if he will make a statement. [189215]

Mr. Paul Murphy: I have regular meetings with ministerial colleagues both in Whitehall and the Assembly Government to discuss issues affecting Wales.

I would like to congratulate Sustrans' successful lottery bid for the UK-wide Connect 2 scheme, which won the public vote for the Big Lottery Fund's "The People's £50 million" contest. The Connect 2 scheme in Wales will see funding for 11 schemes across Wales, including a bridge spanning Cardiff bay and other schemes for Merthyr Tydfil, Newport and Carmarthen.

The UK Government and the Assembly Government match fund a number of schemes, including £60 million in capital grants to improve local roads; £3.9 million on cycling infrastructure schemes to provide infrastructure and promote safe use of the network; £8.1 million in capital grants towards local authority safety schemes; and 5.6 million to local authorities to support local road safety schemes.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Kevin Brennan: Details of overseas visits by officials over the last seven financial years are set out as follows:

| Financial year | Number of visits | Cost (£) |
|---|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 226 | 138,964 |
| 2002-03 | 375 | 240,768 |

Extended Schools

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Yeovil of 21 February 2008, Official Report, columns 849-51W, on extended schools, what the equivalent data are for the Wirral. [190031]

Beverley Hughes: In 2008-09 to 2010-11 a total of £1.3 billion of funding will be made available nationally to support the development of extended schools. The allocations for the Wirral are set out in the following table.

Extended schools funding 2008-2011, Wirral LA

[1] Funding not available until 2009-10

The Department has announced the individual local authority allocations for the next three years for the start-up, sustainability and capital funding streams. The Government have not yet announced the individual local authority allocations for the extended schools subsidy and the academic-focused study support funding.

As my answer to the hon. Member for Yeovil (Mr. Laws) of 21 February 2008, Official Report, columns 849-51W, explained, information is not collected centrally on the number of schools which charge parents for their children to attend extended activities, and what the levels of charges are.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Post Office Closures

9. Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what discussions he has had with Post Office Counters Ltd on its incentive structure for post office closures. [190087]

Mr. McFadden: Post Office Ltd. has no staff incentive structure based on numbers of post office closures.

12. Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what stage the post office closure consultation programme has reached; and if he will make a statement. [190090]

Mr. McFadden: As of this week, 20 area plans have been published and put out to local consultation and final decisions had been announced for 12 of them.

22. Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent assessment he has made of the effect of post office closures on local economies. [190100]

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the effects of post office closures on local economies. [190098]

Mr. McFadden: The Government have asked Post Office Ltd., in drawing up its proposals for post office closures, to consider a range of local socio-economic factors including the impact on local economies and availability of public transport.

Assessment of the local impact of the proposed closure of specific individual post offices is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd., with input from Postwatch, in developing its area plan proposals and consulting locally on them.

Regulatory Reform

13. Mr. Mackay: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what plans he has for further regulatory reform. [190091]

Mr. McFadden: The Government have one of the most respected regulatory reform programmes in the world, focused on improving regulatory outcomes while reducing unnecessary burdens. Our focus is on ensuring this programme delivers effectively.

The Simplification Plans that Departments published in December 2007 showed that Government had delivered £800 million of annual savings for business through these plans.

Agency Workers

14. Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he next expects to meet representatives of small business organisations to discuss the regulation of agency workers. [190092]

Mr. McFadden: The Department is in regular contact with representatives of small businesses to discuss all issues of relevance to the sector.

Wind Farms

15. Mr. Whittingdale: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what account he takes of local opinion in determining applications for onshore wind farms; and if he will make a statement. [190093]

Malcolm Wicks: The Secretary of State takes all representations into account before reaching a decision. Where a local authority, on behalf of the local community, objects to an onshore wind farm application within its boundaries, the Secretary of State is obliged to call a public inquiry. The Secretary of State can also call a discretionary public inquiry in the light of other objections.

Coal-fired Power Stations

16. Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what his policy is on carbon capture at new coal-fired power stations. [190094]

Malcolm Wicks: Following our commitment in last year's Energy White Paper, we will be consulting shortly on carbon capture and storage. This will include seeking views on the recently published draft EU Directive which proposes mandatory carbon capture readiness for all combustion power stations.

Energy Costs

17. Mr. Illsley: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent assessment he has made of the effects of changes in energy costs on energy intensive industries; and if he will make a statement. [190095]

Malcolm Wicks: The Government fully appreciate the significance of energy costs to industry. Therefore my Department meets regularly with members of the Energy Intensive Users' Group and other representative industry groups, to understand the implications for business of changes in these costs. We also seek industry views on strategic energy issues through the Business Energy Forum, which is jointly chaired by Ministers and the CBI.

Lending

18. Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps he is taking to prevent unscrupulous lending practices. [190096]

Mr. Thomas: I am committed to tackling unscrupulous loan sharks who exploit vulnerable people in our poorest communities. In 2004 we established two pilot enforcement teams in Birmingham and Glasgow to track down and prosecute illegal money lenders.

Following evaluation of the pilots I announced £2.8 million in September for a national crackdown on illegal lending. There's now a team in every region of Britain and we have committed to fund this work through the next spending period.

E-mail and Postal Fraud

19. John Barrett: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps his Department is taking to prevent e-mail and postal fraud. [190097]

Mr. McFadden: The Government set out their consumer strategy in their publication "A Fair Deal for All". The strategy recognises that enforcement needs to be more effective at stopping those who deliberately set out to defraud consumers, often targeting the most vulnerable. The Office of Fair Trading takes the lead on tackling scams conducted through mass mailings which pose a serious problem for unwary consumers.

Many ISPs are taking active steps to prevent bad traffic reaching their customers and many have spam e-mail boxes which enable their customers to complain about specific e-mails. Both Government and Ofcom are talking to the ISPs about how we might improve standards across the sector and how those improvements might be made more visible to end users. These discussions now need to reflect the recently published proposals from the European Commission regarding the review of the telecoms regulatory framework and which include recommendations designed to reduce the impact of spam.

Electricity Generation

21. Hugh Bayley: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will commission research on the effects on mortality rates and livelihoods of different forms of electricity generation per MWh of electricity generated. [190099]

Malcolm Wicks: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State has no such plans. If the hon. Member has particular concerns, he could draw them to the attention of the Health Protection Agency or the Health and Safety Executive.

Renewable Energy

23. Tom Levitt: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the merits of feed-in tariffs in encouraging local generation of renewable energy. [190101]

Malcolm Wicks: The Government are absolutely committed to the renewables obligation as a market-based mechanism to deliver renewable energy to the UK.

We are now proposing a new renewable energy strategy and we are developing that within BERR. We will be consulting in the early summer and we will be looking afresh at microgeneration and any proposals to boost microgeneration, including a feed-in tariff arrangement.

I want to make it clear that a fresh look at microgeneration is not at all challenging the mainstream renewables obligation, which we think is fit for purpose.

Flexible Working

Mrs. Hodgson: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many workers are entitled to request flexible working; and if he will make a statement. [190089]

Mr. McFadden: Around six million employees currently enjoy the right to request flexible working, of whom some 3.6 million are parents of young or disabled children. The scope of the law was extended to carers of adults on 6 April 2007, giving the right to an additional 2.65 million employees.

On 6 November 2007, my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister announced that the Government had decided to extend the scope of the right to request flexible working to parents of older children. Imelda Walsh, HR Director of J Sainsbury plc, was appointed to lead an independent review into what the age cut-off should be. She is expected to report in the spring of this year.

Bankruptcy: Wales

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many bankruptcies there were in Wales since 1990, broken down by industry group. [180767]

Mr. McFadden: It is not possible from records held centrally and in a readily available format to provide all the information requested. Table 1 provides the statistics which could be compiled in the time available and which most closely match those requested; to provide additional years', or more detailed, figures would incur disproportionate cost.

Table 1: Bankruptcies in Wales , Government office region (GOR), by Insolvency Trade Classification (ITC)

| Traders | 2000 | 2001 | 2002 | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | 2006[1] |

[1] January to June.

Notes:

1. The Insolvency Trade Classification (ITC) was used to classify trading-related bankruptcies (and company liquidations) until end September 2006. However, only the period from January-June 2006 is provided because of the way the data are held.
2. Only the broad industry groupings under the ITC are shown above, because numbers are relatively small, and to aid interpretation of the figures.
3. By the end of the period shown over 75 per cent. of bankruptcies are recorded as non-traders and so have no associated industry classification.
4. The geographical information presented above is based on bankrupts' postcodes and is subject to an element of missing or unusable data. Nationally, this has been decreasing from around 12 per cent. in 2000 to 4 per cent. in 2006.

Departmental Secondment

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many secondments of staff were made (a) to and (b) from his Department in each year since 1997; which organisations staff were seconded (i) to and (ii) from; how many staff were seconded in each year; for how long each secondment lasted; and what the cost was of each secondment in each year. [167276]

Mr. Thomas: The Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform welcome opportunities to promote and exchange best practice with organisations outside Government by way of secondments.

The details of departmental inward and outward secondments between 1997 and 2005 have been placed in the Libraries of the House. Details of costs are not available. Responsibility for collating details of inward and outward secondments was devolved to departmental groups in 2006 and records from this period are not held centrally. However, in October 2007 departmental groups reported that there were 25 secondees working in BERR from non-Government Departments. A list of these is also being placed in the Libraries of the House.

DEFENCE

Armed Forces: Protective Clothing

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 82W, on armed forces: protective clothing, what items of equipment personnel are issued for use in self-extraction from minefields. [189587]

Des Browne: All deployed personnel are trained in minefield self-extraction procedures using equipment available to them on operations. I am withholding specific details on minefield extraction equipment and techniques as its release would, or would be likely to, prejudice the capability, effectiveness and security of the armed forces.

Defence: Expenditure

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will estimate what defence expenditure in 2007-08 would be if (a) it was at the same level in real terms as in 1984-85, (b) it formed the same proportion of gross domestic product as in 1984-85 and (c) if the proportion of public expenditure accounted for by defence expenditure was the same as the average proportion during the 1980s. [190030]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: HM Treasury's Public Expenditure Statistical Analyses (PESA) 2007 (Cm 7091), available on the HM Treasury website, gives outturn figures for Defence spending back to 1987-88. These include figures for Defence spending as a proportion of total managed expenditure and as a percentage of gross domestic product.

The 1999-2000 edition of PESA—also available online—gives figures back as far as 1983-84, but for technical reasons, these are not necessarily consistent with the latest PESA tables and so are illustrative only.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) staff and (b) full-time equivalent staff under 18 years are employed by his Department. [189082]

Derek Twigg: The following table shows the number of headcount and full-time equivalent civilian personnel[1] below the age of 18, 18 and over and total civilian personnel who were employed by the Ministry of Defence as at 1 January 2008.

| Age | Headcount[2] | Full-time equivalent[2] |
|---|---|---|
| Under 18 | 90 | 90 |
| 18 and over | 80,670 | 78,290 |
| Total civilian personnel[1] | 80,770 | 78,380 |

[1] Civilian personnel includes all non-industrial, industrial and Trading Fund Ministry of Defence personnel, but excludes Locally Engaged Civilians and Royal Fleet Auxiliaries figures for which age data are not known.

[2] Full-time equivalent is a measure of the size of the work force that takes account of part-time hours. Headcount is a measure of the size of the work force that counts all people equally regardless of their hours of work.

Note:
Numbers have been rounded to the nearest 10, and subtotals may not sum to total.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what average hourly rate his Department paid to employment agencies for agency staff in each year since 1999, broken down by employment agency. [187910]

Derek Twigg: For the most part, this information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. However, I am able to provide details for administrative and clerical grades from 1 December 2006 to 1 November 2007 as this recruitment service is now provided centrally within MOD by the People, Pay and Pensions Agency (PPPA). The employment agencies contracted to recruit agency staff are Reed, Hayes, Brook Street, Pertemps, Manpower, Select, Carlisle Recruitment and Adecco. I should stress that the use of these agency staff only occurs after all other employment options have been considered.

For the period 1 December 2006 to 31 March 2007, the average hourly rate paid to employment agencies for administrative and clerical grades was £8.61. For the period from 1 April 2007 to 1 November 2007, the average hourly rate was £8.64.

I am withholding the individual rate for each employment agency as the information is commercial in confidence.

Iraq: War Crimes

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether the Government have received any requests from the International Criminal Court for UK military personnel to stand trial there for an alleged war crime in Iraq. [188891]

Des Browne: No requests have been received from the International Criminal Court.

Porton Down: Human Experiments

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what settlement has been reached in respect of veterans' claims relating to participation in trials at Porton Down; what the implications of the settlement are for veterans not represented in the claims made; and if he will make a statement. [189696]

Derek Twigg: I will write to the hon. Member and place a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

OLYMPICS

Olympic Games 2012: Gun Sports

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Minister for the Olympics how much has been spent to date on (a) surveying, (b) preparatory work and (c) other work on potential sites for the 2012 Olympics shooting events at (i) Royal Artillery Barracks, (ii) Bisley, (iii) Dartford and (iv) Evershot, Dorset; and if she will make a statement. [188746]

Tessa Jowell: While surveys and exploratory visits were made to several existing locations as part of venue considerations at the time of the 2012 bid, any expenditure related to that work was not recorded by venue. Since the bid, only nominal sums have been spent so far on further preparatory works.

WOMEN AND EQUALITY

Domestic Violence

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality what funding is being provided from the public purse for organisations supporting those affected by domestic violence in 2008-09. [187935]

Barbara Follett: It is not possible to forecast accurately how much public money will be spent in 2008-09 on organisations supporting those affected by domestic violence, as support is provided through a mixture of central and local government funding.

The Supporting People programme provides the main source of public funding for housing-related support in England. This programme is delivered at a local level and decisions on how much money is spent on services for those affected by domestic violence, or other services, are made by the top tier local authorities, based on a local needs assessment. The 2008-09 allocations for Supporting People amount to £1.686 billion. We do know that top tier local authorities spent £59,333,258 on services for those affected by domestic violence in 2005-06, and £61,645,319 in 2006-07.

In 2008-09 the Calderdale Women's Centre will receive £177,659 to support its work in identifying and supporting women experiencing chronic social exclusion as a result of domestic violence. This money will be made available through the Adults facing Chronic Exclusion Programme, which is funded by the Department for Communities and Local Government, the Home Office, Department of Health and Department for Work and Pensions.

The Ministry of Justice has allocated £3 million per year over the three years from 2008-07 for Independent Domestic Violence Advisers, whose aim is the safety and support of victims and their children. This is in addition to annual court business costs.

Finally, the Home Office is investing over £20 million over the next three years on tackling violent crime, including domestic violence. Part of this funding will be used to fund multi-agency work to support victims of domestic violence.

LEADER OF THE HOUSE

Departmental Homeworking

David Simpson: To ask the Leader of the House how many people in her office have been authorised to work from home in the last 12 months. [189777]

Ms Harman: Following the Machinery of Government changes in May 2007, the Leader of the House of Commons office now forms part of the Cabinet Office.

Staff and managers are able to consider various forms of flexible working, including home working. Arrangements for home working are made locally by individual line managers and no record is held.

Departmental Travel

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Leader of the House how much staff of each grade in her office spent on first class travel in the last 12-month period for which information is available. [189992]

Ms Harman: The information requested is as follows:

| Grade | Cost of first class travel (£) |
|---|---|

Drinking Water

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Leader of the House how much her office spent on bottled water in the latest year for which figures are available. [189800]

Ms Harman: The Leader of the House of Commons Office forms part of the Cabinet Office. The Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster will be answering this question shortly on behalf of the Cabinet Office.

ELECTORAL COMMISSION COMMITTEE

Party Political Funding

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission what progress the Electoral Commission has made on clarifying the rules governing the funding of political parties. [185165]

Peter Viggers: The Electoral Commission informs me that it provides a range of guidance materials and training on party and election finance issues. In addition, and in response to a key recommendation of the Committee on Standards in Public Life, the Commission now offers parties the opportunity to seek an advisory opinion on how particularly complex matters will be treated.

Electoral Register

Mr. Shepherd: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission what guidance the Electoral Commission has provided to electoral registration officers on the promotion of credit referencing as a reason to apply for inclusion on an electoral roll on council-maintained websites. [190141]

Peter Viggers: The Electoral Commission informs me that it has issued no guidance on this matter, and does not intend to do so; it does not believe that non-electoral information should be used to encourage electoral registration.

Electoral Register: Commonwealth

Mr. Shepherd: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission whether the Electoral Commission has provided advice to the Government on updating Electoral Registration form, RP12, on the legal residency qualifications necessary for Commonwealth citizens to register. [190142]

Peter Viggers: The Electoral Commission informs me that it has not advised the Government on the content of the form, sometimes referred to as RP12, which is used to apply for electoral registration outside the annual canvass period. I am advised that this form is not statutory and individual electoral registration officers design their own forms. The Commission last advised the Government on the contents of the annual electoral registration form in 2006. At that time, the Commission had no comments to make on the presentation of the qualifications for registration on the form.

SCOTLAND

Departmental Consultants

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how much was spent on external consultants and advisers by (a) his Department and (b) each (i) non-departmental public body and (ii) executive agency for which his Department is responsible in each year since 2005. [187714]

David Cairns: The Scotland Office incurred no costs on external consultants in 2005-06 or 2006-07.

Departmental Official Hospitality

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how many receptions were held at Dover house in each of the last five years. [187220]

David Cairns: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 17 July 2007, Official Report, column 188W. Scotland Office records of events held at Dover house are recorded in financial years rather than calendar years. In financial year 2007-08 there have been 20 receptions held in Dover house thus far, 16 third party and four funded by the Scotland Office. I am pleased to inform the hon. Member that members of the Liberal Democrats in both Houses have taken the opportunity to interact with a range of individuals and organisations by frequent attendance at these receptions.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how much was claimed in reimbursable expenses by Senior Civil Service staff in his Department and its agencies in the last 12-month period for which figures are available. [187545]

David Cairns: The Scotland Office paid £1,759.60 of reimbursable expenses to Senior Civil Service staff in 2006-07.

Departmental Private Finance Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what the (a) value and (b) start date was of each private finance initiative project approved by his Department in each of the last three financial years. [190807]

David Cairns: The capital value and start date for every signed PFI project are recorded centrally on the Treasury's website at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/documents/public_private_partnerships/ppp_pfi_stats.cfm

Drinking Water

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how much his Department spent on bottled water in the latest year for which figures are available. [189792]

David Cairns: The Scotland Office spent £2,451 on water coolers in 2006-07. This figure does not include any bottled water obtained for ministerial hospitality as this is subsumed within the supplier's invoice and not recorded separately.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

British Virgin Islands

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when a Minister last visited the British Virgin Islands; and when the next such visit will take place. [190316]

Meg Munn: My hon. Friend the then Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, (Bill Rammell), visited the British Virgin Islands on 2 to 4 September 2004.

Foreign engagements for Government Ministers are kept under constant review. It is not practice to announce such visits until they are firm. Because of the unpredictable nature of world events, final decisions on overseas visits are often not possible until very shortly before the day of travel and an announcement is sometimes not possible until a visit is under way.

Chevening Scholarship Programme

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 22 January 2008, Official Report, columns 1850-1W, on the Chevening scholarship programme, which countries he has identified as key countries of interest for the purposes of the programme. [188761]

Mr. Jim Murphy [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The key countries of interest to us in achieving our policy objectives, to which Chevening scholarships are primarily targeted, are:

1. China
2. India
3. Indonesia
4. Brazil
5. Russia
6. Nigeria
7. Egypt
8. Pakistan
9. Iraq
10. Turkey
11. Mexico
12. Malaysia
13. South Africa
14. Iran
15. Hong Kong
16. Zimbabwe
17. Afghanistan
18. Ukraine
19. Syria
20. Korea (South)

Departmental Advertising

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what percentage of his Department's expenditure was on advertising in each of the last 10 years. [182994]

Meg Munn: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) does not keep a central record of amounts spent on advertising. The information required to answer the hon. Member's question could only be collated by requiring individual budget holders in the FCO to examine all invoices for the required years. This could be completed only at disproportionate cost.

EC Common Foreign and Security Policy

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what estimate he has made of the (a) total budget and (b) UK funding contribution for the EU's Common Foreign and Security Policy in the first year after ratification of the Treaty of Lisbon. [186291]

Mr. Jim Murphy [holding answer 19 February 2008]: The annual budget for Common Foreign and Security Policy (CFSP) is agreed at an Economic and Financial Affairs Council meeting and details published online at http://ec.europa.eu/budget/publications/budget_en.htm

The UK contributes 17 per cent. of the EU budget for the CFSP, Germany contributes 19.7 per cent. and France 16 per cent..

In 2007 the total budget for the CFSP was €159.2 million—at 17 per cent. the UK's contribution represents €27 million (£20 million).

For 2008 the budget for the CFSP has been set at €285 million—at 17 per cent. the UK's contribution represents €48.5 million (£35.9 million). This increase is due, in part, to the establishment of a large civilian crisis management mission in Kosovo.

The 2009 budget for the CFSP has not yet been set but €1.74 billion (£1.29 billion) has been allocated from the European Commission Budget under the current financial perspective for expenditure on the CFSP between 2007 and 2013. This was agreed at the European Council on 15-16 December 2005 during the UK's presidency of the EU. Details are available online at:

Falkland Islands: Oil

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment the Government have made of the potential contribution of oil and gas from Falkland Islands waters to the provision of energy in the UK; and whether it is taking steps to support such exploration. [190319]

Dr. Howells: While oil companies have produced promising seismic data surveys, only further exploratory drilling will enable us to arrive at a dependable estimate on the size of the reserves of oil and gas in Falkland Islands waters. It is therefore not possible to currently assess any potential reserves.

The Government remain committed to the offshore prospecting policy pursued by the Falkland Islands Government.

Foreign Relations

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the state of relations between the UK and the Governments of (a) Gibraltar, (b) the Falklands, (c) the British Virgin Islands, (d) the Cayman Islands and (e) the Turks and Caicos Islands. [190317]

Meg Munn: Relations between the UK and the Governments of Gibraltar, the Falkland Islands, the British Virgin Islands, the Cayman Islands and the Turks and Caicos Islands are generally very good.

On 4 to 5 December 2007 elected leaders from the Falkland Islands, the British Virgin Islands, the Cayman Islands and the Turks and Caicos Islands and a number of other Overseas Territories attended the ninth Overseas Territories Consultative Council in London which I chaired. The council held discussions on issues which included constitutional modernisation, human rights, criminal justice and disaster preparedness.

I visited the Cayman Islands on 13 to 14 December 2007 where I met members of Cabinet and the Legislative Assembly, and took part in discussions on a wide range of issues. I also visited the Falkland Islands from 3 to 5 January and met a wide range of people from government, business and civil society.

In June 2007 a new constitution came into force in the British Virgin Islands. The new constitution is an important step forward for the territory and includes provisions devolving significant powers to the British Virgin Islands Government.

In January 2007 the new Gibraltar constitution came into force which followed the people of Gibraltar's decision to accept the constitution in a referendum in 2006. The new constitution provides for a modern relationship between Gibraltar and the UK. We also work closely with Gibraltar in relation to matters associated with the Trilateral Forum of Dialogue on Gibraltar.

Iran: Racial Discrimination

John Cummings: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the Iranian Government on the persecution of Jewish people in that country; and if he will make a statement. [188832]

Dr. Howells [holding answer 28 February 2008]: Judaism is one of the three minority religions officially recognised under the Iranian Constitution. While we do have general concerns about freedom of religion and belief in Iran, we understand that the Jewish community has relatively good relations with the wider Muslim community in Iran. The Iranian Jewish community does face some institutional discrimination, but we do not believe that the community faces systematic persecution. We continue to monitor the situation closely and officials in Tehran and London regularly meet representatives of the Jewish community to discuss the situation of Jewish people in Iran. In December 2007 the UN General Assembly adopted a resolution about human rights in Iran. The resolution, which was co-sponsored by the UK and all other EU member states, acknowledged and expressed concern at the situation of religious and ethnic minorities in Iran. We will continue to make clear to the Iranian authorities that persecution of individuals on the grounds of their religious beliefs is unacceptable and contrary to Iran's international human rights obligations, and that the rights of Iran's religious minorities should be equal to those of all Iranian citizens.

Iraq: Weapons

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which individuals made which annotations on the hard copy of the John Williams draft of the 2002 Iraq dossier. [188515]

David Miliband [holding answer of 22 February 2008]: We do not know who authored the annotations, and hold no record on this.

Israel: Foreign Relations

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with (a) Ministers and (b) officials from other Government departments about British relations with Israel; and if he will make a statement. [189007]

Dr. Howells: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary discusses a wide range of foreign policy issues, including our relations with Israel, with representatives from other Government Departments in order to make progress on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's strategic objectives.

Israel: Overseas Residence

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many British citizens (a) visited and (b) emigrated to Israel in each year since 2000. [189006]

Dr. Howells: The Government do not hold the information requested by the hon. Member.

However, the best estimate of the Israeli Bureau of Statistics is that between 120,000 and 150,000 British citizens have visited Israel in each year since 2000.

The Jewish Immigration Agency in Israel has provided the following estimated figures for British citizens emigrating to Israel:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2000 | 404 |
| 2001 | 360 |
| 2002 | 295 |
| 2003 | 380 |
| 2004 | 399 |
| 2005 | 487 |
| 2006 | 659 |
| 2007 | 625 |

Israel: Politics and Government

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether it is the policy of the Government to refuse to recognise Hamas as long as it retains its intent to destroy Israel; and if he will make a statement. [189008]

Dr. Howells: We continue to call upon Hamas to adhere to the Quartet's principles: non-violence; recognition of Israel; and acceptance of previous agreements. These remain the conditions for a viable peace process. Dialogue with Hamas is impossible so long as it is committed to violence towards Israel. Both Palestinian President Abbas and Prime Minister Olmert are committed to peaceful progress towards a two-state solution. We use our efforts to support them.

Kenya: EU Aid

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has held with his EU counterparts on EU aid to Kenya in light of the political unrest there; and if he will make a statement. [180801]

David Miliband [holding answer 28 February 2008]: I have had full discussions with my European counterparts about the EU's engagement with Kenya, including at the EU General Affairs and External Relations Council on 28 January and 18 February.

Until the country's political leaders agree to resolve the crisis, EU member states and the European Commission cannot conduct business as usual with Kenya. Failure to agree a sustainable and consensual political situation would affect our, and other EU donors' engagement with Kenya.

Libya: UN World Conference Against Racism

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to Libya on the preparatory meetings of the 2009 UN World Conference Against Racism taking place on Jewish holidays. [188752]

Meg Munn: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has made no representations to the Libyan chair of the Durban Review Conference preparatory committee.

The Government agree that the timing of the preparatory committee is unfortunate, given that it coincides with important Jewish holidays.

The Preparatory Committee Bureau decided the dates from a small number of available slots suggested by UN officials. The UK does not sit on the bureau. Colleagues from other member states that sit on the bureau assured us that there was no malicious intent when selecting these dates.

Middle East: Armed Conflict

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions (a) he, (b) Ministers in his Department and (c) officials in his Department have had with the (i) Government of Israel and (ii) Arab states on rocket attacks on Israel from Gaza; and if he will make a statement. [188993]

Dr. Howells: The UK is deeply concerned by rocket attacks against Israeli citizens from Gaza. Since Hamas seized control of Gaza, over 2,400 mortars and rockets have been fired into Israel. The launching of rockets against Israeli civilian targets and all forms of violence must stop. Violence serves only to undermine the prospects for peace in the region.

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has regular discussions on the security situation in Gaza. He discussed this issue most recently with Egyptian Foreign Minister Aboul Gheit on 19 February, with Jordanian Foreign Minister Salah Bashr on 13 February, with the Israeli ambassador to London on 29 January and with Israeli Foreign Minister Livni on 24 January. I also met the Israeli ambassador on 17 January and discussed this issue. Our embassy in Tel Aviv and our consulate in Jerusalem regularly meet with Israeli and Palestinian interlocutors to discuss Gaza security.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many British citizens were (a) killed, (b) seriously injured and (c) injured in rocket attacks on Israel from (i) Gaza and (ii) the Lebanon in each month since 2005. [188994]

Dr. Howells: There have been no deaths or injuries to British nationals reported to our embassy in Tel Aviv that were attributed to rocket attacks from either Gaza or Lebanon since 2005.

Nuclear Weapons

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 177W, on nuclear weapons, which countries were unable to agree in 2007 to the start of negotiations on a fissile material cut off treaty. [189440]

David Miliband [holding answer 28 February 2008]: No member state at the Conference on Disarmament has objected in principle to a fissile material cut off treaty. During the 2007 Conference on Disarmament, a majority of states endorsed commencement of negotiations. China, Iran and Pakistan expressed reservations. The UK continues to support the proposal and is working hard to secure consensus for its adoption in 2008.

Romania: EU External Relations

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent assessment he has made of the preparedness of (a) Romania and (b) Bulgaria to implement EU legislation, with particular regard to social security provisions and the acceptance of contributions from nationals of other EU states; and if he will make a statement. [188735]

Mr. Jim Murphy: In order to join the EU, Bulgaria and Romania fulfilled the criteria of accession agreed by the European Council in Copenhagen in 1993. The 'Copenhagen Criteria' include the adoption of the "acquis communautaire" (the entire body of European legislation). No assessments have been done by HM Revenue and Customs or the Department for Work and Pensions on the implementation of social security provisions or contributions from nationals of other EU member states for Bulgaria and Romania.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many (a) private sector, (b) public sector and (c) private/public sector partnership projects have been approved for EU structural funding for (i) Romania and (ii) Bulgaria; and at what cost for each project. [188736]

Mr. Jim Murphy: No projects have yet been approved and financed for EU structural funding in Bulgaria and Romania. Further information on EU structural funds can be found on the European Commission website at:

http://ec.europa.eu/regional_policy/index_en.htm.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received on reforms of the judicial system in Romania, with particular reference to (a) the Sunshine Law and the 30-day consultation period, (b) combating corruption, (c) changes to the fiscal code and (d) implementing systems to enable successful bidding for EU structural funds; what assistance the Government have provided to the Romanian Government on such reforms; and if he will make a statement. [188737]

Mr. Jim Murphy: This month the European Commission issued its interim report on Romania's progress against the post-accession Justice and Home Affairs benchmarks. The Report concluded that progress has been made on the fight against corruption, but that work remains to be done. A copy of the report is available at:

http://ec.europa.eu/dgs/secretariat_general/cvm/docs/romania_report_20080201_en.pdf.

A fuller report will be issued in June 2008.

Our embassy in Bucharest reports regularly on judicial reform in Romania. The 'Sunshine Law' refers to the 2003 Romanian Law 52 'Decision-Making Transparency in Public Administration'. This requires that all draft legislation be submitted to the public for consultation and comment prior to passage and publication. This law is key to the integrity of public administration in Romania.

In October 2007, following the European Commission's monitoring mechanism report, the Romanian Government adopted an anti-corruption action plan covering judicial reform and the fight against corruption. In order to monitor the measures imposed by the action plan, two inter-institutional bodies have been created, which are presided over by the Minister of Justice.

Changes to the fiscal code were made in 2006. The fiscal code has no implication on the judicial system.

The UK provided Romania with practical assistance to support the reforms needed for EU membership including reform of the judicial system and enabling successful bidding for structural funds. This assistance has amounted to an average of £630,000 per annum of direct bilateral assistance for the previous four years. Under the EU's Twinning programme, experts from EU member states are seconded as advisers to Romanian institutions and Government Departments. Currently two UK experts are based in Romania advising on how to manage efficiently the absorption of structural funds and in strengthening the probation service.

Romania: Official Visits

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he or any of his predecessors last visited Romania, other than for EU or NATO conferences; and whether he plans to make any such visit. [188738]

Mr. Jim Murphy: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary visited Romania in early September 2007. While there he called on President Traian Basescu, Prime Minister Calin Popescu-Tariceanu and Foreign Minister Adrian Cioroianu.

Serbia: EU external relations

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 29 January 2008, Official Report, columns 223-4W on Serbia: EU external relations, what recommendations the EU Task Force has made; whether Serbia signed the interim political agreement with the European Union; and if he will make a statement. [188948]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The EU Task Force features as part of the interim political agreement with Serbia, drawn up by the EU following the General Affairs and External Relations Council on 28 January. Serbia has not yet signed this agreement. The task force has not met, nor made any recommendations.

Simon Mann

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will request the US authorities to make further visits to Simon Mann in Black Beach Prison on a frequent and regular basis in the absence of a permanent UK presence in Malabo. [190196]

Dr. Howells: UK consular staff from our deputy high commission in Lagos are providing consular assistance to Mr. Mann. There are currently no plans to request the US authorities to visit him but we intend to raise this with the US authorities.

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent reports he has received on the medical treatment being provided to Simon Mann in Malabo for his hernia. [190197]

Dr. Howells: We have raised specific consular and welfare concerns regarding Mr. Mann with the Equatorial Guinean authorities and we will follow those up.

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 179W, on Simon Mann, what reasons he has been given by the Equatorial Guinean embassy for the 24-hour shackling of Simon Mann in custody. [190198]

Dr. Howells: We have been given no reasons by the Equatorial Guinean authorities on this point and are seeking an explanation.

UN World Conference Against Racism

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what criteria he will use in determining whether the UK will participate in the 2009 UN World Conference Against Racism. [188753]

Meg Munn: We want the 2009 Durban Review Conference to contribute to the global fight against racism today. We, and EU partners, are working to achieve this, but it has proven to be a difficult process. Attempts by other blocs of countries to undo agreements and decisions, or expand the remit of the conference beyond a review of the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action have not contributed to a consensual approach.

We will continue to work closely with EU colleagues on the Durban Review Conference and will keep our position under review as the process moves forward.

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what proposals the Government have made on the agenda for the 2009 UN World Conference Against Racism. [188816]

Meg Munn: The agenda for the 2009 UN World Conference Against Racism has not yet been discussed in detail. We want the Durban Review Conference to assess how states have implemented the 2001 Durban Declaration and Programme of Action. There is pressure to include issues not covered by the 2001 document, which we are resisting.

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the UN on the inclusion of Holocaust education on the agenda for the 2009 UN World Conference Against Racism. [188817]

Meg Munn: The agenda for the 2009 UN World Conference Against Racism has not yet been discussed in detail. The Government take work on Holocaust education and remembrance very seriously. Article 58 of the Durban Declaration made clear that the Holocaust must not be forgotten. We will seek opportunities with our EU partners to give Holocaust education and remembrance appropriate attention as negotiations continue.

Weapons: Proliferation

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment his Department has made of the reasons for the failure of the 2005 Non-Proliferation Treaty Review Conference to agree a final document. [185081]

David Miliband [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The UK worked hard to achieve an agreed final document at the 2005 Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT) Review Conference. In a multilateral forum, reliant on consensus, extended procedural delays can prejudice a substantive outcome even when the majority of states present are committed to achieving real advances. Regrettably, in 2005 a delay often days to agree the Review Conference agenda meant there was not enough time to negotiate a substantive final document. UK policy and priorities for the 2010 NPT review cycle are set out in the reply I gave to the right hon. Member on 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 176W.

Zimbabwe

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the oral answer of 19 February 2008, Official Report, column 140, on Zimbabwe, when he plans to turn to the role of the Government of Zimbabwe in the case of Mr. Simon Mann; for what reason a formal protest has not been made to that Government in relation to the removal of Mr. Mann to Equatorial Guinea from Zimbabwe; and what assessment he has made of the likely inferences to be drawn by the authorities in Equatorial Guinea in relation to the absence of such protest. [190354]

Dr. Howells: We have clearly noted our concern via diplomatic note to the Zimbabwean authorities about the circumstances of Mr. Mann's removal from Zimbabwe, which occurred before his legal appeals were exhausted.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Community Relations

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when her Department plans to (a) launch the single portal for cohesion guidance and (b) publish the cohesion contingency planning guidance referred to in the Government's response to the Commission on Integration and Cohesion. [190122]

Mr. Dhanda: We are currently in discussion with the Institute for Community Cohesion on plans to develop a single portal for cohesion guidance. We expect the portal to be launched in the summer.

We expect to publish guidance for local authorities on cohesion contingency planning shortly.

Conditions of Employment: Parking

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Bromley of 31 January 2008, Official Report, column 669W, on conditions of employment: parking, whether the payment by an employer of the workplace parking tax in a local authority area which levies the tax on workplace parking spaces, would be classed as a taxable benefit in kind by HM Revenue and Customs. [189411]

Jane Kennedy: I have been asked to reply.

There is an exemption from tax for the benefit of workplace parking at or near their workplace provided by employers to their employees. It is therefore highly unlikely that a tax charge would arise where an employer pays a workplace parking tax.

First Time Buyers

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps the Government have taken to increase the number of first-time buyers entering the property market. [190024]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government are committed to tackling the problems of housing affordability and last year announced plans to raise annual housing supply to 240,000 additional homes a year by 2016. The Housing Green Paper published in July 2007 "Homes for the future: more affordable, more sustainable" sets out further details of our proposals for delivery of those homes, to widen access to home ownership and help more first-time buyers purchase a home.

Through increasing the overall housing supply, the Government aim to address affordability issues, and the problems they can cause for aspiring first-time buyers, over the longer term. In the meantime, our low-cost home ownership programme, enables social tenants, key workers and other priority first-time buyers to get a first step on the housing ladder.

Since 1997, we have helped over 95,000 households into home ownership through shared ownership and shared equity loan schemes. We have also helped over 26,000 key workers into a home since 2001.

The HomeBuy scheme introduced in April 2006 includes three products: Open Market HomeBuy (shared equity), New Build HomeBuy (shared ownership) and Social HomeBuy. The First Time Buyers' Initiative scheme run by English Partnerships, the national regeneration agency, is part of the New Build product. These schemes help purchasers get on to the housing ladder with shares from 25 per cent.

Between 2006-08 we are investing £970 million through the National Affordable Housing programme to help 35,000 households into low-cost home ownership properties. The Housing Corporation announced its new programme on 26 February and will be funding at least 25,000 low-cost home ownership homes a year from 2008-09 to 2011.

Heating: Environment Protection

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what discussions officials in her Department have had with counterparts in the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs in advance of the forthcoming meeting of the Consulting Forum under the Ecodesign of Energy-using Products Directive on requirements for boilers and water heaters. [189044]

Mr. Iain Wright: [holding answer 25 February 2008]: Communities and Local Government officials are in ongoing discussions about the Energy-using Products Directive with their opposite numbers in the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs.

Heating: Standards

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 23 January 2008, Official Report, column 2047W, on heating: standards, what meetings she has had with (a) the Health and Safety Executive and (b) industry organisations to discuss possible alterations to the (i) industry guidance and (ii) legal provisions governing hot water systems in homes; what the outcome of those meetings was; and if she will make a statement. [178902]

Mr. Iain Wright: I will be meeting with Judith Hackitt, chair of the Health and Safety Commission, to discuss how we can further strengthen our working relationship. Officials have already met with officials from the HSE and as a result the HSE and the Department will jointly re-issue the HSE safety alert with advice on the causes and risk factors in accidents involving hot water systems to social housing providers.

Following the incident leading to Rhianna Hardie's death my officials worked with the Institute of Plumbing and Heating Engineering (IPHE) to develop a revised version of their information sheet on the safety of water heaters. This was published in April 2007.

Since announcing a review of part G of the building regulations last year, the IPHE and other trade organisations covering installation of hot water and heating systems have been working with officials in CLG to prepare new technical guidance to support more robust regulatory requirements for hot water systems. We will be consulting these proposed changes in April 2008.

Immigrants: Information Services

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she expects the first information packs for newcomers to the UK to be published by local authorities; and what funding her Department is providing for production of such packs. [187403]

Mr. Dhanda: Some local authorities have already published migrant information packs and the Improvement and Development Agency (IDeA) used the best examples from these packs to provide best practice examples for the migrant information pack template which was published on the IDeA website on 4 February. This new resource will save local authorities money by providing a generic information framework that can be supplemented with local information. Communities and Local Government has no plans to provide additional funding for this work.

Landfill Tax: Hertfordshire

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the effects of increases in landfill tax on the funding of public services in (a) St. Albans and (b) Hertfordshire. [188884]

Angela Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

The costs of landfill tax, including the increase in the landfill tax escalator, were taken into account when agreeing the local government settlement.

Local Government Finance

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the value of (a) council tax receipts and (b) central Government grant was for local authorities in each county in the east of England region in each of the last 10 years. [188883]

John Healey: Details of the levels of council tax requirement and central Government funding to local authorities in each county in the east of England region in each of the last 10 years are shown in the following tables.

Council tax requirement

Central Government funding is defined here as the sum of formula grant (revenue support grant, redistributed non-domestic rates and police grant) and specific grants inside aggregate external finance (AEF), i.e. revenue grants paid for council's core services. In past years, where applicable the standard spending assessment reduction grant and central support protection grants have also been included.

Figures exclude grants outside AEF (i.e. where funding is not for authorities' core services, but is passed to a third party, for example, rent allowances and rebates), capital grants, funding for the local authorities' housing management responsibilities and those grant programmes (such as European funding) where authorities are simply one of the recipients of funding paid towards an area.

These figures are sourced from Communities and Local Government revenue outturn (RO) returns.

Comparisons across years may not be valid owing to changing local authority responsibilities.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many times her Department and its predecessors paid money to what was later found to be the incorrect local governmental body in each year since 1997; and what the total value of such incorrect payments is. [189133]

John Healey: Our systems do not separately identify adjustments to payments which arose because money was originally paid to an incorrect local government body. The regularity of payments made by the Department and its predecessors are subject to audit arrangements and these have not identified any systemic weaknesses or recurring problems in relation to correct payees. We would seek recovery of any incorrect payments, in line with "Managing Public Money"—the Treasury guidance (replacing "Government Accounting") which sets out principles and standards for Government Departments on managing public resources—and would look to address the problem quickly if errors were brought to light.

Local Government: Consent Regimes

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar of 31 January 2008, Official Report, column 586W, on local government: consent regimes, what the role of the Government Office for the Regions is in exercising the statutory functions in relation to (a) the Green Belt Act 1938, (b) redundant churches and (c) revocation orders. [189245]

Mr. Dhanda: The Government Office network considers referrals under the Green Belt (London and Home Counties) Act 1938 and Revocation Orders on behalf on the Secretary of State. Government Offices also consider referrals made where the proposed demolition of a listed church or an unlisted church in a conservation area is contested by a qualifying body.

Non-Domestic Rates

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar of 31 January 2008, Official Report, columns 586-7W, on non-domestic rates, (1) for what reason transitional relief will not apply to supplementary business rates; and for what reason the decision was previously taken by her Department not to apply relief to business improvement districts following the rates revaluation; [189243]

(2) whether any impact assessment or research has quantified the marginal increase in taxation on an individual business which would be otherwise eligible for transitional relief on the main multiplier as a consequence of transitional relief not being applied to supplementary business rates. [189244]

John Healey: Transitional relief is designed specifically to cushion the impact on ratepayers' bills of significant increases and decreases in rateable value following the five-yearly revaluation of non-domestic properties. BID levies and business rate supplements are entirely separate from the revaluation of business rates and are therefore outside its scope.

Non-Domestic Rates: Valuation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether the Valuation Office Agency has established the proposed property attributes that will form the basis of the regression analysis in its automated valuation process for the forthcoming non-domestic rating revaluation. [189532]

John Healey: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar (Mr. Pickles) on 17 December 2007, Official Report, column 1154W.

Regional Planning and Development: Finance

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much funding regional planning bodies will receive from housing and planning delivery grant; and what targets they will be required to meet to maximise their funding. [189545]

John Healey: All funding for Regional Assemblies from 2008-09 will be from a single funding stream; they will not receive housing and planning delivery grant.

Regional Assemblies are required to prepare a business plan as a condition of their receipt of Government grant, to provide assurance that funds are spent efficiently and in furtherance of the aims for which funding is granted. Performance against business plans will be monitored quarterly.

Thermal Insulation: Materials

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what assessment her Department has made of appropriate tests for the performance of multi-foil insulation materials other than the hot box; [188184]

(2) what assessment her Department has made of the (a) practical and (b) environmental merits of multi-foil insulation materials; [188186]

(3) how she plans to comply with the High Court judgment of 2 November 2007 on standards for multi-foil insulation material used in construction. [188194]

Mr. Iain Wright [holding answer 22 February 2008]: The Government's position on tests of the performance of multi-foil insulation products and their proposals for complying with the High Court judgment of 2 November 2007 are explained in Communities and Local Government Circular 6/2007 and the parallel letter to local authorities and approved building control inspectors which were issued on 7 December 2007. These can be found on the CLG website at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/corporate/

The Department does not assess the practical and environmental merits of particular types of insulation materials, as building regulations and guidance do not make specific requirements for such materials. When issuing approved guidance on achieving compliance with the building regulations' energy efficiency requirements for construction work, it relies upon internationally recognised generic insulation performance values for construction materials and a wide range of expert advice on how these materials can be practically assembled into construction elements such as walls, roofs etc.

Written Questions: Government Responses

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she will answer Question 178902 tabled by the hon. Member for Taunton on 28 January 2008 on heating: standards; and what the reasons are for the length of time taken to reply. [190163]

Mr. Iain Wright: I have now replied to the hon. Member's question. I apologise for the delay in responding.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, the hon. Member for Gloucester, will reply to the letter of 11 January 2008 from the hon. Member for Wycombe on funding arrangements for prevention of violent extremism projects between March and June 2008. [190206]

Mr. Dhanda: I have now replied to the hon. Member's letter.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Alcoholic Drinks: Licensing

Hywel Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent discussions he has had on changes to licensing hours for on- and off-licensed premises; and if he will make a statement. [190199]

Mr. Sutcliffe: I and my predecessors have had discussions with many other Government Departments, local authorities, voluntary groups and representatives of businesses as part of the process of policy development. The discussions have mainly concerned the impact of the Licensing Act 2003, which came into force in November 2005.

Departmental Home Working

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many people in his Department have been authorised to work from home in the last 12 months. [189793]

Mr. Sutcliffe: As DCMS is an equal opportunities employer we have extended the option to work flexibly to all our staff. We aim to support staff in balancing their work and home responsibilities, and home working is one of a range of flexible working patterns available to staff, which includes

Flexible working hours (formal and informal flexi, compressed hours, term-time working and annualised hours)

Part-time working or job sharing

Home working

In the last 12 months DCMS has authorised 44 people to work from home. However, the Department also supports and encourages the more informal home-working arrangements in which staff may have agreed to work from home on an occasional ad-hoc basis. We do not keep records of the dates when each case was authorised.

Drinking Water

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much his Department spent on bottled water in the latest year for which figures are available. [189799]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department spent £30,974.95 on bottled water during the period April 2006 to March 2007.

Fairtrade Initiative

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will take steps to promote Fair Trade Fortnight 2008 among staff within his Department; and if he will make a statement. [189498]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport provides tea and coffee for all official meetings from Fairtrade sources; Fairtrade confectionery is always on sale in the staff canteen. These are available all year rather than being confined to a short-term promotion exercise.

Football Foundation: Finance

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much public funding was provided to the Football Foundation in each of the last three years. [190136]

Mr. Sutcliffe: A total of £46.2 million of public funding was awarded to the Football Foundation via Sport England in the last three years.

2005-06: £4.2 million lottery (capital)

2006-07: £20 million exchequer (capital), £1 million exchequer (revenue), £2.5 million lottery (revenue)

2007-08: £15 million exchequer (capital), £1 million exchequer (revenue), £2.5 million lottery (revenue)

The funding was made as part of Government's community sports strategy, investing in both football and multisport facilities.

National Lottery: Sports

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much lottery funding was provided to (a) athletics and (b) swimming in (i) Southend, (ii) Essex, (iii) the London region and (iv) England and Wales in each year since 1997; what projects were funded; whether there are restrictions on the use of these funds; and if he will make a statement. [189000]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Financial support for community sport from public sources is primarily channelled through Sport England which dispenses Exchequer and lottery funds for sport. The tables show how much lottery funding has been allocated through Sport England to (a) athletics and (b) swimming in (i) Southend, (ii) Essex, (iii) London region and (iv) England. Funding for Sport in Wales is distributed by the Sport Council for Wales and does not receive an allocation from DCMS.

In terms of restrictions on the use of funding, these have been consistently in line with lottery policy and each application for funding assessed on its individual merits. Further to this there will have been ad hoc support via the County Sports Partnerships, School Sport Partnerships and local authority sports development officers and while this support is hard to evidence and categorise there will have been benefits to amateur sports clubs from the professional work force.

I will place a summary of projects in Essex, London region and England that have benefited from funding in the Libraries of both Houses.

Sports

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what estimate he has made of the number of people who engaged in at least 30 minutes of moderate intensity level sport at least three times a week in (a) 2005-06 and (b) 2006-07, broken down by region. [187242]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Data from the DCMS' Taking Part survey show the number of people who participated in moderate intensity level sport at least three times a week. The table sets out the data by region.

The moderate intensity level sport indicator is defined as participation in moderate intensity level sport for at least 30 minutes on at least three separate days during the past week.

Moderate intensity, 3 x 30 minutes per week

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, columns 333-4W, on sports, (1) how many people each percentage figure in the tables represents; [189974]

(2) how many people each percentage figure in the tables represents. [189975]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 335W, the tables show how many people each percentage figure represents, rounded to the nearest 10,000. The data are taken from the DCMS Taking Part survey.

The moderate level intensity sport indicator is defined as participation in moderate intensity level sport for at least 30 minutes on three separate days during the past week.

Sports: Lancashire

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will collect data on Community Club Development Programme funding allocated to sports clubs in West Lancashire constituency. [189734]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Community Club Development Programme (CCDP) is administered on Government's behalf by Sport England. Sport England does not collect data about CCDP in the format requested.

Sport England allocates funding to 19 National Governing Bodies for Sport (NGBs) to identify and deliver capital sports facilities projects. Data about CCDP are not collected from the NGBs below county level.

Swimming: Southend on Sea

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what plans he has to encourage participation in swimming in Southend; how much his Department spent to promote swimming in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [189001]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Financial support for community sport from public sources is primarily channelled through Sport England which dispenses Exchequer and lottery funds for sport. Sport England advises that to date no funds have been allocated directly to swimming in Southend and that there has not been a Sport England funded promotional campaign for swimming in Southend. In addition Sport England does not collect data on how much it spends promoting participation in specific sports.

However over the period from 1997-98 to 2007-08, Sport England has invested significantly in swimming across England:

| | Exchequer[1] and lottery funding (£) |
|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 55,700,872 |
| 1998-99 | 56,082,875 |

| 2006-07 | 7,588,627 |
| 2007-08 | 6,138,632 |

[1] Exchequer funding figures are only available for the years 2002-03 to 2006-07

Furthermore there is a requirement for swimming provision through the PE and Sports Strategy for Young People. As this is delivered in curriculum time, the source of funding is the Department for Children, Schools and Families and not the Department for Culture, Media and Sport.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Animal Experiments

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what Government funds and resources have been allocated to research and development in finding an alternative to animal testing since 2001. [177932]

Ian Pearson: I have been asked to reply.

Between 2001 and 2007-08 the Medical Research Council (MRC) and the Biotechnology and Biological Sciences Research Council (BBSRC) provided £12,008,000 for research into the replacement, refinement and reduction of animals in research through response mode funding and strategic programmes. In addition, these Research Councils fund the National Centre for Replacement, Refinement and Reduction of Animals in Research (NCSRs), established in 2004. Between 2004-05 and 2007-08 the NCSRs has received £5,525,000 from the Research Councils as well as £660,000 from the Home Office. The two Research Councils will provide £12,804,000 to the NCSRs for the period 2008-09 to 2010-11.

Driving Offences: Mobile Phones

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many fixed notice fines were issued in each police force area for the illegal use of a mobile telephone whilst driving in each of the last four years. [189618]

Mr. Coaker: It became a specific offence to use a mobile phone while driving in December 2003. The following table gives the figures for 2003, 2004 and 2005, the latest available. The figures for 2006 will be available later in the year.

Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. ### Human Trafficking

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which the most common countries of origin are for people trafficked into the UK. [190077]

Mr. Coaker: Victims of human trafficking come from a range of countries. The top five countries of origin for referrals to the Poppy Project are Lithuania, Nigeria, Albania, Thailand and China.

Individual Support Orders

Ann Coffey: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many individual support orders attached to anti-social behaviour orders have been issued in each local authority area in each quarter since May 2004; [188727]

(2) how many individual support orders attached to anti-social behaviour orders have been given at magistrates courts in each magistrates court area in each quarter since May 2004; [189026]

(3) how much has been allocated to fund individual support orders (ISOs) in 2007-08; and how much of last year's £45 million increase in funding for the Youth Justice Board was spent on ISOs. [189027]

Mr. Coaker [holding answer 25 February 2008]: Individual support orders (ISOs) became available from 1 May 2004. Seven ISOs were issued to juveniles (defined as being aged 10 to 17) in 2004, as reported to the Home Office by the Court Service. 42 ISOs were issued to juveniles in 2005 (latest available). The data are not available to publish below the England and Wales level.

In 2007-08 the Youth Justice Board invested £31.2 million in grants to Youth Offending Teams (YOTs) to run a range of targeted prevention programmes. This investment supports over 400 evidence-based programmes across England and Wales. All of these programmes are available to support young people involved in antisocial behaviour and crime in order to reduce their involvement, as part of a tiered approach that involves ISOs where appropriate. As part of the £31.2 million, approximately £458,000 was allocated more specifically to address the needs and risks presented by those involved in antisocial behaviour, some of whom will be subject to an ISO.

Internet: Departmental Responsibilities

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the distribution of responsibilities is between Government Departments and agencies in relation to the regulation of the internet; and if she will make a statement. [188344]

Mr. Coaker: The Government work closely with the internet industry and law enforcement, through such mechanisms as the Home Secretary's Taskforce on Online Child Protection, to ensure that their internet services are not used for illegal or borderline legal activity. The Home Secretary's Taskforce includes representatives from other Government Departments.

The E-Commerce Directive lays down requirements that apply in relation to the provision of services on the internet. The Department for Business Enterprise and Regulatory Reform is responsible for the E-Commerce Regulations 2002 which implemented the Directive in relation to legislation that predates the 2002 regulations. So far as legislation that postdates the 2002 Regulations is concerned, each Government Department is responsible for ensuring that its legislation complies with the Directive.

Internet: Regulation

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much she has allocated to policing internet content for 2008-09; and if she will make a statement. [188349]

Mr. Coaker: The police do not police the internet per se; the Government have legislated to prosecute offences based on the crime committed and not the medium used. Internet content is subject to the Obscene Publications Act 1959 as is all published material.

The Home Office allocates core grants to police forces on an annual basis without stipulating where the grant should be spent.

The Serious Organised Crime Agency (SOCA) also receives a budget for law enforcement work to tackle electronic crime. The SOCA budget also includes funding for the Child Exploitation Online Protection Centre (CEOP).

In 2007-08 CEOP received a budget (from SOCA) of £5.657 million. It is yet to be confirmed how much they will receive in 2008-09.

Intimidation

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many cases of bullying have been reported in (a) her Department and (b) its agencies in each of the last 12 months. [182841]

Mr. Byrne: For Home Office headquarters and the Home Office agencies the number of cases of bullying that have been reported in the last 12 months is set out in the following table. Where the figure is fewer than five the exact figure is not disclosed as this could result in an individual's identity being inadvertently revealed.

Migrant Workers: Teesside

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what her most recent estimate is of the number of migrant workers there were in (a) Teesside, (b) Stockton South constituency and (c) North East England in each of the last three years. [189325]

Angela Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 28 February 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question on what the most recent estimate is of the number of migrant workers in (a) Teesside, (b) Stockton South constituency and (c) North East England in each of the last three years. I am replying in her absence. (189325)

The Office for National Statistics compiles statistics on migrant workers for local areas from the Annual Population Survey (APS). The National Statistics method for estimating the number of migrant workers employed in the UK is routinely based on the number of people at a given time who were born abroad, are of working age (16 - 64 for men, 16 - 59 for women), and in employment. This question has been answered on this basis. It means, for example, that some people who are UK nationals will be included in the total of "foreign born" and that people who are working but are above state pension age are not included.

APS estimates at this detailed level are only available consistent with population estimates published in February and March 2003 and are not comparable with the estimates published in the Labour Market Statistics First Release on 13 February 2008, which are based on latest population estimates.

The table attached, shows the numbers of working age in employment who were not born in the UK and were resident in Teesside, Stockton South Parliamentary Constituency and North East England, for the twelve month periods ending in June for 2005, 2006, 2007 from the APS. The July to June 2007 APS dataset is the most recent which is currently available.

Teesside has been formed by combining Middlesbrough, Stockton-on-Tees and Redcar and Cleveland Unitary Authorities.

When interpreting these figures, it is important to bear in mind that the APS is not designed to cover everyone who is present in the UK. The survey may undercount the numbers of people who were born overseas. The reasons are set out in the table footnote.

As these estimates are for a subset of the population in small geographical areas, they are based on small sample sizes, and are therefore subject to large margins of uncertainty.

Number of migrant workers in Stockton South parliamentary constituency, Teesside[1] and North East England in the last three years

Thousand

| | Employment level | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 12 months ending June | Stockton South | Teesside | North East |
| 2005 | 2 | 7 | 29 |
| 2006 | 2 | 8 | 44 |
| 2007 | 2 | 7 | 44 |

[1] Teesside covers the unitary authorities of Middlesbrough, Stockton-on-Tees and Redcar and Cleveland.

[2] Includes males aged 16-64 and females aged 16-59. Does not include respondents who did not answer the question on country of birth. Estimates are subject to sampling variability.

Note:

It should also be noted that the country of birth question in the APS gives an undercount because:

It excludes certain people who have been resident in the UK for less than six months.

It excludes students in halls who do not have a UK resident parent.

It excludes people in most other types of communal establishments (e.g. hotels, boarding houses, hostels, mobile home sites, etc.).

It is grossed to population estimates which exclude migrants staying for less than 12 months.

Micro-data are grossed to population estimates consistent with those published in spring 2003 which are significantly lower than the latest population estimates.

National Security

Ms Abbott: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the Prime Minister's oral statement of 14 November 2007 on national security, in which areas the new dedicated regional counter terrorism units are based; how many people work in each unit; how many of the staff are (a) police and (b) support staff in each unit; and how many of the staff of each unit have been (i) recruited specifically to work for each unit and (ii) seconded from other duties. [165660]

Mr. McNulty: We have established counter terrorism units (CTUs) with intelligence gathering and investigative functions in the west midlands, the north-east and the north-west and counter terrorism intelligence units (CTIUs) with intelligence gathering capabilities at locations in Wales, the south-west, the south-east, the east and east midlands.

Each CTU and CTIU is tailored to the region in which it is situated, but when fully staffed, the CTUs will have approximately 260 members of staff each and CTIUs will have approximately 55 members of staff each.

The police officer/police staff configurations will be as follows:

| | Officers | Police staff |
|---|---|---|
| North-east | 169 | 92 |
| North-west | 202 | 59 |
| West midlands | 183 | 78 |
| Wales | 38 | 19.5 |
| South-west | 35 | 20 |
| South-east | 37 | 17.5 |
| East | 36 | 18.5 |
| East midlands | 33 | 21.5 |

The CTUs have currently filled 703 posts of the 783 posts collectively and the CTIUs have filled 237 of the 276 posts collectively. This includes posts where recruitment has been completed, but the post holder has not yet taken up their duties. In the CTUs 499 of these posts are officers and 204 are staff. In the CTIUs 161 of the posts are officers and 76 are staff.

All staff are recruited to specifically work in each unit.

Surveillance: Members

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the number of hon. Members who have taken the Oath who have been directly or indirectly the subject of (a) surveillance or (b) intercept since 1997; and if she will make a statement. [189247]

Mr. McNulty: It has been the longstanding practice of successive Governments not to comment on surveillance or interception operations.

TRANSPORT

Department Equality

Mrs. Humble: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what percentage of (a) women and (b) men work in each bargaining unit of her Department and its agencies. [189099]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The figures shown are actual headcount (not FTEs) and exclude temp/employment agency staff.

| Agency | Percentage Male | Female |
|---|---|---|
| DfT | 62 | 38 |
| DSA | 71 | 29 |
| DVLA | 37 | 63 |
| HA | 70 | 30 |
| MCA | 67 | 33 |
| VGA | 73 | 27 |
| VOSA | 68 | 32 |
| GCDA | 90 | 10 |

Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency: Publicity

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much was spent on the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency's television advertisements aimed at stopping vehicle excise duty fraud. [183503]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Latest road side survey estimates include that vehicle excise duty (VED) revenue lost through evasion is £79 million per year. The current television advertisement, aimed at deterring VED evasion, was produced during the 2006-07 financial year at a cost of £478,409.

It was first on air in May and June 2007 with a second period during January and February 2008.

The media cost, including fees, for television advertisements of this kind in this financial year to date, is £2,300,955.

It is intended to run the advertisement again during 2008-09.

In addition, a 30-second TV 'filler' was commissioned in 2007 at a cost of £111,792. This features a road safety message and is aired by television companies at no cost to the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency.

Electric Vehicles

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what discussions she has had with her European counterparts on the potential impact of electric personal assistive mobility devices on carbon emissions and congestion; and if she will make a statement; [189387]

(2) what assessment she has made of the potential impact of electric personal assistive mobility devices on the Government's (a) road traffic congestion and (b) carbon emissions targets; and if she will make a statement. [189388]

(3) what assessment her Department has made of the impact the introduction of electric personal assistive mobility devices would have on carbon emissions in the UK. [189389]

Ms Rosie Winterton: I refer the hon. Member to my answer of 26 February 2008, Official Report, columns 1347-48W, to the hon. Member for Manchester, Withington (Mr. Leech).

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether she plans to amend legislation to permit electric personal assistive mobility devices on the public highway or on pedestrian or cycle facilities; and if she will make a statement. [189622]

Ms Rosie Winterton: There are no plans to amend legislation to permit electric personal assistive mobility devices on the public highway or on pedestrian or cycle facilities in the UK.

Electric Vehicles: Government Cars

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment she has made of the merits of introducing electric vehicles into the Government car fleet. [190025]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Government Car and Despatch Agency (GCDA) actively engages with vehicle manufacturers on the development of alternatively powered vehicles, including electric vehicles.

GCDA's car fleet was one of the first in the country to introduce hybrid electric/petrol technology on a large scale. Vehicles solely powered by electricity do not yet have the range or performance to meet the day to day operational needs of the agency.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many (a) hybrid and (b) electric vehicles there are in the Government car fleet. [190026]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Government Car and Despatch Agency currently operates 105 hybrid vehicles but no electric vehicles. This represents 54.4 per cent. of the total car fleet.

Heathrow Airport

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many and what percentage of passengers using (a) Heathrow and (b) Gatwick airports were in transit (i) between domestic and international flights and (ii) between international flights in the last year for which figures are available. [188503]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 22 February 2008]: The following table shows percentage of passengers transferring between domestic and international flights and between international flights at Heathrow and Gatwick in 2006.

Passengers at Heathrow and Gatwick 2006

| | Heathrow | | Gatwick | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Passengers (million) | Percentage of total passengers | Passengers (million) | Percentage of total passengers |
| Total passengers | 67.1 | — | 33.7 | — |
| of which: | | | | |
| Transfer | | | | |
| Domestic to International | 2.9 | 4 | 1.3 | 4 |
| International to International | 17.1 | 26 | 1.6 | 5 |
| International to Domestic | 2.8 | 4 | 1.2 | 4 |
| Total transfer passengers[1] | 22.9 | 34 | 4.2 | 12 |

[1] This includes domestic to domestic transfer passengers.

Motor Vehicles: Carbon Emissions

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what target she has set for carbon dioxide emissions from road vehicles by 2020, expressed in g/km. [188893]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 25 February 2008]: We believe that 100 g/km should be achievable by 2020, or no later than 2025, at the EU level. We are pushing strongly for the recent European Commission legislative proposal on new car $CO_2$ to be amended to reflect this.

Motor Vehicles: Excise Duties

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps the Government have taken to reduce levels of road tax evasion. [189146]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency (DVLA) has in place effective processes to collect Vehicle Excise Duty (VED), making vehicle licensing requirements easier to comply with but harder to avoid.

A comprehensive package of measures is employed to combat VED evasion. This includes targeted advertising, automated penalties generated from the record, use of debt collection agencies, deployment of enforcement officers and use of automatic number plate recognition to detect and prosecute users of unlicensed vehicles. In addition, DVLA and its police and local authority enforcement partners take direct roadside enforcement action to wheel clamp and impound unlicensed vehicles.

The most recent roadside survey of VED evasion estimates that 98.5 per cent. of duty payable in 2007 was successfully collected.

Railway Stations: Sight Impaired

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps the Government have taken to make train stations user-friendly for blind people. [190023]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Since the launch of the Railways for All Strategy in March 2006 Access for All funding has been used to support a variety of accessibility improvements that will benefit visually impaired passengers at more than 270 stations. Schemes have included improvements to public address systems, tactile paving, lighting, stair handrails and colour contrasting.

Railway Stations: West Midlands

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent steps the Government have taken to improve accessibility of train stations in the West Midlands. [190022]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Since the launch of the Railways for All Strategy in March 2006 Access for All funding has been used to support a variety of accessibility improvements including accessible toilets, customer information systems and hearing induction loops, at 61 stations in the West Midlands. The Department for Transport has contributed £1.2 million towards projects totalling £3.1 million.

In addition, £160 million was announced by the Department earlier this month for improvements to passenger capacity and access at Birmingham New Street Station. This is in addition to the £128 million of funding pledged by the Department last year.

Roads

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what plans she has to issue a manual for streets to aid reconfiguration of existing (a) high streets and (b) other streets. [186111]

Ms Rosie Winterton: We have no immediate plans to develop a manual specifically for high streets or other roads. Although the Manual for Streets, published in March 2007, focuses on residential and other lightly trafficked roads, many of its key principles are applicable to other types of roads. We are aware of the call for it to be extended in scope and we are considering how we may do this, possibly in partnership with stakeholders.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many scheme impact evaluations she has received from local authorities for road schemes the Department for Transport has funded; and if she will (a) list them and (b) make them available on the Department's website. [188481]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Evaluation is an integral part of the scheme development and since July 2006, the Department for Transport (DfT) requires local authorities submitting a Major Scheme Business Case to include an outline evaluation plan. We have issued guidance titled "The Evaluation of Local Authority Transport Schemes: A Guide" to local authorities conducting scheme evaluations in December 2006. The guidance is available on the DFT website at the following web link:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/regional/ltp/major/pdfevalmailocautranpro

This provides detailed guidance for local authorities on how to plan and conduct an effective evaluation.

We do not have any evaluations for those schemes that received funding approval before July 2006 and it will be sometime before we start receiving completed evaluations for schemes receiving funding approval after July 2006.

In addition, we now expect local authorities to make available, on their own websites, scheme evaluations as they become available.

Roads: Repairs and Maintenance

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will make it her policy to record centrally expenditure by local authorities on compensation paid as a result of inadequate road maintenance resulting in (a) personal injury and (b) damage to vehicles. [189100]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Highway maintenance on local roads in England is the responsibility of each local highways authority. This responsibility includes management of claims for compensation for personal injury and damage to vehicles resulting from alleged inadequate road maintenance. There are no plans to introduce central recording of those claims.

Sea Rescue: Ireland

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport on how many occasions the (a) Republic of Ireland's coast guard agency, (b) Irish Air Corps and (c) Irish navy have been involved in marine emergency and rescue in United Kingdom waters in the last two years; and if she will make a statement. [188458]

Jim Fitzpatrick: According to the Maritime and Coastguard Agency records, in 2006 the Republic of Ireland's coastguard was contacted for assistance 206 times, and the Irish navy three times. In 2007 the coastguard was contacted for assistance 209 times and the Irish navy on one occasion. The Irish Air Corps was not used in either year.

Trains: Fuels

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what consideration her Department has given to the merits of low-cost ultra-light rail fuelled by biomethane made locally from anaerobically digested organic waste; and if she will make a statement. [188479]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department has not made such an assessment. We are aware of the claims made for the potential benefits of ultra light rail, but in order to properly assess these, we would need to see a business case supporting its application in a specific location. Local authorities are welcome to submit innovative proposals to the Department for funding as pilot or demonstration schemes within the major scheme funding regime. During 2006, the Department part-funded a research project to assess the potential role of biomethane as a renewable transport fuel, although this did not examine it's potential in ultra light rail specifically. A copy of this report has been made available in the House Libraries.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Mr. Newmark: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which projects in Braintree constituency have been funded by the aggregates levy sustainability fund; and what the value is of each project. [189344]

Animals: Diseases

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much and what proportion of the expected costs of animal disease and welfare will fall upon the (a) public purse and (b) farmers under cost-sharing arrangements for each year of the comprehensive spending review period. [183500]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 5 February 2008]: It is not possible to provide such a breakdown, as the costs to industry and Government will vary. As part of the CSR 07 settlement the Government are committed to reducing DEFRA's animal health and welfare budget by £121 million by 2010-11. This is being achieved through a combination of efficiency savings at no additional cost to the industry; and transfers and charges in full or in part for activities and services which are of direct benefit to the industry whether individually or collectively.

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether estimated savings in 2010-11 from cost-sharing in relation to animal disease and welfare include income from levies imposed on the farming industry for the control of exotic diseases. [183501]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 5 February 2008]: No. We do not anticipate that legislation to facilitate the introduction of other revenue raising mechanisms as part of the wider responsibility and cost sharing agenda for animal health and welfare will be in place before the end of the current CSR settlement period. We are currently consulting on the broad means by which full responsibility and cost sharing might be introduced, with a view to consulting by the end of the year on specific proposals for the establishment of responsibility and cost sharing.

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs on what financial basis and assumptions an annual saving of £121 million by 2011 from cost-sharing for animal disease control and welfare was calculated. [183502]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 5 February 2008]: An annual saving of £121 million by 2010-11 represents the proportion of the Department's CSR settlement which falls on the Animal Health and Welfare budget. This is being achieved through a combination of efficiency savings at no additional cost to the industry; and transfers and charges in full or in part for activities and services which are of direct benefit to the industry whether individually or collectively.

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what measures relating to vaccination of sheep and cattle have been taken in relation to bluetongue disease. [187567]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA has placed an order with Intervet for 22.5 million doses of vaccine for use against bluetongue serotype 8 (BTV-8), the strain currently in circulation in parts of East and South East England. 20 million doses are reserved for use in England and 2.5 million doses are reserved for potential use in Wales. The UK was the first member state affected by BTV-8 to place an order for vaccine and Intervet has indicated that vaccine will begin to be available from May.

A vaccination delivery plan was published on 18 February and is available on the DEFRA website. It sets out how livestock keepers in the Protection Zone will be able to purchase doses from a vaccine bank through their private vets once vaccine is available. Depending on vaccine availability and the disease situation, once vaccination is progressing broadly across the Protection Zone, the intention is to extend or modify the zone in order to permit further vaccination. This will allow a phased approach as vaccine is delivered.

Animals: Smuggling

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps his Department takes to manage health risks associated with animals which are smuggled into the UK. [188284]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA, the devolved Administrations and Animal Health publicise the requirements for animals entering the country, including the possible disease consequences of failure to adhere to import requirements. Animal Health carry out checks at ports, as do other bodies. Carriers authorised under the Pet Travel scheme (PETS) are required to be vigilant and take steps to prevent illegal imports. We also receive information from private vets. Animal Health takes action to deal with health risks from illegally imported animals, which may include isolation, return to the country of origin or destruction.

Illegal imports are referred to local trading standards offices to consider appropriate action, including prosecution.

DEFRA and Animal Health have an ongoing exotic disease surveillance programme and agreed contingency plans for dealing with outbreaks of exotic disease.

Badgers: Devon

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much was spent on the protection of badgers in Devon in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [189050]

Joan Ruddock [holding answer 26 February 2008]: DEFRA does not hold details of the costs associated with the range of protection afforded to badgers in Devon.

Badgers, including those in Devon, are specifically protected under the Protection of Badgers Act 1992. They are also protected from harm and ill treatment, along with other species, by a range of additional legislation. DEFRA is responsible for policy relating to the Protection of Badgers Act in England, but this is only one part of its wider responsibility for policy relating to wildlife legislation.

Bonamia Ostreae

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make a statement on the outbreak of bonamia ostreae in Kent. [188416]

Jonathan Shaw: On 15 February we issued a notice under the Fish Health Regulations 1997, controlling the movement of molluscan shellfish from the north Kent coast. This followed confirmation of the presence of the parasite bonamia ostreae in a bed of native oysters.

The area subject to movement controls has been selected to ensure maximum protection against any further spread of the disease. Bonamia ostreae causes the serious disease bonamiosis in native oyster stocks, but does not have any clinical effect on any other species of shellfish. The Centre for Environment, Fisheries and Aquaculture Science (CEFAS) will be monitoring the extent and effect of the disease in the controlled area.

It is not expected that the controls, which apply to movements of shellfish for the purposes of relaying or re-immersion in the aquatic environment, will interfere with current commercial activity. Bonamiosis has no implications for human health, and native oysters from this area can still be eaten.

Bovine Tuberculosis: Devon

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many animals removed from farms in Devon as a result of investigations of suspected or confirmed cases of tuberculosis were returned to the human food chain in each of the last five years. [189049]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 26 February 2008]: The following table provides data for 2003 to 2007 on (a) the number of cattle removed from farms in Devon for TB control reasons; (b) the number of cattle with TB suspected at routine slaughterhouse inspection and (c) of these, the number of cattle where infection with Mycobacterium bovis (M. bovis) was subsequently unconfirmed at post mortem examination.

|---|---|---|---|
| 2003 | 3,767 | 5 | 2,337 |
| 2004 | 4,578 | 4 | 2,186 |
| 2005[2] | 6,660 | 14 | 2,931 |

|---|---|---|---|
| 2006[2] | 4,468 | 13 | 1,751 |
| 2007[2] | 5,383 | 29 | 2,013 |

[1] TB reactors, inconclusive reactors or direct contacts.
[2] Provisional figures, subject to change as more data becomes available.

Responsibility for inspecting TB carcasses and their associated offal rests with the Meat Hygiene Service (MHS). Under the EU food hygiene regulations, all the animals from Devon herds with no visible tuberculosis lesions, plus any cattle from those herds with visible tuberculosis lesions localised in one organ or one part of the carcase, will have been considered fit for human consumption by the MHS.

Bovine Tuberculosis: Finance

Mr. Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much money was spent by his Department on the destruction of animals identified as having contracted bovine tuberculosis in 2007. [189543]

Jonathan Shaw: The relative TB Control costs for DEFRA in 2006-07 were:

2006-07

| Activity | £ million |
|---|---|
| Cattle testing | 37.8 |
| Compensation | 24.5 |
| Surveillance activity by the VLA | 6.4 |
| HQ / Overheads | 1.7 |

Notes:
1. Cattle testing—the cost of carrying out the testing of cattle for TB by arranging, assessing and monitoring tests, conducting investigations of incident herds and diagnostic testing by Local Veterinary Inspectors on behalf of DEFRA.
NB: These costs include Scotland and Wales (funded by DEFRA).
2. Compensation—includes payments for 'reactors' and 'contact animals' which are compulsorily slaughtered. This includes 'salvage' money received by the Government for those carcasses which are permitted to go into the food chain or are eligible for over thirty month scheme payments.
NB: These costs include Scotland and Wales and are funded by their respective Governments.
3. Surveillance activity by the VLA—includes all DEFRA funded work carried out by the Veterinary Laboratories Agency relating to TB in cattle and badgers including the supply of tuberculin.
4. HQ/Overheads—includes staff costs for veterinary advice and administration of TB policy in England, Scotland and Wales.

Carbon Emissions: Aviation

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will estimate the climate change impact of UK aviation in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187419]

Mr. Woolas: In 2005, it is estimated that international and domestic UK aviation (includes all flights that take off from, and land at, a UK airport) accounted for 37.5 million tonnes of carbon dioxide ($MtCO_2$), or 6.4 per cent. of UK emissions. This takes no account of the radiative forcing impact of the release of emissions at altitude, not does it reflect the climate impact of aircraft contrails or emissions of other gases not controlled under the Kyoto protocol.

Coastal Fishing

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what response he has received to plans to permit 30 inshore trawlers from Hartlepool, Lowestoft and the Thames Estuary to land all of their catch above minimum landing sizes; whether they will be compensated; and if he will make a statement. [188432]

Jonathan Shaw: On 5 February 2008, I announced a pilot project to assess the environmental impacts of inshore fisheries.

Owners of inshore fishing vessels that target quota stocks and operate (i) off the north east coast centred around Hartlepool, (ii) off the east coast centred around Lowestoft, and (iii) in the Thames Estuary, will be invited to participate. The pilot will collect information on a range of indicators including fishing method, catches, discards, marketing and fuel consumption. This, and other information, will help inform the implementation of Fisheries 2027, a long-term vision for sustainable fisheries. DEFRA officials have spoken with a number of fishermen from the above areas who have expressed an interest in participating in the pilot and, in due course, they will be holding meetings in the three pilot areas to discuss details of the Scheme. I have not offered compensation but costs of equipping participating vessels will be met by DEFRA. I will consider extending the pilot to recreational fishing following a review of the first six months of the Scheme which I aim to have operational by the summer.

Common Fisheries Policy

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) whether he has discussed reforming the Common Fisheries Policy with his EU counterparts; and if he will make a statement; [188420]

(2) whether he attended the informal Council meeting of 18 February 2008 on the reform of EU fisheries policy; and if he will make a statement; [188421]

(3) what discussions were held at the informal Council meeting of 18 February 2008 on the reform of the EU fisheries policy; what his policy is on Common Fisheries Policy reform; and if he will make a statement. [188422]

Jonathan Shaw: The UK Government are still considering their overall approach to the 2012 reform of the common fisheries policy and have not therefore begun substantive discussions with their European counterparts. We do, however, intend to engage with them and the European Commission at an early stage to ensure the effectiveness of any new policy.

My noble Friend, the Minister for Sustainable Food and Farming and Animal Health (Lord Rooker) attended the Informal Meeting of Ministers on 18 February. He participated in the discussion on the Commission's proposed response to the Court of Auditors' special report on the EU's control, inspection and sanction systems, and the Commission's proposals for reform and modernisation of the control system.

Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what progress has been made in mapping land as defined by section 15(1) of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000; [188447]

(2) what the cost of mapping land as defined by section 15(1) of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 has been to date; [188448]

(3) what assessment he has made of the implications of changes to Natural England's budget for the mapping of land as defined by section 15(1) of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000. [188449]

Jonathan Shaw: In 2003 the Countryside Agency (now Natural England) let a contract to identify land as defined by Section 15(1) of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 (CROW). The research considered records available through publicly accessible archives, DEFRA, local authorities and some private sources. From the data obtained, a map was developed that shows where land mapped as open country, registered common land or land dedicated under Section 16 of CROW is affected by one or more Section 15 enactment. That map and associated information is available through Natural England's Open Access website.

The majority of the cost of mapping land subject to Section 193 of the Law of Property Act 1925 was integral to the costs of preparing maps of registered common land under Section 4(1 )(a) of CROW. The cost of researching and mapping all other categories of land defined by Section 15 of CROW to date has been £260,000.

It is a matter for the Board of Natural England to propose in its corporate plan what priority to give to individual projects in the light of the financial settlement it has received.

Departmental Civil Service Agencies

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he will announce the budgets for his Department's executive agencies for 2008-09; and if he will make a statement. [188437]

Jonathan Shaw: Details of DEFRA's 2008-09 budgets were announced by the Secretary of State on 21 February. Net controlled executive agencies recover their full economic costs through charges to their customers, including DEFRA, and so do not appear within the detail of the budget announcement. Budget details for gross controlled executive agencies are shown in the table as follows.

£ million

| | 2008-09 | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | Programme | Cap | Total |
| RPA Operations | 201.4 | 22.0 | 223.4 |

Departmental Databases

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what databases are (a) owned and (b) maintained by (i) his Department and (ii) its agencies. [185413]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA and its agencies own or maintain a wide range of databases reflecting its diverse policy and regulatory functions. Some of these databases contain large numbers of individual datasets. In addition DEFRA purchases licences for many external datasets to help in its research and analytical activities. A detailed list could be provided only at disproportionate cost to the Department.

Departmental Grants

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he will announce the grant-in-aid packages his Department will distribute in 2008-09; and if he will make a statement. [188438]

Jonathan Shaw: Details of DEFRA's 2008-09 budgets, including grant-in-aid for arms length bodies, were announced by the Secretary of State on 21 February.

Details of 2008-09 budgets for arms length bodies are as follows:

[1] WRAP includes funding previously originating from the Business Resource Efficiency and Waste (BREW) programme.
[2] Carbon Trust and Energy Savings Trust include Environmental Transformation Fund (Some of this may be reallocated when the ETF becomes operational)

Departmental ICT

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will introduce automated computer shut down software across his Department. [187904]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA places a high importance on IT energy efficiency measures and seeks to make savings wherever possible.

(a) instructions to staff have been provided in a number of ways. As part of our 'big switch' energy efficiency campaign at the start of 2006, we combined online and poster messaging to inform and change staff behaviour to make sure all computers and other electrical equipment is switched off. Seasonal messages are broadcast on DEFRA's intranet to ensure staff turn off equipment over holiday periods. Information and instructions on energy saving measures appear on DEFRA's intranet and there are stickers on computer screens reminding staff to switch off their monitors. There are also checks carried out by security guards on the London estate on their normal night time patrols who switch off machines if found to be powered up without explanation.

(b) DEFRA is currently undertaking trials of timer switches on power sockets for printers and copiers. It is also preparing to roll-out a VISTA-based desktop environment within which it will deploy VISTA's inbuilt group policy options to enforce a default switch to the VISTA sleep mode after a pre-set elapsed time of inactivity.

(c) There has been an assessment of Nightwatchman technology that provides similar automatic hibernation of devices, but at this stage it has been decided to pursue the VISTA policy option avoiding additional expense. This will be reviewed once we have had sufficient experience of the new VISTA environment and the effectiveness of the proposed configuration.

Departmental Information Officers

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much his Department paid in bonuses to press and communication officers in each of the last 10 years; and what the (a) highest and (b) lowest such bonus was in each of those years. [182717]

Jonathan Shaw: Government policy is that a civil servant's pay should reflect their outputs, results and performance.

For the senior civil service (SCS), departments and agencies are responsible for their own reward arrangements within a framework set by Cabinet Office. Below the SCS, departments have delegated authority to tailor reward packages to meet their own business needs.

Under current arrangements, bonuses are used to reward excellent performance during the year, and are based on a judgement of how well an individual has performed relative to their peers.

Performance related pay schemes encourage high attainment because bonuses have to be earned each year. They help drive high performance in departments and agencies and support better public service delivery.

The data requested for bonuses paid in DEFRA and its agencies are as follows:

| | | | £ |
|---|---|---|---|
| | 2005 | 2006 | 2007 |
| Total | 9,786.00 | 21,662.00 | 14,950.00 |
| Min | 350.00 | 250.00 | 200.00 |
| Max | 1,299.00 | 6,000.00 | 750.00 |

The information covers people in core-DEFRA and the following DEFRA Executive Agencies: Animal Health, Pesticides Safety Directorate, Veterinary Medicines Directorate, Marine Fisheries Agency, Government Decontamination Service. It does not include payments made by DEFRA's agencies that have taken pay delegation (Central Science Laboratory, Centre for Environment Fisheries and Aquaculture Science, Rural Payments Agency and Veterinary Laboratories Agency).

Please note that data prior 2005 are available at disproportionate cost only, as a result of system changes.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Walker: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will list the special advisers employed in his Department and its predecessor since 6 May 1997; and what the (a) start and (b) end date of employment was in each case. [184366]

Jonathan Shaw: Since 2003, the Government have published on an annual basis the names and numbers of special advisers in each pay band. For the most recent information I refer the hon. Member to the statement made by my right hon. Friend, the Prime Minister on 22 November 2007, Official Report, columns 147-150WS.

Information on the employment of special advisers prior to 2003 was provided at regular intervals and is available in the Library of the House.

Departmental Public Relations

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many external contracts his Department held with public relations companies in each of the last 10 years; and what the total cost of those contracts was. [183201]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA was formed in June 2001. Since that time DEFRA's Communications Directorate has not had any direct contracts with any public relations companies as work is contracted through the Central Office of Information. The sub-contracted agencies are listed as follows:

| Agency | Cost (£) | Project | Date |
|---|---|---|---|
| Good Relations | 5,900 | Sustainable Food and Farming | 2002 |
| Biss Lancaster | 189,367 | Your Countryside your welcome | 2002 |
| Red | 121,849 | Illegal Imports | 2002 |
| Country Porter Novelli | 16,243 | Sustainable Development | 2002 |
| Forster Company | 11,170 | Darwin Initiative | 2003 |
| Media Moguls | 261,559 | Illegal Food Imports Campaign Phase 1 | July 2004 to March 2005 |
| Media Moguls | 22,362 | Illegal Food Imports Campaign Phase 2 | August 2005 to March 2006 |
| Amazon Public Relations | 55,905 | Launch of the Sustainable Development Strategy | January to May 2005 |
| Amazon Public Relations | 18,750 | Sustainable Development case studies | August 2005 to March 2006 |
| Weber Shandwick | 60,000 | Climate Change | October 2005 to March 2006 |
| Amazon Public Relations | 108,577 | Sustainable Development | August 2005 to May 2006 |
| Munro and Forster | 64,424 | Residual Waste | October to December 2007 |
| Trimedia Harrison Cowley | 361,322 | Act on $CO_2$ | January 2007 to March 2008 |

All of the agencies listed have provided specialist skills and services that were not available within DEFRA's Communications Directorate.

Departmental Repairs and Maintenance

Mr. Greenway: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the estimated cost of the planned refurbishment of his Department's offices at Kings Pool, York is; and if he will make a statement. [185489]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 7 February 2008]: The planned refurbishment works, undertaken to increase capacity, improve business effectiveness, reduce occupancy cost and facilitate modern working practices at the Kings Pool complex in York is estimated to cost £28.3 million inclusive of VAT. This includes the comprehensive phased refurbishment of both Foss House and Mallard House whilst business as usual continues and includes the construction of a new 'Hub' building, all meeting BREEAM (BRE Environmental Assessment Method) excellent standards as required by cross-government mandate.

Departmental Security

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will list the (a) special advisers and (b) ministerial appointees in possession of a security pass enabling access to his Department's main building in the month prior to the prorogation of Parliament for the 2005 general election. [182209]

Jonathan Shaw: It is established practice not to provide details on pass access to Government buildings for security reasons.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what documents his Department, its predecessor, and its agencies translated for people who do not speak English in (a) 2007-08 and (b) the last five years; and what the total cost associated was of such translations. [188004]

Jonathan Shaw: In the last five years, DEFRA's translation section has arranged the translation of the following documents for people in the UK who do not speak English:

Amendment to paragraph of "EC Quality Standards for Fresh Fruit and Vegetables"

"A Retailer's Guide" (2003)

Leaflet entitled "If in doubt, leave it out" (re illegal imports) (2003)

Leaflet on Manual Harvest Workers (2003)

Gangmaster leaflet (2004)

Extracts from Agriculture and Horticulture Act (2004)

Leaflet entitled "Waste - duty of care" (2004)

Leaflet entitled "Food on the Go" (2005)

Two dry cleaning leaflets, reminders about Solvent Emissions Directive (2006)

Summary leaflet, Controls on the handling of waste (2006)

Leaflet about working with poultry (2007)

The cost per language in each of these years is as follows:

| | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 | £ 2007 |

Devolution

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how often (a) he and (b) his officials are in contact with (i) Scottish, (ii) Welsh and (iii) Northern Ireland counterparts to discuss (1) fisheries, (2) the marine environment, (3) agriculture and (4) rural affairs; and if he will make a statement. [188439]

Jonathan Shaw: My ministerial colleagues and I, and our officials, are regularly in contact with our counterparts in Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland and discuss the full range of our common interests in agriculture, fisheries, the environment and rural affairs. My most recent meeting with my Scottish, Welsh and Northern Ireland colleagues was on 6 February where we discussed the outcome of the December Agriculture and Fisheries Council and future work on the reform of the Common Fisheries Policy.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he and his predecessors met counterparts in the devolved administrations in each year since 2001; and if he will make a statement. [188440]

Jonathan Shaw: My ministerial colleagues and I have regular contact, both formal and informal, with our counterparts in Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland. The Department does not retain central information on the meetings held between my predecessors and their counterparts in the devolved Administrations. To provide a full response to the hon. Member's question would incur disproportionate costs.

Electricity

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what total quantity of electricity in kilowatts was consumed by (a) his Department and (b) its agencies in each of the last five years. [188976]

Jonathan Shaw: The Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (DEFRA) can confirm that annual electricity consumption from buildings on the DEFRA and Executive Agency estate for which we have contractual responsibility for electricity use are shown in the following table:

Electricity Consumption (kWh)

| | 2005-06 | 2004-05 | 2003-04 | 2002-03 |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| DEFRA | 15,647,140 | 17,273,446 | 15,438,600 | 15,958,300 |

| TOTAL | 59,363,968 | 53,436,061 | 51,355,323 | 51,671,662 |

[1] Consumption is total for 2005-06, we are unable to split the data before and after the Agency was formed.

Sustainable Development Commission are verifying government data for 2006-07 which are expected to be published in March.

Fisheries

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many non-UK vessels have historic rights to fish within the UK 12 nautical mile limit, broken down by country of origin; what the quota of each is; and if he will make a statement. [188547]

Jonathan Shaw: There is no stipulation of the number of non-UK vessels that are entitled to fish within the UK's six to 12 nautical mile zone. However, vessels are restricted entry to our inshore waters on the basis of country and gear type. Those countries who have historic rights to fish are laid down in Annex 1 of the Framework Regulation for the Common Fisheries Policy (Council Regulation (EC) No 2371/2002 of 20 December 2002 on the conservation and sustainable exploitation of fisheries resources under the Common Fisheries Policy), which can be found at:

http://eurlex.europa.eu/LexUriServ/LexUriServ.do?uri=CELEX:32002R2371:EN:NOT

Quota is allocated to member states on the basis of the International Council for the Exploration of the Sea (ICES) sea areas. There is no specific quota for the six to 12 mile zone. Details of the quotas for each species that individual countries have access to can be found in Council Regulation (EC) No 40/2008 of 16 January 2008 fixing for 2008 the fishing opportunities and associated conditions for certain fish stocks and groups of fish stocks, applicable in Community waters and, for Community vessels, in waters where catch limitations are required, which can be accessed at:

Fisheries: Closures

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what fishery closures have taken place in each year since 1997; what the reasons for each closure are; what the duration of each closure is; and if he will make a statement. [188425]

Jonathan Shaw: Details of fishery closures, at a UK level, during the last five years, where a fishery has remained closed until the end of the year are shown in the following table. The reasons for these closures are the exhaustion of UK quota. Some fisheries, such as pelagic ones, have a short season so the impact of what may appear to be a lengthy closure will have had a minimal impact on most fishermen.

Fisheries: Enforcement

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs on what dates there were no (a) River Class offshore and (b) inshore patrol vessels operating in UK waters as part of the Fishery Protection Squadron in each month since April 2007; and if he will make a statement. [188545]

Jonathan Shaw: During the period 1 April 2007 to 31 January 2008, the dates when no River class patrol vessels were in operation on fisheries protection duties are shown in the following table.

| | Date(s) | Reason |

Fisheries: Protection

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much funding to protect marine biodiversity and fish stocks from (a) pollution, (b) parasites, (c) invasive species and (d) other threats in each of the (i) last five years and (ii) next five years; and if he will make a statement. [188417]

Jonathan Shaw: The Department does not hold the information in the form the hon. Member requests and, due to Departmental reorganisation, comparisons with previous years are not readily available. For 2007-08, the Department's budget for marine and fisheries work is £40 million, this is likely to increase to around £47 million in 2008-09. Some of the funding provided to statutory agencies (such as the Joint Nature Conservation Committee) also contributes to the protection of marine biodiversity.

Fisheries: Quotas

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what research his Department has commissioned on the composition of fishing catches in relation to allocated quota; and if he will make a statement. [188418]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA commissions a range of research work on the composition of fish caught by UK fishermen. Among other uses, this work provides information on factors such as the selectivity of fishing gears and the level of discards of fish. These are used as inputs into the ongoing scientific assessment of the state of fish stocks used to determining the level of fish quotas each year that are allocated to member states.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the catch composition of the catch from vessels involved in the Irish Sea Discard Pilot has been; what the difference between the catch composition and the quota allocation has been; and if he will make a statement. [188419]

Jonathan Shaw: Data from the initial period of the pilot project are being compiled by scientists in the UK and Ireland and are not yet available.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what cross-year quota swaps he has made affecting the amount of quota available to the 10m and under fleet in 2008; and if he will make a statement; [188426]

(2) what in-year and cross-quota swaps he has made in each International Council for the Exploration of the Sea Area affecting the quota available for the 10m and under fleet in 2008; what economic assessment he has made of such swaps; and if he will make a statement. [188429]

Jonathan Shaw: The Marine and Fisheries Agency has explored, and will continue to explore, all options to acquire additional quota for the inshore fleet through domestic and international swaps, and via quota contributed to the 10 m and under quota allocations by producer organisations under economic link arrangements. A key determinant on whether or not a swap is agreed is if there is economic benefit for the UK in making the swap. Based on this, two international cross-year swaps have been completed with Germany and the Netherlands to acquire an additional 150 tonnes of valuable North sea sole quota in 2008 for inshore fishermen operating in the southern North sea. Additionally, similar cross year swaps have been agreed to gain 38 tonnes of North sea Whiting and 26 tonnes of Irish sea Plaice for the inshore fleet. Other international swaps have also taken place. These will not have been carried out for the specific benefit of the inshore fleet. However, the inshore fleet will have benefited in many instances from a share of the extra fish gained for the UK as a whole.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 5 December 2007, Official Report, column 1272W, on fisheries: quota, whether he has now discussed quota management with the Inshore Fisheries Working Group; whether he plans further to discuss quota management with the Inshore Fisheries Working Group; and if he will make a statement. [188427]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA officials meet the Inshore Fisheries Working Group twice a year. The Group discusses a range of issues relevant to inshore fisheries. Should it be appropriate for me to meet the Group, I would be happy to do so.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether he has made any cross-year quota swaps between the quota allocations for 2008 and for 2009; and if he will make a statement. [188428]

Jonathan Shaw: The possibility of 2008 to 2009 cross-year swaps will not be considered until much later in the year in the approach to the December Fisheries Council.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether he plans to carry out any quota swaps that would alter the availability of quota for the 10m and under fleet in Area VIIe; and if he will make a statement. [188430]

Jonathan Shaw: The Marine and Fisheries Agency will explore all possibilities to gain extra quota, including swaps, to enhance the quota allocation for the 10 m and under fleet in Area VIIe, as elsewhere, for stocks where additional quota is needed.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the details of each quota swap made in 2007 were; and if he will make a statement. [188442]

Jonathan Shaw: It is not possible, at a proportionate cost, to provide the details of each quota swap in 2007 as over 100 international swaps and some 1,370 domestic swaps were undertaken last year.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether he consulted recreational sea angling interests before quota swaps were made; and if he will make a statement. [188443]

Jonathan Shaw: Recreational sea angling interests have not been consulted about quota allocations or swaps as they are not included in the quota allocation system.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether the Scottish Executive notified him of its proposed changes to quota management; and if he will make a statement. [188612]

Jonathan Shaw: I was notified of the Scottish Executive's intentions regarding quota management at a meeting of Fisheries Ministers in Peterhead on 5 October 2007.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 1289W, on fisheries: quotas, on what policies the Government engaged with the devolved administrations in the last 12 months. [188670]

Jonathan Shaw: The Government have engaged with the devolved Administrations in the last 12 months on all areas of policy relevant to fisheries management in the UK.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 1288W, on fisheries: quotas, whether the draft quota management change programme proposals suggested the decommissioning of 10m and under vessels. [188671]

Jonathan Shaw: Decommissioning a proportion of the 10 m and under fleet was one of the proposals under consideration in the context of the quota management change programme.

Fishing Catches

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) whether he plans to introduce further discard pilot schemes; and if he will make a statement; [188434]

(2) what estimate he has made of the amount of fish discarded in UK waters in each month since January 2006 by (a) UK vessels and (b) non-UK vessels; and if he will make a statement; [188544]

(3) if he will make a statement on the progress being made producing the EU Discard Atlas. [188546]

Jonathan Shaw: It is not possible to provide figures for discards solely in UK waters. The discard estimates used by ICES in stock assessments are carried out in relation to particular sea areas (e.g. the North sea) rather than national waters. The figures for North sea ICES sub-area IV are set out in the following table. Figures from Scotland will not be available until April 2008.

| | | | Estimated tonnes discarded | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Country | Area | Species | Q1 | Q2 | Q3 | Q4 |
| English and Welsh registered vessels | North sea ICES sub-area IV | Cod | 86.8 | 20.9 | 57.9 | 55.0 |
| | | Haddock | 41.6 | 102.2 | 134.8 | 43.4 |
| | | Plaice | 37.1 | 23.9 | 59.8 | 15.1 |
| | | Sole | 13.9 | 5.5 | 16.4 | 0.8 |
| | | Whiting | 132.3 | 119.9 | 160.5 | 128.6 |

The UK is currently considering further work on discards in the context of the cod recovery plan and to deliver the required objectives on North sea whiting arising from last year's EU/Norway negotiations The proposal for a Discard Atlas intends to review the current knowledge about discards in EU fisheries and undertake a feasibility study on a fisheries information system for EU Fisheries. The study would require extensive work and co-operation between all European marine fisheries research institutes in order to achieve these aims. However, the finances on offer to perform the study are relatively limited, and at present it is not clear whether there will be any consortiums bidding for this work. The deadline for bid submissions was 25 February 2008.

Genetically Modified Organisms: Pesticides

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what research he has commissioned into the effect of GM crop technology on levels of pesticides use. [189431]

Mr. Woolas: We have not commissioned any research on this topic.

Honours

Mr. Pope: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many members of the Senior Civil Service in his Department have received an honour. [187128]

Jonathan Shaw: We have three members of the DEFRA SCS in post who have received an honour during their time in the Department.

We do not routinely keep data on:

the number of awards held by individuals,

awards that are not related to official duties,

awards already held by staff before joining the Department.

Horse Racing: Animal Welfare

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent communications his Department has had with the British Horseracing Authority on the provisions of the Animal Welfare Act 2006, with particular regard to section 4; and if he will make a statement. [187326]

Jonathan Shaw: There have been no recent communications between DEFRA and the British Horseracing Authority in relation to section 4 of the Animal Welfare Act 2006.

Inland Waterways

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the effect of the withdrawal of British Waterways from the Cotswold Canal Partnership on the restoration programme of the Thames and Severn canal. [188006]

Jonathan Shaw: The proposed restoration of the Cotswold canals has been endorsed in the Cotswold district council's local plan and the line of the canals is protected.

British Waterways is just one of the 19 members of the partnership. The Cotswold Canals Partnership is committed to the restoration project and will continue with it, given the regeneration benefits in the long term. The timetable for the restoration of these canals will depend upon the availability of funding.

We have always made clear that, while we welcomed the project, this was a matter for the British Waterways Board.

British Waterways remains optimistic that the restoration will be achieved in the future.

Intimidation

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many cases of bullying have been reported in (a) his Department and (b) its agencies in each of the last 12 months. [182834]

Jonathan Shaw: In the last 12 months, five cases of bullying have been reported in the Department and five cases of bullying have been reported by its agencies.

The Department has in place an internal equal opportunities complaints procedure on how to address bullying in the work place. In the last three months, DEFRA has reorganised support mechanisms available to staff who perceive bullying in the workplace, re-launching an in-house trained pool of harassment, bullying and support advisors and an in-house mediation service.

DEFRA also provides an employee support service, a free telephone service that provides confidential advice and counselling to all DEFRA employees on work-related or personal problems.

Information on support mechanisms and the formal procedure for dealing with bullying in the work place is available on the intranet site and is accessible to all staff.

Land Drainage: Finance

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) how much the Environment Agency has allocated for land drainage works in each of the last five years, broken down by county; [189351]

(2) what the Environment Agency's expenditure on land drainage in each constituency in the East Riding of Yorkshire has been in each of the last 10 years. [189352]

Mr. Woolas: A number of operating authorities—the Environment Agency, local authorities and internal drainage boards—are responsible for flood risk management, which includes land drainage.

Expenditure on flood risk management is not broken down into separate categories, such as land drainage. Therefore, the information requested is not available.

Oilseed Rape: Durham

John Cummings: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what acreage of land was given over to oil seed rape production in the County of Durham in (a) 2003, (b) 2004, (c) 2005, (d) 2006 and (e) 2007. [188834]

Jonathan Shaw: The area of oilseed rape (winter and spring) in the Durham county council area is shown in the following table.

| | Area of oilseed rape (hectares) |
|---|---|
| 2003 | 5,474 |
| 2004 | 6,152 |
| 2005 | 6,063 |
| 2006 | 6,061 |
| 2007 | 6,786 |

Rights of Way

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what the cost of the Discovering Lost Ways Project has been to date; [188444]

(2) how many unrecorded historic rights of way have been recorded on definitive maps and statements as a result of the Discovering Lost Ways Project; and if he will list them; [188445]

(3) what assessment he has made of the implications of changes to Natural England's budget for the future of the Discovering Lost Ways Project. [188446]

Jonathan Shaw: The cost of the Discovering Lost Ways Project to date has been £4.5 million.

The project concentrated initially on developing research procedures and evidence standards. Five lost way claims were lodged in Cheshire with the county council during a county-wide pilot of a claiming process. None of these have yet reached the stage of being recorded on the definitive map and statement.

It is a matter for Natural England to propose in its corporate plan what priority to give to individual projects in the light of the financial settlement it has received. In the case of the Discovering Lost Ways Project, Natural England has recently concluded a fundamental review to ensure that its investment in the project is cost-effective, and that the approach delivers the best prospect of lasting progress in this area. I have recently been advised of these recommendations. Natural England will announce shortly how it will take the project forward.

River Colne

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will make a statement on the recent deaths of fish on the River Colne; how many fish have died; and what steps he has taken to determine the cause of death. [188414]

Jonathan Shaw: On 8 February 2008, the Environment Agency received reports of fish deaths on the River Colne (which flows through Huddersfield in West Yorkshire) and investigated immediately. Initially, only stone loach were affected. However, as the event progressed, larger fish including trout and grayling were also found to be dead or dying. Samples were taken by Environment Agency officers and these are currently being analysed at its laboratory. Early analysis has not detected any pollutant which would have caused a fish kill. However, the Environment Agency believes that a spillage of pollution probably entered the river on 7 February and was slow-acting in nature.

A follow-up survey found 893 dead stone loach, two dead minnows, 57 dead trout and 10 dead grayling in 1.1 km of river. The survey reported live fish and invertebrates in the affected reaches indicating that life in the river is recovering.

Rural Areas: Community Councils

Mr. Letwin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether his Department is working with other Departments to encourage recognition of the services provided by rural community councils. [188230]

Jonathan Shaw: The Government recently recognised the importance of the rural community councils (RCCs) by announcing new funding worth over £10 million to the network over the next three years. We are keen to ensure that rural interests are taken fully into account in policy making and delivery across all Departments and at all levels of government. Where appropriate, DEFRA will continue to raise the potential contribution of the RCCs, as it has (with the Department for Communities and Local Government) in relation to local area agreements and the delivery of public service agreement 21, on building more cohesive, empowered and active communities.

Rural Areas: Housing

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what progress has been made as part of the feasibility study for a rural affordable housing fund since August 2007. [189184]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 26 February 2008]: As part of its preparations for the comprehensive spending review (CSSR), during the summer of 2007, DEFRA asked the Housing Corporation to provide advice on the feasibility of a potential revenue funding programme to support activity to improve the delivery of affordable rural housing at local level. We always made it clear that this would be considered in the light of the CSR settlement.

That advice has now been carefully considered. However, given the Government's undertakings on increases in housing supply generally—which will benefit rural as well as urban areas—we have concluded that the value of a small Challenge Fund would not be enough to merit a switching of resources away from other priority areas of DEFRA's business.

The Government have already set out proposals to increase the supply of housing and will be allocating £8.4 billion across the regions over the next three years. The Housing Corporation will be tasked with spending this money most effectively. The Government's long-term housing supply and affordability public service agreement (PSA) target specifically covers rural as well as urban affordability.

In addition, the Housing Green Paper sets out the Government's intention to establish a national target for rural affordable housing. The Department for Communities and Local Government (CLG) is in the process of developing this target, based on advice from the regional assemblies and the Housing Corporation. It is much more important to ensure that these measures work for rural areas, rather than to focus attention on small packets of funding from DEFRA.

Together with CLG, we remain committed to addressing the affordable rural housing problem. At a national level, the policies and funding to deliver are largely in place, but we want to ensure that it feeds through into delivery.

That is why my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister has asked the hon. Member for Truro and St. Austell (Matthew Taylor) to carry out a review to find out how land use and planning can better support business and deliver affordable housing in rural areas. The hon. Member will report to both DEFRA and CLG in the summer.

Scottish Fisheries Council

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) pursuant to the answer of 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 1295W, on Scottish Fisheries Council, when he was first informed that the Scottish Executive was establishing this body; and if he will make a statement; [188591]

(2) what discussions he has had with counterparts in the Scottish Executive on the Scottish Fisheries Council meeting held on 22 January 2008; and if he will make a statement; [188592]

(3) whether he plans to discuss the Scottish Fisheries Council with his Scottish counterpart; and if he will make a statement. [188593]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA was alerted to the establishment of the Scottish Fisheries Council last autumn. The Scottish Fisheries Council was set up to advise Scottish Ministers on their devolved responsibilities. It has no role in relation to English fisheries or reserved UK responsibilities. I would therefore not expect to be involved in discussion of its deliberations, unless there is a particular issue arising from it which my Scottish Executive counterpart wishes to draw to my attention. DEFRA continues to liaise closely with the Scottish Executive and other devolved administrations over UK fisheries policy. I last met devolved Administrations' Fisheries Ministers on 6 February, but the Scottish Fisheries Council was not discussed.

Seas and Oceans: Treaty of Lisbon

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the effects of the treaty of Lisbon on the Government's legislative proposals within the draft Marine Bill [190204]

Jonathan Shaw: The text of the new Treaty was intended to clarify EU competence for conservation of marine biological resources. The proposals for the draft Marine Bill will not amend EU competencies so we do not envisage any changes to the proposals under the Bill.

Sexual Harassment

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many complaints of (a) sexual harassment and (b) sexual discrimination have been made by staff in (i) his Department and (ii) its agencies in the most recent year for which figures are available. [184686]

Jonathan Shaw: The figures for this information relate to core DEFRA and the following agencies Animal Health, PSD, GDS, MFA, PSD, RPA, VLA and CEFAS.

The internal formal equal opportunities complaints procedures, including support mechanisms available to staff who perceive harassment and discrimination, are on DEFRA's intranet site and all staff have access to them.

Under the above procedures, in the last 12 months, a number of complaints have been made by staff; due to the small number of cases, the precise number of complaints cannot be provided on grounds of confidentiality.

In the last three months, DEFRA has reorganised support mechanisms available to staff who perceive sexual harassment and discrimination, re-launching an in-house trained pool of harassment, bullying and support advisers and an in-house mediation service.

DEFRA also provides an employee support service, a free telephone service that provides confidential advice and counselling to all DEFRA employees on work-related or personal problems.

Shropshire

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the value was of each grant provided by his Department, its associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies to (a) Shrewsbury and Atcham borough council, (b) Shropshire county council and (c) Telford and the Wrekin borough council in (i) 2006-07 and (ii) 2007-08; and what grants have been planned for 2008-09. [184103]

Jonathan Shaw: The value of grants provided by the Department of Environment, Food and Rural Affairs to each of these councils in 2006-07 and 2007-08, or planned for 2008-09, is given in the following table.

| Grant description | Shropshire county council | Shrewsbury and Atcham borough council | Telford and the Wrekin borough council |

[1] Waste performance and efficiency grant (WPEG)
[2] The waste performance and efficiency grant under Shropshire county council is an aggregate allocation for the county council and all the district councils in the Shropshire area (including Shrewsbury and Atcham borough council). WPEG was linked to local area agreements in 2007-08; allocations for all county and district councils were therefore paid as an aggregate sum for collective investment. Telford and the Wrekin is a separate unitary authority.
[3] Two bids being assessed.
[4] Not yet known.

Information on grants provided by the Department's agencies and non-departmental public bodies is held by the bodies themselves. This information is not held centrally.

Village Halls: Repairs and Maintenance

Mr. Newmark: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether his Department gives support to rural communities for the maintenance and improvement of village halls and community centres. [189343]

Jonathan Shaw: Support is provided in many ways, both for the fabric of rural community buildings, including village halls, and for those who are responsible for running them. Over the past five years, through a variety of DEFRA programmes, including the Rural Social and Community Programme, the Aggregates Levy Sustainability Fund, LEADER+ programme and the Rural Enterprise Scheme, DEFRA has invested more than £12 million to support a wide range of rural community assets.

Whales

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs with which non-governmental organisations he has discussed whaling in each month since January 2007; and if he will make a statement. [188594]

Jonathan Shaw: DEFRA and Foreign and Commonwealth Office officials regularly meet members of the Wildlife and Countryside LINK whale working group and the whalewatch coalition which together comprise the principal anti-whaling non-governmental organisations (NGOs) in the UK. My hon. Friend the Member for Brent, North (Barry Gardiner) met the group on 26 April 2007 and had frequent and close contact with NGOs present at the 59th meeting of the International Whaling Commission in Anchorage. Since taking up office in June 2007, I have attended an extremely productive meeting with officials and the group on 11 October, and have also met representatives of some NGOs individually, including the International Fund for Animal Welfare. The Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, (Hilary Benn) has also had discussions with Greenpeace.

Whales: Conservation

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) pursuant to the answer of 29 January 2008, Official Report, column 246W, on whales, when he expects he will be able to list the countries in receipt of the protecting whales document without compromising the UK's efforts to persuade them to join the International Whaling Commission and adopt an anti-whaling stance; and if he will make a statement; [188214]

(2) how many non-International Whaling Commission members he sent the Protecting Whales - A Global Responsibility document to; and if he will make a statement; [188549]

(3) whether the 18 countries he has written to on anti-whaling are the only non-International Whaling Commission members he has (a) contacted on whaling and (b) distributed the Protecting Whales - A Global Responsibility document to; and if he will make a statement; [188550]

(4) pursuant to the answer of 6 February 2008, Official Report, columns 1295-6W, which (a) heads of state, (b) heads of government, (c) foreign counterparts, (d) ambassadors and (e) other foreign government officials he has contacted on whaling; and if he will make a statement; [188551]

(5) what estimate he has made of the number of (a) pro-whaling and (b) anti-whaling countries he has distributed the Protecting Whales - A Global Responsibility document; and if he will make a statement; [188552]

(6) what further measures he is taking to persuade nations that currently support whaling to oppose whaling; and if he will make a statement. [188553]

Jonathan Shaw: As stated in my answer of 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 1296W, I consider that it would be inappropriate to provide details of both the pro/anti-whaling countries and International Whaling Commission (IWC)/non-IWC member countries the UK has lobbied on this issue and the letters and documents sent to them. This is because this information could compromise our efforts to persuade countries to join (or in some cases not to join) the IWC or to support the UK in its opposition to whaling. As this process is ongoing it is unlikely that we will consider it appropriate to release these details in the medium term.

Foreign and Commonwealth Office posts will continue to lobby countries in support of the UK's position, seeking to encourage new anti-whaling members to the IWC and endeavouring to change the opinion of governments which currently support whaling.

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether he received responses to the (a) original and (b) revised Protecting Whales - a Global Responsibility document which he sent to other governments; and if he will make a statement. [188657]

Jonathan Shaw: Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) posts regularly report back on this issue. The information that we receive informs subsequent discussions that the UK has with countries, whether or not they are members of the International Whaling Commission (IWC). Formal replies to ministerial approaches by way of letters are rare, but a lack of response does not necessarily indicate lack of action. I do not believe that any of those who joined the IWC last year actually responded to the letters that had been sent.

HEALTH

Abortion

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when his Department last undertook a review of international research evidence on (a) the upper time limit for abortions and (b) conditions for obtaining an abortion in each country in the European Union; and if he will make a statement. [189018]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department is commissioning the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists to review all research evidence on abortion, to update their guidance on "Termination of pregnancy for fetal abnormality. Fetal awareness," and the "Care of women requesting induced abortion."

Legislative conditions for obtaining an abortion in the European Union is a matter for individual member states.

Accident and Emergency Departments

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many type 1 accident and emergency departments there are in England; and how many accident and emergency departments are co-located with an NHS walk-in centre. [189228]

Mr. Bradshaw: Information is not available in the format requested. For the quarter ending in December 2007, national health service trusts in England self-reported a total of 203 type 1 (major) accident and emergency (A and E) services and 74 NHS walk-in centres in England, directly provided by the NHS, as part of the Department's QMAE dataset. However based on a recent departmental audit there are now at least 90 NHS walk-in centres in England—the balance, including six commuter walk-in centres, being commissioned by NHS organisations from independent sector providers.

It is not possible to say whether any of these walk-in centre services are co-located with type 1 (major) departments.

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the impact of accident and emergency attendances of co-locating an accident and emergency department with a walk-in centre. [189229]

Mr. Bradshaw: There has been limited assessment made. A study was funded by the Department and carried out by the University of Bristol, covering a small number of accident and emergency (A and E) departments that had established services they termed walk-in centres in or near the major A and E department. A publication based on this was published in the Emergency Medicine Journal in 2007 (using information from 2004). This work did not draw definitive conclusions on the effect of walk-in centres on A and E attendances, and the effect varied from site to site.

However, it is a matter for the local national health service to ensure the provision of urgent and emergency care services that are responsive to people's needs. What is important is that patients have access to the most appropriate care in a timely manner.

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many attendances at (a) walk-in centres, (b) minor injuries units and (c) type one accident and emergency departments there were in each quarter since the quarter ending December 2002. [189570]

Accident and Emergency Departments: Admissions

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of patients attending accident and emergency (A&E) departments were subsequently admitted to hospital via A&E in each quarter since the quarter ending December 2002. [189569]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information requested is set out in the following table.

Alcoholic Drinks: Labelling

Hywel Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will bring forward proposals to introduce a standard labelling regime for alcoholic products, with particular reference to (a) alcohol content in units and (b) guidelines for daily alcohol consumption. [190201]

Dawn Primarolo: The Government announced in May 2007 that that they had reached a ground-breaking agreement with the alcohol industry, meaning that, by the end of 2008, most alcoholic drinks labels should include alcohol unit information and the daily sensible drinking guidelines. This agreement is United Kingdom-wide.

In addition, the Government also announced revised wording on the advice on sensible drinking information on labels for pregnant women or those women who are trying to conceive. Although this is not formally part of the voluntary agreement that has been reached with the industry, it is being strongly encouraged to implement the pregnancy advice.

'Safe. Sensible. Social. - the next steps in the National Alcohol Strategy', published in June 2007, includes a commitment by the Government to consult by the end of 2008 on possible legislative options should insufficient progress by the industry have been made then.

Alcoholic Drinks: Marketing

Hywel Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what discussions he has had on the introduction of a statutory code of practice on the marketing of alcohol. [190200]

Dawn Primarolo: The regulation of alcohol advertising in the United Kingdom is currently a mix of statutory regulation and co-regulation. The Advertising Standards Authority (ASA) is responsible for enforcing the current rules.

Ofcom and the ASA jointly published 'Young People and Alcohol Advertising' in November 2007, a research report on the impact of alcohol advertising on young people following the tightening of the advertising codes in October 2005.

Broadly the research showed that the revised rules on alcohol advertising have ensured that fewer young people feel that television advertisements are aimed at them.

In January 2008, the Department commissioned an independent national review, by the School of Health and Related Research at the University of Sheffield, of the evidence on how and in what circumstances price, advertising and other forms of promotion drive overall consumption of alcohol and alcohol-related harm. This will report in summer 2008.

Depending upon the findings of this review, the Government have made it clear that they are prepared to consider strengthened controls, including, if necessary, legislation.

Alcoholic Drinks: Misuse

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the Answer of 9 January 2008, Official Report, column 575W, on alcoholic drinks: misuse, (1) if he will break down the information provided by the sex of those admitted; [186989]

(2) how many children aged (a) under eight, (b) eight to 12, (c) 13 to 16 and (d) 17 to 18 years were admitted to accident and emergency departments in each strategic health authority area in England as a result of drinking alcohol in the last (i) 12 months and (ii) five years, broken down by sex. [186992]

Dawn Primarolo: The information requested is not available in the format requested.

Such information as is available for the 10 new strategic health authorities formed on 1 July 2006 has been placed in the Library.

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many admissions to hospital with an alcohol-related diagnosis via accident and emergency departments there were in (a) the former Norfolk, Suffolk and Cambridgeshire Strategic Health Authority area, (b) the East of England Strategic Health Authority area, (c) the West Suffolk Hospital NHS Trust area and (d) the Suffolk Primary Care Trust area in each year since 1997;[†] [187614]

(2) how many admissions to hospital with an alcohol-related diagnosis via accident and emergency departments involving children under the age of 18 years there were in (a) the former Norfolk, Suffolk and Cambridgeshire Strategic Health Authority area, (b) the East of England Strategic Health Authority area, (c) the West Suffolk Hospital NHS Trust area and (d) the Suffolk Primary Care Trust area in each year since 1997. [187617]

Dawn Primarolo: The following table shows finished in-year admission episodes where the patient was admitted via accident and emergency departments with an alcohol-related primary or secondary diagnosis. This is broken down by age and by the patient's primary care trust (PCT) and strategic health authority (SHA) of residence and West Suffolk Hospital NHS Trust. The latest available data are for 2006-07.

[1] East of England SHA area includes the following historic organisations:
Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire SHA
Essex SHA
Norfolk, Suffolk and Cambridgeshire SHA.

Notes:
Finished in-year admissions:
A finished in-year admission is the first period of in-patient care under one consultant within one health care provider, excluding admissions beginning before 1 April at the start of the data year. Admissions do not represent the number of in-patients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.
Data Quality:
HES are compiled from data sent by over 300 national health service trusts and PCTs in England. The Information Centre for health and social care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and seeks to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data via HES processes. While this brings about improvement over time, some shortcomings remain.
Assessing growth through time:
HES figures are available from 1989-90 onwards. During the years that these records have been collected, the NHS there have been ongoing improvements in quality and coverage. These improvements in information submitted by the NHS have been particularly marked in the earlier years and need to be borne in mind when analysing time series.
Changes in NHS practice also need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. For example, a number of procedures may now be undertaken in out-patient settings and may no longer be accounted in the HES data. This may account for any reductions in activity over time.
All Diagnoses count of Mentions:
These figures represent a count of all mentions of a diagnosis in any of the 14 diagnosis fields in the HES data set. Therefore, if a diagnosis is mentioned in more than one diagnosis field during an episode, all diagnoses are counted.
Diagnosis Codes Used:
F10 - Mental and behavioural disorders due to use of alcohol
K70 - Alcoholic liver disease
T51 - Toxic effect of Alcohol
Ungrossed Data:
Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data (i.e. the data are ungrossed).
Low Numbers:
Due to reasons of confidentiality, figures between 0 and 5 have been suppressed and replaced with "*" (an asterisk).
PCT and SHA Data Quality:
PCT and SHA data were added to historic data years in the HES database using 2002-03 boundaries, as a one-off exercise in 2004. The quality of the data on PCT of treatment and SHA of treatment is poor in 1996-97, 1997-98 and 1998-99, with over a third of all finished episodes having missing values in these years. Data quality of PCT of general practitioner (GP) practice and SHA of GP practice in 1997-98 and 1998-99 is also poor, with a high proportion missing values where practices changed or ceased to exist. There is less change in completeness of the residence-based fields over time, where the majority of unknown values are due to missing postcodes on birth episodes. Users of time series analysis including these years need to be aware of these issues in their interpretation of the data.

Ambulance Services

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make it his policy to collect centrally information on the numbers of ambulances operating in each (a) constituency and (b) region. [189600]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department has no current plans to collect centrally information on the numbers of ambulances operating in each constituency and region. Each ambulance service should plan to provide appropriate resources to meet local demand.

Ambulance Services: East Riding

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the response times of the Yorkshire Ambulance Service were in the East Riding of Yorkshire for each of the last two years, broken down by postcode. [189456]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information requested is not collected centrally. The information of percentage of response within targets set is collected but is available only at Yorkshire Ambulance Service NHS Trust level. This information is available in the Library and at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/statistics-and-data-collections/audits-and-performance/ambulance/ambulance-services-england-2006-07

Ambulance Services: Standards

Sir John Stanley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many turnarounds took more than an hour in each ambulance authority in England during the last year for which figures are available. [189425]

Mr. Bradshaw: This information is not collected centrally.

Antenatal Care

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many and what percentage of women did not receive the number of antenatal appointments recommended by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence in the last year for which figures are available, broken down by maternity unit. [188177]

Ann Keen: The information requested is not collected centrally.

The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) were commissioned by the Department to produce this guideline (published in 2003) to define the type of antenatal care to be provided, including recommendations for the baseline care for pregnant women and national quality standards for the type, quantity and provision of antenatal care including screening programmes to support all women in receiving equitable care based on current best practice. This guideline is currently being revised and due to be published in March 2008. When published, it will include an assessment tool that will assist professionals in how to identify those women for whom additional care is recommended.

Arthritis: Drugs

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 13 December 2007, Official Report, column 865W, on arthritis: drugs, what assessment he has made of the reasons for the trend since 2004 in (a) the number and (b) the net ingredient cost of prescription items dispensed in the community. [185598]

Dawn Primarolo: Since 2004 the number of prescription items dispensed in the community, in England and the net ingredient cost (NIC) of these drugs, for the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, as listed at paragraphs 10.1.1 (Non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs), 10.1.2 (Corticosteroids) and 10.1.3 (Rheumatic disease suppressant drugs) of the British National Formulary, have shown different trends in both use and cost. Some of the drugs listed are prescribed for other medical conditions.

Factors likely to have contributed to the observed trends include:

withdrawal of some medicines within the non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug group; specific medicines coming off patent;

the publication of National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence guidance on newer disease-suppressing drugs.

Community Nurses: Disadvantaged

Linda Gilroy: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to develop a Family Nurse Programme in the UK; and if he will make a statement. [186187]

Ann Keen: The joint Department of Health and Department for Children, Schools and Families Family Nurse Partnership intervention, supports vulnerable first time young mothers from the 16th week of pregnancy until the child is aged two years. It is being piloted across in England at 10 sites. 20 new pilot sites will be approved in March 2008.

The position in the rest of the United Kingdom is a matter for the devolved Administrations.

Departmental ICT

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the (a) start date, (b) original planned completion date, (c) current expected completion date (d) planned cost and (e) current estimated cost is for each information technology project being undertaken by his Department and its agencies; and if he will make a statement. [1] The Delphi project is on hold pending completion of work on the Departmental IT infrastructure. Three out of four project modules have been completed.
[2] The Medical Benefits project is three months behind schedule and £25,000 over budget because of underestimation of supplier costs and unexpected technical complexities.
[3] Lotus Notes upgrade budget overspend and delay in implementation caused by unexpected technical issues.
[4] The NHS Car Leasing project is £20,000 over budget because the original planned cost was an estimate made for budgetary costs before the procurement exercise was complete. This has now been concluded and the confirmed development cost of the project is £120,000.

The IT projects currently being undertaken by Connecting for Health are shown as follows:

[1] There is no single national start or completion date for the national programme for information technology as a whole, or for its individual systems and services.
The aim is to achieve substantial integration of health and social care information systems in England under the national programme by 2010. Clearly systems will need to be upgraded in the light of new technology and new national health service requirements beyond that date. The approach, in line with best practice, is to implement new services incrementally, avoiding a 'big bang' approach, and providing increasingly richer functionality over time.
The value of the original contracts let in 2003-04 for the core components of the national programme amounts to £6.2 billions over ten years, and this has not increased.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 21 January 2008, Official Report, column 1689W, on departmental public expenditure, for what reason the expired vaccines were not used, broken down by type of vaccine. [188507]

Dawn Primarolo: Changes in vaccination policy can result in changes to the vaccines offered in the routine childhood immunisation programme. While we aim to keep vaccine wastage to a minimum, such policy changes can lead to some vaccines being written off if they are no longer used in the routine programme.

The reasons why expired vaccines were not used are listed as follows.

Some BCG vaccine was writtem off following the change in BCG vaccination policy in 2005. The programme changed from a universal to targeted programme, leading to a reduction in demand.

In 2005 demand for MMR vaccine increased following the mumps outbreaks in older teenagers. For a short period, the suppliers could only provide additional supplies of MMR vaccine destined for other countries, and hence with different product labelling than UK stock. Even though the vaccine itself was identical to UK licensed product, the labelling difference meant that the vaccine was not licensed for use in the UK. Once further supplies of UK licensed vaccine were received, the unlicensed MMR vaccine was no longer used, leading to write off.

In 2004 vaccines containing live oral polio were removed from the childhood programme and replaced with three new combination vaccines containing an inactivated polio vaccine. This resulted in the diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (DTaP) vaccine; and the tetanus and diphtheria (Td) vaccine becoming redundant.

In 2003 a major Hib catch up campaign was launched using a single antigen Hib (haemophilus influenzae type B) vaccine. This vaccine is not used routinely in the childhood programme, and some stock left over from the Hib catch-up campaign date expired in 2006-07.

Departmental Visits Abroad

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many overseas visits by officials in his Department took place in each of the last 10 years; which countries were visited; and how much was spent on such visits in each such year. [181608]

Mr. Bradshaw: Information on the number and cost of these visits would incur disproportionate cost to obtain. However, all official travel is undertaken in accordance with the Department's travel policy and the "Civil Service Code".

Information on the Government's annual publication about overseas travel by Cabinet Ministers can be found at:

www.cabinetoffice.gov.uk/propriety_and_ethics/ministers.aspx

This list includes details about the number of officials accompanying the Minister when non-scheduled travel is used for the trip. Copies of lists covering information going back to the 1997-98 financial year are available in the Library.

Endometriosis National Awareness Week

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if his Department will take steps to support Endometriosis National Awareness Week on 3 to 9 March; [189837]

(2) what advice his Department gives primary care trusts on treatment of endometriosis. [189890]

Ann Keen: It is not a matter for the Department to give advice to commissioning bodies on treatment of particular conditions. It is for the Royal Colleges to give advice to practitioners while the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) provides national guidance on promoting good health and preventing and treating ill health. NICE guidance suggests the use of non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs such as ibuprophen in the first instance for the treatment of endometriosis as well as trialling the contraceptive pill. If neither of these treatments work, then NICE recommends surgery to remove endometrial deposits. If conservative methods do not work, and symptoms remain severe then NICE recommends hysterectomy, with or without removal of the ovaries.

1.[Official Report, 26 March 2008, Vol. 474, c. 2MC.]

The Department currently provides core funding under its section 64 scheme to the National Endometriosis Society (now known as Endometriosis UK) and has also funded Endometriosis UK for a project concerned with developing information services for endometriosis. We wish the Endometriosis National Awareness Week every success.

Exercise

Mr. Andy Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much has been spent on exercise referral schemes in each of the last five years. [188375]

Dawn Primarolo: Exercise referral schemes are run in most primary care trusts (PCTs) and there are various models. For example, some leisure centres will offer cut price or free exercise sessions for an agreed period. The criteria for referral also vary across localities.

The Department does not keep a national register of practices which offer these schemes, the number of participants or costs of exercise referral schemes. These details are held locally by PCTs or local authorities.

The Government are currently piloting a physical activity care pathway in London, intended to provide health practitioners in general practice with the tools they need to promote physical activity and 'signpost' patients to a wide range of community-based opportunities for exercise, including exercise referral schemes.

Food: Advertising

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he plans to take on producing codes governing the advertising and promotion of unhealthy foods to children across non-broadcast media; and if he will make a statement. [188558]

Dawn Primarolo: The advertising industry's Committee on Advertising Practice (CAP) is responsible for the self-regulatory British Code of Advertising, Sales Promotions and Direct Marketing, which contains rules of the content of advertising in non-broadcast media. In July 2007, CAP updated this code to tighten the rules governing the advertising of food and drink to children in line with new restrictions on broadcast advertising. The Department is working with key external stakeholders to address concerns about other forms of marketing including in store promotions and food packaging.

General Practitioners: Bexley

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what percentage of people had a consultation with their GP within 48 hours of requesting an appointment in Bexley borough in the latest period for which information is available. [189400]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information is not collected in the format requested. Data are held at primary care trust (PCT) level, not constituency or borough level. The general practitioner (GP) Patient Survey 2007 showed that 84 per cent. of people living in Bexley Care Trust area reported having a consultation with their GP within 48 hours of requesting an appointment, compared with a national figure of 86 per cent. 2007 is the latest period for which data are available.

The public service agreement target is for all patients to have the opportunity to see a GP within 48 hours. GP practices that achieve national access standards as measured by the results of the national GP Patient Survey are rewarded. Using the survey data, PCTs are working with local practices to deliver improvements in GP access in areas with the poorest reported satisfaction.

General Practitioners: Kent

Sir John Stanley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many GP super clinics he plans to establish in Kent. [189426]

Mr. Bradshaw: Following the announcement by the Secretary of State on 10 October 2007, to invest new resources into primary medical care, every primary care trust (PCT) in the country will be procuring a new general practitioner-led health centre during 2008-09. This includes the three PCTs in Kent.

General Practitioners: Telephone Services

Mrs. Riordan: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will take steps to replace 0844 numbers with 0800 numbers for patients calling their GPs. [189563]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department is currently gathering evidence on the use of 0844 numbers in general practice and will consider what further action is necessary in light of that evidence.

General Practitioners: Telephones

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidelines he has issued to primary care trusts on the use of premium rate telephone numbers by GPs for patients calling their surgeries. [190033]

Mr. Bradshaw: General medical services (GMS) contractors were banned from using premium rate numbers (09 or 087) via The National Health Service (Primary Medical Services) (Miscellaneous Amendments) Regulations SI 2005 No. 893. The ban came into force in April 2005.

The ban did not include 084 numbers. However, on the 11 April 2005, the Department wrote to primary care trust chief executives advising them to discourage general practitioner practices from changing from geographically based numbers to '084' numbers until after the outcome of the Ofcom consultation was known.

The Department is currently gathering evidence on the use of 0844 numbers in general practice and will consider what further action is necessary in light of that evidence.

General Practitioners: Working Hours

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many letters his Department received from people asking for general practitioner surgeries to open for longer hours in the last period for which figures are available. [188581]

Mr. Bradshaw: Since 1 October 2007 the Department has received 86 letters from members of the public that supported extended opening hours for general practitioner (GP) practices. In addition, patient surveys and public discussions have consistently told us that improving access to GP services should be a priority for the national health service.

Last year's GP patient survey (the largest of its kind) showed that 16 per cent. of people were unhappy with the opening hours of their GP practice: that is nearly six and a half million unsatisfied patients.

Genetically Modified Organisms: Labelling

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health for what reason imported produce from outside the EU derived from GM components is not required to be labelled as such. [187977]

Dawn Primarolo: All food and feed imported into the United Kingdom from third countries, or in free circulation within the European Union (EU), must comply with relevant EU legislation. The labelling requirements for genetically modified (GM) food and feed are set out in the directly applicable Regulations (EC) Nos. 1829/2003 (GM Food and Feed) and 1830/2003 ('Traceability and Labelling of genetically modified organisms (GMOs)'), the intention of which is to facilitate consumer choice. GM food and feed may only be marketed in the EU if it has been authorised following a process which involves a rigorous safety assessment.

Food and feed which contains, consists of, or has been produced from authorised GMOs has to be labelled as such. There is no provision in the legislation for 'non-GM' and 'GM free' labelling. Such labelling may, however, be used in the UK on a voluntary basis, as appropriate to the product concerned. The Food Standards Agency has expressed the view that the use of the terms 'non-GM' and 'GM free' should mean that food and feed labelled in this way is completely free from the use of GM technology.

Gynaecology: Endometriosis

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what research his Department has commissioned on the treatment of endometriosis. [189889]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department's National Institute for Health Research is funding the following study:

Birmingham Women's Health Care NHS Trust—Endometriosis and cultural diversity: improving services for minority ethnic women.

Research on endometriosis also forms part of the work programme of the institute's Oxford and Hammersmith, St. Mary's and Imperial College Biomedical Research Centres.

Over the last 10 years, the main part of the Department's total expenditure on health research has been devolved to and managed by national health service organisations. Details of individual NHS supported research projects undertaken during that time, including a number concerned with endometriosis, are available on the archived national research register at:

https://portal.nihr.ac.uk/Pages/NRRArchiveSearch.aspx.

The Medical Research Council (MRC) is one of the main agencies through which the Government support medical and clinical research. The MRC is an independent body that receives its grant in aid from the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills.

In 2005-06, the MRC spent £2.3 million on endometriosis and the general physiology of the endometrium.

Recent MRC-funded research projects of particular relevance to endometriosis include:

Dr. C. M. Becker, University of Oxford—Transgenic mouse model of endometriosis;

Professor H. Mardon, University of Oxford—Molecular dissection of extracellular matrix signalling and function in the human endometrium;

Dr. R. Varma, University of Birmingham—Identification and importance of tumour suppressor genes in endometriosis and endometriosis-associated ovarian cancer; and

Dr. K. T. Zondervan, University of Oxford—The genetic epidemiology of endometriosis.

MRC-funded research at the MRC Human Reproductive Sciences Unit in Edinburgh also focuses on uterine biology including endometriosis. Further information about the unit's research can be found at:

www.hrsu.mrc.ac.uk/themes/uterine_biology/uterine_biology.php

Health Education: Elderly

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent steps his Department has taken to encourage elderly people to keep active and fit. [187703]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department and the national health service promote the benefits of physical activity to professionals and people of all ages and stages of life. The Department is keen to target those individuals most at risk of inactivity for whom the greatest health gains can be made. Primary care trusts are required to have systematic and managed health promotion programmes, including action on exercise, that are responsive to local needs.

The Department is piloting a physical activity care pathway model in a number of general practitioner practices in London. Many sedentary older people will benefit from the care pathway model, which aims to encourage behaviour change and increased physical activity levels through a patient led approach. The care pathway signposts patients to a range of options to increase their activity levels, including exercise referral schemes where appropriate.

Other targeted actions include the national step-o-meter programme, which provides health professionals with free pedometers for loan to adult patients and the Department's local exercise action pilot scheme which included interventions targeted across the life course, including older people.

Health Professions: Labour Turnover

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the average length of service of (a) nurses, (b) NHS trust chief executives, (c) midwives, (d) nursing support staff, (e) manual staff, (f) GPs, (g) dentists, (h) consultants and (i) staff and associate doctors in each of the last 10 years. [187087]

Ann Keen: This information is not collected centrally.

An individual's length of service may be affected by many factors, including age at the time of qualification, any career breaks or even retirement.

Health Professions: Pay

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the average final salary of (a) nurses, (b) NHS trust chief executives, (c) midwives, (d) nursing support staff, (e) manual staff, (f) GPs, (g) dentists, (h) consultants and (i) staff and associate doctors at the end of service in each of the last 10 years. [187088]

Ann Keen: The information requested is not available centrally.

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number and proportion of (a) nurses, (b) NHS trust chief executives, (c) midwives, (d) nursing support staff, (e) manual staff, (f) GPs and (g) dentists in each pay band under the Agenda for Change in each year since 2004; and what the lower and upper limits were in each pay band in each year. [187089]

Ann Keen: The proportion of nurses, midwives and nursing support staff in each pay band under Agenda for Change are available using the occupational codes within organisations which are now on the Electronic Staff Record (ESR). The following table outlines this information. Data presented are for the national health service in England.

Estimated proportion of staff in each Agenda for Change band, as at end of December 2007[1]

Data taken from the Electronic Staff Record (ESR) Data Warehouse for December 2007, extracted 19 February 2008.

It is not possible to present data for 'manual staff' as this is not a recognised occupational code category.

NHS chief executives, general practitioners and dentists are not covered by the Agenda for Change pay system.

Only estimated proportions in each band are presented. As the ESR does not yet cover all NHS organisations, it is not possible to produce exact numbers of staff in each pay band.

The lower and upper band limits of the Agenda for Change bands from November 2007 are shown in the following table:

Health Services: Cancer

Mark Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 30 January 2008, Official Report, columns 464-6W, what his estimate is of the costs of (a) community rehabilitation and care, (b) additional monitoring and treatment, (c) ambulatory care and (d) programme management and monitoring in each of the next five financial years. [188810]

Ann Keen: The estimated costs of community rehabilitation and care, additional monitoring and treatment, ambulatory care and programme management and monitoring for the next five financial years are in the following table. Estimated costs for additional monitoring and treatment and ambulatory care are not available separately as the additional treatment may occur in a number of non-inpatient settings including ambulatory care.

Health Services: Neurology

Mr. David Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is taking to encourage collaboration between specialist centres in England and Welsh local health boards to improve levels of treatment in England for patients resident in Wales diagnosed with neuromuscular disorders. [190355]

Ann Keen: The Department has no specific plans to further encourage collaboration between specialist centres in England and Welsh local health boards.

It is the responsibility of Welsh local health boards to commission services to meet the needs of their local population living with neuromuscular disorders. This can include the commissioning, and funding, of diagnosis and treatment at specialist neuromuscular centres in England if deemed appropriate.

Health Services: Overseas Visitors

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the (a) number and (b) cost of finished consultant episodes of treatment given to citizens of other European Economic Area member states in the UK in 2006-07. [188182]

Dawn Primarolo: Data from Leeds Primary Care Trust, who collect data from national health service trusts on the number of overseas visitors to the United Kingdom from bilateral health care agreement countries, show that in 2006-07, 5,766 European Economic Area (EEA) citizens were treated on the NHS of which 5,033 were visitors and 733 were referrals. Cost of treatment totalled £15,051,634 of which £10,585,167 was for visitors and £4,466,467 was for referrals. The way in which the NHS collects this data means that they cannot be broken down by consultant episode.

However, those EEA citizens who are in the UK on a more long term basis, for example to work or to study, or because they are now ordinarily resident in the UK, are not included. Successive Governments have not required the NHS to provide these statistics.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of (a) citizens of other European Economic Area (EEA) member states who received health treatment in the UK and (b) UK citizens who received health treatment in other EEA member states in 2006-07 under reciprocal health care arrangements. [188312]

Dawn Primarolo: Data from Leeds PCT who collect data from national health service trusts on the number of overseas visitors to the United Kingdom show that in 2006-07, 5,766 European Economic Area (EEA) citizens were treated on the NHS of which 5,033 were visitors and 733 were referrals.

In 2006-07 the UK was competent for the health care of approximately 164,000 pensioners living in other EEA member states. Due to the scale of the total claims that the UK received and because of the nature of the bilateral agreements that the UK has with some EEA countries, we do not have accurate figures of the total number of UK citizens treated in other EEA member states.

Health Services: Property

Mark Simmonds: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he plans to build, purchase or rent any capital or land assets under the Inpatient Management Programme. [188912]

Ann Keen: As stated in the 'Cancer Reform Strategy' the Inpatient Management Programme will focus initially on providing support and guidance on service improvements for a range of patients.

Capital and accommodation needs arising out of changes to models of care, such as an increase in treatments provided outside the inpatient setting, will be met by primary care trusts.

Health Services: Standards

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) pursuant to the answer of 7 January 2008, Official Report, column 108W, on health services: standards, if he will place in the Library a copy of the presentation given by Tricia Cable of the Yorkshire and Humber Strategic Health Authority at the meeting of 5 June 2007; [180847]

(2) on what clinical evidence his Department based its decision that the 18 week referral to treatment target would only apply to 95 per cent. of non-admitted patients and 90 per cent. of admitted patients; [180851]

(3) on what date his Department decided that the 18 week referral to treatment target would only apply to 95 per cent. of non-admitted patients and 90 per cent. of admitted patients. [180852]

Mr. Bradshaw: A copy of the presentation given by Tricia Cable has been placed in the Library.

The operational standards for 18 weeks are based on evidence from studies of over 3,000 patient pathways and over 3,700 out-patient bookings. In addition to gathering evidence on clinically complex cases, these studies looked into the impact of patient choice and co-operation on patient pathways.

On 13 December 2007, the Department confirmed the operational standards for 18 weeks in the operating framework for the national health service in England 2008-09.

HIV Infection

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the (a) mean and (b) median waiting time was from diagnosis of HIV to treatment in (i) 2004-05, (ii) 2005-06 and (iii) 2006-07. [187734]

Dawn Primarolo: These data are not collected centrally.

Hospitals: Thames Gateway

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he plans to make an announcement on new hospital provision serving the Thames Gateway area; and if he will make a statement. [187682]

Mr. Bradshaw: Primary care trusts (PCTs) in the Thames Gateway area are responsible for commissioning health services for existing and new populations in the region. It is for the local health economy (national health service trusts, PCTs and strategic health authorities) to develop proposals and present business cases with value for money and affordable solutions for new hospital and primary care facilities.

More generally, the Government's plans for investment in the Thames Gateway were published in November 2007 by the Department for Communities and Local Government in 'Thames Gateway: The Delivery Plan.' Chapter three, 'Quality of Life', refers to investment in health care and sets out details of the hospital and primary care facilities either already completed or due to open by 2010-11.

Incontinence: Medical Equipment

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what intended savings are expected to result from the review of Part IX of the Drug Tariff; what the costs to date of the review have been; and what savings have been achieved by the current price freeze on Part IX products; [187838]

(2) what the cost of consultations relating to Part IX of the Drug Tariff was in (a) 2005, (b) 2006 and (c) 2007; and how much was spent in each year on consultancy work relating to the consultations. [187930]

Dawn Primarolo: The review of part IX of the Drug Tariff is ongoing, but in the last consultation entitled "Arrangements under Part IX of the Drug Tariff for the provision of stoma and incontinence appliances - and related services - to Primary Care. Revised Proposals", which was published in September 2007, proposed options regarding the reimbursement for item price that would reduce reimbursement for the cost of appliances to the national health service by £25 million.

The review of part IX of the Drug Tariff is addressing £487 million of NHS spend has been conducted in two phases:

Phase 1, which addressed dressings and reagents, concluded in October 2006 and provided savings of £24 million per year for primary care. The cost for this phase of activity was £1.3 million (excluding VAT); and Phase 2, which is addressing stoma and urology, has cost £0.8 million (excluding VAT) to date.

The agreement that allows companies to seek price increases related to products listed in part IX of the Drug Tariff expired in April 2006. Therefore, the application for price increases related to the current part IX consultation for products contained in parts A, B and C has been suspended. It has been estimated that the value of this suspension to date is £14.1 million between April 2006 and November 2007.

The in-year costs are shown in the following table.

| | £ million |
|---|---|
| 2005 | 0.1 |
| 2006 | 1.2 |
| 2007 | 0.8 |

These costs were for the services of professional advisers. The Department's costs are part of its ongoing operational budget.

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health for what reason an impact assessment was not produced alongside the public consultation on changes to Part IX of the Drug Tariff; and if he will make a statement. [188217]

Dawn Primarolo: Two partial regulatory impact assessments have been published alongside the public consultation on proposed new arrangements under Part IX of the Drug Tariff for the provision of stoma and incontinence appliances in primary care: one in October 2005 and November 2006. Copies of these are available in the Library. At the time the Department felt there was no material difference between the consultations which started in September 2007 and November 2006 and decided that the previous partial impact assessments would be sufficient.

A final impact assessment will be published before any decisions are made and all parties will have the opportunity to comment on it.

Midwives

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what percentage of midwifery graduates started working as midwives in the NHS within six months of graduation in each of the last five financial years. [188141]

Ann Keen: The percentage of midwifery graduates who started working as midwives in the national health service within six months of graduation is not collected. However the annual work force census on 31 September 2006 showed there were 24,469 qualified midwives working in the NHS in England an increase of 2,084 (9 per cent.) since 1997.

Midwives: Manpower

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many midwives were employed in each (a) region and (b) NHS Trust in each financial year since 1997-98, broken down by pay band. [188143]

Ann Keen: The number of midwives that were employed in each strategic health authority and national health service trust as of 30 September each year since 1997 has been placed in the Library. The NHS workforce census does not break the figures down by pay band.

Midwives: Student Wastage

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the dropout rate from midwifery degree courses has been at each institution offering such degrees in each of the last five years. [188144]

Ann Keen: Information on what the dropout rate from midwifery degree courses has been at each institution offering such degrees in each of the last five years is not held centrally. These data will be held by each strategic health authority as part of their contract monitoring processes.

NHS Foundation Trusts

Sir Peter Soulsby: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which organisations have been (a) commissioned and (b) contracted to manage NHS foundation trust ballots. [188934]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department does not hold this information. Information relating to the elections to the governing bodies of individual national health service foundation trusts can be obtained by contacting the Chairmen of the respective trusts.

NHS: Ancillary Staff

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of staff in each acute hospital trust is classified as non-medical. [187138]

Ann Keen: Non-medical national health service staff comprise the entire work force apart from medical which is made up of doctors and dentists. The non-medical work force includes all nursing, midwifery and health visiting staff, all scientific, therapeutic and technical staff including all allied health professions, ambulance staff and NHS infrastructure support staff.

The breakdown in proportion for each acute hospital trust is shown in the following table.

NHS: Finance

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 14 January 2008, Official Report, columns 1027-8W, on NHS: finance, (1) when was it agreed that the work programme of the Advisory Committee on Resource Allocation would include a review of the market forces formula; and what timetable was originally set for the work programme; [184306]

(2) when he expects the Advisory Committee on Resource Allocation to publish the results of its work programme. [184307]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Advisory Committee on Resource Allocation (ACRA) continually oversees the development of the resource allocation formula. ACRA's work programme is set following each allocation round. The elements of ACRA's current work programme were agreed in November 2005.

The intention was for ACRA to finalise its work programme by autumn 2007. However, although ACRA has made good progress on some major aspects of its work programme, it has requested, and been granted, additional time to finalise the work that it is doing to review the formula. Given the importance of the weighted capitation formula it is crucial that ACRA is given the time required to produce a robust and transparent formula.

Only when its work programme is completed will ACRA finalise its recommendations to Ministers on potential changes to the funding formula. Ministers will then look at all of ACRA's recommendations and decide how to take these recommendations into account when making allocations to primary care trusts (PCTs) for 2009-10 and 2010-11.

We will inform PCTs of the changes to the formula, and the revenue allocations as soon as is practically possible after the completion of ACRA's work programme. The aim is to announce revenue allocations to PCTs for 2009-10 and 2010-11 by the summer 2008.

NHS: Hearing Impaired

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps the Government has taken to increase the number of NHS audiovestibular physicians since 1997. [189145]

Ann Keen: Workforce planning is a matter for local determination, as local workforce planners are best placed to asses the needs of their local population. The Department continues to ensure the frameworks are in place to support this.

National health service audiovestibular physicians are within the audiological medicine specialty, but cannot be separately counted. The number of medical staff within the audiological medicine specialty has increased from 46 in 1997 by 56 per cent. to 72 in 2006.

NHS: Pay

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the average salary paid to staff falling under each of the pay bands under the Agenda for Change programme in each year since 2004. [187090]

Ann Keen: The Information Centre produces quarterly estimates of staff earnings across the Agenda for Change programme. These are published and available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/webfiles/publications/esr_earnings_2007-9/Tables%20Jan08.pdf.

The latest estimates, based on payments to staff between July and September 2007, are:

| Band | Mean basic salary per full-time equivalent[1] £ | Mean total earnings per full-time[2] £ |
|---|---|---|
| Band 1 | 12,800 | 15,500 |
| Band 2 | 13,700 | 15,900 |
| Band 3 | 15,400 | 17,900 |
| Band 4 | 18,400 | 20,800 |
| Band 5 | 22,000 | 26,300 |
| Band 6 | 27,300 | 31,100 |
| Band 7 | 32,500 | 35,800 |
| Band 8a | 38,200 | 41,500 |
| Band 8b | 45,100 | 48,500 |

| Band | Mean basic salary per full-time equivalent[1] | £ Mean total earnings per full-time[2] |
|---|---|---|
| Band 8c | 54,100 | 58,100 |
| Band 8d | 64,400 | 68,700 |
| Band 9 | 76,600 | 81,800 |

[1] Mean basic salary is calculated by dividing the total amount of basic pay earned by staff in the group by the total worked FTE for those staff
[2] Calculated as mean basic salary, but for all earnings. This includes basic salary, plus hours related pay (payment for shift working or additional duties), overtime, occupation payments, location payments and other payments including redundancy pay or payment of notice periods.

Data are not available before 2007 for Agenda for Change groups, as data from the electronic staff record did not cover a sufficient sample of organisations until January 2007.

NHS: PFI

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health with reference to the answer of 9 March 2007, Official Report, column 2288W, on the NHS: private finance initiative, how much was spent on each of the cancelled projects. [184301]

Mr. Bradshaw: Central records on abortive development costs to national health service trusts and payments to the private sector for abortive bid costs are only kept on private finance initiative (PFI) schemes with a capital value of over £25 million. These costs to the NHS trusts and payments to the private sector on each of the cancelled projects referred to in the answer of 9 March 2007, Official Report, column 2288W, above this threshold are as follows:

| Trust | Cost to the Trust for abortive development costs | Payments to the private sector for abortive bid costs |
|---|---|---|
| Berkshire and Battle NHS Foundation Trust[1] | — | — |
| Guy's and St. Thomas NHS Foundation Trust[1] | — | — |
| Bradford Teaching Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust | The Trust reported that their abortive development costs were approximately £719,000 | — |
| Essex Rivers Healthcare NHS Trust | The Trust reported that their abortive development costs were approximately £4 million | The Department paid £7.3 million at the end of March 2007 to the private sector consortium involved as an ex-gratia settlement in recognition of abortive bid costs incurred on the scheme |
| Plymouth NHS Trust | The Trust reported that their abortive development costs were approximately £3.8 million. This is in respect of both the two later projects at Plymouth as well as the earlier single £340 million cancelled PFI scheme at the trust | — |

[1] Berkshire and Battle NHS Trust and Guy's and St. Thomas NHS Trust are both foundation trusts; their abortive costs are not held centrally and the information can be sought from their respective chief executives.

In the written answer given on 3 December 2007, Official Report, column 1005W, we reported that one scheme had been mistakenly omitted from the list of cancelled schemes given in the answer of 9 March 2007, Official Report, column 2286W. This was the £250 million PFI scheme at East Kent Hospitals NHS Trust; the trust reported that their abortive development costs were approximately £432,000.

Nutrition

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the proportion of the (a) adult and (b) child population consuming five portions of fruit and vegetables every day in each of the last five years. [184285]

Dawn Primarolo: The Health Survey for England reports figures on 5 A DAY Consumption each year. The latest updates for the year 2006 were published on 31 January 2008.

Figures for the proportion of the population consuming 5 A DAY between 2002 and 2006 are shown in the following table.

| 5 A DAY Consumption | 2002 | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | Percentage 2006 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Adults | 24 | 25 | 26 | 28 | 30 |
| Children | 12 | 11 | 12 | 17 | 20 |

Nutrition: West Midlands

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many nutritionists were employed by the NHS in (a) Tamworth constituency and (b) the west midlands in each of the last five years for which figures are available. [187735]

Ann Keen: The Department does not centrally hold data on the number of nutritionists employed by the national health service. However, data for the West Midlands Strategic Health Authority (SHA) area, Mid Staffordshire General Hospitals NHS Trust and South Staffordshire Primary Care Trust (PCT) in relation to qualified dietetics staff have been set out in the following table.

NHS hospital and community health services: Qualified dietetics staff in each specified organisation as at 30 September of each specified year

| | NHS organisations within the west midlands SHA area | of which Mid Staffordshire General Hospitals NHS Trust | of which South Staffordshire PCT |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2002 | 283 | 5 | 13 |
| 2003 | 309 | 6 | 12 |
| 2004 | 308 | 7 | 14 |
| 2005 | 328 | 6 | 13 |
| 2006 | 340 | 6 | 12 |

Notes:
1. South Staffordshire PCT was formed on 1 October 2006 from a complete merger of Burntwood, Lichfield and Tamworth PCT.
2. Cannock Chase PCT, East Staffordshire PCT and South Western Staffordshire PCT. Figures prior to 2006 are an aggregate of these predecessor organisations.

Obesity

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 1264W, on obesity, how much of the £94 million allocated in 2008-09 will go directly to primary care trusts as part of their allocations. [188509]

Dawn Primarolo: Of the £94 million allocated to obesity in 2008-09, £65.9 million has been put into the overall local allocations for primary care trusts for 2008-09.

Obesity: Medical Treatments

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much the NHS spent on (a) obesity-related medication, equipment and treatment, excluding surgery, (b) obesity surgery and (c) secondary medical problems arising from severe obesity in the last three years. [187697]

Dawn Primarolo: Data on the costs of equipment and treatment within the national health service is not held centrally. However, we do know the cost of prescriptions for medication classed as drugs used in the treatment of obesity dispensed in England. The figures for the latest three years are shown in the following table (costs are net ingredient cost and are expressed in thousands of pounds).

| Chemical | 2004 | 2005 | £000 2006 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Diethylpropion Hydrochloride | 0.156 | 0.306 | 0.341 |
| Mazindol | 0.138 | 0.209 | [1]— |
| Orlistat | 21,478.666 | 27,124.817 | 32,574.731 |
| Phentermine | 0.406 | [1]— | 0.022 |
| Rimonabant | [2]— | [2]— | 1,469.669 |
| Sibutramine | 9,370.600 | 11,039.715 | 13,722.765 |
| Total | 30,849.967 | 38,165.048 | 47,767.529 |

Notes:
[1] No record of drug being dispersed.
[2] Drug not available for prescription until 2006.

We can also provide figures for use of orlistat and Sibutramine in hospitals. These figures are derived at by pricing information on issue of medicines from a sample of hospital pharmacies and have been positively appraised by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence. These costs do not necessarily represent what hospitals paid as hospitals can negotiate their own contracts. The figures are in thousands of pounds.

| Chemical | 2004 | 2005 | £000 2006 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Orlistat | 232.275 | 287.327 | 290.619 |
| Sibutramine | 62.751 | 74.421 | 76.427 |
| Total | 295.026 | 361.748 | 367.046 |

We collect information on surgical procedures but are not able to provide the cost of these procedures. Also, while obesity is a known risk factor for a number of diseases including cardiovascular disease, diabetes mellitus, gallstones and osteoarthritis it is not possible to determine what proportion of spending on such diseases is attributable to obesity.

Obesity: Surgery

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will increase the resources available to the NHS for surgical intervention in cases of obesity. [187695]

Dawn Primarolo: "Healthy Weight, Healthy Lives", the Government's strategy for promoting healthy weight, published in January 2008, reaffirmed the commitment that local health services should provide surgical interventions for obese patients where it is deemed clinically appropriate. The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) has also provided clear guidance on the prevention, identification, assessment and management of overweight and obesity in adults and children. It is, however, up to local areas to decide the best types of treatments, including the level of weight loss surgery, to provide for their own populations, in line with NICE guidance.

Obstetrics: Manpower

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) obstetricians, (b) gynaecologists and (c) obstetric and gynaecology consultants were employed in each (i) region and (ii) NHS Trust in each financial year since 1997-98. [188142]

Ann Keen: The number of obstetric and gynaecology staff including consultants employed in each strategic health authority and national health service trust as at 30 September of each year since 1997 has been placed in the Library.

Paramedical Staff: West Midlands

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many paramedics were employed in (a) Tamworth constituency and (b) the West Midlands in the latest period for which figures are available. [187890]

Ann Keen: The information requested is not available in the format requested. However, data for the West Midlands Strategic Health Authority area, Staffordshire Ambulance Service NHS Trust and West Midlands Ambulance Service NHS Trust as at 30 September 2006 have been set out in the following table.

National Health Service hospital and community health services: Paramedics in West Midlands Strategic Health Authority area by organisation as at 30 September 2006

| Area / Organisation | Headcount |
|---|---|
| West Midlands Strategic Health Authority area | 940 |

Perinatal Mortality

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many babies were stillborn in England in each of the last five years. [172917]

Ann Keen: The Confidential Enquiry into Maternal and Child Health (CEMACH) publishes figures on stillbirth and perinatal death for England, Wales and Northern Ireland. The figures for the last five years available are shown as follows:

| | Number |
|---|---|

In addition, the Office of National Statistics data for England and Wales for 2005 give the number of stillbirths in England and Wales as 3,484.

Prescriptions

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many FP10 forms have been lost in transit from pharmacists to the Prescriptions Pricing Division of the NHS Business Services Authority. [174720]

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many FP10 forms were lost in each year since 1997. [181828]

Dawn Primarolo [holding answer 18 December 2007]: The Prescriptions Pricing Division (PPD) of the National Health Service Business Services Authority are aware of 220 separate instances, from April 1997 to September 2007, where batches of FP10 prescription forms, submitted for reimbursement by dispensing contractors in England to PPD, were lost or stolen, either in transit from dispensing contractors to PPD or in transit from PPD to dispensing contractors. We understand that where forms have been lost or stolen, PPD or contractors have followed this up with the postal service, courier or the police as appropriate.

On this basis, the number of FP10 forms estimated by PPD as lost or stolen are shown in the following table. This equates to less than 0.01 per cent. of all FP10 forms transferred between the PPD and dispensing contractors.

| Financial year | Estimated number of FP10 prescribing forms lost or stolen (England)[1] (thousand) |
|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 17.1 |
| 1998-99 | 14.4 |
| 1999-2000 | 17.8 |
| 2000-01 | 68.8 |
| 2001-02 | 28.9 |
| 2002-03 | 11.9 |
| 2003-04 | 24.7 |
| 2004-05 | 61.7 |
| 2005-06 | 10.4 |
| 2006-07 | 32.5 |
| 2007 (April to September) | 9.9 |

Primary Care Trusts: Finance

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what recent assessment he has made of the levels of capitation of primary care trusts; and what plans he has to increase funding to undercapitated trusts; [188915]

(2) for what reasons the Pace of Change funding programme for undercapitated primary care trusts is to be discontinued; and if he will make a statement. [188961]

Mr. Bradshaw: Pace of change policy for revenue allocations to primary care trusts (PCTs) is considered by Ministers prior to each allocations round. However, for the 2008-09 revenue allocations, the decision was made to freeze the weighted-capitation formula to give the Advisory Committee on Resource Allocation (ACRA) the time it requires to finalise its review of the formula. Therefore, in 2008-09, all PCTs will be given the same uplift of 5.5 per cent. freezing the distance from target for each PCT. The flat-rate increase of 5.5 per cent. on each PCT's 2007-08 revenue allocation will ensure that every PCT has sufficient growth in funding to honour their service commitments.

Until the impact of the new formula on target allocations is known, it would be irresponsible to continue to move PCTs towards their target allocation under the current formula. Any new formula is likely to have an impact on the target allocation for some PCTs. Some PCTs may move from being under target to over target and vice versa. Giving all PCTs the same uplift avoids moving PCTs towards their current target allocation in 2008-09 and then having to reverse this the following year.

The plan is to make allocations for 2009-10 and 2010-11 by summer 2008 based on a new formula. Pace of change policy has not been discontinued, and decisions will be made on pace of change for 2009-10 and 2010-11 once we have received ACRA's recommendations on the new funding formula.

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what each primary care trust's (a) actual and (b) target funding allocation was in each year since 1997; and what the real term change in funding was from each year to the next. [190265]

Mr. Bradshaw: Revenue allocations were first made to primary care trusts (PCTs) in 2003-04. Prior to this, the funding was allocated to health authorities.

Tables showing the actual, target and real terms change in funding for each PCT for the period 2003-04 to 2008-09 have been placed in the Library.

Sandwell and West Birmingham NHS Trust: Hospitals

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he expects the new general hospital under construction by Sandwell and West Birmingham NHS Trust to be completed. [188603]

Dawn Primarolo: NHS West Midlands strategic health authority has confirmed that the Sandwell and West Birmingham NHS trust has not yet begun construction of the new hospital planned for Smethwick. It is expected that construction of this new health facility will begin in 2011 and complete in 2014. However, these dates are provisional.

Smoking

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what recent representations he has received from (a) the Royal College of Ophthalmologists and (b) others on links between smoking and blindness; [188340]

(2) if he will commission research into whether there is a link between smoking and blindness. [188341]

Ann Keen: Not only is smoking the leading cause of premature death in the United Kingdom, it can also cause many diseases. Evidence shows that smoking can cause blindness through age-related maculopathy and possibly cataracts.

The Department keeps the evidence base around the health effects of smoking under close review, and has recently received submissions from stakeholders elaborating the evidence base around smoking and blindness.

Smoking: Cheshire

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people received support from NHS smoking cessation services in (a) Warrington and (b) Cheshire in 2007. [187965]

Dawn Primarolo: Information on the number of people who set a quit date and who successfully quit smoking at the four week follow up (based on self-report) through national health service stop smoking services in Warrington primary care trust, Western Cheshire primary care trust and Central and Eastern Cheshire primary care trust for the period April 2006 to March 2007, and for the latest period for which data are available, April 2007 to September 2007 are available from the following publications:

'Statistics on NHS Stop Smoking Services in England, April 2006 to March 2007 (Annual statistical bulletin)', Table 5.4, page 65, which was published on 17 August 2007.

'Statistics on NHS Stop Smoking Services in England, April 2007 to September 2007 (Quarter 2 bulletin)', Table 9, page 13, which was published on January 29, 2008.

Both publications have been placed in the Library.

Social Workers: Manpower

Paul Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many social workers there were in Chesterfield in each year since 1997. [187205]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Figures provided by the General Social Care Council indicate that the number of social workers in Chesterfield in each calendar year since 2003 is:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2004 | 24 |
| 2005 | 254 |
| 2006 | 314 |
| 2007 | 313 |
| 2008 | 299 |

Figures for the period 1997 to 2003 are not held centrally.

Tinnitus

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which organisations have applied for tinnitus research funding in each of the last three years for which figures are available. [187736]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department's centrally managed health research programmes received one proposal for a research project concerned with tinnitus in the period from 2004-05 to 2006-07. It was from the Oxford Radcliffe NHS Trust.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many of his Department's civil servants were (a) suspended and (b) dismissed for accessing (i) obscene and (ii) other prohibited material on work computers in each of the last five years. [188789]

Mr. Watson: The Cabinet Office has not suspended or dismissed any employee in the last five years for accessing obscene or other prohibited material on work computers.

Departmental Home Working

David Simpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many people in his Department have been authorised to work from home in the last 12 months. [189788]

Mr. Watson: The Cabinet Office encourages all staff and managers to consider various forms of flexible working, including home working. Arrangements for home working are made locally by individual line managers and no record is held centrally of numbers authorised to work at home.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) how many (a) staff and (b) full-time equivalent staff under 18 years of age are employed by the Prime Minister's Office; [189071]

(2) how many (a) staff and (b) full-time equivalent staff under 18 years of age are employed by his Department. [189085]

Mr. Watson: The Prime Minister's Office is part of the Cabinet Office. The Cabinet Office currently employs no staff under 18 years of age.

Review of Government Information Assurance

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster if he will place in the Library a copy of Nick Coleman's 2007 Review of Government Information Assurance. [181233]

Mr. Watson: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 19 February 2008, Official Report, column 689W, to the hon. Member for Tunbridge Wells (Greg Clark).

Voluntary Organisations: Driving

Mr. Drew: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) what discussions he has had with representatives of (a) the third sector and (b) insurance providers on the personal insurance liability of drivers when they volunteer as car and minibus drivers for voluntary organisations; [188328]

(2) what discussions he has had with Ministerial colleagues on local authority provision of insurance for volunteer minibus drivers providing services within the third sector. [188330]

Phil Hope: In 2002 the Home Office Active Communities Directorate, which is now part of the Office of the Third Sector in the Cabinet Office, set up the Working Group on Insurance and the Voluntary Sector. The Working Group sought to address the concerns of the voluntary sector about the cost of insurance premiums. It included officials from Government and representatives from the insurance industry and the third sector. The work of the group included discussions on personal insurance liability for volunteer drivers. The working group met on a number of occasions and ceased its work in 2005. As a direct result of the group's work two documents were published to help third sector organisations address insurance issues. The first was a risk toolkit produced by Volunteering England and the second a document by the Association of British Insurers. Both provide advice on insurance for volunteers and the third sector. Copies of these documents have been placed in the Library.

The possibility of local authority provision of insurance for volunteer minibus drivers has not been the subject of discussions with ministerial colleagues.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Afghanistan: Electricity

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what recent assessment he has made of the availability of supply of (a) electricity and (b) water in Afghanistan; what assessment he has made of such availability in each year since 2001; and if he will make a statement. [190003]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 22 November 2007, Official Report, column 1086W.

Bolivia: Overseas Aid

Colin Burgon: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development pursuant to the written ministerial statement of 24 January 2008, Official Report, columns 60-1WS, on Latin America (Development), which organisations in Bolivia will receive funding and what conflict sensitive assessment of funding disbursement will be conducted in the light of separatist inspired violence in Bolivia. [188879]

Mr. Malik: Additional funding will be channelled to a shortlist of UK non-governmental organisations (NGOs) working in Latin America that currently receive funding through our programme partnership agreement. However, allocations to specific organisations have not yet been made, so it is not possible at this stage to say which organisations in Bolivia will receive funding. Once allocations are decided I will be happy to provide this information.

DFID is committed through our conflict policy paper to ensuring that our development work takes better account of its possible effects on conflict.

Currently the Department is piloting 'conflict audits' in a number of countries to help us review how well we integrate conflict into our development work. In addition, we are working with UK NGOs on learning lessons about the conflict sensitivity of development programmes. We expect to work with the UK NGOs in Latin America, including Bolivia, to apply these lessons.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many of his Department's civil servants have been (a) suspended and (b) dismissed for accessing (i) obscene and (ii) other prohibited material on work computers in each of the last five years. [188782]

Gillian Merron: The holding of a central disciplinary record commenced in October 2004. DFID suspended and dismissed fewer than five civil servants for accessing obscene material on DFID computers in 2005. There were no cases of accessing other prohibited material.

Drinking Water

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much his Department spent on bottled water in the latest year for which figures are available. [189796]

Mr. Malik: The Department for International Development (DFID) has recently changed its restaurant service provider, and detailed records are not available. However, we estimate that DFID has spent in the region of £10,500 last year. Bottled water was provided for some official meetings in accordance with the principles of Managing Public Money. Since January 2008, however, we no longer purchase bottled mineral water but instead use bottled filtered mains water that is prepared on site. This change was made on the grounds of economy and environmental benefits.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Departmental Telephone Services

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) which telephone contact centres are the responsibility of his Department; what mechanisms are in place to monitor their effectiveness; and how many people have been employed in each of those centres in each year since they were established; [166528]

(2) what information his Department collects and monitors in relation to the telephone contact centres for which his Department is responsible; [166529]

(3) how much each telephone contact centre for which his Department is responsible has (a) cost and (b) generated in income in each financial year since their establishment; [166530]

(4) when he will answer Questions (a) 166530, (b) 166528, and (c) 166529, on telephone contact centres, tabled on 15 November 2007 by the hon. Member for Falmouth and Camborne; [190876]

Mr. Lammy: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills has only been in existence since June 2007, when it was formed from elements of the old Department for Education and Skills (now Department for Children, Schools and Families) and Department for Trade and Industry (now Department for Business Enterprise and Regulatory Reform). DIUS currently relies on DCSF and BERR to provide telephone inquiry services on its behalf and I would refer you to the answers they have given to this question.

The cost of running the Aimhigher Student Finance contact centre since the DIUS began (end June 2007) has been £117,247,84. This is a freephone line so has generated no income.

The contract for this service includes the provision of data by the supplier to enable the Department to ensure the supplier is meeting the key performance indicators set out in the contract.

Education: Carers

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps he is considering to encourage unpaid carers to access learning opportunities in mainstream education; and if he will make a statement. [189213]

Mr. Lammy: The Department has agreed with the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) that it will produce a special leaflet for learning providers highlighting carer issues and promoting the extra uplift in learner support funding which is available to learning providers. Additionally the LSC will issue a new leaflet produced by the National Institute for Continuing Adult Education (NIACE) which promotes learning for carers. This will be used to promote the opportunities that can be made available to carers.

The Department has contributed to the Employment Task Force review of the New Deal for Carers Strategy with recommendations to improve access to learning for carers. The report is expected to be published in May 2008.

Adult learners, including carers, on low incomes and in receipt of an income-based benefit are entitled to access Further Education (FE) free of charge. In addition adult learners, including carers, with low skills who wish to access basic literacy and numeracy courses, a first full level 2 course or who are aged 19-25 years and who wish to access a first full level 3 course, are entitled to access these courses free of charge. Young people aged 16-18 can access learning opportunities in mainstream education free of charge.

Higher Education: Expenditure

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much expenditure on higher education research projects has been used to buy-out the teaching time of the researchers in the latest year for which figures are available. [186392]

Ian Pearson: Since the introduction of the full economic costs (FEC) regime in April 2006, Research Councils have ceased to provide specific funding to buy-out the teaching time of researchers. Specific buy-out funding is included in some grants that started before that date, and have yet to be completed.

Under FEC, funding is provided for the research time of academic staff. During the year July 2006 to June 2007, the amount committed by Research Councils to cover researcher time (taking Principal Investigators and Co-investigators for all eligible organisations) amounted to £110 million for direct costs, plus £80 million for overhead costs.

ICT: Training

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much has been spent from (a) the Capital Modernisation Fund and (b) the New Opportunities Fund on establishing UK online centres in West Lancashire constituency since 2000; and if he will make a statement. [189809]

Mr. Lammy: UK online centres were established by the then Department for Education and Employment from 1999. These centres are effective in reaching out to the most excluded in communities and have helped reduce the digital divide by providing individuals with access to the internet and e-learning.

Nationally, £199 million capital funding was made available from the Treasury's Capital Modernisation Fund and £77.5 million revenue funding from the New Opportunities Fund (now called the Big Lottery Fund) to help fund UK online centres in deprived communities. Information is not held at constituency level and the details requested could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Innovation

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps he has taken to encourage innovation in his Department in the last 12 months. [180355]

Ian Pearson: The departmental strategic objectives published in October 2007 set out the Department's aim to be innovative in what we do, and a programme of work is in place which will help ensure we achieve this. For example, rather than having fixed desks and workstations, all staff (including the Permanent Secretary) have been issued instead with lap top computers which will support more effective and flexible working practices. A pool of policy specialists is being created, enabling a quicker response to deal with particular issues. This will all be underpinned through the development of a new set of corporate values and behaviours and a culture that will ensure that DIUS operates innovatively and effectively.

The Department is committed to working openly with partners and customers. For example, we now have a Minister with explicit responsibility for listening to students and ensuring the student voice is heard in Government. We are also working with our partners, including students in universities and colleges, on issues such as the redesign of our London office.

The Department also has the overall responsibility on behalf of Government to promote the commercial exploitation of creativity and knowledge by supporting research and innovation. We aim to create the right environment for innovation through a combination of: investment in the science base; financial support for companies; fiscal incentives for innovation; and through maintaining a world class innovation infrastructure in the UK. In order to lead this work the Department has appointed a Director of Innovation for driving forward its work in this area.

Postgraduate Education: Arts

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what financial provisions were made available to students for postgraduate education in the arts in 2007-08; and if he will make a statement. [185308]

Ian Pearson: In 2007 the Arts and Humanities Research Council made postgraduate training awards to students in the arts worth a total of £6 million.

Research: University of Wales

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what recent initiatives have been taken by his Department's technology strategy board to promote the commercialisation of research findings from the University of Wales. [186820]

Ian Pearson: The business focused Technology Strategy Board currently supports 27 collaborative R and D projects involving the University of Wales and its affiliated institutions. This translates to grant funding worth £7.16 million. This support enables business and research communities to work together on R and D projects from which successful new products, processes and services can emerge.

The Technology Strategy Board is also providing support for 31 Knowledge Transfer Partnerships involving the University of Wales. Knowledge Transfer Partnerships enable companies to access knowledge and skills from the UK knowledge base (further and higher education institutions or research organisations) for use in the strategic development of the business. Each partnership employs one or more high-calibre KTP associate (NVQ Level 4 in an appropriate subject; HMD; foundation degree; degree and higher degree; post-doc) for a project lasting one to three years.

Skilled Workers: Lancashire

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many employees in West Lancashire constituency are covered by the Government's Skills Pledge. [189805]

Mr. Lammy: As at December 2007, there were four employers covering 440 employees in the West Lancashire constituency who have made the Skills Pledge.

Students: Finance

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) if he will review the definition of taxable income as applied to the income of a student's natural parents, the parent's partner and the student's partner to exclude such part of a pension income as is paid to an ex-partner under a divorce settlement in developing future financial assessment policy for student support arrangements; [184399]

(2) when he will provide an answer to question 184399, on student support, tabled on 30 January 2008 by the hon. Member for Warrington, South. [189322]

Bill Rammell: The assessment of a student's entitlement to financial support while attending a course of higher education is based on the student's household income. This is generally the residual income of the eligible student, aggregated with the residual income of the student's parents; or where appropriate the student's parent's partner, the student's spouse or partner.

For the purposes of determining the residual income of an eligible student and the relevant people in the household, certain specified deductions are made from their taxable income. 'Taxable income' is defined in the Student Support Regulations as a person's taxable income from all sources computed as for the purposes of either (i) the Income Tax Acts; (ii) the income tax legislation of another member state which applies to the person's income; or (iii) where the legislation of more than one member state applies, the legislation under which the person in question is considered to be paying the largest amount of tax during the period covered by the assessment. Such taxable income includes taxable pension income.

The Government have no plans to review the current financial assessment procedures.

Students: Loans

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what representations he has received proposing changes to the method of calculating interest on student loans since June 2007. [185235]

Bill Rammell: During the third reading of the Sale of Student Loans Bill on 23 January representations were made by my hon. Friends the Members for Nottingham, South (Alan Simpson) and for Hayes and Harlington (John McDonnell) who suggested that the consumer prices index (CPI) should be used in place of the retail prices index (RPI) when determining the rate of interest on student loans.

My hon. Friend the Member for Great Grimsby (Mr. Mitchell) has also made representations on this matter in early-day motion 263 which suggests changes to the method of calculating interest on student loans.

In addition the Department has received some 206 written representations since June 2007 about the student loan interest rate. We are not able to say how many of those proposed changes to the method of calculating interest.

We do not believe that it is necessary to change the way interest is calculated. Student loans are not like commercial loans. The Government make no profit but subsidise the interest rate and absorb other associated costs. Interest is charged using a widely recognised measure of inflation, so students only pay back in real terms the amount they originally borrowed. This is achieved by linking the interest rate for student loans to the annual rate of inflation as defined by the RPI. The interest rate is recalculated each year at the beginning of September using the RPI figure from the previous March. This is the methodology that has always been used. Over time it ensures the student loan interest rate will be equivalent to the rate of inflation but with a time lag.

For the vast majority of student loan borrowers, who have income contingent loans, any increase in interest rate will not affect borrowers' ability to pay, or the amount that they are liable to pay each month. Repayments are linked to the ability to pay and this amounts to 9 per cent. of earnings above £15,000.

Students: Pharmacy

Dr. Stoate: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what assessment he has made of the effect on the pharmacy profession of his Department's proposal to withdraw funding for the teaching of students studying for qualifications deemed to be of an equivalent or lower level to those they have already received; and if he will make a statement. [174218]

Bill Rammell: The vast majority of pharmacy students already study the subject as a first degree rather than as an equivalent or lower level qualification. The redistribution of £100 million by 2010 would enable the same number of pharmacy students to be funded as now but with even more studying the subject as a first degree. In that way we will increase and widen participation which is our top priority. We also value those who have already got a first HE qualification and who want to retrain in a different subject. There will be opportunities for them available, for example, through Foundation Degrees and employer co-funded provision.

In addition, there will be a review mechanism each year to look at individual subjects of particular economic or social importance. We are asking the Funding Council each year to look at levels of demand for subjects which might in future be regarded as key because of their economic or social significance, and to advise us on the best way forward. The first such review should take place starting in December 2008, in the light of entry data for the 2008-09 academic year. That would be an opportunity to have another look at pharmacy and other subjects in the light of the data that will then be available.

Vocational Training: North West

Mr. Marsden: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many employers in the North West signed up to the Skills Pledge, in each year, broken down by (a) sector and (b) size of employer. [184302]

Mr. Lammy: As at December 2007, the available information indicated that there were 39 employers in the North West who had made their commitment to the Skills Pledge, since it was launched in June 2007. 21 of the 39 employers in the North West had fewer than 250 employees with the remaining 18 having between 250 and less than 5,000. A breakdown by sectors is not currently available.

JUSTICE

Bail: Northern Ireland

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many defendants on bail between pleading guilty or being found guilty and sentence subsequently failed to attend court for sentencing in Northern Ireland in each of the last five years. [189154]

Mr. Hanson: Bench warrants are issued when defendants on bail fail to appear at a Crown court.

The information sought was not centrally recorded prior to the introduction of a new IT system in October 2006. Consequently, it is not possible to provide the requested information prior to this without incurring disproportionate cost.

The following table details, for Crown court cases dealt with in Northern Ireland between October 2006 and September 2007, the number of defendants on bail between pleading guilty or being found guilty and being sentenced who had a least one bench warrant issued against them. All have since been sentenced.

Crown court cases dealt with 1 October 2006 to 30 September 2007

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Number of defendants with at least one bench warrant issued | 27 |

Custodial Treatment

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people were held in custody in 2007; and what proportion of the population this figure represented. [189152]

Mr. Hanson: On 31 December 2007, there were 80,867 people held in custody in England and Wales. This represented 147 per 100,000 of the national population.

These figures have been drawn from administrative IT systems, which, as with any large scale recording system, are subject to possible errors with data entry and processing.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many (a) staff and (b) full-time equivalent staff under 18 years are employed by his Department. [189084]

Maria Eagle: The requested figures are in the following table. The latest period for which the statistics are available is the year to September 2006 and so pre-date the creation of the Ministry of Justice.

Ministry of Justice agencies staff under 18 years old, as at 30 September 2006

Departmental Marketing

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) pursuant to the answer of 5 February 2008, Official Report, column 1110W, on departmental marketing, how much his Department has spent on (a) corporate display materials, (b) publications, (c) public information booklets, (d) building signage, (e) hard stationery and (f) lanyards since its establishment; [189358]

(2) how much each of his Department's agencies spent on branded products in each of the last five years. [189359]

Maria Eagle: Since the Ministry of Justice was established on 9 May 2007, my Department's HQ costs for the items listed in the question, incorporating the Ministry of Justice branding, have been as follows:

| | Item | Cost (£) |
|---|---|---|
| (a) | Corporate display materials | 14,865 |
| (b) | Publications | 256,000 |

Electoral Register: Greater London

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what estimate he has made of the number of people not registered to vote in each London borough. [189397]

Bridget Prentice: The Government have made no estimate of the number of people not registered to vote in each London borough. However, the Electoral Commission undertook a pilot research study in 2007 to examine possible methods for measuring the accuracy and completeness of the electoral register in Greater London.

I understand from the Electoral Commission that the methodologies used in the London pilot were shown to be unsuitable for drawing firm conclusions about the integrity of electoral registers. This was particularly the case for borough by borough analysis, due to small sample sizes. The pilot study brought to light some key registration trends in Greater London; in particular, it estimated that 80 per cent. of those who were eligible, were registered. Due to small sample base sizes at the borough level, the data is not sufficiently robust at local authority level to provide reliable estimates.

Recent changes brought about by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 have placed a greater emphasis on getting eligible electors registered. During the annual canvass, Electoral Registration Officers are required to take all necessary steps to ensure that electors are encouraged to register, which include sending the canvass form more than once, making house to house enquiries and inspecting other records that they are permitted to inspect.

Firearms Act 1968: Convictions

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 1188W, on Firearms Act 1968: convictions, what proportion of those convicted over the age of 18 years received custodial sentences. [189362]

Maria Eagle: The information requested on persons aged 18 and over found guilty and sentenced to immediate custody for offences under section 5 of the Firearms Act 1968 is provided in the following table.

[1] These data are on the principal offence basis.
[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts and police forces. As a consequence care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.
[3] The found guilty column may exceed those proceeded against, as it may be the case that the proceedings in the magistrates court took place in the preceding year and they were found guilty at the Crown Court in the following year, or the defendants was found guilty for a different offence to the original offence proceeded against.

Internet: Suicide

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what discussions he has had with the Australian Government on legislative changes to make the operation of internet sites about suicide more difficult. [189056]

Maria Eagle: Officials in the Ministry of Justice have discussed with their Australian counterparts the effectiveness of legislation introduced there to combat suicide websites—the Criminal Code Amendment (Suicide Related Material Offences) Act 2005. I understand that since the legislation came into force in January 2006 there have been no prosecutions.

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will establish an independent body to review complaints about internet sites operated from outside the UK which encourage suicide. [189057]

Maria Eagle: The Internet Watch Foundation considers complaints about websites where the content is criminally racist, obscene or contains indecent photographs of children. No UK body would have the authority to take action on complaints about internet sites hosted abroad, nor are we convinced of the need for a separate regulatory body in respect of websites that, whilst considered harmful or offensive, are not necessarily illegal.

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what steps he has taken with internet service providers to reduce the numbers of sites about suicide; and whether he has pursued the idea of a kite mark for internet sites. [189058]

Maria Eagle: The Government have worked with the internet industry, through the Department of Health's suicide prevention strategy and otherwise, to discourage them from hosting sites which may encourage suicide. Typically, indeed largely because of the responsible approach taken by UK internet service providers, such sites tend to be hosted abroad. Work on developing a kite mark standard for internet filtering software is being taken forward through the Home Secretary's task force for child protection on the internet.

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice in how many completed inquests suicide was found to have been assisted by internet sites in each of the last five years; and in how many such cases the suicide was committed by someone under the age of 18. [189060]

Maria Eagle: Information collected by the Ministry of Justice relates solely to the number of verdicts of suicide returned; no information is collected regarding the circumstances of each case or the age of the deceased. The total number of verdicts of suicide returned at inquests by coroners in England and Wales in each of the last five years for which data are available is as follows:

Total number of verdicts of suicide returned by coroners in England and Wales 2002-06

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2002 | 3,242 |
| 2003 | 3,255 |
| 2004 | 3,368 |
| 2005 | 3,235 |
| 2006 | 3,220 |

Note:
Statistics for 2007 are not yet available.

Prisoners on Remand: Northern Ireland

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many defendants remanded in custody pending trial in Northern Ireland have subsequently been acquitted or not found guilty in each of the last five years. [189155]

Mr. Hanson: The custody or bail status of defendants may change during the period pending trial in the Crown court.

The information sought was not centrally recorded prior to the introduction of a new IT system in October 2006. Consequently, it is not possible to provide the requested information prior to this without incurring disproportionate cost.

The following table details, for Crown court cases dealt with in Northern Ireland between October 2006 and September 2007, the number of defendants who were found not guilty on all charges and who had been remanded in custody at some stage pending trial.

Crown court cases dealt with 1 October 2006 to 30 September 2007

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Number of defendants in custody at some stage pending trial who were subsequently found not guilty on all charges | 75 |

Prisoners Release: End of Custody Licence

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners have been released early from HMP Peterborough under the End of Custody Licence scheme in each month since the scheme's inception. [190029]

Mr. Hanson: The End of Custody Licence was introduced on 29 June 2007. Eligible prisoners serving between four weeks and four years may be released under licence from prison up to up to 18 days before their automatic release date.

The following table shows the number of prisoners that have been released early from HMP Peterborough under the End of Custody Licence scheme in each month since the scheme began on 29 June 2007.

| Period of Release | Number of Releases |
|---|---|
| 29 June-5 July | 37 |
| 6-31 July | 40 |
| August 2007 | 61 |
| September 2007 | 38 |
| October 2007 | 72 |
| November 2007 | 77 |
| December 2007 | 63 |

The total number of releases by offence group, sentence length, age, gender, ethnicity and prison establishment have been published on the Ministry of Justice website for the first week of the scheme, the remainder of July, and every subsequent month since then.

The monthly published figures can be found on separate links under the following main link:

http://www.justice.gov.uk/publications/endofcustodylicence.htm

Data on releases up to the end of January 2008 will be published on 29 February 2008 according to the schedule of MoJ statistical publications.

http://www.justice.gov.uk/docs/moj-stats-schedule.pdf

These figures have been drawn from administrative IT systems, which, as with any large scale recording system, are subject to possible errors with data entry and processing.

Prisoners: Young People

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people under the age of 18 years are being held in adult prisons. [187451]

Mr. Hanson: Juvenile prisoners are usually held in designated juvenile units and prisons. In exceptional individual circumstances juveniles may be held separately within an adult prison for a short period.

Prisons: Education

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the cost was of education in each prison in each of the last three years. [189443]

Mr. Lammy [holding answer 27 February 2008]: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested with regards to public prisons could not be produced within the deadline. I will write to the hon. Member with the information requested and a copy will be placed in the Library of the House.

It will not be possible to give figures for the cost of education within contracted prisons. The cost of education in these establishments is subsumed within the overall cost per place that the Ministry of Justice pays to the contractor.

Re-offenders: Bexley

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many offenders are believed to have re-offended while on probation in Bexley in each of the last five years. [189385]

Mr. Hanson: The National Statistics relating to re-offending do not presently include a local authority level breakdown. Figures for proven re-offending within two years by adults released from prison or starting a community sentence have been published for 2000, 2002, 2003 and 2004. The most recent data was published in the 2007 report, "Re-offending of adults: Results from the 2004 cohort" which is available online at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs07/hosb0607.pdf

We have developed more timely area-based management information on a different basis from the National Statistics. These show for each of the 42 probation areas, the proportion of those on the probation caseload who re-offend within three months and are convicted within six months of the end of every quarter. These experimental statistics are circulated to probation areas four times a year.

From April 2008 onwards, we will be providing further management information on re-offending at the level of local area agreements.

Secure Training Centres: Restraint Techniques

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, columns 201-02W, on secure training centres: restraint techniques, for what reasons the populations of all the institutions listed in the Answer of 28 January 2008, Official Report, column 150W, on secure training centres were not provided; and if he will provide these figures. [190021]

Mr. Hanson: The previous reply gave details of the end-of-month population of the secure training centres. I am sorry that data on young offender institutions and secure children's homes were not included.

The following table shows the end-of-month population for the period April-November 2007 for all establishments in the under-18 secure estate. This information has been supplied by the Youth Justice Board.

Trials: Northern Ireland

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many trials on indictment in Northern Ireland have been retrials in each of the last five years; and of those retrials how many have been (a) second and (b) third re-trials. [189153]

Mr. Hanson: A retrial will only take place when a jury has been unable to reach a verdict or a retrial has been ordered by the Court of Appeal.

Information on the number of retrials in Northern Ireland was not centrally recorded prior to the introduction of a new IT system in October 2006. Consequently, it is not possible to provide the requested information prior to this date without incurring disproportionate cost.

For Crown court cases dealt with in Northern Ireland between October 2006 and September 2007, the total number of retrials were four, of which two were second retrials.

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice on how many occasions retrials in Northern Ireland have resulted in defendants being found (a) guilty and (b) not guilty in each of the last five years. [189156]

Mr. Hanson: A retrial will only take place when a jury has been unable to reach a verdict or a retrial has been ordered by the Court of Appeal.

Information on the number of retrials in Northern Ireland was not centrally recorded prior to the introduction of a new IT system in October 2006. Consequently, it is not possible to provide the requested information prior to this without incurring disproportionate cost.

The following table details, for Crown court defendants dealt with in Northern Ireland between October 2006 and September 2007, the outcome of those trials which have been retrials.

Crown court January October 2006 to 30 September 2007

| | Cases dealt with |
|---|---|
| Total number of retrials | 4 |
| Number of defendants found guilty on re-trial | 2 |
| Number of defendants found not guilty on re-trial | 2 |

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice on how many occasions re-trials on indictment in Northern Ireland have taken place (a) within three months of, (b) between three months and six months of and (c) six months or more after the original trial in each of the last five years. [189157]

Mr. Hanson: A retrial will only take place when a jury has been unable to reach a verdict or a retrial has been ordered by the Court of Appeal.

Information on the number of retrials in Northern Ireland was not centrally recorded prior to the introduction of a new IT system in October 2006. Consequently, it is not possible to provide the requested information prior to this without incurring disproportionate cost.

The following table details, for Crown court cases dealt with in Northern Ireland between October 2006 and September 2007, the number trials on indictment that have been retrials.

Crown court cases dealt with 1 October 2006 to 30 September 2007

| | Number |
|---|---|
| Total number of retrials | 4 |
| Less than 3 months since original trial | 0 |
| 3-6 months since original trial | 3 |
| 6 months plus since original trial | 1 |

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many re-trials on indictment in Northern Ireland have been for reasons of a jury being discharged before being sent out to decide their verdict in the last five years; and how many have been for reasons of a jury being unable to reach a verdict. [189158]

Mr. Hanson: A retrial will only take place when a jury has been unable to reach a verdict or a retrial has been ordered by the Court of Appeal. A defendant will not be re-tried because the jury has been discharged before it reaches a verdict.

A jury can be discharged for any number of reasons at any stage prior to the conclusion of the trial. In these circumstances the case will continue with a new jury.

Information on the number of retrials in Northern Ireland was not centrally recorded prior to the introduction of a new IT system in October 2006. Consequently, it is not possible to provide the requested information prior to this without incurring disproportionate cost.

For Crown court cases dealt with in Northern Ireland between October 2006 and September 2007, there were four retrials on indictment, all of which were due to the jury failing to reach a verdict.

TREASURY

Alcoholic Drinks: Prices

Ms Gisela Stuart: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the retail price would be of (a) a bottle of wine, (b) a bottle of whisky and (c) a pint of lager if real prices had been maintained since 1960. [189054]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 28 February 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking what the price would be in shops in 2008 of a) a bottle of wine, b) a bottle of whisky and c) a pint of lager if real prices had been maintained since 1960. I am replying in her absence. (189054)

The average shop price for bottled beer, measured by pint, in 1960 was 9.3 pence. If its price had increased in line with the total Retail Prices Index (RPI) it would have cost 156.8 pence in January 2008.

Information is not available for the change in the price of a bottle of wine, a bottle of whisky or a bottle of lager since 1960. A retail price index covering all alcoholic beverages is available from 1962. Between January 1962 and January 2008 the price of alcoholic beverages rose by 1510 per cent, compared with an increase of 1489 per cent in the total RPI over the same period.

Bingo

Mr. Betts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the effect on (a) employment and (b) Exchequer revenues of (i) recent and (ii) planned closures of bingo clubs. [189738]

Angela Eagle: The state of the bingo industry is incorporated into the forecast of total gambling receipts, which includes bingo duty receipts, and will be published in the Financial Statement and Budget Report.

Capital Gains Tax

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the introduction of a single rate of capital gains tax on (a) mutual funds and (b) insurance bonds before 9 October 2007. [190165]

Jane Kennedy: The Government take a range of factors into consideration when formulating tax policy, and keeps all aspects of policy under review.

Customs Officers: Northern Ireland

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many HM Revenue and Customs personnel were on duty at (a) Belfast International, (b) Belfast City and (c) Londonderry airport on a routine basis during 2007. [190080]

Jane Kennedy: HMRC does not release the numbers of front line Customs staff that it deploys at a local level as this would provide information of value to those seeking to circumvent HM Revenue and Customs' controls, thereby prejudicing the prevention and detection of crime.

Departmental Data Protection

James Brokenshire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the review of data handling procedures by Kieran Poynter of PricewaterhouseCoopers will include an examination of potential data breaches connected with third parties hacking into computer systems of HM Revenue and Customs and other Government Departments and agencies. [190337]

Jane Kennedy: Kieran Poynter was asked by the Chancellor to conduct an independent review of HMRC's data handling, the full terms of reference of which have already been made available on the HM Treasury website at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/newsroom_and_speeches/press/2007/press_133_07.cfm and a copy has been placed in the Library of the House.

An interim report was published on 17 December 2007 and the final report is expected during the first half of 2008.

Departmental Homeworking

David Simpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people in his Department have been authorised to work from home in the last 12 months. [189772]

Angela Eagle: Home working is approved locally by individual managers and records are not kept centrally.

Departmental Marketing

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 4 February 2008, Official Report, column 828W, on departmental marketing, what the cost to his Department of Government and departmental branded products was in each of the last five years. [189377]

Angela Eagle: The information requested is not readily available and could be supplied only at disproportionate cost.

Entrust

Martin Horwood: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the total value of the assets of ENTRUST is; and to whom these assets would revert in the event of ENTRUST ceasing to trade. [189911]

Angela Eagle: From ENTRUST's annual accounts for the year ending 31 March 2007, the total value of assets, after liabilities, was £2,351,429. In the event of ENTRUST ceasing to trade any remaining assets after creditors were paid would pass to a successor regulatory or charitable body.

Fairtrade Initiative

Mr. Weir: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will take steps to promote Fair Trade Fortnight 2008 amongst staff within his Department; and if he will make a statement. [189502]

Angela Eagle: Catering products provided via the Treasury restaurant facilities in 1 Horse Guards Road and 100 Parliament Street are supplied by the catering sub-contractor employed by the PFI provider. The catering contractor currently provides Fairtrade products such as teas, coffees, snacks and confectionery through the catering facilities throughout the building; Fairtrade teas and coffees are served at all official meetings.

For Fairtrade Fortnight, the catering contractor has placed posters within the restaurant facilities, highlighting the Fairtrade products available.

Fuels: Prices

Mr. Harper: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the effects of (a) rising fuel costs and (b) fuel duty on the holiday industry in the UK; and if he will make a statement. [189871]

Angela Eagle: Decisions on fuel duty are taken as part of the Budget process, alongside other taxation issues. When taking these decisions, the Chancellor considers a range of factors. This includes the environmental, social and economic impact of any changes, including the impact on UK industries, such as the holiday industry.

Industry: Motor Vehicles

Mr. Kemp: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent assessment he has made of the contribution to the economy made by the motor manufacturing industry. [189985]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 28 February 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking what recent assessment he has made of the contributions to the economy made by the motor manufacturing industry. I am replying in her absence. (189985)

The motor manufacturing industry contributed 0.4 per cent of the UK's total gross value added in 2003, based on the latest estimates from ONS's national accounts. In addition, the table below shows the latest estimates of growth in the volume of economic activity of the motor manufacturing industry since 1980, based on ONS's monthly Index of Production (IoP).

Pensioners: Stockton on Tees

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how many pensioners there were in Stockton South constituency in the most recent period for which figures are available; [189329]

(2) how many pensioners in Stockton South constituency were aged over 75 years in the most recent period for which figures are available. [189332]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 28 February 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your questions concerning the total number of pensioners and the number of pensioners who are aged over 75 in Stockton South constituency in the most recent period for which figures are available. I am replying in her absence. (189329, 189332).

The latest population estimates for Parliamentary Constituencies are for mid-2005. The number of pensioners has been calculated as the total of all persons of pensionable age—males aged 65 and over and females aged 60 and over. This estimate is 16,500. The estimate for pensioners aged over 75 is 5,600. These estimates are rounded to the nearest 100.

Private Finance Initiative: Insurance

Chris Huhne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much funding for (a) private finance initiatives and (b) public private partnerships has been underwritten by (i) monoline insurers and (ii) monoline insurers that have recently been downgraded. [190300]

Angela Eagle: The Treasury does not hold a record of the amount of funding for private finance initiatives and public private partnerships that is underwritten by monoline insurers. The ability of private finance initiatives or public private partnerships to fulfil their contractual obligations to the public sector is unaffected by any downgrading of monoline insurers.

Chris Huhne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the consequences of a monoline insurance failure or downgrading for the ability of (a) private finance initiatives and (b) public private partnerships to fulfil their contractual obligations to the Government. [190303]

Angela Eagle: The ability of private finance initiatives or public private partnerships to fulfil their contractual obligations to the public sector is unaffected by any downgrading of monoline insurers.

Revenue and Customs: Correspondence

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his latest estimate is of the number of letters received by HM Revenue and Customs whose processing has not yet been concluded. [187596]

Jane Kennedy: In the last 12 months around 26 million items of correspondence have been received by HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC). HMRC estimates that there were approximately 800,000 items of post (letters and forms) due to be processed as at end of January 2008. This represents around 3 per cent. of all correspondence received.

Revenue and Customs: Data Protection

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 31 January 2008, Official Report, columns 675-6W, on Revenue and Customs: data protection, how many data guardians have been appointed; and how many of these were appointed from (a) within existing HM Revenue and Customs staff, (b) within existing HM Treasury staff and (c) elsewhere. [189372]

Jane Kennedy: A data guardian role has also been created in each HMRC business unit to monitor data handling and transfer arrangements in all of HMRC's business areas. Guidance was provided on the competencies, experience and knowledge that the role would require. 37 data guardians have been appointed.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 31 January 2008, Official Report, columns 675-6W, on Revenue and Customs: data protection, what training has been given to the new data guardians; and what estimate he has made of the cost of such training. [189373]

Jane Kennedy: Support for the HMRC data guardians has included awareness events, written material and access to additional support and guidance of departmental security specialists. The Department continues to assess any on-going training requirements which are funded from within the Department's budget.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 31 January 2008, Official Report, column 675W, on Revenue and Customs: data protection, which officials in HM Revenue and Customs were designated as responsible for data protection before 23 November 2007. [189374]

Jane Kennedy: As principal accounting officer, the HMRC chairman was responsible for the Department's data protection arrangements.

Smuggling: Tobacco

Mr. Harper: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people had tobacco goods confiscated on entry to the UK in the last year for which figures are available; and how much tobacco was seized. [189866]

Jane Kennedy: This information is not held centrally.

For the 2006-07 financial year 228 tonnes of tobacco were seized. This, and other seizure information can be found in HMRC's annual report.

Stamp Duties

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what revenue accrued to his Department from the payment of stamp duty in (a) England, (b) South East England and (c) London. [189306]

Angela Eagle: Stamp duty land tax receipts for each region of the UK can be obtained from:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/stamp_duty/table15-4-056.xls

for 2005-06 and from

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/stamp_duty/table15-4-0607.xls

for 2006-07.

Regional breakdowns of stamp duty receipts from residential property transactions for earlier years are available at:

http:/www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/stamp_duty/table15-2.xls

Tax Credit Office: Administration

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 31 January 2008, Official Report, column 677W, on Tax Credit Office: administration, how many complaints were handled by the tax credit office in 2006-07. [189375]

Jane Kennedy: For the information requested I refer the hon. Member to the information published in Annex F of the HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) departmental report presented to Parliament in May 2007 (cm7107) and available on the HMRC website at:

www.hmrc.gov.uk

Taxation: Alcoholic Drinks

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent representations he has received from (a) the British Beer and Pub Association, (b) the Gin and Vodka Association, (c) the Scotch Whisky Association, (d) the Wine and Spirit Trade Association and (e) the National Association of Cider Makers on proposals to vary tax rates on alcoholic drinks. [190128]

Angela Eagle: Treasury Ministers and officials receive representations from a wide range of organisations and individuals in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such representations.

Taxation: Gaming

Mr. Betts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the average effective tax rate is for online bingo games. [189731]

Angela Eagle: The way in which information is collected by HMRC does not allow it to identify separately duty paid in respect of online bingo. It is therefore not possible to give a reliable estimate of the average effective tax rate on online bingo.

Mr. Betts: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent discussions (a) he and (b) other Treasury Ministers have had with representatives of the gaming industry on the effective tax rates for (a) bingo and (b) other gaming products. [189740]

Angela Eagle: Treasury Ministers and officials met with a wide range of organisations and individuals in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such representations.

Taxation: Private Companies

Jon Trickett: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what European Court of Justice rulings have resulted in the Government paying tax back to private companies in the last 10 years. [188887]

Jane Kennedy: There have been a considerable number of cases involving tax issues pursued before the European Court of Justice (ECJ) since 1998 and a complete list of the direct tax cases and indirect tax (VAT) cases may be found on the courts website at:

http://ec.europa.eu/taxation_customs/common/infringements/case_law/index_en.htm

However HMRC does not keep records of the precise impact any ECJ judgments may have on either litigation pursued solely in the UK courts or on specific decisions that may have been taken in their dealings with individual taxpayers as a result of any such decision. It follows that there are no records held that would indicate what impact, if any, such decisions may have had in terms of paying tax back to private companies. The information requested could not be obtained except at disproportionate cost.

Taxation: Self-assessment

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the reasons were for the online tax filing self-assessment service being out of action on 31 January. [189891]

Jane Kennedy: A total of over 204,000 customers were able to file online on 31 January, a record number. The problems arose because of a rapid and unexpected rise in access to the online service over a short period of time.

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer on how many occasions and for what length of time the online tax filing service has been out of operation in the last six months. [189892]

Jane Kennedy: Between the 1 August 2007 and the 31 January 2008 the SA online filing service was out of operation on 19 separate occasions for an overall total of 113 hours. Ten of these disruptions and 62 of the total hours were for planned and essential maintenance and upgrades by either HMRC or the Government Gateway. Other disruptions to the service were as a result of technical failures.

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what steps have been taken to rectify the problems with the online tax self-assessment system which occurred at the end of January. [189893]

Jane Kennedy: In April 2008 IT updates for the SA online system will remove the dependency on the infrastructure that failed as part of a planned improvement to the system. In addition, HMRC are reviewing their regime for performance testing of online services to improve the rigour around the testing of peak demands.

VAT: Charitable Donations

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make it his policy to make charity text donations VAT free. [190056]

Jane Kennedy: Donations to charity, including those made by text message, are outside the scope of VAT—which means that no VAT is payable on them.

However, VAT is chargeable in the normal way on charges made by telecoms providers for text services. This reflects the requirements of the European VAT agreements signed by successive Governments.

Welfare Tax Credits

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how many people have been incorrectly awarded tax credits, excluding cases of deliberate fraud, in each of the last 10 years; [189299]

(2) what the total value of incorrectly awarded tax credits was in each of the last 10 years. [190583]

Jane Kennedy: I refer the hon. Member to the error and fraud statistics published on the HM Revenue and Customs website at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/error-fraud.htm

Welfare Tax Credits: Labour Turnover

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the annual percentage rate of staff turnover was for staff working on tax credits in each year since 2003. [187623]

Jane Kennedy: The information is available only at disproportionate cost as HM Revenue and Customs employ staff in various parts of the Department to work on different aspects of tax credits work.

TRANSPORT

Departmental Vehicles

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 5 February 2008, Official Report, column 1008W, on departmental vehicles, what the cost of maintaining and servicing vehicles owned by her Department and its agencies was in each of the last 10 years for which figures are available. [187897]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The requested information, where available, has been placed in the Library of the House.

Heathrow Airport: Public Transport

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what plans she has to improve transport links between the South West and Heathrow airport. [190430]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The AirTrack scheme, on which BAA is currently consulting, and for which they are preparing a Transport and Works Act application, would provide a direct rail link from Heathrow Terminal five to the rail network to the south and west at Staines. Crossrail would also provide additional rail access to the airport, including to mainline train services to the south west. The upgrade of Reading station will benefit passengers on the Great Western main line travelling to the airport. The Highways Agency is developing technology schemes to improve journey time reliability on the M3 and M4.

Maritime and Coastguard Agency: Pay

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when she will publish the Maritime and Coastguard Agency pay comparison study. [189623]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Maritime and Coastguard Agency has published its recent pay benchmarking analysis on its internal website.

A version of this analysis will be placed in the Libraries of the House once all commercial aspects have been checked.

Roads: Accidents

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 20 February 2008, Official Report, column 737W, on roads: accidents, how many (a) deaths and (b) injuries occurred on roads in (i) Cornwall and (ii) England in each year from 2001 to 2005, broken down by age group of those so killed and injured. [190431]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The numbers of deaths and injuries resulting from reported personal injury road accidents in Cornwall and England in 2001 to 2005 by age of casualty are shown in the tables.

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the recorded level of rural crime was in each of the last five years; and what steps are being taken to combat rural crime. [187563]

Mr. Coaker: The available information is given in the following table. Offences recorded by the police in rural police force areas fell by 9 per cent. between 2002-03 and 2006-07.

The Home Office has undertaken a number of actions which directly benefit rural communities. These include:

Establishing farm, horse, country and poacher watch schemes

Introducing measures to increase the number of special constables many of whom volunteer in rural police forces. As at 31 March 2007, the figures were at a high of 14,021 which were in part as a result of Specials Capacity Building funding.

Illegal Immigrants: Ukraine

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent discussions she has had with her counterparts in (a) Ukraine, (b) Belarus and (c) Moldova on combating illegal migration and human trafficking. [190588]

Mr. Byrne: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 27 February 2008, Official Report, column 1660W.

Immigration Controls

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps the Government have taken to improve the UK's immigration system since 1997. [190538]

Mr. Byrne: I refer my hon. Friend to the statement by the Home Secretary on 20 February 2008, Official Report, column 351, in which she outlines both the substantial progress that has been made in improving our immigration system and the Government's plans for the next phase of immigration reform—a new deal for citizenship.

Immigration: Children

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to her written ministerial statement of 31 January 2008, Official Report, columns 28-9WS, on care for children in the immigration system, how many unaccompanied asylum seeking children looked after by local authorities will be included in the specialist network; and what estimate she has made of how many each authority can be expected to look after when the special network is set up. [184735]

Mr. Byrne: The proposed reforms will focus on unaccompanied asylum seeking children who arrive in the United Kingdom after the commencement of the new support arrangements. The proportion of the group that we place in the specialist network and the number that each authority can take is likely to vary from region to region and will depend on the outcome of discussions now underway with local authorities.

Migration Advisory Committee

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will include a representative of the British Chinese community on (a) the Migration Advisory Committee and (b) the Migration Impact Forum; and if she will make a statement. [184739]

Mr. Byrne: There is no representative from that or any other community grouping on either body and no plan to appoint representatives at this time.

The Migration Advisory Committee is an independent non-statutory non-departmental public body which will advise Government on where in the economy migration can sensibly fill skills gaps. It is a small committee whose members have been selected through open competition because of their knowledge and expertise. The only exception is that there is one ex officio member from the Sector Skills Development Agency, in recognition of the important link between migration and skills issues.

The purpose of the Migration Impacts Forum is to provide a forum for regular and organised dialogue with frontline professionals outside central Government, focused on the wider impacts associated with migration experienced by local areas. Membership of the MIF includes representatives from local authorities, voluntary and public sectors, the CBI and the TUC.

Both committees welcome representations from community groups.

HEALTH

Autism

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will allocate funds to research into the number of adults with autism; [187193]

(2) what assessment he has made of the barriers to adults with autism to public services; [187194]

(3) what steps he is taking to improve the capacity of his Department to meet the needs of people with autism; [187195]

(4) if he will issue guidance to local authorities on reducing barriers to adults with autism to public services. [187196]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The Department will be taking forward discussions with autism stakeholder organisations on future research.

This work is being supported by the Department's recently appointed specialist adviser on autism whose role is to advise the Department and improve its capacity to meet the needs of people with autism.

"Better services for people with an autistic spectrum disorder: A note clarifying current Government policy and describing good practice" was published on 16 November 2006. A copy is available in the Library. This document clarifies the nature and intent of existing Government policy as it relates to adults with an autistic spectrum disorder. It is intended to encourage people in the social care and health field to develop local agendas for action.

Breast Cancer: Lancashire

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many breast cancer screenings there were in Lancashire in each of the last five years. [190614]

Ann Keen: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 26 February 2008, Official Report, column 1444W.

Breast Cancer: Screening

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what steps he is taking to increase take-up of breast screening in prisons; [190842]

(2) what percentage of female prisoners eligible for breast screening have been screened in the last three years. [190844]

Mr. Bradshaw: Information on the percentage of female prisoners eligible for breast screening is not held centrally.

Commissioning responsibility for prison health services transferred to national health service primary care trusts (PCTs) in 2006. PCTs must now aim to provide health service of an equivalent range and quality to prisoners in their areas. All women prisoners over the age of 50 are therefore entitled to a mammogram.

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what assessment he has made of regional variations in take-up of breast cancer screening in each of the last three years; [190843]

(2) what percentage of women eligible to receive breast cancer screening have been screened in the last three years in England. [190845]

Ann Keen: The following table shows both the number of eligible women screened in the last three years and the regional variation of breast screening coverage.

It is for strategic health authorities (SHAs) working in partnership with their primary care trusts, local screening services and stakeholders to provide appropriate screening services for their local populations.

We are aware of the regional variations of breast screening coverage and Professor Mike Richards, National Cancer Director, has written to the chief executives of all 10 SHAs in England highlighting the future challenges facing breast screening and the importance of maintaining the 36-month screening interval.

[3] Less than three years since last test.
Notes:
1. The coverage of the breast screening programme is the proportion of women resident and eligible that have had a test with a recorded result at least once in the previous three years. Coverage of the screening programme is best assessed using the 53-64 age group as women may be first called at any time between their 50th and 53rd birthdays.
2. The breast screening programme covers women aged 50-64 but it was extended to invite women aged 65-70 in April 2001.
3. The last unit began inviting women aged 65-70 in April 2006 and full coverage should be achieved by 2008-09.

Cancer: Health Services

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library a copy of the study referred to in paragraph 7.28 of his Department's Cancer Reform Strategy on cancer treatments in the United Kingdom and the United States. [175100]

Ann Keen: A copy of the "Audit of Non Surgical Cancer Admissions Report", (without Appendix B), has been placed in the Library.

Due to the level of detail it contains Appendix B has been withheld to safeguard patient confidentiality.

Cervical and Breast Cancer: Screening

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what funding is available to improve the take-up rate amongst women for cervical cancer screening; [187737]

(2) what funding is available to improve the take-up rate amongst women for breast cancer screening. [187738]

Ann Keen: Funding for both breast and cervical screening is allocated to primary care trusts (PCTs) on the basis of the relative needs of their populations, this includes funding for the promotion of screening.

It is for strategic health authorities working in partnership with their PCTs, local screening services and stakeholders to provide appropriate screening services for their local populations and to ensure that they meet national standards.

Community Care: Medical Equipment

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 5 February 2008, Official Report, column 1066W, on community care: medical equipment, which academic organisations form the consortia who will be assessing the whole system demonstrators. [189595]

Mr. Ivan Lewis [holding answer 26 February 2008]: The Department has been consulting with a number of eminent researchers from leading academic organisations in order to shape the evaluation methodology for the Whole System Demonstrator programme. These organisations include University College London, the London School of Economics, University of Oxford, Manchester University, Imperial College of London, the Kings Fund and Nuffield Trust together with the University of Birmingham.

We are currently engaged in negotiations with these organisations to formalise contractual relationships to deliver this evaluation.

Departmental Consultants

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what consultancy contracts his Department issued in each year since 2005; what the (a) value, (b) purpose and (c) contractor was in each case; and whether the consultant's report is publicly available in each case. [181885]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department does not collect information on consultancy contracts in the format requested. To do so would attract disproportionate cost.

Departmental Databases

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what databases are (a) owned and (b) maintained by (i) his Department and (ii) its agencies. [185415]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department and its agencies have a number of databases that are used to support its internal management and business processes as well as the delivery of health and social care. Information relating to what databases are owned and maintained by the Department and its agencies has been placed in the Library.

Departmental ICT

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) mobile telephones, (b) personal digital assistants and (c) laptop computers issued to departmental staff were reported (i) lost, (ii) missing and (iii) stolen in each year since 2001. [184340]

Mr. Bradshaw: We do not keep figures for missing assets. The figures below are reported losses and thefts, DH do not distinguish between these two groups.

DH Losses / thefts of mobiles, Personal Digital Assistants (PDAs) and laptops 2001-07:

| Financial year | Mobile phones | PDA's | Laptops |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2001-02 | 36 | 3 | 35 |
| 2002-03 | 37 | 1 | 30 |
| 2003-04 | 29 | 3 | 34 |
| 2004-05 | 15 | 2 | 23 |
| 2005-06 | 11 | 5 | 18 |
| 2006-07 | 18 | 4 | 11 |
| Totals | 146 | 18 | 151 |

Since 2005 all DH laptops been marked with a forensic dye as a proof of ownership and a high visibility label advertising this. Additionally laptops are encrypted to protect any information stored on them and PDAs wipe all the data stored on them after a series of failed attempts to enter the correct user ID and password.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many of his Department's personal digital assistants were (a) lost and (b) stolen in each of the last five years; and what the value of those items was. [185273]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department uses the Blackberry Enterprise Solution personal digital assistants (PDAs) with recommended procedures and configuration from the Government's technical security authority, CESG, as suitable for processing restricted information. This includes guidance on authentication standards and processes to protect information stored on the device. For example PDAs wipe all the data stored on them after a series of failed attempts to enter the correct user ID and password.

The Department does not distinguish between losses and thefts.

DH reported losses / thefts for the period April 2002 to March 2007

| Financial year | PDAs | Cost (£) |
|---|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 1 | 247.71 |
| 2003-04 | 3 | 1,107.29 |
| 2004-05 | 2 | 757.87 |
| 2005-06 | 4 | 1,822.04 |
| 2006-07 | 5 | 1,617.40 |
| Total | 15 | 5,552.31 |

Departmental Retirement

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many staff in his Department retired on grounds of stress-related illness in each of the last three years. [187499]

Mr. Bradshaw: In each of the last three years, fewer than five individuals in the Department retired on grounds of stress-related illness.

Departmental Sick Pay

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the cost of sickness pay to staff within his Department was in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187517]

Mr. Bradshaw: The annual report "Analysis of Sickness Absence in the Civil Service 2006-07" reports the Department as having an average number of working days lost per staff year of 6.4. This equates to a salary cost of just under £2 million.

General Practitioners: Working Hours

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many hours per 1,000 patients GP surgeries opened for on average per week in the latest period for which figures are available. [188580]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department does not hold figures on numbers of opening hours of general practitioner (GP) practices.

We have asked primary care trusts (PCTs) to carry out a baseline audit of current availability of current GP practice opening so that it is possible to measure the success of our aim of 50 per cent. of GP practices in each PCT are offering extending opening hours.

Health Services: Thames Gateway

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 5 February 2008, Official Report, columns 1062-3W, on health services: Thames Gateway, whether changes to the levels of funding allocated to each of the primary care trusts in the Thurrock area have been made as a result of it being designated as a growth area by the Department for Communities and Local Government. [188287]

Mr. Bradshaw: A "growth area adjustment" is included in revenue allocations to primary care trusts (PCTs). This money is to support the development of sustainable communities and is for those PCTs that are going to experience considerable population growth as a direct consequence of the additional housing development in the growth areas. This adjustment is based on the additional increase in population, over and above Office of National Statistics population projections, that is due to the Government initiative. South West Essex PCT benefits significantly from a growth area adjustment to its weighted capitation target.

Hearing Impaired: Standards

Mr. Betts: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will consider introducing an 18-week target for all patients with hearing and balance disorders to be assessed by the appropriate specialist. [188886]

Mr. Bradshaw: Patients referred for surgical or medical consultant-led care, will be covered by the target of treatment within 18 weeks of referral by December 2008. Local health bodies will not be credible in claiming success on meeting the 18-week target if large numbers of patients are affected by long waits for audiology treatment. From April 2008, the Department will collect information on waits for direct access audiology treatment for patients who are referred directly to audiologists or clinical scientists in audiological medicine.

Honours

Mr. Pope: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many members of the Senior Civil Service in his Department have received an honour. [187126]

Mr. Bradshaw: The number of honours awarded to senior civil servants currently employed at the Department over a five-year period from the new year of 2004-08 is as follows:

Companion of the Order of the Bath (CB): two;

Commander of the Order of the British Empire (CBE): eight; and Officer of the Order of the British Empire (OBE): five.

Data are not routinely kept by Department on:

the number of awards held by individuals;

awards that are not related to official duties; and awards already held by staff before joining the Department.

Hospitals: East of England

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many acute hospital beds per head of population there were in (a) the former Norfolk, Suffolk and Cambridgeshire Strategic Health Authority area, (b) the East of England Strategic Health Authority area, (c) the former Suffolk West Primary Care Trust area and (d) Suffolk Primary Care Trust area in each year since 1997. [187619]

Mr. Bradshaw: Information is not available in the format requested. The following table shows the average daily number of available acute beds per 100,000 population for the period 2002-03 to 2006-07 for the organisations requested. Acute bed numbers will go down over time because of changes to the way services are delivered in the national health service (for instance, more services being provided in the community).

Notes:
Due to SHA reconfigurations, data from prior to 2002-03 are not available at SHA level.
East of England SHA was created in October 2006 following the merger of three SHAs (Norfolk, Suffolk and Cambridgeshire SHA, Essex SHA and Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire SHA).
Population data for mid-year 2007 and beds data for 2007-08 are not yet available.
Suffolk West PCT only provided acute beds in 2002-03. They subsequently provided only geriatric beds.
Suffolk West PCT was formed at the start of 2002-03 from Bury St. Edmonds PCG. The old organisation did not provide any beds.
Suffolk PCT was formed in October 2006 from the merger of Suffolk Coastal PCT, Ipswich PCT, Central Suffolk PCT and Suffolk West PCT. Suffolk PCT does not provide any acute beds.
Figures for 2002-03 to 2005-06 have been updated using revised population statistics issued by the Office for National Statistics.

Incontinence: Medical Equipment

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what steps he plans to take to ensure continued innovation of new products via proposed changes to the arrangements under Part IX of the Drug Tariff; [189450]

(2) what assessment he has made of the effect on the quality of patient care of the proposed changes to the arrangements under Part IX of the Drug Tariff; [189451]

(3) what assessment he has made of the effect on patient choice of the proposed changes to the arrangements under Part IX of the Drug Tariff. [189452]

Dawn Primarolo: The review of part IX of the Drug Tariff is ongoing; no decisions have been made.

Any proposed changes to the current arrangements would not be intended to stifle innovation. While the Department wishes to ensure both value for money for the national health service the maintenance of patient care, it also wants to ensure that any new arrangements are affordable by dispensing contractors and suppliers.

The Department's assessment to date has been that the proposed changes to the arrangements under part IX of the Drug Tariff will ensure that no matter where in England a user of a stoma or urology appliance lives, her or his dispensing pharmacist or dispensing appliance contractor will dispense the appliance to the same standard. It is also of the view that these patients will have access to the same services no matter where they live, such as home delivery.

The Department's view is that the proposed new arrangements would give patients greater choice as to who dispenses their appliance. It is also of the view that as no proposals have been put forward to remove any stoma or urology appliance from part IX of the Drug Tariff, patients—in consultation with their prescriber—will continue to have a full choice of appliances.

The process of consultation has afforded interested parties the opportunity to put forward their assessment of the proposed changes and a final impact assessment will be published later in the year and all parties will have the opportunity to comment on it.

Local Involvement Networks: Trafford

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department has taken to put in place interim arrangements for the period between the closure of the Trafford Patient and Public Involvement Forum and the establishment of the Trafford Local Involvement Network. [190427]

Ann Keen: A local involvement network (LINk) transitional duty, which will be set out in regulations, will mean that for a period of up to six months, from 1 April 2008, local authorities (LAs) that have not yet successfully contracted with a host organisation, and as a result do not have working LINk arrangements in place, should make other arrangements for ensuring 'LINks activities' may be carried out. This could take a range of forms, although the LA itself will not be able to carry out the activities, nor will an national health service body.

We would expect LAs to invite local people and patient and user organisations with an interest in, and knowledge of, health and social care to participate in what will be the core group of the LINk when a host is appointed.

We strongly encourage LAs to seek people's input. Many organisations already have in place stakeholder groups, members of which may well be ideally placed to form the basis of the LINk, whether it be on a transitional basis or the final version. Clearly existing members of Patients' Forums are well placed to be involved early on, but LINks are to be formed of a much wider base and we have urged LAs seek the involvement of people involved in user and carer groups, and representatives from the wider voluntary and community sector too. Such action will help to ensure that a LA meets its transitional duty.

From 1 April 2008, Trafford metropolitan borough council will be responsible for ensuring that LINk activities take place in its area. Trafford Primary Care Trust (PCT) is working closely with Trafford Council and other partner organisations to establish a Trafford LINk.

Trafford PCT representatives are members on the following LINk related groups:

LINk Task and Finish Group;

LINk Procurement Group; and LINk Transitional Working Group.

Trafford PCT is also a member of the Borough's Local Strategic Partnership (Trafford Partnership). The primary purpose is to enhance the quality of life and prosperity for all Trafford's residential and business communities. The PCT is currently involved in the development of Trafford Partnership's Community Engagement Strategy.

After 1 April and LINks coming into force, Trafford PCT will continue engaging with its local population to ensure that commissioning processes are informed and influenced by the views and opinions of local people.

NHS: Hearing Impaired

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps the Government has taken to improve NHS services for hearing and balance disorders. [189144]

Mr. Ivan Lewis [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The Department published an audiology framework in March 2007, "Improving Access to Audiology Services in England", to help local health systems to transform the experience of the audiology service for all their patients, including those with hearing and balance problems. Further good practice guidance on audiology services, including hearing and balance disorders will be published later this year.

NHS: Private Sector

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will place copies in the Library of all guidance his Department has issued to the NHS on the mixing of public and private treatment (a) within an episode of care and (b) within a care pathway; how he defines an episode of care for the purposes of the former; when the guidance was last updated in each case; and if he will make a statement; [188052]

(2) what his Department's policy is on the mixing of public and private treatment (a) within an episode of care and (b) within a care pathway; and if he will make a statement; [188053]

(3) what representations he has received from hon. Members, (a) members of the public, (b) clinicians and (c) other interested parties on mixing NHS and private treatment in the last six months; what the content was of these representations; and if he will make a statement. [188054]

Mr. Bradshaw: It is a long-standing principle that an individual cannot simultaneously be a national health service and a privately funded patient of the same national health service hospital within the same episode of care. Allowing top-up payments would risk creating a two-tier service, undermining the core principle of the NHS that treatment is provided free at the point of use, based on clinical need, not ability to pay. I also refer the hon. Member to the reply given to the hon. Member for Ribble Valley (Mr. Evans) on 18 December 2007, Official Report, columns 723-24.

Guidance issued to the NHS has established the basic principles of clear separation of public and private treatment. It is for NHS organisations to form policy in line with this guidance and decide the extent of an episode of care or care pathway where a patient decides to self-fund a treatment.

Copies of the guidance are available in the Library. I refer the hon. Member to the reply given to the hon. Member for Christchurch (Mr. Chope) on 22 January 2008, Official Report, column 1939W, for details of the guidance.

The Department has received a small number of representations from hon. Members, clinicians and the public on the issue of combining privately funded and NHS funded treatments in the last six months.

NHS: Standards

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health on what dates in the last six months officials in his Department discussed the Quality and Outcomes Framework with representatives of the British Medical Association; what the content of the discussions was; and if he will make a statement. [189467]

Mr. Bradshaw: NHS Employers conduct negotiations on the general medical services contract with the General Practitioners Committee (GPC) of the British Medical Association. Officials from the Department are not normally present. Within the last six months, an official from the Department attended only one meeting of the Quality and Outcomes Framework (QOF) Negotiating Sub Group, on 23 August 2007 as an observer. Wider meetings between departmental officials and representatives of the GPC do also take place regularly but not specifically to discuss changes to the QOF.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for South Cambridgeshire of 8 October 2007, Official Report, column 300W, on NHS: standards, whether the team of experts appointed by NHS Employers and the British Medical Association submitted reports to Ministers to inform the review of the Quality and Outcomes Framework for 2008-09. [190244]

Mr. Bradshaw: The expert panel reports written as part of the evidence gathering phase of the development of the Quality and Outcomes Framework (QOF) are not submitted to Ministers. The reports are submitted to the QOF subgroup to inform the confidential negotiations between NHS Employers and the General Practitioners Committee of the British Medical Association, during negotiation of the general medical services contract. The negotiated agreement is subject to approval by Ministers.

Obesity: Greater London

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of obese people in each London borough in each of the last 10 years; and what steps he is taking to reduce obesity in London. [189295]

Dawn Primarolo: It is for primary care trusts (PCTs) to monitor the prevalence of obesity in their area and put in place strategies to address the situation. From April 2008, tackling child obesity will be a national priority for PCTs, working with their local partners. This was this set out in the national health service operating framework in December 2007.

More generally, the 2007 comprehensive spending review resulted in a new ambition to reverse the rising tide of obesity and overweight in the population by enabling everyone to achieve and maintain a healthy weight. Our initial focus is on children: by 2020, we aim to reduce the proportion of overweight and obese children to 2000 levels. The Government have mapped out how this ambition will be delivered in a new £372 million comprehensive cross Government strategy, "Healthy Weight, Healthy Lives", launched in January 2008. It identifies the following areas for action: children's health, healthier food choices, physical activity, health incentives and personalised advice and support.

Obesity: Health Education

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what public health campaigns targeted at the prevention and management of obesity his Department ran in each of the last five financial years; and what the (a) start and (b) end date was of each campaign; [179121]

(2) how much his Department (a) allocated to and (b) spent on public health campaigns targeted at the prevention and management of obesity in each of the last five financial years for which figures are available. [179122]

Dawn Primarolo: Over the past five years, the Department has funded a range of initiatives and materials demonstrating its commitment to the prevention and management of obesity.

The following table gives more information:

| | | | | | | £ million |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Campaign | Started | 2002-03 | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 |
| 5 a Day | 2002-ongoing | 0.50 | 0.48 | 1.03 | 0.90 | 0.92 |
| Maternal infant nutrition | ongoing | 0.28 | 0.46 | 0.75 | 0.74 | 0.73 |
| School fruit and veg | 2001-ongoing | 0.3 | — | 23.7 | 37.41 | 36.21 |

For obesity campaigns figures are only available for two financial years. In 2006-07 £6.1 million was allocated to obesity campaigns and £1.3 million spent and for 2007-08 the budget allocation was £2.47 million and the forecast is that we will spend £2.6 million.

Obesity: Surgery

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how his Department monitors primary care trusts' compliance with guidelines from the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence on obesity surgery. [187694]

Dawn Primarolo: Performance in implementing National Institute for Heath and Clinical Excellence (NICE) clinical guidelines is included within the scope of the Healthcare Commission's Annual Health check. The 2006-07 annual health check self-assessments, which have been subject to targeted and random inspections by the Healthcare Commission, show that 90 per cent. of national health service trusts have assessed themselves as making excellent, good or fair progress towards implementing NICE's clinical guidelines (obesity having a 96.7 per cent. compliance). The full ratings have been published on the Healthcare Commission's website at:

Organs: Donors

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what response he has made to the recent report of the Organ Donation Taskforce; and if he will make a statement; [188617]

(2) what estimate he has made of the potential increases in organ donations possible within the parameters of existing arrangements over the next five years; [188618]

(3) what steps his Department is taking to improve the infrastructure related to organ donations, with particular reference to histocompatibility and immunogenetics laboratories; [188620]

(4) what steps he is taking to encourage older people to become organ donors; [188621]

(5) what steps he is taking to encourage more organ donations from within black and ethnic communities; [188622]

(6) what research his Department has commissioned on providing recognition for the families of organ donors; [188623]

(7) what estimate he has made of the potential costs of the additional training for staff recommended by the Organ Donation Taskforce; [188624]

(8) what assessment he has made of the Organ Donation Taskforce's recommendations on a centralised system for organ donation which is UK-wide; [189201]

(9) what assessment he has made of obstacles within the system of organ donation to ensuring greater availability of organs for transplant; and if he will make a statement; [189202]

(10) what assessment he has made of the Organ Donation Taskforce's recommendation on the reinforcement of training in organ donation and the provision of regular refresher training for staff; [189203]

(11) what steps he is taking to increase the numbers of organ donor transplant co-ordinators; [189216]

(12) what recent discussions he has had on the creation of a UK-wide organ donation ethics group. [189218]

Ann Keen: The Government welcome the first report, "Organs for transplants: A Report from the Organ Donation Taskforce", and recommendations of the Organ Donation Taskforce, published on 16 January 2008, which have been accepted by all four United Kingdom Health Ministers. A copy of the report is available in the Library. The report usefully identifies the current barriers to donation in the UK and the investment necessary in the infrastructure to see organ donor rates rise to match other successful countries and achieve a 50 per cent. increase within five years.

Funding of £11 million has been made available for 2008-09 with significant additional funding identified for subsequent years. Work has started with stakeholders to agree what further action, such as research, public awareness campaigns, training and work force requirements, is needed to enable each recommendation to be implemented.

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will hold discussions with his American counterparts on the implementation of real time information technology systems for the administration and co-ordination of organ donations. [189217]

Ann Keen: NHS Blood and Transplant has commissioned work to develop and design an electronic system for offering donor organs throughout the United Kingdom. It is hoped that a pilot phase will be introduced by September 2008.

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the average working hours of donor transplant co-ordinators in the most recent period for which figures are available; what assessment he has made of the stress on co-ordinators from their working hours; and if he will take steps to reduce that stress. [189219]

Ann Keen: The Government have accepted recommendations made by the Organ Donation Taskforce, in their report "Organs for Transplant" including the need to expand and strengthen the current network of donor transplant coordinators. To ensure a comprehensive highly skilled, specialised and robust service, extra coordinators will be recruited, and changes made to their employment, training and working arrangements.

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many organ donors were registered in (a) Lancashire and (b) England in each of the last five years. [190589]

Ann Keen: This information is provided in the following tables.

National health service organ donor registrations, 2003 to 2007, residents in Lancashire and England

Peterborough and Stamford Hospitals NHS Foundation Hospitals Trust: Out-Patients

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many first outpatient appointments in the Peterborough and Stamford Hospitals NHS Foundation Hospitals Trust were missed in each year since 2001; and if he will make a statement. [187698]

Mr. Bradshaw: The following table shows the combined number of first consultant led out-patient appointments kept and not attended for all specialties at the Peterborough and Stamford Hospitals National Health Service Foundation Trust from 2001-02 to 2006-07.

Missed appointments are one area in which the public can make a significant impact simply through making responsible use of health services. It is the Department's policy to help them achieve this through the improvement of appointment procedures and ensuring that patients have the opportunity to make an informed choice of where and when they receive their care. The new choose and book system, introduced in 2004, will help to give patients greater certainty and choice over the time and date of their hospital appointment. There is good evidence from the national programme that booking systems, whether electronic or manual, can play a significant role in helping to minimise the number of patients who fail to turn up for their treatment.

Polyclinics

Dr. Pugh: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many NHS polyclinics there are in England; and where each is situated. [188208]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department does not collect information about services commissioned locally by primary care trusts (PCTs). However, following the announcement made by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State on 10 October to invest new resources into primary care, every PCT in the country will be procuring a new general practitioner led health centre during 2008-09.

Visits Abroad

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department spent on overnight accommodation for Ministers overseas in the last year. [171332]

Mr. Bradshaw: We do not have a central record of the costs of overnight accommodation for all Ministers overseas in the last year. To collect the information required would incur disproportionate costs.

Details of the cost of overseas travel for Cabinet Ministers, including the cost of travel and accommodation are contained in the "Overseas Travel by Cabinet Ministers" list. The latest list for the period 1 April 2006 to 31 March 2007 was published on 25 July 2007. Details for the 2007-08 financial year will be published as soon as possible after the end of the financial year.

All travel is made in accordance with the ministerial code.

JUSTICE

Domestic Violence: Children

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice when he will publish the Practice Direction on guidance on domestic violence and child contact. [189907]

Bridget Prentice: Under schedule 2, part 1 (2) of the Constitutional Reform Act 2005, the Lord Chief Justice, or a judicial office holder nominated by the Lord Chief Justice with the agreement of the Lord Chancellor, may make or give designated directions. In the case of family proceedings, the nominated judicial office holder is the President of the Family Division. We are working with the President and other agencies in the development of the Practice Direction. As soon as the Direction is finalised, it will be published.

Electronic Government

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the Government's strategy is on e-democracy and e-participation. [189909]

Mr. Wills: The Government continue to explore and promote the best uses of online technologies in support of public engagement in democratic processes. The strategy for local e-participation is being delivered via the "Connect to your council" take up campaign. The Community Empowerment Action Plan commits the Government to develop on-line tools to support empowerment and democracy and DCLG is working in partnership across Government to establish the best means for delivery locally according to what local areas want and need.

In the Governance of Britain Green Paper the Government set out a long-term aim to investigate the potential benefits of remote electronic voting and to take advantage of emerging communication technologies to provide increased flexibility and choice in the way people vote. In the immediate term we are reviewing the lessons learnt from previous e-voting pilots. This will help to inform our programme of work for electronic voting.

Electronic Government: Departmental Coordination

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what cross-departmental e-democracy projects his Department has initiated; and if he will make a statement. [189899]

Mr. Wills: My Department initiated the Digital Dialogues project that works with other Government Departments in exploring the use of online technologies to promote dialogue between Government and the public. The project is in its third stage. Following each stage, an evaluation report is produced that analysed the case studies and provides supporting guidance on how best Government can use these methods. More information is available at http://www.digitaldialogues.org.uk. We are expecting the evaluation of the third stage to be published in the summer.

Electronic Government: Finance

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what e-democracy projects his Department (a) has funded and (b) plans to fund; and what the (i) outcome and (ii) cost of each completed project was. [189897]

Mr. Wills: The Department has funded e-participation projects on Government to citizen engagement, citizen video blogging, online citizen juries, web mapping tools on broken civic infrastructure, representative blogging, use of mass media participation tools and applications for young people to engage in political issues. The Department has also funded five local authorities in piloting e-voting (including remote voting) at their local elections in May 2007. A breakdown of the individual projects and associated costs is detailed in the following table.

The outcomes from the e-participation projects have included the active engagement of numbers of people in democratic processes, case studies, guidance material, web resources and tools. Each of the e-voting pilots supported successful elections and provided valuable lessons in relation to the use of the technology.

We will be reviewing the outcomes and lessons learnt from these projects to inform our future plans for e-participation and e-voting.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what funding allocation has been made to e-democracy projects in each of the next three years; and how much of the allocated budget for each year has not been assigned to a specific project. [189898]

Mr. Wills: Detailed allocations have yet to be made for e-democracy and e-participation projects in the next three years.

Marriage: Islam

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what arrangements are in place for marriages in mosques to be performed in conjunction with the civil marriage law arrangements; what consideration has been given to requiring marriage registrars to attend the mosque to perform the civil marriage arrangements at the time of the religious ceremony; whether consideration has been given to placing mosque marriages on the same basis as church marriages; and if he will make a statement. [189621]

Bridget Prentice: The Marriage Act 1949 provides for mosques to be registered for the solemnisation of marriages according to the rites of the Muslim religion. The marriage should be solemnised in the registered mosque, in the presence of two or more witnesses, and in the presence of either a registrar of the registration district in which the building is registered, or a person who has been authorised to perform such ceremonies in that registered building. Such marriages are recognised in law without the need for a separate civil ceremony. Where a mosque has not been registered, a separate civil ceremony is necessary.

These same requirements apply to various other religious marriages, including Roman Catholic, Greek Orthodox, Hindu and Sikh. 785 buildings are recorded by the Registrar General (as at 26 February 2008) as certified places of meeting for religious worship by those professing the Muslim religion in England and Wales. Of those, 152 buildings are also registered for marriage, and of the 152, 36 buildings have authorised persons appointed to attend and register marriages.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice when the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State will reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire, dated 18 January (Reference: 187220). [190620]

Bridget Prentice: I replied to the hon. Member on 19 February. I apologise for the delay.

Ministerial Duties: Electronic Government

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice which Minister has lead responsibility for e-democracy and e-participation. [189908]

Mr. Wills: I am responsible for e-voting and have the policy responsibility for e-participation at central Government level. Policy for e-democracy and e-participation at the local level is the responsibility of the Department for Communities and Local Government (CLG). The lead Minister is Parmjit Dhanda and Baroness Andrews has responsibility for digital inclusion.

Prison Accommodation

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many additional prison places are to be made available in England and Wales in each of the next three years. [189744]

Mr. Straw: In 2008, 2009 and 2010 approximately 2,600, 1,500 and 2,700 additional places respectively are planned for delivery as part of the Prison Capacity Programme.

Prisoners Release

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what assessment he has made of the effect of the End of Custody Licence Scheme on prison overcrowding. [189745]

Mr. Hanson: The ECL scheme was announced on 19 June 2007 and came into effect on 29 June 2007. Prisoners serving between four weeks and four years are released under temporary licence for the final 18 days of their sentence subject to meeting strict eligibility criteria and providing a release address. All prisoners released on ECL are liable to recall if they are reported to have misbehaved during the period of the licence.

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what assessment he has made of the likely length of operation of the End of Custody Licence Scheme. [189746]

Mr. Hanson: The Government will keep the End of Custody Licence Scheme under review in light of changes in the prison population and new capacity coming on stream.

Remand in Custody

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people were held in custody in 1978; and what proportion of the population this figure represented. [189616]

Mr. Hanson: The average prison population in England and Wales in 1978 was 41,796. This represented 84 per 100,000 of the national population.

These figures have been drawn from administrative IT systems, which, as with any large scale recording system, are subject to possible errors with data entry and processing.

WALES

Departmental Homeworking

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many people in his Department have been able to work from home in the last 12 months. [189771]

Mr. Paul Murphy: Six members of Wales Office staff have laptops and related equipment which enables them to work from home. Some use this on an ad hoc basis, while others have a more regular working from home arrangement.

A further four members of staff have Blackberries, which enable them to keep in touch by e-mail while they are out for the office or travelling.

Drinking Water

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how much his Department spent on bottled water in the latest year for which figures are available. [189810]

Mr. Paul Murphy: My Department spent £1,682.40 on bottled water, for water coolers, in the financial year 2006-07.

No other bottled water was purchased.

Press

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what the cost of the press offices of (a) his Department, (b) its agencies and (c) its non-departmental public bodies was in each year from 1996-97; what the cost was in each quarter since 1 April 2007; and if he will make a statement. [189665]

Mr. Paul Murphy: Our costs are not readily available in the format requested, and obtaining these could be achieved only at disproportionate cost.

The Wales Office does not have any agencies or non-departmental public bodies.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many press office staff were employed by (a) his Department, (b) its agencies and (c) its non-departmental public bodies (i) in each year since 1996-97 and (ii) at the latest date for which information is available. [189666]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The Wales Office was established in 1999. Since then, it has employed three press officers in each year.

The Wales Office does not have any agencies or non-departmental public bodies.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002

Mrs. Ellman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she intends to commence the provisions of the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002; and if she will make a statement. [190776]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 (the Act) received Royal Assent in May 2002. Most of the provisions have now been introduced through a series of commencement orders.

The first phase of leasehold reforms came into effect on 26 July 2002, with the second phase coming into effect in two parts on 30 September and 31 October 2003. These measures included: a relaxation of the qualifying rules to make it easier to buy the freehold or a new lease; a new no fault 'Right to Manage' provisions for leaseholders of flats to take over management of their block where they do not wish to or cannot afford to buy the freehold; and new procedures for consultation on service charges.

A further commencement order brought into effect the provisions in Part 1 of the Act relating to Commonhold, on 27 September 2004. Commonhold is a new form of tenure for blocks of flats and other multi-unit properties, under which occupiers would own their units outright, and through a commonhold association own and mange the common parts collectively.

Another phase of the leasehold reforms was brought into effect on 28 February 2005. This provides leaseholders with better protection against forfeiture, and requires landlords to send a written demand for ground rent before it become payable. Leaseholders of houses can also now choose their own buildings insurance.

The most recent phase of leasehold reforms was brought into effect on 1 October 2007. These introduced a requirement for landlords to send a summary of a tenant's rights and obligations including information set out in Regulations, when demanding service charges. A requirement was also imposed upon landlords sending demands for administration charges to serve a notice containing prescribed information about tenants' rights and obligations in relation to such charges.

The remaining provisions of the Act deal with accounting for service charge monies and provide for collective enfranchisement to be exercised through an RTE company. The accounting provisions require landlords to keep service charge monies for each group of service charge payers in separate (designated) accounts; and require landlords to provide a regular statement of account together with other relevant information.

A consultation paper dealing with the accounting provisions was published in July 2007, with a summary of the responses received published in January this year. The summary of responses set out our intentions to proceed with proposals to amend the provisions of the 2002 Act in order to ensure leaseholders are provided with appropriate information and protections without incurring a disproportionate cost. Work is ongoing on the detail of the provisions and amendments to the legislation will be made at the earliest opportunity.

In relation to the RTE company provisions, there are a number of legal and practical difficulties which still need to be resolved and work is continuing in order to determine a way forward. Therefore no timetable has yet been set to bring these provisions into force.

The Welsh Assembly has devolved responsibility for secondary legislation in respect of leasehold provisions in Wales.

Community Relations: Housing

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when her Department plans to issue revised guidance to local authorities about the strategic housing role and the preparation of housing strategies mentioned in the Government's Response to the Commission on Integration and Cohesion; and if she will make a statement. [190151]

Mr. Iain Wright: As indicated in our response to the Commission on Integration and Cohesion, we aim to publish the revised guidance in late spring.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when the Equality and Human Rights Commission and Local Government Association plan to publish the results of their review of social housing allocation, as mentioned in the Government's response to the Commission on Integration and Cohesion. [190153]

Mr. Iain Wright: This is a matter for the Equality and Human Rights Commission and the Local Government Association.

Community Relations: Rented Housing

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when her Department plans to publish the results of the policy review of the private rented sector mentioned in the Government's Response to the Commission on Integration and Cohesion; and if she will make a statement. [190150]

Mr. Iain Wright: It is anticipated that the review of the private rented sector undertaken by Julie Rugg and David Rhodes of the Centre for Housing Policy, University of York, will be published in October 2008.

Council Tax: Pensioners

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the effect of above-inflation council tax rises since 1997 on the income of pensioners in those areas with such rises. [190531]

John Healey: Keeping council tax under control is in the interests of all taxpayers and remains a priority for the Government. We will not hesitate to use our capping powers as necessary to protect taxpayers from excessive increases.

As Sir Michael Lyons recognised in his report on local government last year, council tax benefit is the key to tackling the perceived unfairness of council tax towards all those on low incomes. The Government are working hard to improve take up and have done a great deal to improve pensioner incomes, spending around £11 billion more on pensioners in 2007-08 than if 1997 policies had continued.

Council Tax: Post Offices

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what discussions she has had with local authorities on the premium charged to people who pay their council tax through post offices; and if she will make a statement. [190454]

John Healey: I have regular discussions with local authorities on a wide range of issues. The collection of council tax is a matter for individual local authorities which may, if they choose, make arrangements to allow residents in their area to pay their council tax bills over the post office counter.

Domestic Wastes: Waste Disposal

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether domestic properties with a Class U council tax exemption will be liable to pay the new charges for the collection of household rubbish. [189550]

Joan Ruddock: I have been asked to reply.

Domestic properties with a class U council tax exemption are those occupied only by people who are severely mentally impaired who would otherwise be liable to pay council tax.

The exact details of how a scheme might operate would be up to the local authorities running pilots to decide. However, the Government have stressed in their overarching framework that pilot authorities must take account of the needs of potentially disadvantaged groups in devising and running such a scheme. We would expect this group to fall under the definition of a potentially disadvantaged group. Therefore, it may well be that authorities decide to exempt it from the scheme, on the basis that people belonging to it cannot be expected to separate their waste for recycling.

DEFRA intends to provide further details in guidance for local authorities on how to take account of disadvantaged groups.

Drugs: Waste Disposal

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what advice she gives to (a) councils and (b) householders in respect of householders wishing to dispose of unwanted pharmaceuticals. [188474]

Joan Ruddock: I have been asked to reply.

Waste drugs and other pharmaceutical products are defined as clinical waste under the Controlled Waste Regulations 1992.

DEFRA's website includes advice specifically for householders wanting to dispose of unwanted pharmaceuticals. Normally only small quantities will be unwanted and we advise that they should be returned to the pharmacy for disposal. However, this may not be practicable where householders need to dispose of larger quantities. Where it is not possible to return pharmaceuticals to the pharmacy, we advise householders to ask their local authority (LA) to colleet them. LAs are obliged to collect clinical waste from householders on request, but may make a charge for doing so.

Where LAs are asked to collect pharmaceuticals from householders, they can draw on comprehensive guidance produced by the Department of Health on health care waste for all those involved in its management. The guidance, entitled "Health Technical Memorandum 07-01: Safe management of healthcare waste", was published by the Department of Health in 2006 and includes advice on the management of waste pharmaceuticals, including appropriate waste receptacles and disposal routes.

Eco-Towns

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the minimum criteria are for connection from eco-towns to nearby settlements. [189280]

Caroline Flint: In the eco-towns prospectus we said that eco-towns must be freestanding settlements, separate and distinct from existing towns and cities, but well linked to them by high quality public transport.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what facilities and amenities will have to be included in an eco-town. [189281]

Caroline Flint: As set out in the eco-towns Prospectus we have said that eco-towns should provide for a good range of facilities within the town—a secondary school, a medium scale retail centre, good quality business space and leisure facilities. However, they are not expected to be entirely self-sufficient, and will be closely linked to larger towns and cities that provide for a wider range of needs.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps will be taken to ensure that eco-towns are designed to conserve water and other natural resources. [189282]

Caroline Flint: One of the seven key criteria we set out in the eco-towns prospectus covered environmental issues and this includes ensuring that the development incorporates high standards of water efficiency, particularly in areas of the country defined as severely water stressed, and incorporates environmentally sustainable approaches. We have also asked the Town and Country Planning Association to produce worksheets on the practical application of the criteria and this includes the water cycle and green infrastructure.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether eco-towns will be subject to an independent landscape appraisal. [189283]

Caroline Flint: As set out in the eco-towns prospectus we have said that there must be a commitment to high standards of environmental sustainability; this will include taking into consideration how the eco-town will affect the existing landscape. All shortlisted eco-towns will be subject to sustainability appraisal and landscape appraisal will be one of the many issues against which eco-towns will be considered.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how eco-towns will be required to demonstrate that the proposed settlement is the most sustainable option for housing and growth. [189286]

Caroline Flint: I will shortly announce a consultation paper on eco-towns which will include a shortlist of areas that have been put forward as potential eco-towns. An appraisal of sustainability is being undertaken, of which one of the tests will be to appraise the sustainability of eco-towns.

Furthermore, at the local level, where schemes are considered as part of the local planning process, sustainability appraisal will be undertaken of the strategy as well as of options for delivering the eco-town; this will include the consideration of alternatives. The local planning authority must clearly show how it has taken the requirements of sustainability appraisal into account in developing its policy.

Finally, all eco-towns will be the subject of a planning application. It is likely that the principal planning application for an eco-town would need to be accompanied by an environmental impact assessment which would need to include an outline of the main alternatives considered.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether eco-towns will be required to conform to criteria laid down in the regional spatial strategy and local development framework. [189288]

Caroline Flint: Legislation requires that local planning authorities must determine planning applications in accordance with the statutory development plan, unless material considerations indicate otherwise. Where there are other material considerations, the development plan should be the starting point, and other material considerations should be taken into account in reaching a decision. One such consideration will be whether the plan policies are relevant and up to date.

Material considerations must be genuine planning considerations, i.e. they must be related to the development and use of land in the public interest and would include published planning policy statements such as those on housing and climate change together with any approved policy statement on eco-towns.

The development plan includes the regional spatial strategy (RSS) together with any development plan documents (DPDs) which the local authority has adopted and any "saved policies" still in effect.

Eco-Towns: Architecture

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what standards of architectural design eco-towns will have to demonstrate. [189284]

Caroline Flint: As set out in the eco-towns prospectus we have said that there must be a commitment to a high standard of design throughout the development, across all housing tenures and buildings. This includes commercial and community buildings, and extends to the quality of the streets, public realm, parks and open spaces, and should be consistent with planning policy.

We are also working with CABE, RIBA and the Prince's Foundation for the Built Environment to stimulate new architectural thinking for eco-town schemes and these organisations will be running a design competition involving the leading British and international architects and urban and landscape designers to set the standards for the 10 new eco-towns.

Eco-Towns: Carbon Emissions

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether eco-towns will be required to be carbon neutral. [189285]

Caroline Flint: As set out in the eco-towns prospectus, we have said that the whole eco-town development should reach zero carbon standards-not just homes, but schools, shops, offices and community facilities.

Eco-Towns: Public Participation

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what process of public consultation will be undertaken when determining whether to establish eco-towns. [189287]

Caroline Flint: I will shortly announce a consultation paper on eco-towns which will include a shortlist of areas that have been put forward as potential eco-towns. The consultation paper and the potential eco-town sites will be the subject of extensive public consultation. Sustainability appraisal will also be carried out and a further consultation will be undertaken on the environmental report as part of this.

Furthermore, when schemes are considered at the local level, as part of the local planning process, the community will be engaged on the strategy as well as any options for delivering the eco-town. The local planning authority must clearly show how it has taken the community's comments into account in developing its policy.

Finally, all eco-towns will be the subject of a planning application and subject to statutory forms of consultation; representations are then taken into account in the determination of the application.

Eco-Towns: Standards

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what criteria will be used to determine whether eco-towns represent the most efficient use of land. [189289]

Caroline Flint: I will shortly announce a consultation paper on eco-towns which will include a shortlist of areas that have been put forward as potential eco-towns.

Planning Policy Statements (PPSs) such as PPS 1 on the delivery of sustainable development and PPS 3 on housing, require local planning authorities to consider how all development makes the most efficient use of land. An appraisal of sustainability will be undertaken, of which one of the tests will be to appraise the use of land contained in the bids which have been and are being considered.

At the local level, additional sustainability appraisal will be undertaken where proposals are brought through the local planning system. It is also likely that the principal planning application for an eco-town would need to be accompanied by an Environmental Impact Assessment which would need to include an outline of the main alternatives considered.

Empty Property

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether public requests ordering disposal may be made against property which is (a) Crown Land and (b) owned by Regional Development Agencies. [189533]

John Healey: Part 10 of the Local Government Planning and Land Act 1980 makes provision for the disposal of public land, including the specific public request to order disposal (PROD) power. Schedule 16 of the Act lists the specific bodies to whom part 10 of the Act applies.

The bodies listed in the question are not listed in schedule 16 of the Act and therefore public requests to order disposal cannot be applied to any land owned by these bodies.

Empty Property: Surrey

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many empty homes there are in (a) Oxted, Surrey and (b) Caterham, Surrey. [188079]

Mr. Iain Wright [holding answer 21 February 2008]: The numbers of vacant dwellings by ward, indicated by council tax data provided by Tandridge district council, are tabulated as follows. The figures presented are for all vacancies at 31 March 2005, including those that have been empty for less than six months. This is the most recent information for ward level vacancies in Tandridge.

Floods: Finance

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the impact of the cost of the clean up of the floods of summer 2007 on local authority budgets. [189092]

John Healey: It is for individual local authorities to assess the impact of the cost of the clean up of the summer 2007 floods on their budgets, as the extent of that impact will depend on a range of factors specific to each authority. These factors include how they have dealt with the need to maintain adequate insurance cover, what level of reserves they maintain, and what sources of funding are available to them to cover the costs.

Central Government have made available a comprehensive funding package of up to £78 million to date to assist the affected regions in the aftermath of the floods. We took the decision to focus much of this resource on local authorities in the greatest need, including by making available up to £20 million in flood recovery grant, £14 million to help cover the costs of damage to schools and children's services, and over £16 million for repairs to the local highway with more to come as claims are assessed.

As part of this Government funding package, local authorities have also been able to claim under the Bellwin scheme for all eligible costs incurred on or in connection with the taking of immediate action to safeguard life and property or to prevent suffering or severe inconvenience.

Health and Safety Executive

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 15 January 2008, Official Report, column 788W, on the Health and Safety Executive, what estimate her Department has made of the number of homes in the country with water heaters of the kind involved in the death of Rhianna Hardie. [178625]

Mr. Iain Wright: There are no official statistics on the number of different types of hot water systems in homes. The Health and Safety Executive's advice in their 2007 safety alert is that the risk is greatest for homes where cold water cisterns are located above bedrooms. This is most likely in houses built between 1945 and 1975 and where these homes have or used to have a back boiler.

Health Hazards: Boilers

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what action the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister took in 2002 following representations from the Health and Safety Executive on the threat of scalding water leaks from water tanks, following an incident in Penzance. [183240]

Mr. Iain Wright: Following a request from ODPM officials, information was provided to us by the HSE on the circumstances leading up to the accident. This information was taken into account in our work with relevant trade and industry bodies to develop minimum standards of competence for the Building Regulations Competent Persons Schemes and in our preparations for a planned review of part G of the Building Regulations to fully consider all aspects of hot water safety.

Neither the Department nor the HSE initiated a publicity campaign in light of the house assessment that this was a tragic accident arising from a rare set of circumstances.

Housing Renewal Areas: Private Sector

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 36W, on housing renewal areas: Private sector, if she will place in the Library the names of those individuals who have been asked to undertake the review of buy to let accommodation and student accommodation in the private rented sector; what the terms of reference of the review are; and if she will make a statement. [189391]

Mr. Iain Wright: An independent policy review of the whole of the private rented sector was commissioned in January. The review is being undertaken by Julie Rugg and David Rhodes of the Centre for Housing Policy at the University of York and is due to report by the end of October 2008. The aim of the review is to improve our policy understanding of the private rented sector, looking at the barriers that exist towards ensuring it consistently offers a fit for purpose product, the role it has into the future and the actions that could be taken to influence and support that role. The press release announcing the review and the terms of reference have been deposited in the Library of the House.

Housing: Tenant Mobility

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the Written Ministerial Statement of 18 September 2006, Official Report, columns 133-4WS, on Housing Employment Mobility Services, whether her Department recouped the £1.06 million and associated costs following the termination of its contract with Scout Solutions Projects Limited to deliver mobility services for social tenants in the UK. [189408]

Mr. Iain Wright: Communities and Local Government is bound by the Lord Chancellor's pledge on the "Settlement of Government Disputes Through Alternative Dispute Resolution" where this is appropriate and is obliged if possible to seek a negotiated settlement of dispute. Following the written ministerial statement of 18 September 2006, Official Report, columns 133-4WS the Department entered negotiations with a view to settlement of the dispute with the former moveUK contractor.

A confidential settlement was achieved on 7 June 2007 with an exchange of rights and assets. The settlement negotiated by the Treasury Solicitor's Department and the Legal Directorate at Communities and Local Government was approved by HM Treasury and Counsel as an appropriate settlement representing value for money to the public purse having regard to: the chances of success; professional costs and other fees and expenses likely to be incurred; irrecoverable costs; the duration of proceedings and further delays to the delivery of public services.

Housing: Low Incomes

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps her Department has taken to ensure that social housing providers take account of the importance of companion animals to tenants. [189196]

Mr. Iain Wright: Most housing providers have a companion animal (pet) policy. However it is for individual landlords to decide if they wish to have one, and if so how to communicate that policy to their tenants.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answers of 31 January 2008, Official Report, column 583W, and 1 February 2008, Official Report, column 691W, on housing: local incomes, whether any deposit of the householder is applied to reducing (a) Part 1, (b) Part 2 or (c) Part 3 of the amount given to the household. [189239]

Mr. Iain Wright: Under current arrangements any deposit would be applied to part 3.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answers of 31 January 2008, Official Report, column 583W, and 1 February 2008, Official Report, column 691W, on housing: local incomes, what negative equity liability the householder has on the (a) Part 2 and (b) Part 3 of the loan if housing prices fall by more than (i) 15 per cent. or (ii) 17.5 per cent. of the original purchase price over the course of the loan. [189240]

Mr. Iain Wright: If the value of the property were to fall the householder would be liable for any negative equity on part 1 and 2 of the loan. This is a common allocation of risk in the mortgage market.

Housing: Prices

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which local authorities had 15 the percentile house prices that were 70 per cent. of the national level. [190709]

Mr. Iain Wright: Based on HM Land Registry house price data for April to June 2007, there were 20 local authorities that had 15th percentile house prices that were less than 70 per cent. of the national level.

The 20 local authorities with 15th percentile house prices that were less than 70 per cent. of the national level during April to June 2007 are:

Barrow-In-Furness
Blackburn with Darwen
Bolsover
Burnley
Copeland
Derwentside
Easington
Hartlepool
Hyndburn
Kingston upon Hull
Lincolnshire
Liverpool Mansfield
Middlesbrough
North East
Pendle
Sedgefield
Stoke-on-Trent
Teesdale
Wansbeck
Wear Valley.

Housing: Standards

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the number of homes that meet the decent homes standard but do not meet the thermal comfort standard. [187019]

Mr. Iain Wright: In order to meet the decent homes standard a home must provide a reasonable degree of thermal comfort as defined in "A Decent Home: definition and guidance for implementation" available at:

www.communities.gsi.gov.uk.

Local Authorities: Standards

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which local authorities she expects to include Best Value Performance Indicators (a) No. 1, (b) No. 2 and (c) No. 3 as one of their priority targets in their 2008 local area agreements. [190116]

John Healey: Best value performance indicators are being abolished with effect from 1 April 2008 and will be replaced with a single set of 198 national indicators, which was announced by the Secretary of State in October 2007. The national indicator set includes:

NI 1: Percentage of people who believe people from different backgrounds get on well together in their local area,

NI 2: Percentage of people who feel that they belong to their neighbourhood, and NI 3: Civic participation in the local area.

Local authorities are currently negotiating with their local partnerships and Government offices to agree which of the 198 indicators in the national indicator set will be included in their LAA. The negotiations will not conclude until June 2008.

Local Government

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what (a) estimate her Department has made of and (b) research her Department has conducted into the cost of (i) local authority reporting to central Government and (ii) local government inspection by external inspectors and auditors. [189519]

John Healey: A PricewaterhouseCoopers report "Mapping the Performance Landscape", commissioned by this Department and published in July 2006, estimated that the costs of reporting performance information to central Government was of the order of £2.6 million. This estimate is based on a study of four local authorities. The Department for Communities and Local Government will begin research during the 2008-09 financial year to consider the savings due to the introduction of the new performance framework.

The Department is responsible for sponsorship of the Audit Commission. The Audit Commission is the only inspectorate of local government to charge a fee element to authorities for inspection. The total inspection fee income in 2006-07 published by the Commission was around £11 million. The Department also pays grant to the Commission to underwrite the cost of its inspection activity. In 2006-07, this grant totalled almost £26 million. The Department does not hold information about the costs of inspection of local authorities by other local inspectorates.

Local Government Finance Funding Changes Independent Inquiry: Finance

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the budget for the Lyons Inquiry was. [190543]

John Healey: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave to the right hon. Member for Maidenhead on 17 April 2007, Official Report, (column 627W).

Local Government Finance: Disadvantaged

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government for which funding streams the index of multiple deprivation, or elements of it, is used as a mechanism in whole or in part to allocate central funding to local areas. [189546]

John Healey: The Index of Multiple Deprivation (IMD) has been used by Communities and Local Government to determine eligibility for the Neighbourhood Renewal Fund which was in operation between 2001 and 2008. The Department has also recently used the IMD as the basis for two of the three criteria used to determine eligibility for the Working Neighbourhoods Fund.

I am also aware that the Department for Children Schools and Families (DCSF) has used the IMD or elements of it to allocate funding for a number of its programmes; and that the Department of Health has used the IMD either as an element or to allocate funding to primary care trusts (PCTs) on the basis of the relative needs of their populations.

Local Government Finance: Empty Property

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether the re-use of empty domestic dwellings will be incentivised in the allocation mechanisms of housing and delivery grant. [189547]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government published draft allocation criteria for the Housing and Planning Delivery Grant for consultation in October 2007, which closed on 17 January. We will set out final allocation criteria in due course taking account of the views expressed in the consultation.

Markets: Planning

Ann Coffey: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment has been made of the extent to which local authorities have used Planning Policy Statement 6: Planning for Town Centres to support and develop the role of street markets in their own town centres; and if she will make a statement. [189132]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government's planning policy for town centres, Planning Policy Statement 6 (PPS6), recognises that street and covered markets (including farmers' markets) can make a valuable contribution to local choice and diversity in shopping, the vitality of town centres and to rural economies.

PPS6 asks local authorities to seek to retain and enhance their existing markets and, where appropriate, re-introduce or create new ones. They are also asked to ensure that existing markets remain attractive and competitive by investing in their improvement. It is for local authorities to decide on the level of support they give to street markets in their town centres, as appropriate to their particular area.

Roads: Repairs and Maintenance

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much was spent by Lancashire County Council to empty gullies on principal roads in 2006-07. [189876]

John Healey: Highway maintenance is one of the services supported via formula grant. Formula grant, which comprises revenue support grant, redistributed business rates and principal formula police grant, where appropriate, is an unhypothecated block grant i.e. councils are free to spend the money on any service provided they meet their statutory obligations. For this reason, and due to the method of calculating formula grant, particularly floor damping, it is not possible to say how much grant has been provided for any particular service.

In addition, Lancashire received £14.332 million of capital funding for highway maintenance in 2006-07. This funding is not ring-fenced and authorities have discretion to spend it in line with their priorities.

Taxation: Burglar Alarms

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether account is taken of security systems and burglar alarm systems by the Valuation Office Agency when revaluing a property for (a) non-domestic rates and (b) council tax. [189549]

John Healey: Security and alarm systems are taken into account when assessing a property for non-domestic rates.

Similarly, such systems should be taken into account when reviewing a banding for council tax although, in practice, the effect on value is extremely unlikely to result in a home being placed in a different band.

Thames Gateway

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 31 January 2008, Official Report, columns 589-91W, on the Thames Gateway to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar if she will list the central Government departments that are involved in the Thames Gateway. [189404]

Caroline Flint: The following Government Departments are involved in the Thames Gateway:

Communities and Local Government
Department of Health Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills
UK Trade and Investment
Department for Business Enterprise and Regulatory Reform
HM Treasury
Department for Environment, Food and Rural affairs
Department for Children, Schools and Families
Department for Work and Pensions
Department for Transport
Department for Culture Media and Sport
Home Office
Cabinet Office
Ministry of Defence
Ministry of Justice

Working Neighbourhoods Fund

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar of 31 January 2008, Official Report, column 592W, on the Working Neighbourhoods Fund, which local authorities which were in receipt of Deprived Areas Fund, but which did not receive Neighbourhood Renewal Funding, will not receive Working Neighbourhood Funding following the end of any transitional relief. [189401]

John Healey: The authorities listed were in receipt of Deprived Area Fund but did not receive Neighbourhood Renewal Funding and will not receive an allocation of funding from WNF following the end of transitional relief.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Plastics: Recycling

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what records his Department holds on (a) which local authorities collect mixed plastic for recycling and (b) what recycling method is used after collection from residents in each case. [188864]

Joan Ruddock: "Mixed plastics" is a term used within the recycling sector to refer to plastic packaging other than plastic bottles.

DEFRA does not hold records on which local authorities collect mixed plastics for recycling or what method of recycling is used after collection.

Local authorities report the tonnages they collect for recycling, which includes plastics, to WasteDataFlow. However, it is not possible to differentiate mixed plastics from other types of plastic collections in this data source.

The Waste and Resources Action Programme (WRAP) is undertaking trials with a number of technologies aimed at understanding the best ways to handle mixed plastics from an environmental, economical and technological perspective. The programme is investigating three main areas: collection, reprocessing, and end markets. Different recycling and recovery options are being considered as part of this work.

WRAP and Recoup conduct an annual survey of local authorities which gathers data on waste plastics collections. The 2008 survey will be undertaken shortly, and will include specific questions on mixed plastics.

When the data from this survey has been analysed, it should provide more information on those local authorities collecting mixed plastics.

Waste Management: Standards

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects to publish the individual results for each of the Business Resource Efficiency and Waste partners for 2005-06 and 2006-07. [189260]

Joan Ruddock: We expect the 2005-06 results from individual delivery bodies delivering the Business Resource Efficiency and Waste (BREW) programme to be published in March. We plan to publish aggregated results for 2006-07 around the same time, followed by individual delivery body results by late summer. I will arrange for copies of both sets of results to be placed in the House Library when they are available.

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what the criteria for funding agreements are with each of the Business Resource Efficiency and Waste partners for 2007-08. [189261]

Joan Ruddock: In developing the Business Resource Efficiency and Waste Programme (BREW), DEFRA has sought the views of various business and environment stakeholders including the Confederation of British Industry, the Federation of Small Businesses and the Green Alliance. With regard to planning for the year 2007-08 of the programme, these and other organisations were invited to a stakeholder event (held in May 2006) followed by a consultation on specific proposals for activity (from October to November 2006). These various dialogues helped inform the overall coverage of the programme.

In addition, DEFRA and HM Treasury have established programme criteria, which must be met before funds can be granted for activities. BREW funding:

(i) can only be spent in England (except under the circumstances outlined below);

(ii) can only be used to support measures related to business; it cannot be used to support local authorities, or organisations whose waste is treated as 'household waste' (e.g. schools), except under the circumstances outlined in the following paragraph;

(iii) must provide additional value (against a 2004/5 baseline) and not displace other sources of funding in order to meet the above conditions; and

(iv) should provide a potential benefit to those sectors paying landfill tax and where possible address those sectors most affected by landfill tax increases.

Exceptions to the conditions described above are that:

(a) BREW funding may be used to fund a programme that is located outside England or would also have benefits outside England, providing that the target of the programme is England and primary benefits are to business in England; and it would be impractical to run the programme without such external benefits occurring;

(b) BREW funding can be used to involve local authorities in a programme where such involvement provides significant benefits to business rather than the local authority.

DEFENCE

Armed Forces: Administration of Justice

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 30 January 2008, Official Report, column 364W, on armed forces: inquests, how much was spent on legal representation and advice on each coroner's case heard in which legal proceedings are complete in each year. [186703]

Note:
In some cases where inquests have completed, there may be future small residual charges made to close files.

The cases listed are those where the inquest has completed and are recorded in the year when this took place but the expenditure may have been spread over a number of previous years.

The increase in the number of cases in 2006 and 2007 reflects the increased volume of inquests held in Oxfordshire following the provision of additional resources to clear the backlog of inquests into operational deaths overseas.

Armed Forces: Housing

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his Department's plans are for accommodation disposal in each of the next three years; and how much he expects to be generated by each disposal, with reference to the answer of 16 October 2007, Official Report, columns 936-7W, on Armed Forces Housing. [162193]

Derek Twigg: The majority of Service Families Accommodation (SFA) in England and Wales is leased from Annington Homes Ltd and properties no longer required for defence purposes are returned to the company. Although no receipt accrues to the Ministry of Defence (MOD) in respect of properties returned, there are savings in rent, contributions in lieu of council tax and maintenance. The following number of SFA properties are due to be returned to AHL in this and the next three financial years:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2007-08 | 273 |
| 2008-09 | 403 |
| 2009-10 | 102 |
| 2010-11 | 1 |

Although receipts from the sale of AHL properties is a matter for AHL, the MOD has received some £48 million under its in gain-share agreement with AHL from the sale of properties by the company over the last three years. It should be noted that sales do not necessarily relate to the year the properties are released to AHL.

In Scotland and Northern Ireland, surplus SFA are sold on the open market. We currently have plans to dispose of 600 properties in Scotland and 800 in Northern Ireland over the next three years.

Receipts from house sales will depend on market conditions at the time of sale, the area and the type of property. To release any valuations we may have carried out ahead of the sale, would, in any case, be likely to influence the market and these are thus regarded as commercially confidential until the sale is complete.

Overseas, the majority of SFA are returned to the host government when no longer needed, but SFA on permanent joint operations bases are owned by the MOD. When they are no longer required, the future of these properties is determined by the MOD.

In respect of single living (barrack) accommodation (SLA), this is usually within the wire of a service establishment and the disposal normally forms part of the disposal of the wider site. Receipts cannot, therefore, be estimated specifically for SLA.

Armed Forces: Training

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will bring forward proposals to ensure that Ministry of Defence training is not provided to overseas military pilots from regimes associated with (a) repression of minorities and (b) ethnic cleansing. [187879]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Ministry of Defence provides training to other countries in accordance with defence policy and wider HMG policy objectives. The countries to which we provide training are under continuous review, and the record of a regime is one of many factors that are taken into account when deciding whether to provide pilot training. Proposals to change policy towards pilot training are brought forward, as necessary, as circumstances change.

Armoured Fighting Vehicles

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 87W, on armoured fighting vehicles, how the internal space requirement for the Panther vehicle compares with the Cheetah vehicle; and what the minimum space requirement is. [188748]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: For Panther the original Iveco vehicle has five seats, which is reduced to either four or three, depending on the specific Bowman radio installation. In the event of Panther being deployed on operations, there would be a requirement to fit a suite of force protection measures. These can be accommodated in a 'pod' at the back of the vehicle, rather than in the main crew compartment.

Cheetah has six seats, which would reduce to either five or four, depending on the specific Bowman installation. Cheetah lacks the additional equipment stowage area at the back of the vehicle which means that additional force protection equipment would have to be accommodated inside the crew compartment, potentially reducing the available crew space further.

Regarding the minimum space requirements for the protected patrol vehicle programme, for which the Cheetah vehicle was previously considered, I am withholding the information as its disclosure would, or could be likely to prejudice the capability, effectiveness or security of the armed forces.

Arms Control

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will meet representatives of Soroptimist International to discuss disarmament matters. [190195]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Ministers and officials regularly meet with a wide range of Non-Governmental Organisations to discuss disarmament issues. Any request by Soroptimist International would be considered in the usual way.

BOWMAN combat radio system

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether the Bowman radio system provides (a) secure voice communications and (b) interface with other key battlefield communications at tactical level. [187198]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Bowman radio system provides secure voice communications.

Improvements to Bowman connectivity are being addressed as part of the capability uplift which is already underway.

British Overseas Territories: Armed Forces

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how many military units raised in the Overseas Territories have served alongside or been embedded in UK units in (a) Iraq, (b) Afghanistan and (c) other theatres in the last two years; and if he will state in each case the (i) numbers, (ii) ranks and (iii) role and function of such units; [188297]

(2) how many military units raised in the Overseas Territories have served alongside or been embedded in (a) UN forces, (b) EU forces and (c) forces of other international organisations involved in military deployments in the last two years; and if he will state in each case the (i) numbers, (ii) ranks and (iii) role and function of such units. [188295]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: No military units raised in the Overseas Territories have served alongside or been embedded with either UK forces, UN forces, EU forces or forces of other international organisations on operations over the past two years; although a number of individual volunteers from the Royal Gibraltar Regiment are regularly attached to UK units serving on operations, and a total of 32 individuals up to the rank of Major have deployed in various roles to Iraq, Afghanistan and the Balkans in the last two years.

Capita

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much was paid by his Department to Capita Group plc and its subsidiaries in each financial year (a) from 2000 to 2003 and (b) since 2005-06; which contracts were awarded by his Department to Capita Group plc in each year since 2000-01 to the most recent available date; what the cost was of each contract; what penalties for default were imposed in contract provisions; what the length was of each contract; whether the contract was advertised; how many companies applied for the contract; how many were short-listed; what criteria were used for choosing a company; what provision was made for renewal without re-tender in each case; and if he will make a statement. [180701]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The information held centrally in the name of the Capita Group plc is provided in the following table. Information on contracts with subsidiary companies could be provided only at disproportionate cost. Excluded are any contracts placed on behalf of other Government Departments, joint venture/alliance contracts, contracts placed through collaborative projects such as the Typhoon/Euro fighter and those awarded by the MOD's Trading Funds.

| Financial year | Contract payments (£000) |
|---|---|
| 2000-01 | 219 |
| 2001-02 | 14 |
| 2002-03 | 0 |
| 2003-04 | 0 |
| 2004-05 | 0 |
| 2005-06 | 0 |
| 2006-07 | 19 |

One contract, currently worth approximately £21,000 has been awarded to the Capita Group since 2000-01. This is a five-year contract for the supply and support of management information software for service children's education. This contract was not awarded competitively as the source code for the software meeting the defence requirement is proprietary to the Capita Group. No provision was made for penalties, although a standard clause on default provides a remedy for any failure of the contractor to deliver or perform on time. No provision was made for contract renewal without competition. The expenditure in 2000-01 and 2000-02 represents residual payments made against a contract awarded before 2000.

Commonwealth: Armed Forces

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will provide a breakdown by rank and nationality of all Commonwealth soldiers serving in the Army. [189270]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The strength of the Commonwealth component of the Army broken down by paid rank and nationality is provided in the tables.

All figures are provisional

Notes:

1. Due to the ongoing validation of the new Joint Personnel Administration System all Army data from 1 April 2007 are provisional and subject to review.
2. The figures are for trained regular army personnel (Officers and Other Ranks) and therefore exclude Gurkhas, Full Time Reserve Service (FTRS) and Home Service Battalions of the Royal Irish Regiment.
3. All data have been rounded to the nearest 5 to limit disclosure and ensure confidentiality.
4. Numbers less than 5 have been suppressed and replaced with '*'.

Defence Equipment: Vehicles

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when he expects an order to be placed with Force Protection Inc for the additional 140 Mastiff/ Cougar vehicles. [187812]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: We have already ordered the additional Mastiff vehicles and negotiations are ongoing with the US Department of Defence and the manufacturer to agree the precise delivery schedule.

Defence: ICT

Mr. Arbuthnot: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether there have been changes in his Department's approach to information technology as a result of virtualisation; and if he will make a statement. [188635]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 25 February 2008]: The Department is aware of the potential advantages offered by virtualisation. The term virtualisation covers a broad range of technical opportunities that have been around since the 1970s and the MOD over this period has made use of these techniques.

In relation to the current growth in the virtualisation market, MOD and its commercial suppliers are considering the use of virtualisation techniques to pursue a number of benefits:

To reduce the number of servers required to host legacy and future applications;

To reduce the number of operating systems that are required to host legacy and future applications;

For Information Assurance and business continuity reasons to allow load balancing and fault tolerance capabilities;

As a way of running an application securely among other potentially less secure or resilient applications; and

To ensure users can access legacy applications in a seamless manner from modern infrastructures.

This list of examples is not exhaustive and the MOD just like any other Government or commercial enterprise will assess and exploit virtualisation as it continues to evolve.

Departmental Consultants

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much his Department spent on externally provided (a) consultancy and (b) other services in each of the last 10 years. [189602]

Derek Twigg: Summaries of MOD expenditure on external assistance, of which management consultancy is a part, are available in the Library of the House for the years 1995-96 to 2006-07. These summaries also include expenditure on certain other advisory services. Expenditure on the full range of other services which MOD procures is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. Figures for 2007-08 will be placed in the Library before the summer recess.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much was claimed in reimbursable expenses by senior civil service staff in his Department and its agencies in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [187536]

Derek Twigg: Total reimbursable expenses paid to MOD senior civil service staff between 1 February 2007 and 31 January 2008 were £540,000.

Departmental Retirement

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many staff in his Department retired on grounds of stress-related illness in each of the last three years. [187496]

Derek Twigg: Data for the number of civilian staff retiring from the Department on grounds of stress-related illness are not centrally held.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what proportion of his Department's translation and interpreting work is outsourced through framework agreements with commercial providers; and if he will make a statement. [189192]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 27 February 2008]: No translation or interpreting work is currently outsourced by the Ministry of Defence Language Service through framework agreements with commercial providers. Equivalent information for any work outsourced by other parts of the Department could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Vehicles

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 7 February 2008, Official Report, column 1492W, on departmental vehicles, how many white fleet vehicles his Department and its agencies leased in each year since 2001. [187804]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The number of white fleet vehicles leased by the Department in each year since 2001, (i.e. non-operational vehicles in England, Scotland and Wales), cannot be broken down into yearly totals, however the following 'snapshots' are available.

| Date, as at: | Number of vehicles leased |
|---|---|
| 1 September 2001 | 8,063 |
| 1 September 2002 | 8,910 |
| 31 March 2003 | 12,754 |
| 31 March 2004 | 13,723 |
| 31 March 2005 | 14,211 |
| 31 March 2006 | 14,599 |
| 31 March 2007 | 15,009 |
| 31 December 2007 | 15,138 |

Details of the number of white fleet vehicles leased by the MOD since 2001 in overseas theatres-by the MOD police, DSTL and Trading Funds-are not held centrally and therefore could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Future Rapid Effect System

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether he has made any changes to the number of units required for the Future Rapid Effect System. [189273]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Future Rapid Effect System (FRES) is currently in its assessment phase; work on detailed requirements is continuing, and the fleet requirements for each FRES family will not be confirmed until the main investment decisions are taken.

Military Aircraft: Helicopters

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many military helicopters were leased commercially by his Department in each year since 1997; what types of helicopters were leased; and what the cost of leasing was in each year. [183082]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The numbers of helicopters leased by the Department in each year since 1997 and their associated costs are shown in the following table.

| Helicopter type | 1997-98 | 1998-99 | 1999-2000 | 2000-01 | 2001-02 | 2002-03 | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 | 2007-08 |

[1] No data available.

In addition, during December 2007, MI-8 helicopter flying hours were commercially leased to help deliver mail and parcels to troops in Afghanistan. This cost has been incorporated into the 2007-08 total.

Leasing arrangements do not all follow the same pattern with some forming part of Multi-Activity Contracts. This information is not held centrally and in compiling this answer, it has been identified that information was omitted from my reply to the hon. Member for Woodspring (Dr. Fox) on 6 December 2007, Official Report, column 1407W. The costs for financial years 2004-05, 2005-06; 2006-07 and 2007-08 are £48 million, £49 million, £50 million and £51 million respectively.

Navy

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many ships there are in the Royal Navy. [189460]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Royal Navy currently has 75 surface ships of the following types: Landing Platform Dock, Landing Platform Helicopter, Aircraft Carriers, Destroyers, Frigates, Mine Countermeasures ships, River Class Offshore Patrol Vessels, Inshore Patrol Craft and Survey Ships. In addition, the Royal Navy has 13 submarines (ballistic and fleet).

Navy: Manpower

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many admirals there are in the Royal Navy. [189461]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: There are two admirals, six vice admirals and 25 rear admirals currently serving in the Royal Navy. These numbers include admirals in Ministry Defence tri-service appointments.

Radar

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) whether funds will be made available for a third radar station at Staxton Wold if the new T102 radar is found to mitigate the effects of wind turbines; [186996]

(2) what his policy is on the use of the new T102 air defence radar near onshore and offshore wind turbines; and what assessment he has made of the effect of wind farms on the T102 radar system. [186997]

Derek Twigg: The T102 radar is a non-deployable air defence radar and will continue the role currently undertaken by the T93 radar contributing to the United Kingdom Air Surveillance and Control System. It is scheduled to replace the two T93 radars currently in operation at the Remote Radar Head (RRH) Trimingham and RRH Brizlee Wood with two new T102 radars during 2008. On current plans, we do not propose to procure a third T102 radar as we are scheduled to replace the T93 radar installed at Staxton Wold with a T101 transferred from another unit and this replacement radar will remain in service until 2017.

Although it is hoped that the T102 radar will be able to mitigate some of the adverse effects of wind turbines we have, as yet, made no assessment of the effect of wind farms on the system. Once the radars are delivered, an operational assessment will be undertaken. This will include an assessment of the effect on the radar returns of those existing wind turbine developments that fall within the radar coverage area.

If the mitigation provided by the T102 is not enough, we are ready to look with other stakeholders (e.g. DBERR and individual wind farm developers) at other possibilities to ensure we have the radar coverage needed in the air space above wind turbines.

Royal Military Academy: Foreigners

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what criteria are used to decide which nationalities of foreign citizens may be trained at RMA Sandhurst. [189441]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Places at RMA Sandhurst are allocated in accordance with defence policy and wider Government conflict prevention objectives.

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many foreign citizens were trained at RMA Sandhurst since 1997; and of what nationalities. [189444]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: 800 students from 79 countries have trained at RMA Sandhurst since 1997. Their nationalities are set out in the following table:

UN Resolutions

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what steps the Government have taken in support of implementation of UN Security Council Resolution 1325. [190194]

Des Browne: The UK is one of only six countries to have drawn up a National Action Plan for the implementation of UNSCR 1325. This outlines how the UK implements the resolution in a wide range of areas. The main focus for the Ministry of Defence is to ensure that female personnel are deployed in appropriate numbers on operations, and that the provisions of UNSCR1325 are reflected in operational planning, doctrine and training.

The Department has conducted an audit of existing training which concluded that British military personnel generally receive sufficient training to ensure that they are compliant with the intent of the resolution. Following the recommendations of the audit, we have also ensured that the resolution is covered in relevant doctrine, and that pre-deployment training includes relevant briefings on the role/relevance of gender to the specific society living in the operational area.

More information on the Government's efforts to implement UNSCR 1325 is available on the FCO website:

Weapons

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans he has to purchase replacement barrels for the GPMG and 0.5 calibre M2 heavy machine gun. [187482]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 21 February 2008]: The current in-service GPMG and 0.5 cal heavy machine gun (quick change barrel) (HMG (QCB)) is designed to enable their barrels to be changed easily. Spare barrels are purchased with all new weapons and, in addition, replacement barrels (and other consumable spares) are routinely purchased as part of ordinary provisioning activity.

The 0.5 cal M2 heavy machine gun underwent a significant modification programme in 1999 to incorporate a new quick change barrel and become the current in-service 0.5 cal HMG (QCB). Modified M2s currently account for around 40 per cent. of the HMG (QCB) fleet, the remainder being new buys made to HMG (QCB) specifications. All replacement barrels for HMGs are therefore QCBs, not the original M2 barrels.

Bombs

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make it his policy to (a) participate in future Oslo Process conferences, (b) sign up to a treaty to prohibit the use, production and transfer of cluster munitions and (c) declare a moratorium on the use, production and transfer of cluster munitions until a treaty is in place; and if he will make a statement. [189448]

Dr. Howells: We look forward to taking part in the next Oslo Process conference in Dublin in May when negotiations on a treaty are due to conclude. We have been fully committed to the Oslo Process from the start. We were among the original 46 nations that supported the Oslo Declaration in February 2007, which began this process to conclude a legally binding instrument to prohibit those cluster munitions that cause unacceptable harm to civilians in 2008. We are pleased to have associated ourselves with the Wellington Declaration (22 February 2008) that brings us a step closer to achieving this aim.

We and our EU partners also want the UN Convention on Certain Conventional Weapons (CCW) to adopt a legally binding instrument on cluster munitions as soon as possible. This would ensure that our humanitarian objective is fully achieved as the CCW includes the main users and producers of these weapons who have remained outside the Oslo Process.

In March 2007 my right hon. Friend the Defence Secretary announced the withdrawal of the UK's basic cluster munitions (systems that have neither target discrimination capability, nor an in-built self-destruct mechanism). The Government believe withdrawing a weapon, as we did, is more sustainable than a moratorium because the weapons are clearly put beyond use. We cannot exclude the use of the cluster munitions that we retained in certain circumstances.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many of his Department's civil servants were (a) suspended and (b) dismissed for accessing (i) obscene and (ii) other prohibited material on work computers in each of the last five years. [188785]

Dr. Howells: No official has been dismissed from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) in the last five years for accessing obscene or other prohibited material on work computers.

Guidance is circulated to staff on a regular basis on the use of work computers. This includes a reminder that failure to comply with the guidance may result in disciplinary action under the FCO's Misconduct Procedure.

Departmental Information Officers

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many (a) press and (b) communications officers his Department employed in each of the last 10 years. [182520]

Meg Munn: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) employed 36 press officers in the 2006-07 financial year, 30 in 2005-06, 26 plus one part-time officer in 2004-05 and 41 in 2003-04. There are no records for the number of press officers pre-2003. The FCO does not have a "communications officer" grade.

The Central Office of Information publishes the "White Book" twice a year, which contains listings of FCO and other Government Department press officers.

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much his Department paid in bonuses to press and communication officers in each of the last 10 years; and what the (a) highest and (b) lowest such bonus was in each of those years. [182718]

Meg Munn: Press officers' bonuses totalled £4,320 for the 2006-07 financial year and £4,900 for the 2005-06 financial year. The highest and lowest bonuses were £750 and £280 for 2006-07 and £600 and £300 for 2005-06. No bonuses were paid in 2004-05 or 2003-04. There are no records for bonus payments pre-2003.

Bonuses recognise a well-performed one-off task or exercise, for example exceptional achievement outside the job specification or exemplary meeting of an objective.

Departmental Internet

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 28 January 2008, Official Report, column 52W, on departmental internet, where the locally-engaged commercial officer was engaged. [189355]

Meg Munn: The locally engaged commercial officer referred to in the answer I gave to the hon. Member on 28 January 2008, Official Report, column 52W was engaged by our embassy in Santiago.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many (a) staff and (b) full-time equivalent staff under 18 years of age are employed by his Department. [189080]

Meg Munn: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office currently employs three civil servants who are under 18 years of age. All are full-time employees.

Departmental Retirement

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many staff in his Department retired on grounds of stress-related illness in each of the last three years. [187505]

Meg Munn: As there have been fewer than five people who have taken ill health retirement due to stress-related illness we are unable to provide the information requested by the hon. Member on grounds of confidentiality.

Falkland Islands

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with the Falkland Islands (a) Governor and (b) Government on South Georgia, South Orkney, South Sandwich and other territories in the South Atlantic. [190905]

Dr. Howells: The Governor of the Falkland Islands is also the Commissioner for South Georgia and South Sandwich Islands, but the two positions are separate and distinct. He has no responsibility for any of the other Overseas Territories in the south Atlantic, nor South Orkney, which is administered as part of the British Antarctic Territory. The Falkland Islands government has no responsibilities in relation to South Georgia, the South Sandwich Islands, South Orkney or any other territories in the south Atlantic.

The Governor/Commissioner maintains a regular dialogue with Foreign and Commonwealth Office officials to ensure that the priorities set out in the 1999 White Paper on the Overseas Territories are being met.

Falkland Islands: Oil

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the UK plans to support the secure development of oil and gas exploration facilities in the Falkland Islands waters. [190318]

Dr. Howells [holding answer 28 February 2008]: As my right hon. Friend the then Minister for Europe (Mr. Hoon) stated in his written answer to my hon. Friend on 5 July 2006, Official Report, column 1157W, the Government will play a role in supporting the secure development of oil and gas exploration facilities in the Falkland Islands territorial sea and continental shelf. The Government are responsible for the external security and defence of the Falkland Islands. The provision of routine security and policing of oil rigs is a matter for the Falkland Islands government and the oil exploration companies.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions the Government have held with (a) the Falkland Islands Government and (b) the Argentine Government on exploration for oil and gas in Falkland Islands waters. [190320]

Dr. Howells [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The Government hold regular discussions with the Falkland Islands Government on issues including the exploration for oil and gas in Falkland Islands waters. Most recently, these have included meetings between the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's (FCO) Director General for Defence and Intelligence and other FCO officials with representatives of the Falkland Islands Government in January and February 2008.

There have been no discussions, with the Argentine Government, on the exploration for oil and gas in Falkland Islands waters since the South West Atlantic Hydro Carbons Commission ceased to meet in July 2000. On 27 March 2007, the Argentine Government announced its repudiation of the 1995 Joint Declaration on hydrocarbon exploration in the special co-operation area. We regret the Argentine decision, which makes future co-operation in this area more difficult. But we remain committed to promoting practical cooperation with Argentina in the South Atlantic and on broader international issues.

Falkland Islands: Politics and Government

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with representatives of the Falkland Islands about constitutional reform there. [190906]

Dr. Howells: Officials from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office have held two rounds of talks in Stanley with the Select Committee on the Constitution, of which all are Falkland Island councillors. The first round was held in December 2007 and the second in February 2008. The discussions are progressing well.

Israel: Human Rights

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 20 February 2008, Official Report, columns 709-10W, on Israel: human rights, whether the human rights abuses referred to breach the human rights provisions of any EU trade agreements. [189407]

Dr. Howells: The European Commission does not consider that Israel's actions are in breach of the human rights provisions of any EU trade agreements.

Dialogue between the parties continues to be the best hope of a peaceful and secure future for both Israel and the Palestinians. We will continue to raise our concerns about human rights issues with Israel and the Palestinian Authority both bilaterally and with EU partners. The EU's relationship with Israel provides the framework for free and frank discussion of issues of concern, including human rights.

Oslo Process Conference

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many UK representatives are attending the Oslo Process conference in New Zealand from 18 to 22 February 2008; and if he will make a statement. [189449]

Dr. Howells: Eleven UK representatives were accredited. Five were officials based at our high commission in Wellington, of whom three actually attended conference events. Four officials travelled from the UK—two from the Ministry of Defence, one from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and one from the Department for International Development. Two officials from the UK Permanent Representation to the Conference on Disarmament in Geneva attended the conference, including the head of delegation, ambassador John Duncan.

Simon Mann

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the impact on relations between Equatorial Guinea and the United Kingdom of the abduction and imprisonment of Simon Mann by that country. [190353]

Dr. Howells [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The UK has limited bilateral contact with Equatorial Guinea. The removal of Simon Mann to that country has increased our contact with Equatorial Guinean authorities, as we have sought consular access to Mr. Mann and made representations as to his welfare.

Sudan: China

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what progress has been made in discussions with his Chinese counterpart on the (a) political and (b) humanitarian situation in Darfur. [187790]

Meg Munn: My right hon. Friend the Prime Minister agreed with Chinese Premier Wen, when they met in Beijing in January, that they would work together to advance both political talks and deployment of the UN-African Union peacekeeping force for Darfur. Since then my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister has discussed the issues further with Premier Wen and Chinese State Councillor Tang, and my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary with the Chinese Foreign Minister Yang in advance of his own visit to China on 27 February.

My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for International Development, my noble Friend the Minister of State for the UN, Africa and Asia, the right hon. Lord Malloch-Brown, and other ministerial colleagues and officials have also raised these points with the Chinese Special Envoy for Africa during the Envoy's visit last week to London, and in particular have encouraged him to urge restraint on all sides during his forthcoming talks in Khartoum and N'Djamena.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Iraq: Documents

Lynne Jones: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster if he will publish the detailed comments passed on by Ann Taylor to John Scarlett on the draft dossier on Iraq on 19 September 2002 which were referred to in evidence to the Hutton inquiry (ISC/3/0003). [178800]

Edward Miliband: The Cabinet Office has no record of any written comments passed on by Ann Taylor to John Scarlett on the draft dossier. John Scarlett held a meeting with Ann Taylor on 19 September 2002 to brief her about the contents of the draft dossier. This briefing was given to her in her capacity as Chair of the Intelligence and Security Committee.

Refuges: Finance

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what steps his Department is taking to support the work of women's refuges and crisis centres in (a) Skelmersdale and (b) in England. [189736]

Mr. Iain Wright: I have been asked to reply.

There is a range of support for victims of domestic violence. Some victims will be accommodated in refuges, but sanctuary schemes and mainstream local authority accommodation may be an option for others, while some victims will pursue independent solutions with help and advice from support schemes as necessary. In 2006-07, over £61 million of Supporting People funding was used to provide housing related support for victims of domestic violence in England. Services are commissioned by top-tier local authorities to meet local needs. As such Government collect no data on the level of support in Skelmersdale itself. However, our records indicate that in 2006-07 Lancashire county council spent over £1.2 million to provide housing related support for victims of domestic violence.

Special Adviser Legal Expenses

Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster pursuant to the answer of 14 January 2007, Official Report, columns 911-2W and the letter of 18 December 2007 from the Cabinet Secretary to the Chairman of the Public Administration Select Committee, what contribution the Labour Party made towards legal expenses incurred in relation to special advisers. [180310]

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster pursuant to the answer of 10 January 2008, Official Report, columns 755-6W, on honours: criminal investigation, and with reference to the letter of 18 December 2007 from the Cabinet Secretary to the Chairman of the Public Administration Committee, what the financial contribution was from the Labour Party to the costs of external legal advice for special advisers. [181338]

Edward Miliband: The Labour Party contribution towards the cost of legal expenses incurred by Government in relation to special advisers is £85,380.89.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Actis

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how the Government calculated the value of the 60 per cent. stake in Actis prior to its sale in 2004; and if he will make a statement. [189574]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: DFID and an Independent Committee of the CDC Board commissioned KPMG, Corporate Finance Consultants, to undertake an objective valuation of the whole business and then to advise on the appropriate value of the 60 per cent. ownership interest. The valuation methodology was comprehensive and based on standard practice.

The valuation advice was reviewed and accepted by the Independent Committee and verified by DFID's independent financial adviser, Campbell Lutyens and Co Ltd.

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much was spent on (a) internal and (b) external (i) advisers and (ii) consultants for services in relation to the sale of Actis; and if he will make a statement. [189575]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: DFID spent £14,651 on internal advisers and £2,708,362 on consultants in relation to the establishment and sale of Actis. However, part of this amount was spent on consultants who worked on the overall reorganisation of CDC which included, but went beyond the establishment of, the Actis Partnership. We are not able to disaggregate those costs that relate only to the establishment and sale of the Actis Partnership.

The restructuring was a complex process that required expert advice on a range of issues. It is entirely normal for Government Departments to seek and use outside expertise when dealing with these issues.

Afghanistan: Drugs

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what advice his Department is providing to the Government of Afghanistan on the provision of alternative livelihoods to those within the drugs economy. [190444]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: In February 2008, DFID and the World Bank launched a report entitled Afghanistan-Economic Incentives and Development Initiatives to Reduce Opium Production. Following wide consultation, including with a number of Afghan ministries, the report identifies areas for investment which will progressively reduce over time Afghanistan's dependence on opium. The recommendations in the report are addressed to both the Government of Afghanistan and the international community.

The report recommends four entry points for shifting incentives away from drugs towards legal livelihoods:

(i) increasing investment in integrated agricultural support programmes, irrigation and livestock;

(ii) supporting rural enterprise and job creation;

(iii) expanding rural infrastructure programmes particularly roads and water; and

(iv) strengthening village and district level governance bodies.

A copy of the report will be placed in the Library of the House.

Afghanistan: Education

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of the number of (a) schools, (b) teachers and (c) pupils in Afghanistan, in the last two years, broken down by state. [188198]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Data are not currently available in the time frame requested. However, we estimate that there are currently around 5.4 million children now in school in Afghanistan, over a third of them girls. This is up from an estimated one million children in 2001, of whom very few were girls, who were officially denied access to education under the Taliban. 27 per cent. of girls and 44 per cent. of boys in rural areas now attend school, and 51 per cent. of girls and 55 per cent. of boys in urban areas now attend school.

Current Government of Afghanistan figures estimate that there are currently 8,000 useable schools in Afghanistan and between 30,000 and 40,000 students complete high school every year, with one third going on to further education.

The Ministry of Education in Afghanistan has published its National Education Strategic plan for Afghanistan 2006-10. A copy has been placed in the Library for further information.

Afghanistan: Health Services

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of the number of (a) health care facilities, (b) doctors and (c) people treated in Afghanistan, in each of the last two years, broken down by province. [188199]

Departmental Property

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what property has been lost or stolen from his Department since 1997; and what the cost of replacement was. [187469]

Gillian Merron: Central records are held by DFID for a maximum of seven years before destruction. Our central records show property lost or stolen since calendar year 2001 as follows. Value shown is the amount recorded in the losses register. Replacement values are not recorded centrally; as to do so would incur disproportionate costs.

| | Lost | Stolen | Total No. | Total value (£) |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Mobile/ Conference/ Satellite Phones | 10 | 19 | 29 | 3,302.92 |

Departmental Travel: Eurostar

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development (1) how much his Department spent on (a) first and (b) other class travel by Eurostar in the last 12 months for which figures are available; [187746]

(2) how much his Department and its agencies spent on first class travel in the last 12 months for which figures are available, broken down by staff grade. [187664]

Gillian Merron: DFID's expenditure on Eurostar for the period April 2006 to March 2007 was £84,960 for first class travel and £40,163 for other class travel.

DFID's total expenditure on first class travel for the period April 2006 to March 2007 was £322,617. Travel data disaggregated by staff grade is not routinely maintained and could not be produced without incurring disproportionate cost. The Department has no agencies.

All travel is undertaken in compliance with DFID rules set out in the Staff Handbook.

Infant Mortality

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what progress his Department has made towards meeting Millennium Development Goal 4 on reducing child mortality. [188031]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The latest assessment of progress towards Millennium Development Goal (MDG) 4 is included in the annual "State of the World's Children Report" by the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) published in January 2008. Overall in 2006, global child deaths reached a record low of 9.7 million, down from 13 million in 1990. The report showed that solid progress has been made in a number of countries such as Ethiopia, Malawi, Mozambique, Namibia, Niger, Rwanda and Tanzania.

The report also highlighted that a concentrated push is required to accelerate progress in West Africa and parts of Asia to cut child deaths. MDG 4 is inextricably linked to MDG 5 (to improve maternal health) as 40 per cent. of children under the age of five are dying within a few days of birth. This is why the Prime Minister has called for 2008 to be a year of action towards meeting the MDGs especially those concerned with child mortality (MDG 4) and maternal health (MDG 5), which remain the most off-track.

Jamaica: Sugar

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment he has made of the distribution of funds committed in support of the transition of the Jamaican sugar industry in the Accompanying Measures for Sugar Protocol countries as part of the reform of the EU sugar regime. [189445]

Mr. Thomas: To access their allocation under the Accompanying Measures for Sugar Protocol countries (AMSP), each eligible country had to submit a National Action Plan (NAP) showing how they intend to spend the money. The focus of the Government of Jamaica's (GoJ) NAP is to improve the competitiveness of the sugar cane industry through greater private sector involvement and to develop sustainable alternative economic activities for rural farmers who are not able to stay in the industry. Given the increased competition that Jamaican sugar now faces in the world market and the opportunity that this increased competition brings, the GoJ approach appears to be along the right lines. The mechanism for delivery of the funds to the GoJ is through direct budget support, backed by a wide range of macroeconomic targets.

Both DFID Caribbean and the EC delegation in Jamaica will continue to monitor the implementation and effect of the AMSP on the various aspects of the Jamaican economy. However, since 2007 represents the first year of allocation to the GoJ under the AMSP, it is not envisaged that a full assessment will be undertaken until late 2009. This assessment will be lead by the EC delegation in Jamaica.

Kosovo: Higher Education

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of the number of students enrolled in tertiary education in Kosovo, broken down by sex; and if he will make a statement. [190000]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The Second Millennium Development Goals Report for Kosovo states that in 2004-05 there were 28,935 students in tertiary education, of whom 46 per cent. were female.

Kosovo: HIV Infection

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of the prevalence of (a) HIV/AIDS and (b) tuberculosis in Kosovo; and if he will make a statement. [190002]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: While health data in Kosovo are weak, HIV prevalence is widely estimated to be low. Despite a number of risk factors which could increase HIV infection rates, the UN considers Kosovo to be on track to meet the MDG target on HIV/AIDS.

TB incidence in Kosovo averages 48 new cases per 100,000. This is slightly higher than neighbouring countries, reflecting overall lower average health outcomes in Kosovo.

Kosovo: Income

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of Kosovo's (a) gross national income and (b) average earnings per head of population in the latest period for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [190004]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The Statistics Office of Kosovo and the International Monetary Fund estimate that gross domestic product (GDP) per capita for 2006 is €1,117. There are no published estimates of gross national income (GNI), but gross national disposable income (GNDI) per capita has been estimated at €1,268. According to the Statistics Office of Kosovo, the average income earner received €2,032 in 2005.

The Department for International Development is working with the Government of Kosovo and other donors to promote a strategic approach to poverty reduction with a focus on economic growth.

Kosovo: Infant Mortality

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of the levels of (a) infant and (b) maternal mortality in Kosovo; and if he will make a statement. [190001]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Kosovo has yet to establish reliable health statistics and the data currently available are limited and of poor quality.

The most reliable estimate of infant mortality currently available is a 2003 survey which showed 35 to 49 deaths per thousand live births. The number of officially registered maternal deaths gives an average rate of 12.6 per 100,000 births for the period 2000-05.

The Department for International Development is working with other donors to improve the quality of health care delivered by municipal governments. We are also supporting the government of Kosovo to improve its statistics systems.

Kosovo: Poverty

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of the level of poverty in Kosovo; and if he will make a statement. [189997]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Based on national data, the World Bank estimates that 45 per cent. of the Kosovo population live beneath the national poverty line. Of these, 15 per cent. are classed as extremely poor. This makes Kosovo the poorest country in the Balkans.

The Department for International Development is working with the Government of Kosovo and other donors to promote a strategic approach to poverty reduction with a focus on economic growth.

Kosovo: Unemployment

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of levels of (a) youth, (b) female and (c) total unemployment in Kosovo; and if he will make a statement. [189998]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Unemployment in Kosovo is among the highest in the world. National statistics place unemployment among people aged 15 to 24 at 70 per cent., unemployment of women at 60 per cent., and total unemployment at 41 per cent.

The Department for International Development is currently working with key donor partners to assist the government of Kosovo in formulating a strategy for economic growth in Kosovo.

UN Convention Against Corruption

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development whether the UK has implemented the UN Convention against Corruption. [190873]

Mr. Thomas: The UK ratified the UN Convention against Corruption (UNCAC) on 9 February 2008.

TREASURY

Taxation: Gambling

Paul Rowen: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer which gambling products are subject to more than one ad valorem tax. [190437]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave on 5 February 2008, Official Report, column 1059W to the hon. Member for Birmingham, Yardley (John Hemming).

WORK AND PENSIONS

Income Support: Pensioners

Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners in Nottingham North constituency received assistance under the minimum income guarantee in the most recent period for which figures are available. [187296]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: In Nottingham North, 4,760 households were in receipt of the pension credit guarantee credit as at August 2007—of which 1,910 households were in receipt of the guarantee credit only and 2,850 households were in receipt of both the guarantee credit and savings credit.

Notes:

1. The figures provided are early estimates. The preferred data source for figures supplied by DWP is the Work and Pensions Longitudinal Study (WPLS). However, the figure provided is the latest available figure, which is taken from the GMS scan at 31 August 2007. These are adjusted using the historical relationship between WPLS and GMS data to give an estimate of the final WPLS figure.

2. We have taken the minimum income guarantee to mean the pension credit guarantee credit.

3. Case loads are rounded to the nearest 10.

4. Households are those people who claim pension credit either for themselves only or on behalf of a household.

Low Incomes

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the cost of water bills as a proportion of incomes of less than (a) 30 per cent., (b) 40 per cent., (c) 50 per cent. and (d) 60 per cent. of the median in each year since 1997. [185864]

Angela Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 29 February 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your recent question asking the Secretary of State for Work & Pensions what estimate he has made of the cost of water bills as a proportion of incomes of less than (a) 30 per cent, (b) 40 per cent, (c) 50 per cent, and (d) 60 per cent of the median average in each year since 1997. I am replying in her absence. (185864).

The most common and internationally recognised threshold to measure poverty is income below 60 per cent of median. The sample size for the number of households with an income below 30 per cent of median is too small to yield reliable results. In addition presenting information for households with an income of 40 or 50 per cent of median income can be misleading. One reason for this is that households stating the lowest incomes may not actually have the lowest living standards. Many households who report very low incomes appear to have high spending equivalent to households higher in the income distribution.

The table provided shows water bill expenditure as a percentage of unequivalised disposable income for households that have income of 40, 50 and 60 per cent below median income. Due to the issue of small sample size, an average for the period 2000/01 to 2002/03 and 2003/04 to 2005/06 has been provided. Data for 1997/98 to 1999/00 are not readily available.

National Carers Strategy

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when the review of the National Carers Strategy will be completed. [188978]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: I have been asked to reply.

The Department is currently drafting the revised strategy following an extensive regional and national consultation process involving carers and representative organisations. The Department plans to publish the new strategy in late spring 2008.

National Insurance: Fraud

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what plans he has to reduce national insurance number fraud. [184800]

Mr. Plaskitt: Jobcentre Plus already has a robust adult national insurance number (NINO) allocation process which includes thorough face-to-face interviews with applicants, and the use of specialist document examination tools for verification of identity documents.

This robust process has resulted in 1,020 refusals during 2006-2007 due to suspect identity documentation and led to 364 prosecutions. A further 12,602 refusals between April 2006 and November 2007 were made on the basis of failing to provide sufficient evidence of identity. An additional 8,643 applications have been refused between July 2006 and November 2007, on the basis of failing to provide proof of the right to work.

We are continually looking to strengthen our checks on the identity of individuals and we will be taking full advantage of the opportunities from biometric development and other cross-government initiatives as they become available.

New Deal Schemes

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether he plans to amend the requirement that participants in the proposed flexible New Deal complete four weeks of full-time activity; and if he will make a statement. [176855]

Mr. Timms: Flexible New Deal providers will provide programmes of support that address individuals' needs which may include periods of full-time activity to help customers get and sustain work. The expectation remains that no customer who completes 12 months on the flexible New Deal could have done so without undertaking an appropriate period of full-time activity. The Government will work with providers on the best way to include this in flexible New Deal contracts.

Offices: Pension Service

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what plans his Department has to co-locate the Pension Service and the Disability and Carers Service staff in the same offices. [187709]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: There are no current plans in place to change the locations of staff. Some staff are already co-located.

Pension Credit

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the North East and (d) the UK received pension credit in each year since its inception. [186670]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The information is in the following table.

In Northern Ireland Pension Credit administration is a matter for the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland.

The number of households receiving pension credit 2003-2007

| | Jarrow Constituency | South Tyneside Local Authority | North East Government Office Region | Great Britain |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| November 2003 | 4,640 | 9,060 | 124,280 | 2,084,700 |
| May 2004 | 5,460 | 10,580 | 147,570 | 2,490,760 |
| May 2005 | 5,800 | 11,290 | 156,680 | 2,682,730 |
| May 2006 | 5,870 | 11,350 | 157,430 | 2,717,390 |
| May 2007 | 5,900 | 11,320 | 157,440 | 2,733,500 |

Notes:

1. The number of households in receipt are rounded to the nearest 10.
2. Pension Credit was introduced in October 2003 so data for 2003 is as at November.
3. Household recipients are those people who claim pension credit either for themselves only or on behalf of a household.

Pension Service: Disability and Carer's Service

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will place a copy of the merger plan for the Pension Service and the Disability and Carer's Service in the Library. [187710]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The business plan for the new Pension, Disability and Carers Service Agency will be published ready for its launch on 1 April 2008, and this will contain information about how the merger will be taken forward from that date.

Pension, Disability and Carers Service Agency

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what the evidential basis is for the new Pension, Disability and Carers Service Agency providing a more effective service; [188775]

(2) what account was taken of the proportion of the customers of the Disability and Carers Service who are now also customers of the Pension Service in deciding to establish the new Pension, Disability and Carers Service Agency. [188776]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 25 February 2008]: The decision to create the new agency took into account evidence from the customers of the currently separate Disability and Carers Service and The Pension Service. Customers say that the most difficult problems they face are when they need to deal with more than one part of the Department for Work and Pensions, and that these overlaps occur most often when benefits for disabled people and carers are involved. The decision also reflects work undertaken by the two agencies—for example in how we serve carers, how we provide a face-to-face service where we need to—which concluded that the existence of two agencies created barriers to customer service that had to be removed. The new agency will also create efficiencies through merging the top teams and, over time, the support functions of the existing agencies, which will allow proportionately more resource to be redirected to front-line customer service.

Currently 53 per cent. of Disability and Carers Service customers are over pension age and are customers of both agencies. Demographic changes mean that this overlap will increase over time. On current estimates, by 2015, we can expect a 40 per cent. increase in the number of disability living allowance recipients who are pensioners. The increasing shared customer base was a principal factor in the decision to establish the new agency.

Pensioners: Poverty

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent estimate he has made of levels of pensioner poverty; and what steps he is taking to improve the financial prospects of pensioners in Essex. [185049]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Since 1997 over one million pensioners have been lifted out of poverty (measured by 60 per cent. of relative income after housing costs). Pensioners are now no more likely to be in poverty than the population as a whole.

There are a range of measures to improve pensioner incomes, such as minimum income guarantee and its successor pension credit, winter fuel payments, free TV licences for those aged 75 and over, and above inflation increases in the basic state pension.

Specific information regarding low income for the United Kingdom is available in 'Households Below Average Income 1994-95 to 2005-06 (revised)'. The latest information available shows that in 2005-06, 17 per cent. of pensioners were living in households with below 60 per cent. of median income (after housing costs). This equates to 1.8 million pensioners.

We support future pensioners in building up their retirement incomes. We have reformed the state pension to make it simpler, fairer and more generous, ending some of the historical inequalities in entitlement, especially for women. Our reforms will ensure that the state pension will continue to provide a credible foundation for additional pension saving.

The Pensions Bill includes our proposal to automatically enrol eligible workers into a workplace pension scheme or a new savings system of personal accounts, which will help people on lower incomes to build up their own pension pot to provide a private pension income to supplement that received from the state.

Pensioners: Stockton-on-Tees

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners in Stockton South constituency received assistance under the minimum income guarantee in the most recent period for which figures are available. [189333]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: In Stockton South 3,040 households were in receipt of the pension credit guarantee credit as at August 2007—of which 1,070 households were in receipt of the guarantee credit only and 1,970 households were in receipt of both the guarantee credit and savings credit in Stockton South.

Notes:

1. The figures provided are early estimates. The preferred data source for figures supplied by DWP is the work and pensions longitudinal study (WPLS). However, the figure provided is the latest available figure, which is taken from the QMS scan at 31 August 2007. These are adjusted using the historical relationship between WPLS and QMS data to give an estimate of the final WPLS figure.

2. We have taken the minimum income guarantee to mean the pension credit guarantee credit.

3. Caseloads are rounded to the nearest 10.

4. Households are those people who claim pension credit either or themselves only or on behalf of a household.

Pensions

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps his Department is taking to make pensions provision to meet demand over the next 20 years. [185683]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Our White Paper Security in Retirement: towards a new pensions system set out an integrated package of reforms designed to meet long-term pension challenges and demand.

The first part of this package was implemented by the Pensions Act 2007 which addresses the historic inequalities in entitlement, especially for women; and provides for a gradual increase in state pension age to ensure the system is sustainable in the face of demographic change. Together, the measures ensure there is a solid foundation upon which people can plan for their retirement.

Building on these reforms, the current Pensions Bill will extend the benefits of a workplace pension across the working age population through the introduction of auto-enrolment into a qualifying pension and the introduction of simple, low-cost, personal accounts for those without access to a good quality workplace pension. The Bill will simplify pensions and enable more individuals to take responsibility for saving for their own retirement.

Colin Challen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of pensioners who are eligible to claim pensions credit but do not do so. [189560]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: Estimates of take-up rates and the number of eligible pensioners not claiming pension credit are available in the DWP publication series entitled 'Income Related Benefits Estimates of Take-up'. Copies of the latest publication, plus past reports, can be found in the Library.

Unemployment

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport was formed on 29 May 2002. Figures between that date and the beginning of parliamentary session 2002-03 are not available.

The requested information from the beginning of session 2002-03 is contained in the following table:

| | Named-day parliamentary questions receiving a holding answer | | Named-day parliamentary questions receiving a substantive answer on the due date | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Parliamentary session | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage |
| 2002-03 | 117 | 21.8 | 420 | 78.2 |
| 2003-04 | 147 | 29.4 | 353 | 70.6 |
| 2004-05 | 76 | 32.2 | 164 | 67.8 |
| 2005-06 | 288 | 25.9 | 826 | 74.1 |
| 2006-07 | 119 | 16.6 | 599 | 83.4 |

My ministerial colleagues and I aim to ensure that hon. Members receive a substantive response to their named day question on the due day. Unfortunately this is not always possible but the Department for Transport makes every effort to achieve the timescales.

Driving Tests

Kelvin Hopkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport whether delegated examiners may conduct driving tests for candidates who (a) they have personally trained and (b) have been trained by an organisation where the delegated examiner is the head of training; and if she will make a statement. [190243]

A person may be a delegated examiner and head of training but is not permitted to conduct driving tests for candidates they have personally trained.

First Great Western: Standards

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 147W, on First Great Western: standards, what her timescale is for a reassessment of the ability of First Great Western Franchise to comply with the current franchise; and if she will make a statement. Jim Fitzpatrick: It is not in the interests of the UK's national security for this Department to confirm whether it holds information about attacks against its IT systems. This would enable individuals to deduce how successful this Department is in detecting these attacks and so assist such persons in testing the effectiveness of the UK's IT defences.

Minibuses: Concessions

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will extend concessionary fare schemes to cover the provision of volunteer car and minibus services. [188331]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Government have no plans at present to extend the coverage of statutory concessionary travel to cover the provision of volunteer car and minibus services, although a small number of community transport-type services may already be eligible for the statutory concession. Our current focus is on the successful implementation of the new all-England off-peak bus travel concession from April this year.

Any changes to the scope of concessionary travel would have to be fully funded and the impacts considered carefully following consultation with all the interested parties. Local authorities retain the ability to offer discretionary concessions over and above the statutory minimum at their own expense.

Railways

Mrs. Villiers: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport which community rail partnership projects she has visited since her appointment as Secretary of State; and which representatives of train operating companies she has met. [168691]

Mrs. Dunwoody: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what guidance her Department provides on train cab design best practice. [190171]

Departmental Written Questions

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Leader of the House how many and what proportion of parliamentary questions from hon. Members for answer on a named day received by her Office have received a (a) holding answer and (b) substantive answer by the named day in each year since 2001. [190295]

Helen Goodman: The information requested is as follows;

The Office of the Leader of the House of Commons has answered 100 per cent. of the 186 named day questions received in the last five Sessions on time. Just four questions have received holding replies since the 2001-02 Session, and none in any of the last five Sessions.

World Squares for All Steering Group

Mr. Swire: To ask the Leader of the House what representations she has received on the work of the World Squares for All Steering Group; what (a) political and (b) official representation the House has on the group; what submissions have been made by the House to the group; and what discussions she has had with other Ministers about the group. [190140]

Helen Goodman: The World Squares for All Steering Group has been established under the leadership of the Greater London Authority and includes representatives from a range of affected interests. The group aims to redefine the heart of London—specifically Trafalgar square, Parliament square and the Whitehall conservation area. The latest stage of its work is the Parliament square improvement project.

Representation of the House on the group is a matter for the administration of the House under the ultimate authority of the House of Commons Commission.

Parliament is represented on the group by the parliamentary director of estates or a representative, and by the manager of Visitor and Public Information Projects. The House has no political representation on the group. Officials have received briefings from the architects, Hawkins Brown, and from Transport for London, and have consulted the Joint Committee on Security on security aspects of the plans. The Group on Information for the Public has submitted to the Parliament square improvement project a briefing on Parliament's priorities for the redevelopment of the square.

The Administration Committee, chaired by my hon. Friend the Member for Aberdeen, North (Mr. Doran), has heard a presentation from representatives of the Parliament Square Improvement Project, who sought the advice of the Committee on how Members of Parliament could be consulted about the plans. At the Committee's request, the group will shortly write to all Members, before the start of wider public consultation.

The Leader of the House has received no representations and has held no discussions on this issue.

WALES

Departmental Impact Assessments

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many regulatory impact assessments his Department has conducted in the last 12 months. [191259]

Surface Fleet

9. Michael Fabricant: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what progress has been made on future orders for the surface fleet of the Royal Navy; and if he will make a statement. [190366]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: We continue to make good progress on the future orders for the surface fleet of the Royal Navy. We have committed to ordering two new aircraft carriers and have placed orders for six Type 45 destroyers. It is our intention, in addition, to deliver replacement vessels in the future for Type 22 and 23 frigates, and elements of the Royal Fleet Auxiliary.

Attack Submarines

11. Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans he has for the future number of attack submarines in the Royal Navy. [190368]

18. Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans he has for the future of attack submarines for the Royal Navy. [190375]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Our judgment remains that in the medium term, a fleet of eight of the current classes of attack submarine will be sufficient to meet the full range of tasks. By 2022 we will have completed the transition to the more capable Astute class, for which it remains our plan to order seven boats. Over the next 14 years, attack submarine numbers will fluctuate between seven and eight as Astute replaces the current classes.

Watchkeeper

12. Robert Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when army training will start on the Watchkeeper unmanned aerial vehicle; and where in the UK it will take place. [190369]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: We plan to begin classroom based training for the Watchkeeper programme in September next year at Larkhill, and live flying in March 2010 at Parc Aberporth in West Wales.

Armour

13. Sir Nicholas Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether future armoured fighting vehicles purchased by his Department will have chassis armour and bolt-on armour. [190370]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: A combination of base and bolt-on armour is likely to be used for most future armoured fighting vehicles. It allows us to reconfigure the armour solution to counter threats as they emerge, and to take advantage of the latest armour technologies.

Afghanistan

14. Chris McCafferty: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the security conditions in Afghanistan. [190371]

Des Browne: The security situation in Afghanistan is stable if fragile in places. The Afghan National Army and troops from the 40-nation International Stabilisation Assistance Force are actively engaged in operations to maintain the pressure on the Taliban and extend the authority of the Government of Afghanistan.

Mental Health

16. Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what recent steps his Department has taken to work with the NHS in developing effective mental health care for service veterans. [190373]

22. Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many pilot schemes he has established for the identification of veterans in need of mental health services and for the provision of such services. [190379]

Barbara Keeley: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what progress is being made on the regional pilots to improve mental health care for veterans. [190378]

Derek Twigg: The MOD, the four UK health departments and Combat Stress have been working together with clinical experts and the Health and Social Care Advisory Service (HASCAS) to develop a new model of community-based veterans mental healthcare that will address assessment and treatment of veterans' mental health problems. Pilots have been launched in Staffordshire and Shropshire, Camden and Islington, Bishop Auckland and Cardiff Vale. These will be followed shortly by pilots in Lothian and Cornwall. Following two years of piloting and evaluation it is planned to roll the model out across the UK.

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Future Rapid Effect System is progressing well. FRES is currently in its assessment phase and work on detailed requirements is continuing.

Devonport

19. Mr. Streeter: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what plans he has for Devonport naval base. [190376]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: As my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Defence announced in July 2007 at the conclusion of the Naval Base Review, the most effective means of supporting the Royal Navy is to retain all three naval bases, including Devonport.

In doing so we will continue to work with industry to develop innovative programmes that deliver effective, efficient and sustainable support to the Royal Navy.

Deployment Strength

23. Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the deployable strength is of the Army. [190380]

25. Tony Baldry: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the deployable strength is of the Army. [190382]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: As at 27 February 2008, the Army currently has 67,400 personnel within its deployable formations. 53,400 of these personnel are presently graded as deployable, with a further 7,600 personnel graded as being deployable in a limited range of roles. Non-deployable personnel will include those who are medically unfit and those filling key roles in support of families of those service personnel who are not deployed.

Additionally there are elements of the Army that are deemed as being in non-deployable posts employed in essential roles often directly supporting operations within the training organisations, staff headquarters and the regional forces command structure.

Skill Force

24. Mr. Allen: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of initiatives in the city of Nottingham by Skill Force to use the talents of retired military personnel. [190381]

Des Browne: Skill Force is involved in the city of Nottingham helping difficult to reach young people during term-time through an alternative curriculum that includes team building and problem solving skills, leading to a variety of awards and qualifications. They are currently working in three Nottingham schools, but such has been their success that they hope to expand to cover five schools in the city from September of this year. As with the rest of the Skill Force project, they are making an extremely valuable contribution to efforts to tackle social exclusion among young people.

Health Care

Anne Snelgrove: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what steps he is taking with the Secretary of State for Health to ensure that GPs provide priority treatment to veterans. [190372]

Derek Twigg: The Health Secretary announced in November an extension of NHS priority treatment. From 1 January all veterans, not just war pensioners, should receive priority access to NHS secondary care for conditions which are related to their service. The Department of Health has issued guidance on the new provision. Defence and Health officials and the ex-Service organisations are now working together on communicating the new arrangement to GPs and the veterans' community and monitoring its effectiveness.

NATO Bucharest Summit

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make a statement on the forthcoming NATO Bucharest summit. [190377]

Des Browne: The UK will look to the Bucharest summit to reaffirm NATO's solidarity and commitment to its operations and missions—particularly in Afghanistan, where we need to build on the success NATO has achieved to date, and agree a comprehensive plan for the future. We will want it to maintain momentum on capability developments and force generation, both for current operations and more widely. Heads of State and Government will consider membership invitations for those countries currently participating in Membership Action Plans.

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which elements of the Afghanistan Combined Joint Statement of Requirements remain unfulfilled. [188232]

Des Browne [holding answer 22 February 2008]: Among other requirements, NATO currently needs more training and mentoring personnel, combat forces in the south and east of Afghanistan and key enablers, such as helicopters, to meet the Combined Joint Statement of Requirements for Afghanistan.

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many sea king helicopters are to be fitted with Carson blades; and how many of those helicopters with such blades will be deployed in Afghanistan. [188616]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: We are fitting 14 Sea King HC4 helicopters with Carson blades. We have deployed a number of Sea King helicopters fitted with Carson blades to Afghanistan, and expect to deploy more later this year. I am withholding information on the exact number of helicopters deployed as its release would, or would be likely to, prejudice the capability, effectiveness or security of the armed forces.

Armed Forces: EU Institutions

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many British military personnel are attached to the (a) European Union Military Staff, (b) European Defence Agency, (c) European Union Military Committee and (d) other EU institutions. [190715]

Des Browne: 17 British military personnel are currently seconded to the EU Military Staff in Brussels, and there are two British military staff officers currently working in the European Defence Agency.

The European Union Military Committee is a regular meeting of the Chiefs of Defence Staff or their representatives from the EU member states, not a standing EU structure. There is one British military officer who is seconded as the military adviser to the permanent Chairman of the EU Military Committee.

There are no British military personnel seconded to other EU institutions.

Armed Forces: Housing

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many and what percentage of (a) single living and (b) service family accommodation units in (i) Germany, (ii) Cyprus, (iii) Gibraltar and (iv) the Falklands Islands there were in each of the four charge grades at the most recent date for which figures are available. [182325]

Derek Twigg: Services Family Accommodation (SFA) and Single Living Accommodation (SLA) in Germany, Cyprus, Gibraltar and the Falkland Islands is at the following Grade for Charge (GfC).

SFA

| | Grade 1 | | Grade 2 | | Grade 3 | | Grade 4 | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage |
| Cyprus | 0 | — | 504 | 27 | 140 | 8 | 1,589 | 65 |
| Gibraltar | 82 | 17 | 66 | 14 | 90 | 19 | 239 | 50 |
| Falklands/ Ascension Islands | 0 | — | 0 | — | 0 | — | 80 | 100 |
| Germany | 2,212 | 17 | 6,010 | 47 | 3,481 | 27 | 1,149 | 9 |

SLA

| | Grade 1 | | Grade 2 | | Grade 3 | | Grade 4 | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage |
| Germany | 2,356 | 14 | 1,494 | 9 | 4,186 | 24 | 8,989 | 53 |
| Cyprus | 67 | 4 | 14 | 1 | 534 | 36 | 882 | 59 |
| Falklands/ Ascension Islands | 14 | <1 | 0 | — | 0 | — | 6,105 | >99 |
| Gibraltar | 325 | 83 | 24 | 6 | 41 | 11 | 0 | — |

The low grade given to SLA in the South Atlantic Islands for example reflects the remote location and environmental factors rather than the actual condition of the accommodation which is considered reasonable. It should be noted that a large proportion of overseas SLA is only used during operational deployments. Although much of this accommodation is G4fC, residents are not charged for it.

In Cyprus, some 650 bed-spaces will be upgraded by 2012 for use on a permanent basis. In addition, there are ongoing programmes of improvement work in all the above locations including the Hired Accommodation Revitalisation Programme project, which aims to replace or upgrade the entire hired estate in Germany over the next five years.

Over the next decade the MOD will spend over £8 billion on accommodation, including some £3.1 billion on bringing accommodation up to the top condition. This will include the delivery of some further 30,000 new or improved SLA bed-spaces by 2013.

Checkmate

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment his Department has made of the ability of Checkmate technology to improve the UK Network Centric Warfare capability; and if he will make a statement. [188747]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: I refer the hon. Member to the answer my predecessor gave on 13 December 2005, Official Report, column 1881W, to the hon. Member for Aldershot (Mr. Howarth).

Civil Contingency Reaction Forces: Deployment

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many of the reservists who make up the operational capability of Civil Contingency Reaction Forces are on active duty overseas. [190603]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: I refer the hon. Member to the answer my predecessor gave on 1 March 2005, Official Report, column 1137W, to the right hon. Member for Haltemprice and Howden (David Davis).

Committee of Permanent Representatives

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 7 February 2008, Official Report, column 1401W, on the Committee of Permanent Representatives, how many (a) civilian and (b) military personnel from his Department are part of the staff of the Committee of Permanent Representatives (i) I and (ii) II. [190835]

Des Browne: The Committee of Permanent Representatives does not have a dedicated staff.

There are two MOD civilians working in the UK Permanent Representation to the EU on a national basis who for part of their time support the UK Permanent Representative on European security and defence policy matters considered in the Committee of Permanent Representatives II.

There is no defence business that relates to the Committee of Permanent Representatives I.

Departmental Redundancy

Dr. Julian Lewis: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what the reasons are for the consideration of one-fifth of defence intelligence staff posts in London for abolition; [189427]

(2) whether he has consulted the former Deputy Chief of Defence Intelligence, John Morrison, about the potential impact of a one-fifth reduction in defence intelligence staff posts in London. [189429]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: MOD is currently streamlining its Head Office as part of the Department's response to its capability review. The Defence intelligence staff fall within the remit of this streamlining programme.

No Ministers have consulted Mr. Morrison. We will keep the wider intelligence and security community engaged as the work is taken forward.

Departments: Charities

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much Defence Estate (Aldershot) billed in liability charges for charity events held on his Department's property since April 2005 to 2007. [152355]

Derek Twigg: The information requested will need to be collated and this will take a little time. I will write to the hon. Member and a copy of my letter will be placed in the Library of the House.

Substantive answer from Derek Twigg to Nick Harvey:

I undertook to write to you in answer to your Parliamentary Question on 3 September 2007, (Official Report, column 1617W) about the amount Defence Estates (Aldershot) was billed in liability charges for charity events held on his Department's property since 2005-2007.

I apologise for the delay in writing to you following our meeting on 12 December, which was due to the time required to retrieve and review our available information. Unfortunately, the review has shown that it is not possible to separately identify liability charges for charity events.

I am placing a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

EU Defence Policy

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 24 January 2008, Official Report, columns 37-38W, on EU defence policy, what his definition is of statute, seat and operational rules; and if he will make a statement. [190826]

Des Browne: We understand the statute, seat and operational rules of the European Defence Agency as described in the Lisbon treaty to be the instrument setting up the European Defence Agency, its headquarters and the rules under which it operates.

EU Defence Policy: Finance

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions he had with European Defence Ministers on the financing of EU military operations under the Athena Mechanism at the recent meeting in Brdo, Slovenia; and if he will make a statement. [190720]

Des Browne: The Athena Mechanism ensures that EU member states pay an equitable share of common costs for agreed EU military operations. This mechanism was not discussed at the informal meeting of EU Defence Ministers held in Brdo, Slovenia on 21-22 February 2008.

Future Large Aircraft: Procurement

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether he has made any changes to the number of A400M aircraft to be ordered. [189275]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: No.

Iraq: Peacekeeping Operations

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what recent estimate he has made of the cost to the public purse of (a) combat and (b) peacekeeping operations in Iraq in each year since 2003; and if he will make a statement. [190062]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Combat activities commenced on 20 March 2003 and ceased on 1 May 2003 spanning two financial years 2002-03 and 2003-04 totalling £2,158 million. All subsequent years are categorised as peacekeeping operations.

The costs of operations are calculated on a net additional basis and audited figures are published each year in the MOD' Annual Report and Accounts. The total annual costs of operations in Iraq for the years 2002-03 to 2006-07 including the cost of combat activities are in the following table:

£ million

| | Operations in Iraq | Expenditure on capital equipment | Total |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 629 | 218 | 847 |
| 2003-04 | 1,051 | 260 | 1,311 |
| 2004-05 | 747 | 163 | 910 |
| 2005-06 | 798 | 160 | 958 |
| 2006-07 | 787 | 169 | 956 |
| Grand total | | | 4,982 |

An estimated cost of £1,648 million for 2007-08 was included in the Spring Supplementary Estimates published in February, which is due to be voted on by Parliament shortly.

Iraq: Resettlement

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what estimate his Department has made of the number of Iraqi citizens formerly employed by the Ministry of Defence expected to apply for (a) the UK Gateway scheme and (b) indefinite leave to enter on an exceptional basis outside the Immigration Rules in 2008-09. [189895]

Des Browne [holding answer 28 February 2008]: We estimate that there are approximately 400 former members of staff who are eligible for the LECs assistance scheme. Around half of those already assessed as eligible and who have informed us of their preferred form of assistance, have opted for the Gateway scheme.

Staff who left MOD's employment prior to 8 August 2007 are not eligible for indefinite leave to enter the UK on an exceptional basis. Seven current staff members made redundant since 8 August 2007 have chosen this option.

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much financial support the Government paid to Iraqi citizens formerly employed by the Ministry of Defence awaiting resettlement under the UK Gateway programme in third countries in each month since October 2007; and how many Iraqi citizens formerly employed by the Ministry of Defence have received financial support whilst awaiting resettlement. [189896]

Des Browne [holding answer 28 February 2008]: No financial assistance has yet been paid to former staff members seeking resettlement to the UK under the Gateway programme. The focus of our effort has been on assessing the eligibility of those applying to the scheme from within Iraq, and on undertaking the necessary security checks on those seeking resettlement. The first tranche of this work is now largely complete, and we expect that a significant number of former Ministry of Defence employees and their dependents (in excess of 100 individuals) will soon leave Iraq for a third country for assessment under the Gateway programme. Financial assistance will be paid to these individuals, as well as to any eligible former employees who have already left Iraq, in the coming weeks.

As of 21 February, the Ministry of Defence has paid over $450,000 to former staff members who opted for the financial package of assistance.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence when the Parliamentary Under Secretary of State will reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire, dated 24 January, on low flying aircrafts (reference: MC00711/2008). [191221]

Derek Twigg: I replied to the hon. Member on 28 February 2008.

Military Aircraft: Helicopters

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many flying hours helicopters can undertake before they must be taken out of service, broken down by type of helicopter. [189269]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Different helicopter types have differing Structural Integrity design philosophies. They do not all have a set number of flying hours before they must be taken out of service as indicated in the following table.

| Aircraft type | Finite life—designed fatigue life-flying hours |
|---|---|
| Agusta A109A/AM | No |
| Attack Helicopter | Yes—9,000 hours |
| Chinook Mk2/2a | No |
| Gazelle | Yes—15,000 hours |
| Lynx Mk3, Mk7, Mk8, Mk9 | Yes—7,000 hours |
| Merlin Mk1 and Mk3 | Yes—10,000 hours |
| Puma HC1 | No |
| Sea King Mk3/3a, Mk4, Mk5 Mk6c, Mk7 | No |

The structural integrity of airframes is assured by regular maintenance and replacement of fatigue-sensitive components after a set period of use. In all cases, the maintenance policy and lives of key components are regularly reviewed to ensure it supports the safe operation of the aircraft. Helicopters with designed fatigue lives can fly beyond the design life when specific actions are taken. Actions may include the replacement of significant structural items and the instigation of enhanced inspections and maintenance.

Nimrod Aircraft: Procurement

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether he has made any changes to the number of Nimrod MRA4 aircraft to be ordered. [189276]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: No.

Peacekeeping Operations

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which countries provided the requirement for NATO's Operational Reserve Force in each year since 2001; and which countries will provide the requirement until 2010. [190694]

Des Browne: During this period, there was an Operational Reserve Force for ISAF from August to December 2006 which was provided by Romania.

For the Balkans, the reserve was called the Over the Horizon Force until mid-2002 with the UK, France, Germany, Italy and the US all contributing battalions. Since mid-2002, the Operational Reserve Force has comprised three battalions provided by the UK, Germany and Italy.

As commitments to the Operational Reserve Force are made on an annual basis, there is no programmed rota for 2009-10.

Reserve Forces: Deployment

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many reservist personnel were deployed overseas at the most recently available date, broken down by (a) location and (b) service. [190650]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: As at 31 January 2008, the number of volunteer reservists deployed on operations was:

| | Royal Navy Reserve | Royal Marines Reserve | Territorial Army | Number Royal Auxiliary Air Force |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| TELIC (Iraq) | 44 | 0 | 124 | 30 |
| HERRICK (Afghanistan) | 10 | 77 | 528 | 17 |
| TOSCA (Cyprus) | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| OCULUS (Balkans) | 1 | 0 | 16 | 0 |
| Global Counter Terrorism | 1 | 0 | 12 | 0 |
| Total: | 56 | 77 | 682 | 47 |

There were also 616 other reservists undergoing pre-deployment training, receiving medical treatment, or on post operational leave, and in addition 41 sponsored reserves involved in operations but who are not necessarily permanently based in an operational theatre.

Spearhead Land Element

Dr. Fox: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which units forms the Spearhead Land Element (SLE); whether it is fully equipped; whether the SLE is deployed; and when the future SLE will take over. [190671]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Second Battalion The Royal Gurkha Regiment forms the Spearhead Land Element (SLE), which is not currently deployed. The SLE is currently fully equipped in accordance with the joint rapid reaction force directive and operational mounting instructions. The next SLE will be provided by the Second Battalion The Rifles, who will assume this role from 30 March 2008.

Type 45 Destroyers

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether he has made any changes to the planned in-service dates of Type 45 Destroyers. [189278]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: No.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Carers' Allowances

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when the earnings limit for carer's allowance was last increased. [189030]

Mrs. McGuire: The earnings limit for carer's allowance was last increased in October 2007. Recipients of carer's allowance can now earn up to £95 a week after deduction of allowable expenses.

Child Support: Administration

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) on what basis the decision not to initially migrate existing cases onto the new child support system was made; and if he will make a statement; [188520]

(2) when all child support cases will have been transferred to the new child support system. [188759]

Mr. Plaskitt: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 226W, to the hon. Member for Cotswold (Mr. Clifton-Brown).

Delivery Notices

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the letter of 28 January 2008 from the Minister of State for Pensions to the hon.

Member for Northavon, if he will place in the Library a copy of the departmental leaflets issued after 2001 which stated that people would be advised about delivery notices by letter. [184456]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 4 February 2008]: The relevant extracts from documents NP46 and N17A have been placed in the Library.

Employment: Prisoners Release

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what Government assistance is provided for prisoners to secure work on release from prison; and what changes in types of support have been made since 1992. [191210]

Mr. Plaskitt: Jobcentre plus offers extensive help to those leaving prison. The following have all been introduced since 1992.

Employment and Benefit Surgeries—In prison-based Employment and Benefit Surgeries, Jobcentre Plus advisers work in co-operation with the Prison Service and other agency staff to address the key employment and benefit needs of prison inmates during both the entry and pre-release stages of their period in custody.

New Deal—Offenders are entitled to early entry, from day one of their claim, to the new deals, including the New Deal for Young People, which applies to 18 to 24-year-olds, thereby giving them access to help with finding a job and dealing with their barriers to employment.

Freshstart—Freshstart involves pre-arranging a new jobseeker interview to claim benefit (jobseeker's allowance) at the prisoner's home Jobcentre Plus office, on release. As well as speeding up the process for receiving benefit, the individual is exposed at the earliest opportunity to jobs and the prospect of engaging with mainstream provision, to which, in most cases, they will have early entry status. Last year 35,000 interviews were booked Rapid Reclaim Process—Jobcentre Plus also operate a "Rapid Reclaim Process" for jobseeker's allowance, income support and incapacity benefit (employment support allowance also when introduced). This service is available if a short-term prisoner reclaims within 13 weeks of their last claim and circumstances have not changed. There are simpler and shorter forms and the processing of the benefit is easier.

Progress2work and progress2workLinkUP—Special programmes aimed at helping clients with drug misuse, the homeless, ex-offenders, and alcohol misusers deal with the particular barriers to work that they face. Both programmes are run by specialist providers who have established expertise in dealing with the issues faced by these client groups. Progress2work is a national programme; progress2workLinkUP is in almost half of Jobcentre Plus districts.

Early Custody Licence—DWP shared services administer grants on behalf of the Ministry of Justice for those released on early custody licence.

Exit to Work—Exit to Work is an action-research project trailing a new way of engaging employers and moving ex-offenders into work. The project is being managed by Working Ventures UK in collaboration with DWP, Jobcentre Plus, the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills and the Ministry of Justice. Exit to Work takes a two-pronged approach to tackling employment and skills-related issues for offenders:

> a network of seven Job Developers (across Birmingham, London, Manchester, Merseyside, Tepsside, and South Yorkshire) whose role is to be a single point of contact for the employer, to help them understand the benefits of recruiting ex-offenders and how to mitigate the risks and to orchestrate the range of support available to provide the employer with a seamless package; and managing an information and vacancy sharing website, which allows CVs of ex-offenders to be uploaded, evaluated, and accessed on behalf of potential employers.

Jobcentre Plus engages with young offenders both in custody and in the community. Dependant upon the customer's age, a range of support becomes available.

Young offenders in custody have access to employment and benefit surgery advisers and can get employment and training advice as well as Freshstart appointments upon release to claim jobseeker's allowance.

At age 18 offenders released from custody and community sentenced offenders have early entry to New Deal and access to specialist help via progress2work and Progress2work Link Up. Advisers regularly review activity and job search efforts and on a longer term basis, customers have to undertake mandatory activities such as New Deal for Young People. New Deal for young People has now been in operation for over 10 years and has helped thousands of young offenders to enter work and training.

Income Support: Lone Parents

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to his Department's publication, Ready for Work, what forecast he has made of the likely number of lone parents claiming income support in each quarter to 2011, broken down by (a) region, (b) ethnicity and (c) family size; and what assessment he has made of the effect on these numbers on changes in his Department's spending on (i) benefits and (ii) benefit administration. [176943]

Mr. Timms: The full information requested is not available. The Impact Assessment published alongside the publication "Ready for Work" presented our current estimates of the impact of the proposals on benefit case loads and costs.

Pensioners: Aberavon

Dr. Francis: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners there were in Aberavon constituency in the most recent period for which figures are available. [190218]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: As at May 2007, there were 13,540 recipients of state pension in the Aberavon parliamentary constituency.

Pensions

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) if he will estimate the number of people who were not sent a letter from his Department in 2004-05 in connection with the deficiency notices exercise who would have been sent such a letter but for the fact that the then Inland Revenue had ceased sending them deficiency notices prior to 1996-97; and if he will make a statement; [167266]

(2) pursuant to the answer of 10 January 2008, Official Report, column 724W, on pensions, how the target group of 632,000 was defined; and which categories of pensioners in the target group were not sent letters. [181991]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answers 22 November 2007 and 25 January 2008]: In total, we estimate that around one million people[1] who reached state pension age between 6 April 1998 and 23 October 2004:

(a) were not entitled to a full basic pension on their own contributions; and

(b) had a deficient contribution record in one or more of the years 1996-97 to 2001-02.

Of these, 632,000 who were resident in the UK satisfied the conditions for receiving a deficiency notice. In addition, a further 40,000 pensioners who were resident overseas satisfied the conditions. This group, including those overseas, was defined as the target group.

However, only those people in the target group who could improve their ongoing pension entitlement were contacted and thus excluded:

(i) people already receiving a full basic pension derived wholly or in part from their former spouse's contributions; and

(ii) married women already receiving a pension derived wholly or in part from their husband's contributions who could not improve their ongoing overall pension entitlements by paying additional contributions.

Of the remaining approximately 350,000[2], it is not possible to readily identify those who could improve their ongoing pension entitlement.

Pursuant to my written answers of 1 October 2007, Official Report, column 2376W, and 10 January 2008, Official Report, column 724W, the figure of 470,000 referred to in these answers related to the total number of pensioners contacted regarding deficiencies in their contribution records and included around 55,000 who had already paid contributions. The figure of 414,427 pensioners automatically contacted by the Pension Service during the period September 2004 to September 2005 quoted at page 197 of the Department's Resource Accounts for 2006-07 relates to the number of pensioners who were informed of deficiencies in their contribution records in that period. No further deficiency notice letters were automatically issued by the Pension Service after the end of September 2005.

Pursuant to my written answer of 1 October 2007, Official Report, column 2376W, the response rate of 62 per cent. quoted was incorrect. It was calculated by reference to a total figure of 470,000 letters issued and the 290,000 customers contacts referred to in the answer. However, it has subsequently become apparent that the figure of 290,000 comprises contacts from individuals who had received an automatic deficiency notice and those who had not. It is not possible to disaggregate the figure of 290,000 to separately identify contacts by people who had received an automatic deficiency notice. Similarly, it is not possible to disaggregate the figure of 69,249 individuals who have made additional contributions. Therefore the figure of 24 per cent. relating to the proportion of respondents who made additional contributions is also incorrect.

[2] Figure rounded to the nearest 50,000.

Danny Alexander: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his estimate is of the number of people who will receive pension forecasts in 2008. [174801]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Pension Service issues an individual pension forecast when a customer request is made via the e-service channel, over the phone or on completion of form BR19.

Based on the number of requests received in 2007, we anticipate that around 300,000 individuals will receive an individual pension forecast in 2008.

Due to IT changes which need to be made as a result of the Pensions Act 2007, the Pension Service is temporarily unable to provide an individual pension forecast to customers who reach state pension age on or after 6 April 2010.

To help them plan for retirement, the Pension Service is able to offer these customers personalised information on potential state pension entitlement, based on the pension qualifying years they have from their national insurance record. Around 125,000 customers have benefited from this service. The Pension Service expects full forecasting services will be available in spring 2008.

Pensions: Taxation

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate his Department has made of the additional costs in (a) benefit payments and (b) administration that would be incurred as a result of HM Revenue and Custom's proposals to tax small pensions retrospectively for the year 2007-08. [190850]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The information requested is not available.

Social Security Benefits: Polygamy

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his policy is on the payment of benefit to families in polygamous marriages; and if he will make a statement. [188967]

Mr. Plaskitt: I refer the hon. Member to the written answer I gave the hon. Member for Hertsmere (Mr. Clappison) on 20 February 2008, Official Report, column 756W.

Social Security Benefits: Prisoners Release

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many ex-prisoners of working age were claiming (a) income support, (b) incapacity benefit, (c) jobseeker's allowance and (d) another working age benefit (i) three, (ii) six and (iii) 12 months after being released from prison in each year since 1997. [191209]

Mr. Plaskitt: The information is not available.

State Retirement Pensions: Anniversaries

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what consideration his Department has given to the erection of a memorial to celebrate the centenary of pensions; and if he will make a statement. [188957]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: We have no plans to erect a memorial.

We plan to mark the centenary of the introduction of the state pension as a key element of the celebrations around the second UK Older People's Day in October 2008.

Winter Fuel Payments: West Midlands

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people received a winter fuel payment in (a) Warley constituency and (b) Sandwell Metropolitan borough council area in the most recent period for which figures are available. [189626]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: In winter 2006-07, 14,080 people in the Warley constituency and 54,360 people in Sandwell metropolitan borough council received a winter fuel payment. We expect the numbers to be similar for this winter.

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what information his Department has received from Milk Link on cases of suspected bovine tuberculosis in Devon; how many such cases were reported by Milk Link in each of the last three years; and what steps his Department has taken as a result. [190575]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 29 February 2008]: Responsibility for reporting suspected cases of bovine tuberculosis rests with veterinary surgeons (on farms) and meat hygiene service inspectors (at slaughterhouses).

Therefore, no suspected cases of bovine tuberculosis have been reported to my Department by Milk Link, which I understand, is a milk wholesaler business.

Energy: Conservation

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions his Department has had with the European Commission on the proposed implementation of the Energy-using Products Directive for boilers being outside the scope of the Directive. [189251]

Joan Ruddock: DEFRA officials regularly meet and have discussions at EU level, including on energy efficient products, and have held formal and informal meetings with the Commission on the Energy Using Products Directive.

The Commission is currently analysing responses from the boiler and water heater industry on its proposals for implementation of the Energy Using Products Directive. DEFRA officials are due to attend a Consultation Forum (comprising the Commission, European Trade Associations and other member state representatives) on the directive on 29 February 2008.

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) if he will meet representatives of the controls industry to discuss their proposal for the creation of a separate standard for controls rather than the bundled approach proposed in the energy-using products directive; [189253]

(2) what assessment the Government have made of the consequences Lot 1 of the energy-using products directive will have on the UK heating controls industry; [189255]

(3) whether the Government have considered using industry expertise to work with the European Commission to produce a separate standard for heating controls rather than including them with boilers as outlined in the energy using products directive. [189258]

Joan Ruddock: DEFRA officials have invited key stakeholders, including members of the boiler and water heater industry, to discuss implementation of the energy using products directive and raise any concerns on implications for the UK. The Commission is currently analysing responses from the industry and the alternative proposals it has put forward.

The Government's market transformation programme is currently assessing the full range of possible impacts of implementation of the energy using products directive, based on the Commission's current proposals.

DEFRA officials will also shortly be attending meetings with the European trade associations in order to learn more about the issues the boiler and heating industry face across Europe.

Heating controls play an important role in improving the efficiency of heating systems and the Government have recently published a consultation paper setting out indicative standards for better use of existing controls and advanced controls for domestic heating. A copy of the consultation document is available on DEFRA's website.

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what position his officials will be taking on the Energy-using Products Directive at the Implementing Measure Consulting Forum on 29 February. [189254]

Joan Ruddock: The Government generally see Consultation Forum meetings as an opportunity for industry to let the Commission know of their concerns directly. The Government are aware that the industry has raised significant concerns about these proposals and DEFRA officials are assessing the feedback we have received, with a view to relaying these concerns to the Commission at the Consultation Forum meeting on 29 February 2008.

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what consideration his Department has given to the report produced by the consultancy commissioned by the European Commission to write a preparatory study for the Energy-using Products Directive. [189257]

Joan Ruddock: DEFRA officials are aware of the report, produced by the consultancy VHK on behalf of the Commission, on implementation of the Energy Using Products Directive.

The Government's Market Transformation Programme is currently assessing its recommendations and assumptions.

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps the Government are taking to ensure that the Energy Using Products Directive ensures the maximum potential carbon savings of heating controls are realised. [189259]

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what steps the Government are taking to maximise the carbon reduction impact of the energy-using products directive, with reference to heating controls; [189464]

(2) what steps he plans to take to take account of the potential effects of the energy-using products directive in developing the proposed strategy for developing the market for advanced heating controls in new and existing homes. [189476]

Joan Ruddock: The Government are committed to raising product efficiency. We are working with key stakeholders from the boiler and water heater industry and the European Commission to develop proposals which will maximise the standards and efficiency of products covered by the energy using products directive.

Heating controls play an important role in improving the efficiency of heating systems and the Government have recently published a consultation paper setting out indicative standards for better use of existing controls and advanced controls for domestic heating. A copy of the consultation document is available on the DEFRA website.

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what consideration the Government have given to the development of a discrete standard for heating controls under the Energy-using Products Directive; and if he will establish a working group including industry experts to examine this matter. [189465]

Joan Ruddock: DEFRA officials have held a range of meetings with key stakeholders, including members of the boiler and water heater industry, to present the Commission proposals and discuss concerns on implementing the energy using products directive in the UK. The Commission and DEFRA officials are currently analysing responses from the industry and the alternative proposals it has put forward.

Heating controls play an important role in improving the efficiency of heating systems and the Government have recently published a consultation paper setting out indicative standards for better use of existing controls and advanced controls for domestic heating. A copy of the consultation document is available on the DEFRA website.

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what account the Government has taken of the potential electrical and electronic waste arising after 2013 in its consideration of the implementation of the Energy-using Products Directive in relation to supply system bundles; [189470]

(2) what estimates he has (a) made and (b) evaluated on the potential effect of the Energy-using Products Directive on the UK boiler industry; and if he will make a statement. [189472]

Joan Ruddock: The Government's Market Transformation Programme is currently assessing the full range of possible impacts of the implementation of the energy-using products directive, based on the Commission's current proposals.

Officials are due to attend a meeting of the Consultation Forum (comprising the Commission, European Trade Associations and other member state representatives) to discuss the Commission's proposals on boilers and water heaters on 29 February.

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will meet representatives of the heating controls industry to discuss the creation of a separate standard for controls, with reference to the implementation of the Energy-using Products Directive. [189479]

Joan Ruddock: DEFRA officials have held a number of meetings with key members of the boiler and water heater industry to present the Commission proposals under the energy-using products framework directive and to discuss the implications of these for UK industry. DEFRA officials are currently analysing responses from the industry and the alternative proposals it has put forward.

DEFRA officials will shortly be attending meetings with the European Trade Associations in order to learn more about the issues this industry faces across Europe.

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions his Department has had with the European Commission on the scope of the Energy-using Products Directive as it relates to boilers. [189481]

Joan Ruddock: DEFRA officials regularly meet and have discussions at EU level, including on energy efficient products, and have held a number of meetings with the Commission on the energy-using products directive, including an informal meeting on the Commission's proposed implementing measure on boilers and water heaters.

The Commission is currently analysing responses from the boiler and water heater industry on its proposals for boilers and water heaters. DEFRA officials are due to attend a Consultation Forum (comprising the Commission, European Trade Associations and other member state representatives) on these proposals on 29 February.

Energy: Fees and Charges

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans he has to cap transmission charges if Ofgem implements a new payment system based on generator distance from population centres. [189446]

Malcolm Wicks: I have been asked to reply.

In the GB electricity market, Transmission Network Use of System Charges (TNUOS) are already charged on a cost-reflective locational basis, such that generators furthest from centres of demand pay a higher charge to reflect the additional transmission network costs. Ofgem are considering whether such arrangements should also apply to transmission loss charges, which currently do not vary by location.

The Government has no intention of capping these charges for the generality of users. However, section 185 of the Electricity Act 2004 gives the Secretary of State the power to adjust such charges in an area which has high potential for the development of renewable generation and where the charges would otherwise be a material hindrance to that development. The Government has said that it intends to exercise this power for the Scottish islands, subject to the statutory tests set out in section 185 being met. In particular, the Government would need to be satisfied that the level of transmission charges in the absence of a scheme constitutes a material hindrance to the development of renewable generation in those locations.

Incinerators: Hazardous Substances

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) when consultations have taken place with incinerator operators on an eco-toxity test for incinerator bottom ash; [189838]

(2) what testing his Department has commissioned of the toxicity of incinerator bottom ash; [189939]

(3) what consultation he plans on the testing regime for incinerator bottom ash; [189940]

(4) what the timetable is for the introduction of the new test of toxicity for incinerator bottom ash. [189941]

Joan Ruddock: I understand that the waste industry is taking forward an initiative to identify a protocol for the ecotoxicity testing of Incineration Bottom Ash (IBA). The initiative will use a direct testing method on IBA, where the validity of classification results from the desktop method remains uncertain. This uncertainty arises because of the potential for ecotoxic metal substances in IBA to exist as the metal or other non-ecotoxic form; something that the desktop analytical method cannot determine.

DEFRA and the Environment Agency support this initiative, considering that the classification of IBA will remain "non-hazardous" pending the results of the direct testing.

The Environment Agency will review this decision when results from direct testing have been provided. No consultation is planned by my Department on this issue.

Lymington River: Repairs and Maintenance

Mr. Swayne: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what the timetable is within which the Marine and Fisheries Agency plans to determine the application by Wightlink for shore works on the Lymington river; and if he will make a statement; [190276]

(2) whether the Marine and Fisheries Agency plans to consult when making an appropriate assessment on shore works to accommodate larger ferries in the Lymington river under the provisions of the Habitat Directive. [190277]

Jonathan Shaw: In July 2007, Wightlink applied to the Marine and Fisheries Agency (MFA) for a licence to undertake modification works to piles, fendering and linkspan bridges comprising parts of the ferry terminals at both Lymington and Yarmouth. The MFA's controls under the Food and Environment Protection Act 1985 (FEPA) and the Coast Protection Act 1994 (CPA) only apply to the works proposed seawards of Mean High Water Spring Tide line (i.e. only including the foreshore).

Permissions related to the works have also been sought from other regulators, including the respective local authorities, the Environment Agency, and the Lymington and Yarmouth harbour authorities.

In progressing the FEPA and CPA applications, the MFA is working with these regulators to address the need for more environmental data. The MFA have taken the view that the intended works should be subject to 'Appropriate Assessment' in compliance with the Conservation (Natural Habitats &c) Regulations 1994, which should also have regard to the potential effects on nature conservation that may arise from the operation of the proposed larger ferry vessels.

A meeting was convened in January with the other regulators and Natural England to clarify what statutory responsibilities applied to the various elements of the project and how their possible effects were to be assessed. A subsequent meeting was held with Wightlink, primarily to discuss what additional data regulators and their advisers considered necessary.

Wightlink also met separately with Natural England to clarify what further information would be needed to support an appropriate assessment, and they have commissioned marine consultants to prepare a report that will be submitted to each of the regulators. Lymington Harbour Commissioners have also set in train arrangements to monitor the hydrodynamic effects of the existing ferries as basis for considering any constraints that may be necessary, for health and safety reasons, to the operation of the new vessels.

In determining their respective applications, regulators will individually and jointly, make an assessment of the additional data in so far as it applies to their responsibilities. This will enable them to determine the extent of any adverse risk to protected conservation sites, whether any mitigation is required and, if so, how this can be ensured.

As the consultation process raised no concerns in respect of only those elements of the works proposed at Yarmouth, Wightlink made a further application to the MFA earlier this month in respect of those works. This application has been determined and a FEPA Licence and CPA consent were granted on 21 February.

Peregrine Falcons

Ms Angela C. Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many convictions there have been for offences involving wild-taken peregrine falcons since 1981; and what effect the introduction of DNA testing of birds in 1992 has had on the number of such offences. [188490]

Joan Ruddock: Records of offences and convictions do not distinguish between species. DNA testing techniques have provided a useful additional investigative tool for wildlife law enforcers, but it is not possible to measure their effect on the number of such offences.

Warm Zones Programme: North East

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many households have had roof and wall installations under the Warm Zone scheme in (a) Stockton South, (b) Teesside and (c) the North East. [188965]

Mr. Woolas: The information requested is set out in the following table:

| | Households fitted with cavity wall insulation under the warm front scheme | Households fitted with loft insulation under the warm front scheme |
|---|---|---|
| Stockton South | 1,287 | 1,368 |
| Teesside[1] | 9,094 | 10,918 |
| North East | 58,260 | 54,369 |

[1] Middlesbrough, Middlesbrough South and Cleveland East, Redcar, Stockton North and Stockton South.

Waste Disposal: Electronic Equipment

Mr. Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the costs incurred by small businesses as a consequence of the Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment Regulations. [189542]

Malcolm Wicks: I have been asked to reply.

A full regulatory impact assessment was published alongside the UK WEEE regulations. There are no derogations for small businesses to be excluded from the scope of the WEEE directive. The UK WEEE regulations ensure that small businesses are not disproportionately affected and both the registration fees for producers and distributors are scaled according to company size.

Waste Disposal: Small Businesses

Mr. Peter Ainsworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the impact of the WRAP SME recycling programme on increasing the rate of recycling waste since it was established; and if he will make a statement. [191242]

Joan Ruddock: The aim of WRAP's SME recycling programme was, through a series of trials, to increase and improve recycling services for small to medium enterprises. These businesses can find it difficult to access appropriate recycling services for the waste they generate for a variety of reasons; for instance, because they lack the internal resources needed to establish and manage a recycling scheme, and because individual SMEs generate relatively small quantities of waste.

WRAP's programme has involved a range of feasibility and demonstration trials to develop appropriate recycling services, charging mechanisms, sales and marketing approaches and advice on staff involvement in recycling. The overall aim was to make recycling at work easy, convenient and cost-effective. A number of deliverables were measured for these trials, related to developing economic models for collection and good practice guidance for recycling service providers.

WRAP's activities formed a research, rather than a delivery programme. Therefore, impact in tonnage terms was not the primary purpose. Early figures indicate that over 3,000 SMEs were recruited to recycling services. However, it is important to recognise that the key performance indicators for this programme revolved around information relating to how businesses could be recruited to recycling, what systems worked for them, what charging regimes could be employed and what collection frequencies are appropriate to make recycling more attractive to SMEs. The findings from the trials will be made available through Good Practice Guidance and Executive Summaries. These will be available on WRAP's website. The programme will be subject to a full evaluation at the end of this financial year, and the results will be published in WRAP's next annual review.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Broadcasting: Radio

Mr. McGrady: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what discussions have taken place with RTE on the effect on listeners in Northern Ireland of the removal of FM radio band from the end of March 2008; and if he will make a statement. [188818]

Mr. Woodward: The decision to switch off medium wave transmission of RTE Radio 1 is a matter for RTE and the Irish broadcasting authorities. I understand that RTE Radio 1 will remain available to listeners in Northern Ireland on FM and Long Wave (LW) bands and also on a variety of other platforms such as satellite television and the internet.

Crime: Cannabis

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much time the Police Service of Northern Ireland spent on work to tackle the illegal production and distribution of cannabis in each of the last two years. [186985]

Paul Goggins: PSNI do not record police time specifically spent on tackling the illegal production and distribution of cannabis.

PSNI activity against drug crime focuses on the most significant criminal individuals and groups engaged in drug trafficking and supply.

Departmental Property

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what property was lost or stolen from his Department since 1997; and what the cost of replacement was in each case. [187476]

Mr. Woodward: The following table shows the property which has been lost or stolen from the Northern Ireland Office (excluding its Agencies and NDPBs) since 1997.

| To 31 December | Lost | Stolen |
|---|---|---|
| 1997 | No Records Available | No records available |

Departmental Sick Pay

Angus Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the cost of sickness pay to staff within his Department was in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187509]

Mr. Woodward: The total statutory sick pay (SSP) paid to employees in 2006-07 was £168,478, however SSP covers only a small proportion of the cost of sickness absence, as the Department also has an occupational sickness pay scheme, the costs of which cannot be isolated out from the overall payroll costs.

We receive a statistical analysis based on average salaries, grade, and days lost, which estimated the cost to the Department for 2006-07 at £1.7 million. This figure excludes the NI Prison Service and the Department's NDPBs.

The Northern Ireland Office takes the management of sickness absence very seriously and has robust policies and procedures in place to deal with inefficiency which results from poor attendance. The health and safety of everyone in the Department is of paramount importance; we have a duty of care to help prevent staff becoming ill and to support them when they are.

Departmental Travel

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much his Department spent on travel (a) within and (b) outside the UK for officials in each of the last 10 years; and what percentage of his Department's overall expenditure was spent on such travel in each such year. [181530]

Mr. Woodward: In the Northern Ireland Office's travel budgets, expenditure relating to journeys within and outside the UK are included together.

These figures are based on calendar year rather than financial year and cannot therefore be compared with the figures shown in the travel budgets. The following table shows the overseas travel costs from April 2004 to December 2007:

| | Total costs (£) |
|---|---|
| April to December 2004 | 85,013 |
| January to December 2005 | 184,055 |
| January to December 2006 | 131,907 |
| January to December 2007 | 80,889 |

Expenditure for travel in the NIO is held for the current financial year to date plus the previous five financial years. The following table provides details of the NIO's total travel expenditure (excluding agencies and NDPBs) and compares this against the total departmental expenditure (excluding agencies and NDPBs) in each year since 2002-03:

| | Total travel expenditure (£) | Percentage of travel expenditure against departmental expenditure |
|---|---|---|
| 2002-03 | 4,238,875 | 0.463 |
| 2003-04 | 4,354,144 | 0.492 |
| 2004-05 | 4,140,237 | 0.442 |
| 2005-06 | 4,248,807 | 0.387 |
| 2006-07 | 4,996,164 | 0.477 |
| Total | 21,978,227 | 0.450 |

All official travel is undertaken in accordance with the requirements of the Civil Service Management Code, a copy of which is available in the Library for the reference of Members.

Departmental Visits Abroad

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many overseas visits by officials in his Department took place in each of the last 10 years; which countries were visited; and how much was spent on such visits in each such year. [181598]

Mr. Woodward: The number of visits is not held in the format requested and could be provided only at disproportionate costs.

My Department has recorded the cost of overseas travel by air and rail from April 2004 to December 2007. The countries visited include the USA, Republic of Ireland and other European countries. This information is set out in the following table.

| | Total costs (£) |
|---|---|
| April to December 2004 | 85,013 |
| January to December 2005 | 184,055 |
| January to December 2006 | 131,907 |
| January to December 2007 | 80,889 |

All official travel is undertaken in accordance with departmental rules.

Departmental Written Questions

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many and what proportion of parliamentary questions for answer on a named day to his Department received a (a) holding and (b) substantive answer on the named day in each year since 2001. [190280]

Mr. Woodward: Electronic records are only available from 18 May 2005 onwards. To obtain the information requested prior to this date would involve an extensive manual trawl of records which could be provided only at a disproportionate cost.

The following table provides the information that is available.

| | Total number of PQs received[1] | Total number of named day questions | Holding answers issued | | Substantive answers issued | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage |

| 2007[2] | 1,421 | 220 | 105 | 48 | 115 | 52 |
| 2008 up to 22 February 2008 | 146 | 21 | 5 | 24 | 16 | 76 |

[1] Inclusive of transfers and withdrawals.
[2] Reduction in the overall number of PQs received due to the restoration of the Northern Ireland Assembly (8 May 2007).

Employment Agencies

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland pursuant to the answer of 6 February 2008, Official Report, column 1145W, on employment agencies, which recruitment agencies his Department has used in each year since 1998; and how much each agency was paid in each year. [189361]

Mr. Woodward: The following table shows how much the Northern Ireland Office (excluding its Agencies, NDPBs and Public Inquiries) spent on recruitment agencies in each financial year since 1998-99. These figures include both the costs for appointing staff to the department and the salaries paid to these temporary staff members.

Inquiries

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the costs to date have been of the inquiries into (a) Bloody Sunday, (b) Robert Hamill death, (c) Rosemary Nelson's death, (d) Pat Finucane's death and (e) Billy Wright's death. [187830]

Mr. Woodward: The costs to the end of January 2008 for the inquiries are as follows:

| | Cost (£ million) |
|---|---|
| The Bloody Sunday inquiry | 181.4 |
| The Robert Hamill inquiry | 13.0 |
| The Rosemary Nelson inquiry | 24.5 |
| The Billy Wright inquiry | 13.2 |

An inquiry into the murder of Pat Finucane has not yet been established.

The Wright and Hamill inquiries are operating under the Inquiries Act 2005. The Nelson inquiry is operating under the Police (Northern Ireland) Act 1998. The Bloody Sunday inquiry is operating under the Tribunals Act 1921.

Prisoners: Education

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many prisoners detained in Northern Ireland have (a) applied for and (b) received student loans in each of the last five years. [189291]

Paul Goggins: I am advised that no prisoners have applied for student loans in the last five years.

Prostitution

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what assessment he has made of the level of the vice trade in Northern Ireland in the last two years; and if he will make a statement. [189827]

Paul Goggins: The true extent of the vice trade is very difficult to quantify, particularly as brothels tend to operate in one location for a short period of time before moving to avoid the attention of local police. The PSNI are taking part in Operation Pentameter 2, a UK-wide operation against human trafficking, which will improve our understanding of the scale of human trafficking and the illegal sex trade in Northern Ireland. In 2005 (the latest year for which data are available), three people were prosecuted and convicted in Northern Ireland for brothel-keeping.

As well as impacting on individuals, prostitution causes real problems for communities. In recent months, therefore, police have mounted three investigations where controlling prostitution was suspected. A file has been sent to the Public Prosecution Service, and €15,000 was seized under the proceeds of crime legislation.

In response to community concerns, I intend to include extension of the offence of kerb crawling to Northern Ireland, and a new offence relating to soliciting, in the draft Sexual Offences (Northern Ireland) Order on which I have recently been consulting.

Terrorism

Sammy Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what progress has been made in the anti-terrorist operation against associates of the Real IRA in Vilnius, overseen by the Lithuanian authorities, Garda Siochana, PSNI, British Intelligence Agencies and Interpol, which resulted in the arrest of Michael Campbell. [189055]

Paul Goggins: It would not be appropriate to comment on anti-terrorist operations or who may be involved in them. The prosecution of the individual referred to is a matter for the prosecuting authorities in Lithuania.

Written Questions: Government Responses

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland when he expects to answer question (a) 181598 and (b) 181530, on departmental travel, tabled on 21 January 2008 by the hon. Member for Taunton; and what the reason for the time taken to respond is. [191243]

Mr. Woodward: Questions (a) 181598 and (b) 181530 were both answered today.

Each of these questions requested details of departmental travel including travel outside of the United Kingdom. To ensure accuracy in the answers, extensive cross-referencing was required between different parts of the Department, which proved to be more time consuming than originally expected.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Chad: Internally Displaced Persons

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of the number of Chadians who are (a) resident in internally displaced people's camps and (b) refugees; and what steps his Department is taking to provide assistance to such people. [189619]

Gillian Merron: There are currently approximately 180,000 internally displaced people in Chad, the vast majority of them distributed across sites in the east of the country. In 2007-08, the UK Government have committed £6.5 million in Chad through humanitarian agencies to collectively address the needs of the internally displaced, the refugees and the host population. This support has been used for the provision of water and sanitation facilities, food, medical assistance, shelter and other relief items to these groups.

The recent attack by rebels on N'Djamena (the capital of Chad) resulted in the flight of refugees into neighbouring Cameroon; approximately 10,000 still remain there. The United Nations recently made an allocation of approximately £2.4 million for these refugees from its Central Emergency Relief Fund (CERF), to which the UK is the largest donor (20 per cent.).

Approximately 25,000 Chadian refugees also reside in Sudan. These receive indirect support from the UK through the UN's Common Humanitarian Fund in Sudan, to which the UK is contributing £35 million in this financial year.

Developing Countries: Diseases

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what progress has been made on the funding of the public-private product development partnerships for diagnostics for neglected diseases. [189268]

Gillian Merron: The UK Government are a strong supporter of public-private product development partnerships for neglected diseases, recognising the need to develop new diagnostics.

The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation announced over $60 million in support for TB diagnostics research in September 2007 in a grant to the Foundation for Innovative New Diagnostics (FIND), who also receive funding from the Dutch Government, EU and USAID. DFID staff have had a number of meetings with FIND and we will be considering funding for diagnostics in the context of DFID's new research strategy 2008-13.

Infant Mortality

Ann McKechin: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment his Department has made of the merits of including in the millennium development goals framework equity objectives to close the gap in child mortality between the richest and poorest 20 per cent. of developing countries' populations. [188918]

Gillian Merron: The UK Government believe that equity objectives do currently underpin the millennium development goals' framework. The millennium declaration clearly states that signatories accept a collective responsibility to uphold the principles of human dignity, equality and equity at the global level, with a particular duty to children.

Press

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many press office staff were employed by (a) his Department, (b) its agencies and (c) its non-departmental public bodies (i) in each year since 1996-97 and (ii) at the latest date for which information is available. [189686]

Gillian Merron: The Department for International Development (DFID) does not have any agencies, and is responsible for two non-departmental public bodies—the Crown Agents Holding and Realisation Board and the Commonwealth Scholarship Commission, which do not have any press officers. The number of such staff in DFID since 1997, when the department was established, is shown in the following table:

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 1997 | 6 |
| 1998 | 6 |
| 1999 | 4 |

Sierra Leone: Economic Situation

Mr. MacDougall: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what his Department's latest assessment is of the economic situation in Sierra Leone. [190612]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The economic outlook for Sierra Leone is favourable, although fragile and highly vulnerable to external shocks. The economy grew at sustained pace (8 to 9 per cent. per year) since the end of the hostilities in 2002, and is expected to continue to expand at 6.5 per cent. in 2008, in line with the sub-Saharan African average. Inflation, around 12 per cent. in 2007, is expected to decline to single digit by the end of 2008. Business confidence was boosted by the peaceful outcome of the September 2007 elections, with an increase of private investment, especially in the construction and hospitality industry, and new entrants in the banking sector.

UN Convention on the Rights of the Child

Ann McKechin: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what support his Department provides to civil society in developing countries to hold their governments to account on their observance of United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child obligations. [188914]

Gillian Merron: In several developing countries, the Department for International Development funds civil society specifically to hold governments to account for meeting commitments made under the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC). This commonly takes the form of strengthening local groups representing children to demand that governments take all available measures to make sure children's rights are respected, protected and fulfilled.

The UK Government also support child-focused international non-government organisations (NGOs) such as Save the Children and Plan International who work to strengthen international mechanisms and develop indicators to measure governments' compliance with the UNCRC and other international law.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Animal Experiments

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department further to the Ministerial letter of 31st January 2006 responding to the recommendations in the Animal Procedures Committee's 2005 report on the Statistics of Scientific Procedures on Living Animals, what her policy is on (a) exploring the scope for reporting the true origin of animals when this differs from their proximate source and (b) dividing the category of origin, where this differs from source, into the same categories as those for sources of Schedule 2 animals. [188743]

Meg Hillier: With regard to the origin of animals, the present format of the Statistics of Scientific Procedures on Living Animals is consistent with current European reporting requirements. We will give further consideration to this recommendation when the European Commission publishes revised statistical reporting requirements as part of the current review of Directive 86/609/EEC, which the Animals (Scientific Procedures) Act 1986 transposes into UK law.

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many Iraqi citizens have applied for the UK Gateway Programme since its inception. [189888]

Mr. Byrne [holding answer 27 February 2008]: The Gateway Protection Programme has been in operation since 2004 and resettles a small number of nationalities each year. Applications are submitted by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees to the Border and Immigration Agency. As of 25 February 2008, UNHCR has applied on behalf of 131 Iraqi citizens (including dependants) for consideration within the Gateway Programme.

Border and Immigration Agency: Manpower

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many employees of the UK Border and Immigration Agency are stationed outside the UK; and in which countries they are working. [189851]

Border and Immigration Agency: Middle East

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many employees of the UK Border and Immigration Agency were stationed in the Middle East in each month since October 2007. [189948]

British Crime Survey

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what plans she has to extend the British Crime Survey to children under 16 years. [185286]

Jacqui Smith: Extending the British Crime Survey to cover crimes experienced by children under 16 years was a recommendation of the independent review of crime statistics led by Professor Adrian Smith. In response to the Smith review the Home Office commissioned methodological work to consider the feasibility of including children within the BCS and an announcement will be made in due course.

British Nationality: Assessments

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people took citizenship tests in (a) St. Albans, (b) Hertfordshire and (c) England and Wales in each of the last three years; what the average pass rate was in each year; and if she will make a statement. [189482]

Mr. Byrne: Test results are recorded against the test centre and Government office region where the test is taken, but it is not possible to provide a breakdown of the figures for St. Albans or Hertfordshire.

Candidates may take the test at any test centre and it is known that many candidates take the test at a location convenient to their place of employment rather than their place of residence.

There are two test centres in Hertfordshire, Watford and Stevenage, which fall within the Eastern Government region.

The figures for tests taken in centres in England and Wales are as follows:

Life in the UK tests

| | 2005 (October to December) | 2006 | 2007 |
|---|---|---|---|
| England | | | |

Deportation: Offenders

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many hours detainees awaiting deportation spent in police custody in (a) Teesside and (b) England and Wales in 2007. [189326]

Foreigners: Sports

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether she plans to introduce a levy on non-EU competitors participating at British sporting events; and if she will make a statement. [189613]

Mr. Byrne: The visa fee currently payable for a sportsperson from a visa national country coming to participate at a sporting event in the UK is £99. This fee is set at below cost recovery levels.

Genetics: Databases

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the cost to date of removing errors from the National DNA Database. [182352]

Jacqui Smith: I refer the right hon. Member to the reply I gave the right hon. Member for Sheffield, Hallam (Mr. Clegg) on 21 January 2008, Official Report, column 1769W.

Human Trafficking

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 4 February 2008, Official Report, columns 810-11 on human trafficking, what type of intelligence is expected to be gathered under Operation Pentameter 2; and what progress has been made in this intelligence gathering to date. [186838]

Jacqui Smith: Under Operation Pentameter 2 forces have been requested to submit strategic and tactical intelligence on all forms of human trafficking. The information requested includes information on victims as well as on organised crime groups and their methods of operation.

There has been good progress to date on the collection of this intelligence and following on from the conclusion of this operation the United Kingdom human trafficking centre in conjunction with the Serious Organised Crime Agency will produce an updated strategic assessment of the nature and scale of human trafficking.

Immigration: Deportation

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many individuals have been removed from the UK under regulation 21 of the Immigration (European Economic Area) Regulations 2006. [190325]

Mr. Byrne: The chief executive of the Border and Immigration Agency advised the Home Affairs Committee during her appearance before them on 15 January that 4,200 foreign national prisoners were deported or removed from the UK in 2007. Over 500 of these were EEA nationals that were deported from the UK after consideration under regulation 21 of the Immigration (EEA) Regulations 2006 and the associated case law.

Immigration: Iraq

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many Iraqi citizens currently employed by the Ministry of Defence have applied for indefinite leave to enter on an exceptional basis outside the Immigration Rules. [189894]

Mr. Byrne [holding answer 28 February 2008]: Staff who are currently employed by the Ministry of Defence (MOD) are not eligible to apply for indefinite leave to enter on an exceptional basis outside the immigration rules; they only become eligible under the scheme of assistance when they are made redundant or forced to resign under exceptional circumstances.

Of those who were employed on or after 8 August 2007, seven members of staff have applied to the MOD for indefinite leave to enter. They are being assisted through the process at the present time.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she will reply to the most recent letter from the right hon. Member for Birkenhead on Mr. Eltifat Tahiri Moghanlo of Birkenhead (Home Office Reference M4714/7 T1047133); and if she will make a statement. [188266]

Mr. Byrne: The previous Home Secretary replied to my right hon. Friend's letter of 26 February 2007 on 12 March 2007 (correspondence reference: M4714/7). The Under-Secretary of State replied to my right hon. Friend's letter of 16 July 2007 on 13 August 2007 (correspondence reference: M15070/7). ### Migration Advisory Committee

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how often the Migration Advisory Committee has met; who attended the meetings; what advice it has provided on cohesion and integration issues; and if she will make a statement. [190118]

Mr. Byrne: The Migration Advisory Committee (MAC) has met on three occasions, on 7 December 2007, 25 January and 15 February 2008. Minutes of MAC meetings, including details of those attending and all relevant papers, are publicly available at:

www.biahomeoffice.gsi.gov.uk

The MAC was established to provide independent and evidence-based advice to Government on specific sectors and occupations in the labour market where shortages exist which can sensibly be filled by migration.

The Government may, from time to time, ask the MAC to advise on other matters relating to migration.

Migration Impact Forum

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how often the Migration Impacts Forum has met; who attended the meetings; what information it has provided on the impacts of migration on communities and public services; what advice it has provided on cohesion and integration issues; and if she will make a statement. [190119]

Mr. Byrne: The Migration Impacts Forum (MIF) has met three times, twice in 2007 and once in 2008. Minutes of the MIF meetings, including details of those attending, and all relevant papers are publicly available at:

www.bia.homeoffice.gov.uk

and

www.communities.gov.uk

The purpose of the Migration Impacts Forum (MIF) is to provide a forum for proper, regular and organised dialogue with interested parties outside central Government, focussed on the wider impacts associated with migration experienced by local areas. It:

- Considers information from forum members about the transitional impacts and/or adjustment requirements which derive from migration
- Identifies and shares good practice in managing transitional or adjustment requirements
- Brings together existing evidence about the impacts of migration
- Suggests areas for Government research on the impacts of migration

The Forum meets quarterly and is chaired jointly by a Home Office and a Communities and Local Government Minister.

Passengers: Personal Records

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will place in the Library a copy of the Government's presentation to the EU Justice and Home Affairs Council on 25 and 26 January on the UK's experience of using passenger name record data. [188647]

Mr. Byrne: The presentation contained details that would be inappropriate for public disclosure therefore it cannot be placed in the Library.

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what progress has been made on the European Commission's Passenger Name Record proposal; what the Government's policy on the proposal is; and if she will make a statement; [188648]

(2) pursuant to the written ministerial statement of 7 February 2008, Official Report, column 82WS, on the Justice and Home Affairs Informal Council, 25 and 26 January 2008, what further work the Government has undertaken into the operation and scope of the use of passenger name record data under the European Commission's proposal; [188889]

(3) what the difficult technical and substantive issues related to use of passenger name record data for law enforcement purposes are. [188890]

Mr. Byrne: The European Commission's proposed legislation on the use of EU PNR for law enforcement purposes was published in November 2007. The Government welcome the EU PNR proposal and believe that it presents an important opportunity to share data in the fight against terrorism and organised crime.

Negotiations are at an early stage. The content of the proposal has been remitted to the Multi-Disciplinary Working Group on Organised Crime for detailed discussions and has also been discussed at a "Friends of the Presidency" meeting. We believe that the proposed instrument must be compatible with UK domestic initiatives, specifically e-Borders, and are seeking to agree minimum standards of harmonisation in many areas of the text. There are a number of issues to be resolved, including the technical challenges presented by the introduction and harmonisation of EU member states' PNR data processing systems; the application of appropriate data protection safeguards; and achieving consensus over the appropriate scope of the proposed instrument.

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what research her Department has conducted into the effectiveness of the use of passenger name record data in preventing people trafficking through airline travel. [188651]

Mr. Byrne: The ability to analyse reservation data to identify persons previously unknown to the law enforcement agencies travel is of significant value to the border agencies. The data elements are provided by carriers and screened using rules based targeting, developed using objective criteria relating to individuals of interest. Where such a passenger is identified, manual analysis of the data is undertaken and, where appropriate, the relevant agency is alerted. The use of these data elements has enabled the identification of persons suspected of involvement in a range of criminal activity.

Police: Pay

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police officers in each police force had registered earnings outside their police work in each of the last five years for which figures are available. [186921]

Jacqui Smith: The Home Office does not collect data on police officers who have registered earnings outside their police work. It is for Chief Police Officers to record such earnings.

Project Semaphore

Mr. Meacher: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people have (a) been assessed, (b) warranted further investigation, (c) been deemed to be of interest, (d) been arrested, (e) been prosecuted and (f) been convicted under Project Semaphore in each of the last three years; and upon what charges each such prosecution was brought. [190356]

Mr. Byrne [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The information is as follows:

Project Semaphore has an annualised passenger rate of 30 million.

When a passenger's details suggest further investigation is required or the passenger is of interest, an alert is sent out to the relevant agency. To date, since its inception on 10 January 2005, a total of over 20,000 alerts have been sent by Semaphore. These alerts numbered 1,619 in 2005, 6,196 in 2006 and 11,166 in 2007.

As at 13 February 2008, there have been a total of over 1,600 arrests of passengers where alerts have been sent by Semaphore. Broken down by year: 125 in 2005, 629 in 2006 and 748 in 2007.

Feedback from police forces to Semaphore is returned only on the number of arrests made. No other detail is passed as a matter of course, e.g. prosecution, conviction, etc.

Registered Traveller Programme

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what progress has been made on the European Union's Registered Traveller Programme feasibility study; and if she will make a statement. [188649]

Mr. Byrne: A Communication from the Commission was issued on 19 February. It invited the European Parliament and the Council to reflect on the future of the EU's integrated border management strategy, including the feasibility of the Registered Traveller Programme. The Commission proposes to issue a further working document in due course. While the UK does not participate in this element of the Schengen Agreement, we will work with the Commission to explore to what extent we are able to develop synergies with the proposals.

Security: Aviation

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what progress has been made on the European Union's S-Travel Initiative; what the Government's policy on the initiative is; and if she will make a statement. [188650]

Mr. Byrne: The United Kingdom is not a member of the S-Travel initiative. Our understanding is that the concept of the S-Travel initiative was introduced in June 2002 with a scheduled completion date of April 2004.

Serious and Organised Crime Agency: Confiscation Orders

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many confiscation orders have been (a) obtained and (b) enforced by the Serious and Organised Crime Agency. [187294]

Jacqui Smith: The SOCA annual report for 2006-07 reported that SOCA had obtained, and assisted with the enforcement of, the following confiscation orders:

Operational year 2006-07

| | £/number |
|---|---|
| Value of confiscation orders obtained (£) | 14,542,084 |
| Volume of confiscation order obtained (number) | 91 |
| Value of orders enforced (£) | 4,327,420 |
| Volume of orders enforced (number) | 220 |

As required under the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005, SOCA will publish a report on the exercise of its functions during 2007-08 as soon as possible after the end of the financial year. Comparable figures for the financial year 2007-08 will be available when the report is published.

UK Border and Immigration Agency

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many staff of the UK Border and Immigration Agency, or contractors on its behalf, are (a) directly involved and (b) exclusively involved with the screening of applicants to the UK Gateway programme. [189828]

Mr. Byrne [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The Refugee Resettlement Programmes Unit administers the Gateway Protection Programme. Of the 15 staff working in the unit, nine staff are involved in the screening of applicants. No staff are exclusively involved with the screening of applicants.

UK Gateway Scheme: Finance

Mr. Lidington: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the annual budget was for the UK Gateway Scheme in 2007-08. [189861]

Mr. Byrne: The Gateway protection programme budget for 2007-08 is £9.48 million.

HEALTH

Accident and Emergency Departments

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the proportion of patients attending accident and emergency departments who could be more appropriately managed in primary care. [189571]

Mr. Bradshaw: No formal estimate has been made by the Department.

It is a matter for the local national health service, along with its strategic health authorities and other interested bodies to plan, develop and organise local services that are responsive to people's needs. What is key is that patients have timely access to appropriate care. The case mix of patients attending services is likely to vary locally.

Alcoholic Drinks: Misuse

Jim Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the incidence of alcohol-related illness for the City of Newcastle upon Tyne was in each year from 2000-01 to 2006-07; and what the rate was per head of population in each year. [190918]

Dawn Primarolo: The information is not available in the format requested.

Data are available on the total finished admissions to hospital of residency of Newcastle primary care trust (PCT) in which the patient had a primary or secondary diagnosis of an alcohol-related illness[1] at the start of his/her stay and the rate per head of the PCT area.

This information has been set out in the following table.

| Year (of end of first period of care in patient's hospital stay) | Alcohol-related illnesses finished admissions | Newcastle PCT estimated population | Percentage of finished admissions for alcohol-related illnesses for the Newcastle PCT population |
|---|---|---|---|

The figures do not cover all incidence of alcohol-related illness, only these in which an admission to hospital.

Finished admission episodes:

A finished admission episode is the first period of in-patient care under one consultant within one health care provider. Admissions do not represent the number of in-patients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.

Assessing growth through time:

HES figures are available from 1989-90 onwards. During the years that these records have been collected, the NHS there have been ongoing improvements in quality and coverage. These improvements in information submitted by the NHS have been particularly marked in the earlier years and need to be borne in mind when analysing time series.

Changes in NHS practice also need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. For example, a number of procedures may now be undertaken in out-patient settings and may no longer be accounted in the HES data. This may account for any reductions in activity over time.

[1] All Diagnoses count of Mentions:

These figures represent a count of all mentions of a diagnosis in any of the 14 diagnosis fields in the HES data set. Therefore, if a diagnosis is mentioned in more than one diagnosis field during an episode, all diagnoses are counted.

ICD-10 Diagnosis Codes Used:

F10: Mental and behavioural disorders due to use of alcohol,
K70: Alcoholic liver disease and
T51: Toxic effect of Alcohol.

PCT geographical data:

Population data for PCTs are only available for 2001 onwards.

Ungrossed data:

Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data (i.e. the data are ungrossed).

Arthritis: Medical Treatments

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effect on people with ankylosing spondylitis of waiting for the appeal process to complete on Remicade before issuing guidance on the administering of anti-TNF medication; and if he will make a statement. [188740]

Ann Keen: We have made no assessment of the effect on people waiting for the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) appeal process to complete.

Funding for licensed treatments should not be withheld because guidance from NICE is unavailable. In December 2006, we issued refreshed good practice guidance which asks national health service bodies to continue with local arrangements for the managed introduction of new technologies where guidance from NICE is not available at the time the treatment or technology first becomes available.

Asthma

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate his Department has made of the number of people with asthma who have a care plan as stated in the Our Care, Our Health, Our Say, White Paper. [188350]

Ann Keen: We have made no estimate of the number of people living with asthma who have a care plan.

The new general medical services contract includes a specific 'quality indicator' for treatment and care of people with asthma. It is the responsibility of local health bodies to ensure that patients living with asthma are offered care plans and regular reviews.

Babies: Tranquillisers

Jim Dobbin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many of those previously addicted to prescribed tranquillisers have suffered long-term impairment as a consequence of their addiction. [190274]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department does not currently collect information that enables us to provide an estimate of the number of patients who are addicted to prescription drugs.

Blood Transfusions: Infectious Diseases

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many reported infections of each type arising from blood transfusion have occurred in each of the last five years for which information is available. [190191]

Dawn Primarolo: The following table gives the number of reports of transfusion transmitted infections made to the National Blood Service/Health Protection Agency Centre for Infections Surveillance for the last five years.

| Infection | 2002 | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Hepatitis A Virus | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Hepatitis B Virus | 1 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| HIV | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Hepatitis E Virus | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 |
| Bacteria | 1 | 3 | 0 | 2 | 2 |

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what groups his Department has identified as being at high risk of being exposed to infectious disease transmittable by blood transfusion; how this risk has been assessed and measured; what restrictions are placed on the donating of blood by members of these groups; and if he will make a statement. [190192]

Dawn Primarolo: The rules for blood donor selection have been developed in line with scientific and medical knowledge. The current donor selection rules are a precaution against known infections and also against other infectious agents, known or unknown, that could be transmitted by blood.

Every blood donation is tested for HIV, hepatitis B and C, syphilis and human T-lymphotropic virus. However, no testing process can be perfect. Infected donations may be missed because of the 'window period' between getting an infection and the test showing a positive result.

To minimise the risk, the United Kingdom blood transfusion service donor selection rules, in common with those of many other countries, permanently bar from blood donation any individual who has ever injected drugs, accepted payment for sex, or a man who has ever had anal or oral sex with another man. A temporary (one year) bar on donation is applied to individuals who report a potential exposure to infection that is stated to be no longer ongoing and unlikely to be resumed.

This policy is kept under review by the blood service and the Department.

Blood: Donors

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate his Department has made of the number of blood donations which would be made each year by gay men if they were not banned from giving blood. [190190]

Dawn Primarolo: It is not possible to give such an estimate. However, currently 4 per cent. of the total eligible population give blood.

Breast Cancer: Screening

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what percentage of early stage breast cancer patients tested positive for HER2 in the latest period for which figures are available; [191105]

(2) what guidance has been issued to hospital trusts on compliance with the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence guidelines in relation to HER2 testing; and if he will place copies in the Library; [191106]

(3) which trusts do not automatically screen women with early stage breast cancer for HER2; and if he will make a statement. [191107]

Ann Keen: The Department does not routinely collect figures on the number of breast cancer patients who are tested for HER2.

The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence has not published guidelines on HER2 testing, although it published guidance in 2006 on the use of Herceptin for early stage HER2 positive breast cancer.

The Department has issued no official guidance on HER2 testing. However in January 2006, National Cancer Research Institute guidelines on HER2 testing were circulated to cancer networks as useful information. This guidance can be found on the Department's website at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Healthcare/NationalServiceFrameworks/Cancer/DH_4001771

In 2006, all cancer networks confirmed that they were testing all women diagnosed with early breast cancer for HER2.

Cancer

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, how he plans to ensure that patients with rarer cancers receive the treatment and support that they require; and how he plans to measure progress towards this objective. [187558]

Ann Keen: The "Cancer Reform Strategy", published last year, reconfirmed the Government's commitment to improving services for all cancer patients including those diagnosed with less common and rare cancers.

The strategy aims to improve cancer prevention, speed up the diagnosis and treatment of cancer, reduce inequalities, improve the experience of people living with and beyond cancer and ensure care is delivered in the most appropriate settings.

Annual reports from the National Cancer Director will assess overall progress on tackling cancer. These reports will be published.

In addition, the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence has issued "Improving Outcomes Guidance" covering the majority of less common cancers such as brain tumours, sarcoma, pancreatic cancers and haematological cancers.

Both the Department and the Healthcare Commission monitor implementation of "Improving Outcomes Guidance".

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, how he plans to address the health inequalities faced by socio-economically deprived groups in relation to cancer; and how he plans to measure progress. [187559]

Ann Keen: As announced in the "Cancer Reform Strategy", we are launching the National Cancer Equality Initiative (NCEI) to tackle inequalities in cancer outcomes. The NCEI will bring together key stakeholders to develop research proposals on cancer inequalities, test interventions and to advise on the development of wider policy. This work is in the early stages of development and is being lead by the National Cancer Director.

Local action will also be necessary to tackle inequalities. As part of the measures we are introducing to ensure stronger commissioning, primary care trusts, in association with their cancer network, will wish to undertake a local equality impact assessment and take appropriate steps to address local issues. The Department will also continue to encourage innovation in tackling inequalities through the section 64 grant programme.

We are committed to tracking progress on cancer to ensure that all the aims of the "Cancer Reform Strategy", including reducing inequalities, are achieved and the National Cancer Director will deliver annual reports on progress to Ministers.

Additionally, the UK National Screening Committee is conducting an equality review within the national screening programmes, including those for cancer. As a result of this review, the National Screening Committee will consider what initiatives could be undertaken to improve access to screening in vulnerable populations.

Cancer: Children

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the (a) mean and (b) median waiting time was from diagnosis of children with cancer to treatment for each type of cancer in (i) 2004-05, (ii) 2005-06 and (iii) 2006-07. [187732]

Ann Keen: Average waiting times for cancer patients and average waiting times for specific cancer conditions are not collected centrally. The cancer waiting time standard of a maximum wait of 31 days from urgent referral for suspected cancer to first cancer treatment for children's cancers was introduced from 2001. Performance against this standard in each of the last three years is shown in the following table:

| | Total number of patients | Performance (percentage) |
|---|---|---|
| 2004-05 | 31 | 93.5 |
| 2005-06 | 36 | 91.7 |
| 2006-07 | 42 | 95.2 |

Cancer: Clinical Trials

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health further to the publication of the Cancer Reform Strategy, how he plans to ensure that there is an increase in the number of older people and young people included in clinical trials for cancer treatments; and how he plans to measure progress towards this objective. [187554]

Ann Keen: We are working with the National Cancer Research Institute Clinical Studies Groups to encourage trial designs that do not include upper age limits in their inclusion criteria. We will also encourage medicines' regulators and industry to work together to achieve the same aim for industry-sponsored trials. We are also working with the National Institute for Health Research Cancer Research Network to help ensure that, for trials where there are already no upper age limits to entry, older people are offered entry whenever appropriate.

The United Kingdom Children's Cancer and Leukaemia Group (UKCCLG) is one of the most successful clinical trials organisations in the UK. Increasingly and particularly in relation to the development of specialist clinical units commonly funded from charitable sources, entry into many studies in the UKCCLG's portfolio has expanded to include teenagers and young adults.

We are committed to tracking progress on cancer to ensure that all the aims of the "Cancer Reform Strategy" are achieved and the National Cancer Director will deliver annual reports on progress to Ministers.

Cancer: Screening

Mr. McLoughlin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps are being taken to ensure provision of cancer screening and detection facilities at (a) small and (b) community hospitals. [188927]

Ann Keen: It is for strategic health authorities working in partnership with their primary care trusts, local screening services and stakeholders to provide appropriate screening services to meet the needs of their local populations and to consider the appropriate location of those services.

Cannabis: Misuse

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps the Government have taken to raise awareness among young people of the harmful effects of cannabis on health. [174571]

Jim Knight: I have been asked to reply.

My hon. Friend will know from the replies to his earlier questions on alcohol abuse that the Government are committed to reducing substance misuse among young people. This includes that relating to cannabis. Education about cannabis is delivered alongside that on other drugs, alcohol and volatile substances and is a vital element of our approach.

We are clear of the need to be sure that drug education in schools is robust, accurate and effective. As part of the Children's Plan we have given a commitment to examine the effectiveness of current delivery arrangements for all drugs education and act to strengthen them if necessary.

In addition to school-based education the Government's FRANK campaign has consistently informed young people about the risks associated with cannabis through the media and the dedicated FRANK website. There are around 1,100 visits to the cannabis web page each day alone and the message is clear—cannabis is harmful and illegal and should not be taken.

Compulsorily Detained Mental Patients

Mrs. Lait: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients held under the provisions of the Mental Health Act 1983 have absconded, including those who subsequently returned to care, since 1997, broken down by mental health trust. [189676]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: This information is not collected centrally.

Dental Services: Barnet

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many dentists offering NHS services there are in Barnet; how many there were in 1997; and if he will make a statement. [177929]

Mr. Bradshaw: The latest available data are for 2007 by primary care trusts (PCTs). As at 31 March 2007 there were 232 dentists on open national health service contracts in Barnet PCT.

As at 31 March 1997 there were 186 dentists on open NHS contracts in Barnet PCT.

Numbers of dentists by PCT and strategic health authority (SHA) area as at 31 March, 1997 to 2006 are available in annex E of the "NHS Dental Activity and Workforce Report England: 31 March 2006". This information is based on the old contractual arrangements. This report published 23 August 2006 is available in the Library and is also available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/statistics-and-data-collections/primary-care/dentistry/nhs-dental-activity-and-workforce-report-england-31-march-2006

The numbers of NHS dentists by PCT and SHA area as at 30 June 2006, 30 September 2006, 31 December 2006 and 31 March 2007 are available in table E1 of annex 3 of the "NHS Dental Statistics for England: 2006-07 report". This information is based on the new dental contractual arrangements, introduced on 1 April 2006. This report published 23 August 2007 is available in the Library and is also available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/pubs/dental0607

The inclusion of dentists on trust led contracts in the data collection following the 2006 reforms means that data collected since April 2006 cannot be directly compared with data collected under the previous system.

In both reports published by the Information Centre for health and social care, the work force numbers quoted are headcounts and do not differentiate between full-time and part-time dentists, nor do they account for the fact that some dentists may do more NHS work than others.

The methodology and frequency for reporting workforce information are currently being reviewed. The purpose of the review is to ensure that, following experience of the first year of the new dental contract, figures provide an appropriate measure of the work force, given the way that the workforce reporting system is being used by PCTs. An update on the review was provided in the "NHS Dental Statistics for England, Quarter 2: 30 September 2007" report, published on 28 February 2008.

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people are awaiting registration with an NHS dentist in Barnet; and if he will make a statement. [177989]

Mr. Bradshaw: This information is not collected centrally.

Under the old contractual arrangements, which were in place until 2006, patients had to register with an individual dentist. Under the new contractual arrangements, introduced on 1 April 2006, patients do not have to be registered with a dentist to receive national health service care. The closest equivalent measure to 'registration' is the number of patients receiving NHS dental services ('patients seen') in a given area over a 24-month period. However, this is not directly comparable to the registration data for earlier years.

The numbers of patients seen by an NHS dentist in the 24-month period ending 31 March 2006, 31 March 2007 and 30 June 2007 are available in table C1 of annex 3 of the "NHS Dental Statistics, Q1 2007-08" report. These are the latest data available by primary care trust and strategic health authority area. This report, published on 28 November 2007 by the Information Centre for health and social care is available in the Library and is also available at:

www.ic.nhs.uk/pubs/dentstatsq10708

Departmental Official Hospitality

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much was spent by his Department and its agencies on (a) alcohol and (b) entertaining in the last 12 month period for which information is available. [188064]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department's guidance to staff on hospitality states that hospitality

> "should be modest, and in keeping with the occasion, and justifiable as being necessary for the effective conduct of Departmental business ("wholly, exclusively and necessarily in the performance of" your work)".

The guidance also states that the provision of alcoholic drinks should be exceptional.

The Department does not routinely collect data at this level of detail, as they are not required for our statutory reporting. A considerable manual exercise would need to be undertaken to separate expenditure on alcohol and entertaining from that relating to internal meetings and staff subsistence claims in order to provide this information. Such an exercise would incur disproportionate costs.

Elderly: Nutrition

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) pursuant to the answer of 13 December 2007, Official Report, column 864W, on the elderly: nutrition, whether the membership of his Department's Nutrition Action Plan Delivery Board has been decided; [185597]

(2) if he will include a National Patient Safety Agency representative on the Nutrition Action Plan Delivery Board. [190245]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: Yes. The membership of the Nutrition Action Plan Delivery Board, which met for the first time on 12 February, is shown in the following table. The Board consists of a Core Group, chaired by Gordon Lishman, Director General of Age Concern. There will also be five sub-groups, each chaired by a member of the Core Group (one for each of the key priority actions listed in the Nutrition Action Plan).

| Core group members | | |
|---|---|---|
| Chair | Gordon Lishman | Chair—Age Concern |
| Key Members | Josie Spencer | Sheffield Teaching Hospitals NHS Trust |
| | Debbie Dzik-Jurasz | Royal College of Nursing |
| | Liz Mandeville | Local Government Association |
| | Philip Hurst | Age Concern |
| | Jo Webber | NHS Confederation |
| | Stuart Haines | British Association of Medical Managers |
| | Sarah Smithers | Patient Representative |
| | Policy officials (x 6) | Department of Health |
| Sub group chairs | | |
| Awareness Raising | Rick Wilson (Chair) | Council of Europe UK |
| Guidance | Julie Jones (Chair) | Social Care Institute for Excellence |
| Screening | Prof. Marinos Elia (Chair) | Chair-British Association for Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition |
| Training | Ros Speight (Chair) | Interagency Round Table Group |
| Inspection and Regulation. | Virginia Storey (Co-Chair) | Commission for Social Care Inspection |
| | Rekha Elaswarapu (Co-Chair) | The Healthcare Commission |

Minutes of the meeting on February 12 will be placed on the Department's website in due course.

The National Patient Safety Agency (NPSA) is in contact with the Department on a regular basis to account for policy developments on nutrition and other patient safety issues. Anything we learn from the NPSA will be used to brief the Nutrition Action Plan Delivery Board.

General Practitioners

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate his Department made of the cost of the new contract for general practitioners that came into effect in April 2004 before its introduction; and how much it cost in each subsequent year. [188311]

Mr. Bradshaw: Negotiators at the outset of the original nGMS contract agreed to a guaranteed 36 per cent. increase in minimum levels of investment over the three year period ending 2005-06 through the Gross Investment Guarantee to support the introduction of a new general practitioner contract that delivered higher quality care and an increased range of services for patients.

In costing the entirety of new contract costs including spend against actual resources allocated to primary care trusts (PCTs) over the same period, spend was actually 52 per cent. Measurement of spend against the Gross Investment Guarantee (the minimum level of investment agreed by negotiators) should not be confused with spend against actual resources allocated to PCTs.

Actual spend in each year and the guaranteed minimum investment are shown in the following table.

Spend on primary medical care services compared with the Gross Investment Guarantee

| | 2002-03 | 2003-04 | 2004-05 | 2005-06 | 2006-07 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Gross Investment Guarantee | n/a | 5,611 | 6,211 | 6,918 | n/a |
| Spend on primary medical care services | 5,084 | 5,811 | 6,957 | 7,734 | 7,757 |

n/a = not applicable

Note:

Actual spend in 2002-03 was £4,893 million but to allow comparability with the £191 million expected spend on enhanced services under the new contract, £191 million was added to produce the 2002-03 baseline figure.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for South Cambridgeshire of 30 October 2007, Official Report, column 1222W, on general practitioners, what progress the NHS Next Stage Review has made in examining the different domains of the Quality and Outcomes Framework; what interim findings have emerged from the Review; whether he expects changes to be made to the process for reviewing the Quality and Outcomes Framework for the (a) 2009-10 and (b) 2010-11 financial years; and if he will make a statement; [189439]

(2) if he will make it his policy that reviews of the Quality and Outcomes Framework take place for each new financial year; [189466]

(3) when he expects the review of the Quality and Outcomes Framework for the 2009-10 financial year to begin; and if he will make a statement. [189468]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Quality and Outcomes Framework (QOF) is kept under constant review. Changes to the QOF are made as part of wider general medical services contract negotiations between NHS Employers and the General Practitioners Committee, which provides an opportunity to make changes in each new financial year.

Lord Darzi's interim findings from the Next Stage Review were published on 4 October 2007. The interim report announced the development of a strategy for primary and community care services. A copy of the interim report is available in the Library. As part of the development of this strategy the Review will consider how to reshape incentives to provide a stronger focus on health outcomes and continuous quality improvement; whether there should be an independent process for setting and reviewing outcomes measures in the framework; and whether there should be greater flexibility for primary care trusts in setting outcomes that reflect local needs and priorities.

The NHS Next Stage Review is ongoing and the outcome will be published later this year.

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) GP surgeries and (b) health centres have closed in each of the last 10 years. [180385]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department does not collect centrally the numbers of closures of general practitioner (GP) surgeries or health centres. These data are held locally by primary care trusts.

However, we do collect data on numbers of GP practices, and practitioners, at a given date for each year. These are set out in the following table:

Number of GP practices in England, as at 1997-2006

| | Total GP practices | Total number of GPs[1] |
|---|---|---|
| 1997 | 9,102 | 28,046 |
| 1998 | 9,090 | 28,251 |
| 1999 | 9,034 | 28,467 |
| 2000 | 8,965 | 28,593 |
| 2001 | 8,910 | 28,802 |
| 2002 | 8,833 | 29,202 |
| 2003 | 8,833 | 30,358 |
| 2004 | 8,542 | 31,523 |
| 2005 | 8,451 | 32,738 |
| 2006 | 8,325 | 33,091 |

General Practitioners: Enfield

Joan Ryan: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients were seen by out of hours GP services in (a) Enfield and (b) Enfield North in each of the last 10 years. [190174]

Mr. Bradshaw: Information on the number of patients seen by out of hours general practitioner (GP) services is not collected centrally. Primary care trusts (PCTs) now have a legal responsibility to ensure that they provide or secure provision of out of hours services for their local population. The right hon. Member may therefore wish to approach the Chief Executive of Enfield PCT who might be able to provide data on the number of patients seen by local out of hours GP services.

The NHS London Strategic Health Authority reports that Enfield PCT is in the process of trying to agree extended opening hours with all its practices.

Health Visitors

Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of trends in recruitment and retention of health visitors in the NHS over the last 10 years. [188822]

Ann Keen: The following table shows the number of health visitors in the national health service in England over the last 10 years.

The number of health visitors has remained static over the last 10 years but there has been significant growth in the overall number of nurses working in primary and community care settings in both 2005-06 of 1,039 (1 per cent.) and since 1997 of 29,543 (38.2 per cent.).

Work force planning in terms of the recruitment and retention of health visitors is a matter for local work force planners in local primary care trusts and strategic health authorities as they are best placed to asses the health visiting needs of their local population.

The following table shows the age profile of health visitors as at September 2006.

Health visitors employed in the NHS (England) as at September each year (headcount) and (full time equivalent (FTE))

| | Headcount | FTE |
|---|---|---|
| 1997 | 12,410 | 10,030 |
| 1998 | 12,570 | 10,070 |
| 1999 | 12,800 | 10,160 |
| 2000 | 12,827 | 10,046 |
| 2001 | 13,053 | 10,186 |
| 2002 | 12,774 | 9,912 |
| 2003 | 12,984 | 9,999 |
| 2004 | 13,303 | 10,137 |
| 2005 | 12,818 | 9,809 |
| 2006[1] | 12,034 | 9,376 |

[1] More accurate validation in 2006 has resulted in 232 headcount duplicate records being identified and removed from the non-medical census.

| 60 to 64 | 672 |
| 65 and over | 89 |
| Unknown | 351 |
| All staff | 12,034 |

Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of health visitors suffered work-related stress in the latest year for which records are available; and what assessment he has made of how this compares with the incidence of work-related stress amongst other categories of health workers. [188823]

Ann Keen: The information requested is not collected centrally and no assessment has been carried out. Local trusts are responsible for the welfare of their employees and supporting them in performing their role.

HIV Infection

Jim Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 19 February 2008, Official Report, column 676W, to the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, South and East Cleveland (Dr. Kumar) on HIV infection, how many new cases of HIV there were in the City of Newcastle. [190916]

Dawn Primarolo: The information requested, which is available at local authority level, is shown in the following table.

Number of first United Kingdom HIV diagnoses, Newcastle city council, 1997-2006

| Age group | 1997 | 1998 | 1999 | 2000 | 2001 | 2002 | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 |

Notes:
1. Ranges are provided where one or more cells have a count under five. This is done to remove the possibility of deductive disclosure of an individual's identity. For the same reason, data are provided by age group rather than specific age.
2. Cumulative data are as reported by the end of June 2007. Numbers will rise as further reports are received (particularly for more recent years).
3. Data will include many individuals who have been infected with HIV outside the UK, but who have been subsequently diagnosed in the UK.

Humberside Breast Screening Unit

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the Humberside Breast Screening Unit will have screened every woman in its area within the 36 month target time period. [189457]

Ann Keen: The national target is to achieve 90 per cent. of eligible women being recalled within a 36-month interval.

The Yorkshire and the Humber strategic health authority (SHA) reports that following an extensive review and the development of a service redesign and expansion plan, improvements to performance have already been seen in the Humberside service. It is expected that significant progress will continue to be made, with the achievement of the national target by April 2009. If it is possible to achieve this earlier, efforts will be made to do so.

We take the issue of the 36-month standard between screens very seriously and early last year, Professor

Mike Richards, the National Cancer Director, wrote to the chief executives of all 10 SHAs in England highlighting the importance of maintaining the 36-month interval.

The "Cancer Reform Strategy" also reinforces the need to maintain the 36-month standard, noting that primary care trusts will need to invest more in breast screening to ensure that women are screened within the 36-month standard.

Infectious Diseases

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what records his Department holds of incidents of healthcare-associated infections outside hospitals and care homes; and how many such cases there were in each of the last five years. [187199]

Ann Keen: The information requested is not available.

However the Health Protection Agency's (HPA) enhanced surveillance scheme for methicillin resistant staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) bloodstream infections, introduced on 1 October 2005, collects information on where the patient was located when the specimen was taken but it is not possible from this to reliably attribute infection to specific settings. The HPA analysed the first six months of enhanced data in "Mandatory Surveillance of Healthcare Associated Infections Report 2006" available at:

www.hpa.org.uk/infections/topics_az/hai/MandSurv HCAI2006.pdf

A copy of the report is available in the Library. Most patients were admitted from home and two thirds of blood stream infections were detected two or more days after admission which indicates that these were acquired in the trust.

Information on the patient location for Clostridium difficile infection has been collected since April 2007 and the HPA aim to publish an analysis of this later this year.

Maternity Services

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which maternity units changed from consultant-led to midwife-led in each year since 1997. [188183]

Ann Keen: The information requested is not collected centrally. However, the latest information we have is that there are 181 maternity units in hospitals and 101 midwifery units (33 of which are co-located, and 68 are stand alone in the community). A total of 282 maternity units.

Medical Treatments: Finance

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of people in England who have had privately funded proton radiation beam therapy (a) in England and (b) abroad. [188662]

Ann Keen: No estimate has been made of the number of people in England who have had privately funded proton radiation beam therapy in England and abroad.

Mental Health Services: Young People

Kerry McCarthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what percentage of new cases were seen by specialist child and adolescent mental health services in (a) England and (b) the Avon and Wiltshire Mental Health Trust area within (i) four weeks, (ii) 13 weeks and (iii) 26 weeks in the last 12 months. [187932]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The information requested is shown in the following table. This information comes from the 2006-07 Child and Adolescent Mental Health Service (CAMHS) Mapping Exercise which collates data on the provision of CAMHS in England. This was published in "A profile of child health, child and adolescent mental health and maternity services in England in 2007" (December 2007).

| | National health service provider | |
|---|---|---|
| | Avon and Wiltshire mental health partnership NHS trust | England |
| Total number of new cases in sample period[1] | 124 | 29,078 |
| <=4 weeks (percentage) | 56 | 51 |
| 5 weeks to <=13 weeks (percentage) | 26 | 36 |
| 14 weeks to <=26 weeks (percentage) | 12 | 9 |
| >26 weeks (percentage) | 6 | 5 |

[1] The sample for Tier 2/3 services was the month of November 2006 and for Tier 4 1 June to 30 November 2006.

Note:
Due to rounding figures may not total correctly.

Mentally Ill: Medical Records

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what consideration has been given to independent mental health advocates being given access to electronic patient records; and if he will make a statement. [189263]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The Mental Health Act 1983, as amended by the Mental Health Act 2007, provides that independent mental health advocates may, where the patient consents, require the production and inspection of any records related to the patient's detention, treatment or aftercare. This includes electronic patient records.

NHS: Compensation

Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much was paid in (a) employment and (b) compensation claims by the NHS to its employees in each of the last three years; and how many claims are awaiting payment. [188641]

Ann Keen: This information is not collected centrally.

NHS: Complaints

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the efficacy of the NHS complaints procedure when handling complaints from patients treated by GSUP-2 contractors; and if he will make a statement. [179648]

Mr. Bradshaw: Health service patients regarding treatment through the general supplementary contracts would follow the standard national health service complaints procedure. It is a core function of strategic health authorities and primary care trusts to manage their patient experience including local complaints handling procedures. To date, no formal assessment of the procedures has been undertaken.

Parkinson's Disease

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many people received treatment for Parkinson's disease in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the North East and (d) the UK in each year since 1997; [186959]

(2) how many people were diagnosed with Parkinson's disease in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the North East and (d) the UK in each year since 1997. [186961]

Ann Keen: Information on the number of people diagnosed with, and treated for, Parkinson's disease is not collected.

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people received treatment for Parkinson's disease in (a) Tamworth constituency and (b) Staffordshire in each year since 1997. [187718]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The information requested is not centrally collected.

Radiotherapy

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many patients from England have had proton radiation beam therapy in (a) England and (b) abroad; how many were funded by the NHS; and what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the treatment. [188059]

Ann Keen: Information on the number of patients who have received proton beam therapy in England and abroad and who were funded by the national health service is not collected centrally.

However, the National Radiotherapy Advisory Group (NRAG) Proton Sub-Group Report estimated that 100 to 130 patients with particular eye tumours are treated each year at the current United Kingdom proton therapy facility at Clatterbridge.

The report also estimated that approximately 15 to 20 other patients are referred for proton therapy abroad.

The NRAG Proton Sub-Group Report considered the evidence base for proton therapy and informed the overarching NRAG Report published in May 2007.

The NRAG Proton Sub Group Report is available at:

www.cancer.nhs.uk/documents/nrag_files/Proton%20Subgroup%20Report%20-%20fin.pdf

Scarborough Hospital: Cleaning Services

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Health for what reasons Scarborough hospital has not received a deep clean; and if he will make a statement. [190439]

Ann Keen: All trusts were required to submit and agree their deep clean plans with primary care trusts in their area by 14 December 2007 and this process has been monitored and assessed by strategic health authorities (SHAs). All deep cleans will be complete by the end of March 2008.

As set out in the written ministerial statement by my right hon. Friend, the Secretary of State (Alan Johnson) on 17 January 2008, Official Report, columns 38-39WS, further information on the implementation of the deep clean of the NHS is available from SHAs.

Sexually Transmitted Diseases

Jim Cousins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health with reference to the Answer of 19 October 2006, Official Report, columns 1438-42W, on sexually transmitted diseases, how many diagnoses there were of each disease per head of population in each year since 2000-01; and how many cases there were of each (a) in total and (b) per head of population in (i) 2005-06 and (ii) 2006-07. [190917][1]

Dawn Primarolo: The total number and rates of new diagnoses of sexually transmitted infections (STIs) in England are shown in the following tables.

Total number and rate of new STIs diagnosed in genito-urinary medicine (GUM) clinics in England: 2001-06

| | Total number of new STI diagnoses[1] | Rate of new STI diagnoses[1] |

Notes:
1. Data are collected by calendar year and not financial year.
2. The data available from the KC60 statutory returns are for diagnoses made in GUM clinics only. Diagnoses made in other clinical settings, such as general practice, are not recorded in the KC60 dataset.
3. The data available from the KC60 statutory returns are the number of diagnoses made, not the number of patients diagnosed. For example, individuals may be diagnosed with chlamydia several times in one year and each diagnosis will be counted separately.
4. The information provided has been adjusted for missing clinic data.
5. Data are unavailable for 2007.
6. The total population was used for the calculation of overall rates.

In addition, data from the National Chlamydia Screening Programme (NCSP) shows that between 1 April 2003 and 31 December 2007, among those aged 13-24, there were 565,424 tests for chlamydia, 496,594 confirmed negatives and 54,017 confirmed positive diagnoses.

| Total population[1] aged 13-24 years | 7,887,127 | 7,887,127 |
| Confirmed positive diagnoses per 100,000 population | 139.5 | 202.8 |

[1] Population estimates refers to 2005 Office for National Statistics population estimates for those aged 13-24 years.

Notes:
1. The data are from NCSP registered screening venues and includes the Boots pathfinder project. Data as of 29 January 2008
2. The NCSP screens those aged under 25 years.
3. The NCSP began screening on 1 April 2003 and so data are only available from that date onwards.
4. The NCSP collects number of tests and not number of people tested. We assume that number of tests is a close proxy for number of people tested as re-testing is rare.
5. The data available from the NCSP are the number of diagnoses made and not the number of patients diagnosed.

Strokes

Mark Hunter: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the incidence of stroke was in each (a) strategic health authority area, (b) primary care trust area, (c) Westminster constituency, (d) English region and (e) socio-demographic group in each year since 2002. [185822]

Ann Keen: Hospital episode statistics (HES) from 2005-06 suggest there were around 100,000 emergency admissions with a primary or secondary diagnosis of stroke. However, this figure under-represents the true incidence of stroke for two reasons. Firstly, HES data only includes those who were admitted to hospital with a diagnosis of stroke but not all stroke patients currently attend hospital. Secondly, the count of admissions does not represent the total number of patients as a person may be admitted more than once in the year. HES data cannot answer the question in the form requested. Academic estimates suggest there are around 110,000 strokes in England per annum.

Such information as is available has been placed in the Library.

Suicide

Adam Price: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will review the evidence on the effects of media reporting on the incidence of suicide. [189150]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: There is already compelling evidence, from research conducted in the United Kingdom and abroad, that the reporting and portrayal of suicide in the media can lead to copycat suicides, especially amongst young people or those already at risk. For this reason, the "National Suicide Prevention Strategy for England" made a commitment to improve the reporting of suicide in the media as one of its key aims.

As part of this commitment, on 18 February the Department published a handbook for journalists, "What's the Story? Reporting Mental Health and Suicide" to help the media improve public understanding of mental illness. This handbook highlights international evidence that careless reporting of suicide may trigger copycat suicides and it provides advice to journalists to encourage more sensitive and responsible coverage.

In addition, in June 2006 the Press Complaints Commission added a sub-clause in the "Editor's Code of Practice" to discourage the reporting in the media of excessive detail of suicide methods.

Surgery

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Health on how many occasions surgeons have operated on the incorrect person in the National Health Service in each of the last 10 years. [189309]

Ann Keen: National health service staff can report wrong site or wrong patient surgery incidents to the National Patient Safety Agency's (NPSA) reporting system (the national reporting and learning system). However, the NPSA has not, to date, received any reports of surgeons operating on the wrong patient.

PRIME MINISTER

Official Residences

Grant Shapps: To ask the Prime Minister which official ministerial residence is unoccupied. [189522]

The Prime Minister: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave the hon. Member for Lewes (Norman Baker) and the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar (Mr. Pickles) on 17 October 2007, Official Report, column 1135W.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL

Assets

David Howarth: To ask the Solicitor-General what extra receipts are expected to accrue as a result of the increase in funding for activity in asset recovery contained in the Spring Supplementary Estimate 2007-08. [188191]

The Solicitor-General [holding answer 22 February 2008]: The Crown Prosecution Service, Revenue and Customs Prosecutions Office and Serious Fraud Office all receive a share of funding to incentivise the confiscation element of asset recovery. It is not possible to identify a specific return on specific investment, as asked. Confiscation is a co-operative activity involving investigators and court enforcement as well as prosecutors and the results from individual cases can take some time to feed through. But the funding supports the significant and increasing role which prosecutors play in meeting the Government's target of doubling the amount of money it recovers from criminals from £125 million in 2006-07 to £250 million in 2009-10.

The increases will fund all aspects of confiscation activity, including protecting assets from dissipation during the lifetime of a case, securing confiscation orders once offenders have been convicted and in a number of instances enforcing orders.

Capita

Mr. Amess: To ask the Solicitor-General how much was paid by her Department to Capita Group plc and its subsidiaries in each financial year since 2000; which contracts were awarded by her Department to Capita Group plc in each year from 2000-01 to the most recent available date; what the cost was of each contract; what penalties for default were imposed in contract provisions; what the length was of each contract; whether the contract was advertised; how many companies applied for the contract; how many were short-listed; what criteria were used for choosing a company; what provision was made for renewal without re-tender in each case; and if she will make a statement. [180698]

The Solicitor-General: The amounts paid by the Law Officers' Departments to Capita Group plc and its subsidiaries are shown in the following table.

| | AGO | CPS | HMCPSI | RCPO | SFO | T Sol | Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2000-01 | 6,193 | 148,000 | — | — | 340 | 92,970 | 247,503 |
| 2001-02 | 6,960 | 456,000 | — | — | 10,460 | 247,778 | 721,198 |
| 2002-03 | 0 | 542,000 | — | — | 3,954 | 556,171 | 1,102,125 |
| 2003-04 | -402 | 1,679,000 | 28,649 | — | 1,090 | 324,130 | 2,032,467 |
| 2004-05 | 1,570 | 627,000 | 70,693 | — | 16,500 | 274,118 | 989,881 |
| 2005-06 | 0 | 527,000 | 22,768 | 45,180 | 175,116 | 151,829 | 921,893 |
| 2006-07 | 0 | 594,000 | 41,170 | 109,831 | 740,987 | 57,912 | 1,543,900 |
| Total | 14,321 | 4,573,000 | 163,280 | 155,011 | 948,447 | 1,704,908 | 7,558,967 |

With regard to the remaining questions, the services of Capita Group plc are used for a variety of purposes, including: storage facilities, conference fees, temporary staff, recruitment activity, training, consultancy and occupational health services by the Law Officers' Departments, but there is no central record held that allows the relevant information to be obtained, save at a disproportionate cost.

Departmental Advertising

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Solicitor-General what percentage of her Department's expenditure was on advertising in each of the last 10 years. [183002]

The Solicitor-General: Details of expenditure which can be given without incurring disproportionate costs are given in the following table:

| | CPS | RCPO | SFO | T Sol[1] |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2000-01 | — | — | — | 0.1 |
| 2001-02 | — | — | — | 0.3 |
| 2002-03 | — | — | — | 0.3 |
| 2003-04 | — | — | 0.025 | 0.2 |
| 2004-05 | 0.04 | — | 0.083 | 0.1 |
| 2005-06 | 0.10 | 0.0 | 0.105 | 0.2 |
| 2006-07 | 0.07 | 0.07 | 0.127 | 0.2 |

[1] Includes Her Majesty's Crown Prosecution Service Inspectorate and the Attorney General's Office.

Note:
Expenditure on advertising has been mainly in relation to recruitment.

The specialist Bona Vacantia division of the Treasury Solicitor's Department regularly places advertisements in the press seeking kin in cases where individuals have died intestate with no apparent claimants to the estate under administration. The costs for this activity are treated as an expense on the Crown Nominee's Account that is presented separately to Parliament.

Departmental Information Officers

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Solicitor-General how much the Law Officers' Departments paid in bonuses to press and communication officers in each of the last 10 years; and what the (a) highest and (b) lowest such bonus was in each of those years. [182726]

The Solicitor-General: The available information is as follows:

The Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) runs a special bonus scheme, which aims to reward exceptional individual or team performance. The following data were extracted from the CPS payroll system, which was introduced in October 2004. The CPS cannot provide information prior to 2004 without incurring disproportionate cost.

Between October 2004 and December 2007, a total of £2,650 was paid to press and communication officers, grades A to E:

In 2004—no bonuses were paid;

In 2005—one bonus of £500 was paid;

In 2006—three bonuses were paid of which the lowest was £200 and the highest was £250; and

In 2007—three bonuses were paid of which the lowest was £200 and the highest £1,000.

The Serious Fraud Office rewarded individual press and communication officers as follows:

| | Total | Lowest | £ Highest |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2002 | 500 | 100 | 400 |
| 2003 | 25 | 25 | 25 |
| 2004 | 75 | 25 | 25 |
| 2005 | 25 | 25 | 25 |
| 2006 | 0 | — | — |
| 2007 | 50 | 50 | 50 |

These awards are made for instant, merit and annual bonuses. Earlier information cannot be provided without incurring disproportionate cost.

In the Treasury Solicitor's Department, (TSol) staffing records relating to job titles and job descriptions (rather than grade) have only become available since April 2007, since the introduction of a Human Resources Database. Therefore, no information before this date can be provided.

Currently, there are three posts in the Attorney-General's Office (AGO) press office team (which also performs press office functions on behalf of TSol), two of which are filled by temporary staff. As with other permanent staff, the permanent press office team are eligible to receive bonuses as part of annual performance pay arrangements, with the amounts varying depending on level of performance. For 2007, the bonus amounts in TSol were £200 or £500.

In her Majesty's Crown Prosecution Service Inspectorate and the Revenue and Customs Prosecution Office, no bonuses have been paid.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisors

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Solicitor-General whether any special advisers in the Law Officers' Departments have outside appointments. [185436]

The Solicitor-General: No special advisers are employed in the Law Officers' Departments.

Departmental Travel

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Solicitor-General (1) how much the Law Officers' Departments spent on travel (a) within and (b) outside the UK for officials in each of the last 10 years; and what percentage of the Departments' overall expenditure was spent on such travel in each such year; [181540]

(2) how many overseas visits by officials in the Law Officers' Department took place in each of the last 10 years; which countries were visited; and how much was spent on such visits in each such year. [181595]

The Solicitor-General: All foreign travel under taken by civil servants is undertaken in accordance with the requirements of the "Civil Service Management Code".

The information is as follows:

Crown Prosecution Service (CPS)

CPS spent the following amounts on travel (a) within and (b) outside the UK for officials in each of the last 10 years and the table shows the percentage of the Department's overall expenditure spent on such travel in each of those years.

| Financial year | Within UK (£000) | Outside UK (£000) | Within UK (%) | Outside UK (%) |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1997-98 | 3,208 | 29 | 1.08 | 0.01 |

| 2006-07 | 6,786 | 315 | 1.03 | 0.05 |

For the years 1997-98 to 2003-04 the outside UK figures reflect only overseas travel costs, thereafter the costs of overseas accommodation are also included.

The CPS spent the following amounts on overseas visits in each of the last 10 years.

| Financial year | Amount spent (£000) |

For the years 1997-98 to 2003-04 the figures reflect only overseas travel costs, thereafter the costs of overseas accommodation are also included.

The CPS does not have details of the number of visits made or the countries visited by officials in the last 10 years. From May 2007, the CPS commenced a new contract for the provision of overseas travel, and they do not have access to travel information from the previous supplier. This information could not be provided without disproportionate cost.

Revenue and Customs Prosecution Office (RCPO)

RCPO was created on 18 April 2005.

During 2005-06, £212,255.39 was spent on domestic travel and subsistence, and £18,841.10 was spent on travel outside the UK. These expenditures represented 0.67 per cent. of RCPO's annual expenditure.

During 2006-07, £323,381.95 was spent on domestic travel and subsistence, and £24,588.78 was spent on travel outside the UK. These expenditures represented 0.92 per cent. of RCPO's annual expenditure.

During 2005-06, 30 overseas trips were made at a cost of £18,841.10.

During 2006-07, 41 overseas trips were made at a cost of £24,588.78.

Countries visited were: Australia, Austria, Belgium, China, Hong Kong, Denmark, France, Holland, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, Slovakia, Spain and USA.

The SFO does not keep a central register of how many overseas visits its officials undertook nor countries visited. The information could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Treasury Solicitor (includes Attorney-General's Office and HMCPSI)

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Solicitor-General when she expects to answer Question (a) 181540 and (b) 181595 on departmental travel, tabled on 21 January 2008 by the hon. Member for Taunton; and what the reason for the time taken to respond is. [191406]

The Solicitor-General: These questions have been answered today (3 March).

Departmental Vehicles

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Solicitor-General (1) how many vehicles were (a) owned and (b) purchased by her Department in each of the last 10 years; [183303]

(2) how many (a) parking tickets and (b) speeding fines were issued for vehicles used by the Law Officers' Departments in each of the last 10 years; and what the cost to the public purse of those penalties was in each year. [183355]

The Solicitor-General: My Department has neither owned nor purchased vehicles in this period.

The Serious Fraud Office is aware of one parking ticket for £100 issued in April 2006.

The Law Officers' Departments do not routinely hold such records as it is not their policy to reimburse fines incurred by employees. There has therefore been no cost to the public purse in this period.

HM Procurator General and Treasury Solicitor: Manpower

David Howarth: To ask the Solicitor-General what posts (a) have been and (b) are expected to be created as a result of increases in expenditure on HM Procurator General and Treasury Solicitor in the Spring Supplementary Estimate 2007-08. [188192]

The Solicitor-General [holding answer 22 February 2008]: In 2007-08 the Chief Secretary to the Treasury agreed an additional 10 posts for the Treasury Solicitors Department Agency. In the Attorney General's Office increased funding is for 4.5 posts in the Attorney General's Office itself and creation of a further 2.5 posts for establishing the National Fraud Strategic Authority. The increases in expenditure in the spring supplementary estimate only in part cover increases in posts.

Revenue and Customs Prosecution Office: Finance

David Howarth: To ask the Solicitor-General from which projects funding has been withdrawn as the result of the increase of £1,000,000 in capital spending to cover establishment costs for the Revenue and Customs Prosecution Office IT project and the capitalisation of the majority of refurbishment costs, as announced in the Spring 2007-08 Supplementary Estimates. [188500]

The Solicitor-General [holding answer 22 February 2008]: The Revenue and Customs Prosecutions Office has not withdrawn funding from any projects as a result of its increase in capital spending. The additional capital budget has been drawn from unallocated reserves established under end year flexibility procedures.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Archaeology

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assessment he has made of the effect that the Museum, Libraries and Archives Council's decision to fund the portable antiquities scheme (PAS) at the existing level in 2008-09 may have on the existing number of jobs at the PAS; and if he will make a statement. [187827]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 21 February 2008]: The decision of the Museums, Libraries and Archives Council (MLA) to maintain current levels of funding for the portable antiquities scheme in 2008-09, in the context of a tight spending review, recognises the importance of the scheme. Any assessment of the effect of future funding provision on the scheme is a matter for the MLA, which is working together with other stakeholders to ensure the scheme's continued success.

Archaeology: Finance

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what funding has been made available for the portable antiquities scheme in (a) 2008-09, (b) 2009-10 and (c) 2010-11; and if he will make a statement. [189829]

Margaret Hodge: The Museums, Libraries and Archives Council (MLA) is committed to the continued success of the portable antiquities scheme (PAS) and is working together with other stakeholders to ensure that this is achieved.

In recognition of the importance of the scheme, the MLA has undertaken to maintain current funding levels for the PAS for 2008-09. This represents a good offer in the context of a tight spending review for the MLA. Any decision on future funding for the scheme is a matter for the MLA.

Archaeology: Wales

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what discussions he has had with the chief executive of the Museums, Libraries and Archives Council on the future of the portable antiquities scheme in Wales; and if he will make a statement. [189830]

Margaret Hodge: The Museums, Libraries and Archives Council (MLA) is committed to the continued success of the portable antiquities scheme and is working together with other stakeholders to ensure that this is achieved.

My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State has not met the chief executive of the MLA to discuss this matter. In my capacity as Minister for Culture I have regular meetings with MLA's chief executive. During the course of these meetings we have discussed funding issues for the MLA as a whole. The portable antiquities scheme (PAS) is funded by the MLA, so the impact of funding levels on the scheme is a matter for them.

Mr. David Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many archaeological finds made in Wales have been recorded under the portable antiquities scheme. [189990]

Margaret Hodge: As of 26 February 2008, 17,702 Welsh archaeological finds found by the public have been recorded with the portable antiquities scheme.

Hywel Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many funds liaison officers (FLOs) cover Wales; what recent assessment he has made of FLOs' performance in Wales; and if he will make a statement. [190202]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The Museums, Libraries and Archives Council (MLA) is committed to the continued success of the portable antiquities scheme (PAS) and is working together with other stakeholders to ensure that this is achieved.

One finds liaison officer covers Wales. The PAS also makes small grants to four Welsh Archaeological Trusts (Cambria-Dyfed Archaeological Trust, Clwyd-Powys Archaeological Trust, Glamorgan-Gwent Archaeological Trust and Gwynedd Archaeological Trust) to record archaeological finds found by the public. The finds liaison officers for Cheshire, Greater Manchester and Merseyside and Herefordshire and Shropshire also visit metal-detecting clubs in Wales and record finds made by Welsh finders.

The PAS is funded by the MLA and administered on their behalf by the British Museum. Any assessment regarding the scheme is therefore a matter for the MLA and the British Museum.

Hywel Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the total cost was of the portable antiquities scheme in Wales in each of the last three years; what recent assessment he has made of the performance of the scheme; and if he will make a statement. [190203]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The total costs for the portable antiquities scheme (PAS) in Wales in the last three years were £47,556.02 in 2004-05; £59,325.78 in 2005-06; and £47,863.87 in 2006-07.

The PAS is funded by the Museums, Libraries and Archives Council (MLA) and administered on their behalf by the British Museum. Any assessment regarding the scheme is therefore a matter for the MLA and the British Museum.

Arts

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, columns 313-4W, on the arts, how many people each percentage figure in the tables represents. [189972]

Margaret Hodge [pursuant to the reply, 18 February 2008, Official Report, c. 313-4W]: The tables previously supplied are repeated with additional information relating to population. The tables show the percentage of people from our priority groups and the population as a whole who did not attend or participate in the arts during the 12 months prior to interview. Population figures have been rounded to the nearest 10,000.

Using the latest data available, the following tables show the percentage of people from our priority groups and the population as a whole who currently did attend and participate in the arts in the 12 months prior to interview. Again, these are the tables previously supplied but with additional information relating to population.

Arts participation

All data are taken from the DCMS 'Taking Part' survey, which provides national data on participation in arts activities and attendance at arts events by adults aged 16 and over.

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, columns 314-5W, on the arts, how many people each percentage figure in the tables represents. [189973]

Margaret Hodge [pursuant to the reply, 18 February 2008, Official Report, c. 313-5W: The tables previously supplied are repeated with additional information relating to population.

The tables show the percentage of people from our priority groups and the population as a whole who attended and participated in the arts at least twice during the 12 months prior to interview. This relates to the frequency of engagement rather than the number of activities attended/participated in. Population figures have been rounded to the nearest 10,000.

[1] Data are available for six months only in 2005-06 due to a change in question wording. Population figures (thousand) have been scaled up to represent the full year.

All data are taken from the DCMS 'Taking Part' survey, which provides national data on participation in arts activities and attendance at arts events by adults aged 16 and over.

Arts: Finance

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what long-term strategy his Department has in place for the balance of funding for national institutions in the arts and heritage sector between grant-in-aid and other forms of funding. [190623]

Margaret Hodge: The future health of the arts and heritage sectors will be dependent on securing optimal levels of public and private investment. Sustained investment from central and local government, the National Lottery, business, private individuals and trusts and foundations will all play an important role in the long-term support of our cultural heritage.

Grant in aid for the next three years has now been allocated following the completion of the comprehensive spending review. My Department is working with a broad range of stakeholders to ensure that our investment is complemented by funding from other sources.

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what proportion of donations made to national institutions in the arts and heritage sector by private sponsors can be reclaimed as tax relief. [190624]

Margaret Hodge: Tax issues are of course the responsibility of the Chancellor of the Exchequer and my Department works closely with the Treasury on matters such as the current review of Gift Aid. A broad range of tax reliefs are available to private donors and sponsors of bodies in the arts and heritage sector. These will vary depending on the tax status of each donor. We are keen to ensure appropriate incentives for giving to culture and to secure greater take-up of measures such as Gift Aid across the sector.

Casinos: Licensing

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many casino applications under the Gaming Act 1968 are pending determination by the Gambling Commission. [190554]

Andy Burnham: At 28 February 2008 there were nine applications for a casino Certificate of Consent pending determination or issue by the Gambling Commission under the Gaming Act 1968. Seven of the applications were in respect of new casinos and the other two were substitute premises for existing casinos.

Cultural Heritage

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) what progress has been made towards his Department's public service agreement target to increase significantly the number of people from priority groups visiting designated historic environment sites; and if he will make a statement; [187350]

(2) what estimate he has made of the number of people aged under 16 years and above (a) from black and minority ethnic groups, (b) with a limiting disability, (c) from lower socio-economic groups and (d) in total who visited designated historic environment sites in each year for which figures are available. [187351]

Margaret Hodge: The DCMS 'Taking Part' survey is being used to measure progress against this Public Service Agreement.

The most recent results published in December 2007 are in the table. They provide a comparison between the baseline figures and the second year results of the survey. The statistics show no significant change from year 1 to year 2.

The historic environment indicator is defined as at least one attendance at a designated site during the past 12 months.

| | Year 1 | Percentage Year 2 |
|---|---|---|
| Black and minority ethnic | 50.7 | 48.3 |
| Limiting disability | 59.5 | 60.2 |
| Lower socio-economic | 57.1 | 57.3 |
| All adults | 69.9 | 69.3 |

We are working closely with the cultural sector's strategic delivery bodies—Arts Council England, English Heritage and the Museums Libraries and Archives Council—to ensure that we maximise our impact on increasing participation rates.

These bodies deliver through a range of programmes and initiatives with cultural organisations at regional and local level. This includes: investment in programmes such as Renaissance in the Regions, which has seen visits to local museums and galleries by people from the PSA3 priority groups up by over 30 per cent. since 2002-03; free admission to formerly charging sponsored museums in England—where attendance has gone up by 98 per cent. since 2001; record investment in Arts Council England's regularly funded organisations of £326 million this year; and Heritage Open Days, the annual English Heritage-funded scheme run by the Civic Trust, in which over 35,000 volunteers share their knowledge and memories with up to 1 million visitors every year, making this England's largest voluntary cultural event.

Culture Online

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many (a) hits and (b) unique visitors were recorded by Culture Online in each year since it was established, broken down by project website. [187324]

Margaret Hodge: Hits and unique visitors recorded by Culture Online in each year since it was established, broken down by project website, are set out in the tables. Culture Online closed at the end of March 2007. Four projects did not record hits—MadforArts, Origination, Plant Cultures and Playground Fun. Unique visitors were not recorded for two projects—My Art Space and The Dark.

Culture: Sponsorship

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assessment he has made of the long-term potential for corporate sponsorship as a source of funding in the cultural sector. [190711]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 29 February 2008]: Corporate sponsorship is a vital element of the overall funding mix for the cultural sector. In 2006-07, business investment in the arts totalled over £170 million. We believe there is considerable scope to enhance that investment in the future, and my Department is working closely with the cultural and business communities to explore how best to do so to their mutual benefit.

Departmental Carbon Emissions

Mr. Kemp: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what steps he has taken to reduce his Department's carbon dioxide emissions in the next financial year. [191020]

Margaret Hodge: The Department has devised a plan which has identified potential savings of 562 tonnes of $CO_2$ by March 2009.

In particular, the Department plans to replace its gas boilers with ones which are more efficient. This will significantly reduce our carbon emissions.

We are seeking advice from the Carbon Trust on this.

Departmental Private Finance Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what private finance initiative projects were approved by his Department in each of the last three financial years; and what the (a) value and (b) start date was of each. [190864]

Margaret Hodge: The capital value and start date for every signed PFI project are recorded centrally on the Treasury's website at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/documents/public_private_partnerships/ppp_pfi_stats.cfm

Listed Buildings: Ibsley Control Tower

Mr. Swayne: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport for what reason the recommendation by English Heritage on the listing of Ibsley Control Tower has not been pursued; and if he will make a statement. [191409]

Margaret Hodge: After careful consideration of all the relevant information, including advice from English Heritage, the Secretary of State has decided that the Watch Tower at RAF Ibsley does not have sufficient architectural or historic interest, in a national context, to merit listing.

Government Departments: Flags

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport when his Department plans to publish the summary of responses to its consultation process on flying the Union Flag from UK Government buildings. [189729]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport plans to publish the summary of responses to the consultation soon.

Heathrow Airport: Standards

Ben Chapman: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assessment he has made of the effect of standards of operation at Heathrow Airport on the attractiveness of the UK as a tourist destination. [188760]

Margaret Hodge: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport (DCMS) has not undertaken any specific work to measure the effect of Heathrow's standards of operation. However, my Department and its partners are well aware of the importance of good standards of operation at ports of entry, including Heathrow.

Improving the welcome to the UK is one of my Department's priorities for the London 2012 Olympic Games and Paralympic Games, and VisitBritain has set up the 'Welcome to Britain' group to take this work forward. For example, since January, the Civil Aviation Authority has included additional questions about the quality of welcome in its 'Departing Airport Survey', which is conducted at a number of airports, including Heathrow. Organisations which can influence the visitor's experience at Heathrow, including the British Airports Authority (BAA) and the Home Office, are members of this group. I have also raised welcome issues with representatives of BAA at a meeting in January.

Internet: Children

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will take steps to encourage internet service providers to provide content suitable for children. [189341]

Margaret Hodge: There are a vast array of websites which provide suitable content for children. However we do want to ensure that adequate safeguards are in place to prevent the exposure of children to inappropriate material. This is why the Prime Minister has asked Dr. Tanya Byron to lead a review considering the effectiveness and adequacy of existing measures to help prevent children from being exposed to harmful or inappropriate material on the internet. She is also considering video games in her review. She will be submitting her report and making recommendations for improvements or additional action in March.

Listed Buildings

Mr. Vaizey: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport whether the Government is considering proposals to review the existing listing criteria for buildings of special architectural or historic interest that are less than 75 years old. [189970]

Margaret Hodge: All buildings considered for listing are judged according to the national statutory criteria of special architectural and historic interest. We have no specific proposals to review these criteria, but anticipate a full debate on the subject when the draft Heritage Protection Bill is published for pre-legislative scrutiny in the spring.

Olympic Games 2012

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what discussions he has had with (a) Cabinet colleagues, (b) representatives of other Government departments, (c) the London Organising Committee of the Olympic Games 2012 and (d) the Olympic Development Agency on (i) ethical and fair trade issues and (ii) the use of child labour in the manufacturing of merchandise for the 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games; and on which dates such discussions took place. [185660]

Andy Burnham: I have had no such discussions. This is the responsibility of the Minister for the Olympics. I refer the hon. Member to the answer the Minister for the Olympics gave to him on 18 February 2008, Official Report, columns 115-16W.

Overseas Visitors: China

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what estimate he has made of the average expenditure per head by Chinese tourists visiting England in each of the last five years for which figures are available. [187818]

Public Libraries

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport whether the public library service standards will be incorporated into the national indicator set for local authorities; and whether the standards will continue as benchmarks for library authorities. [184642]

Margaret Hodge: The Public Library Service Standards (PLSS) will not form part of the national indicator set for local authorities. A new measure, capturing use of public libraries by residents, is included under National Indicator 9, Stronger Communities.

The PLSS will be replaced by the new library benchmark, which has been developed by the Museums, Libraries and Archives Council (MLA) and the Society of Chief Librarians (SCL). The benchmark contains 23 criteria which library practitioners might consider when planning and improving their service. It will enable libraries to compare their local performance against other authorities, against themselves over time, and against the national position. The benchmark will encourage the sector to identify and share best practice. Central Government will not use the library benchmark to monitor library authority performance but the information will be collected by the Chartered Institute of Public Finance and Accountancy (CIPFA) and published annually in their report Public Library Statistics.

Listed Buildings: Totnes Railway Station

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will prevent the demolition of the Brunel pumping station at Totnes railway station; and if he will request English Heritage to list the building as a Grade II building. [190576]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 29 February 2008]: Following careful consideration of all the relevant evidence, including advice from English Heritage, the Secretary of State decided on 16 November that the pumping station, Totnes, was not of sufficient special architectural or historic interest to merit listing. The Secretary of State upheld this decision on 22 February 2008 following a review of the case.

Listing a building does not necessarily prevent its demolition. The purpose of listing is to ensure that care will be taken over any decision affecting the building and that the case for its preservation is taken fully into account in considering the merits of any development proposals.

Tourism: Advertising

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much funding was allocated to advertising UK tourism on (a) US and (b) Australian television in 2006-07. [188262]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 22 February 2008]: VisitBritain has spent over £1.9 million on marketing and support marketing in the US. It has spent the same amount in Australia for the same purposes.

The marketing budget for each country in 2006-07 was split with the bulk being spent on online marketing and printed media.

There was no funding allocated for television advertising in either country.

Tourism: Balance of Payments

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what estimate he has made of the balance of payments in tourism in 2007. [190429]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 29 February 2008]: Information published on 15 February from the Office for National Statistics' International Passenger Survey showed that the tourism balance of payments deficit for tourism for the 12 months to December 2007 was £19.4 billion.

The deficit for the final quarter of 2007 was £4.8 billion, £120 million lower than that for the same period in 2006.

Tourism: Northumberland

John Cummings: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what estimate he has made of the value of expenditure made by overseas tourists visiting (a) County Durham and (b) Northumberland in (i) 2005, (ii) 2006 and (iii) 2007; and if he will make a statement. [188833]

Margaret Hodge: The information requested is contained in the table. Figures for County Durham and Northumberland for 2007 are not available.

Spend by overseas residents

Tourism: Standards

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport by what means his Department benchmarks the UK's performance in attracting overseas visitors against other European countries; and if he will publish the results of the latest such benchmarking exercise. [190432]

Margaret Hodge [holding answer 29 February 2008]: DCMS does not benchmark the level of overseas visitors to the UK against other European countries. In a rapidly changing international travel environment, with new destinations and national markets emerging rapidly, the UK's share of the world market is a more meaningful measure of performance. The 32.2 million inbound visitors to the UK in 2006 made up 3.6 per cent. of the world total, and their spending at £15.4 billion was 4 per cent. of world turnover. These percentages were up 0.1 per cent. and 0.2 per cent. respectively on 2005.

For purposes of illustration, visits to the UK rose by 28.2 per cent. over 1997 to 2007, according to the Office for National Statistics' International Passenger Survey, compared to increases in number of arrivals over the same period in France (18.8 per cent.), Italy (20.5 per cent.), and Spain (34.6 per cent.).

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Bed and Breakfast Accommodation: Fires

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many bed and breakfast establishments have had fires caused by guests in the last five years. [190773]

Mr. Dhanda: Information on the number of fires involving guests, solely in bed and breakfast establishments in England is unavailable. However, statistics on the number of fatal and non-fatal casualties in accidental fires in commercially run establishments (with sleeping accommodation) (2002-06) is in the following table. The statistics include fires in hotels and boarding houses as well as bed and breakfast establishments and are not limited solely to guests as a breakdown of the data held to this level is not possible.

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many fires in bed and breakfast establishments have been caused by cigarette smoking in the last five years. [190772]

Mr. Dhanda [holding answer 29 February 2008]: Information on the number of fires caused by cigarette smoking, solely in bed and breakfast establishments, in England, is unavailable. However, statistics on the number of fires in commercially run establishments (with sleeping accommodation) where smoking materials were cause of fire (2002-06) is in the following tables. ### Community Relations

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government where her Department plans to pilot specialist cohesion teams to support local authorities facing cohesion challenges; how many people the teams will comprise; what support they will provide; and if she will make a statement. [190121]

Mr. Dhanda: We have yet to develop detailed plans to take forward the commitment to support local authorities in promoting community cohesion by developing specialist cohesion teams to support those areas experiencing rapid change and other cohesion challenges. We will be consulting with local government on proposals over the next few months.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what plans her Department has to work with the Academy for Sustainable Communities to build on existing cohesion programmes; and what plans the Academy has to improve the skills of planning and housing practitioners on integration and cohesion matters. [190156]

Mr. Dhanda: The Academy for Sustainable Communities is potentially well-placed to improve awareness and practice among local authorities and practitioners to drive local action on community cohesion. Its existing cross-professional and cross-sector reach provides a mechanism for developing shared understanding and strategies to tackle common challenges. It has commissioned a community cohesion research project. The aim of the research is to demystify the language and key issues that surround cohesion and create a learning resource that can be used by all in the sector. The project will clarify the critical steps that proactively address cohesion as an embedded part of building sustainable communities. The project will then develop appropriate learning resources and guidance for these key professionals. Communities and Local Government is working with the Academy to ensure that the outcomes of the cohesion research project are aligned with the Department's forthcoming Cohesion Delivery Framework so that these two resources complement each other.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when her Department plans to publish the guidance for local authorities on tension monitoring referred to in the Government's response to the Commission on Integration and Cohesion. [190159]

Mr. Dhanda: We expect to publish guidance for local authorities on tension monitoring shortly.

Community Relations: Finance

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she plans to decide how the £8 million cohesion element of the Connecting Communities Plus grant programme referred to in the Government's response to the Commission on Integration and Cohesion will be distributed; what type of projects these grants will support; and if she will make a statement. [190114]

Mr. Dhanda: Decisions about the future use of £8 million relating to the Connecting Communities Plus grant programme, which has community cohesion as one of its four themes and runs till the end of the financial year 2008-09, will be taken next year.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which regional improvement efficiency partnerships (RIEPs) will receive funding from the £3 million allocated for 2008 to 2011 to develop local capacity to tackle community cohesion challenges; what criteria will be used to allocate funding to them; what funding is planned for each local authority within each RIEP; on what criteria this funding will be allocated; on what type of projects these funds will be spent; how the effectiveness of the spending will be evaluated; and if she will make a statement. [190115]

Mr. Dhanda: Decisions about distribution of this funding between regional improvement efficiency partnerships (RIEPs) will be made in the light of how cohesion is prioritized in their strategies for 2008-09 to 2010-11, and the inclusion of cohesion improvement targets in local area agreements running for the same period. Once the basis on which funding is to be allocated is established, it will be for RIEPs to decide, in consultation with local areas, and taking into account performance against local area agreement targets, how the funding will be used. The implementation of the RIEPs' strategies for 2008-09 to 2010-11 will be the subject of annual reports by the RIEPs. The detail of how these reports will cover the effectiveness of support for cohesion is subject to further discussion with the Local Government Association.

Community Relations: Standards

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how the effectiveness of the community empowerment action plan referred to in the Government's response to the Commission on Integration and Cohesion will be assessed; and if she will make a statement. [190117]

Mr. Dhanda: The actions identified in the Community Empowerment Action Plan will play a key part in delivering public service agreement 21, building more cohesive, empowered and active communities. The effectiveness of the action plan will therefore be assessed within the PSA framework.

Departmental Home Working

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many people in her Department have been authorised to work from home in the last 12 months. [189786]

Mr. Dhanda: The Department launched a revised flexible working policy in July 2007, under which all staff can apply for home working, whether or not they have a statutory right to request a flexible working pattern.

Since home working is agreed at a local level HR do not keep a central record of home working arrangements.

However, work taking place on our Personnel Information Management System will allow staff to record their flexible working patterns.

In additional to formal home working arrangements, staff can request occasional home working for short periods. This would be an informal arrangement with their line manager which is not centrally recorded.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many (a) staff and (b) full-time equivalent staff under 18 years of age are employed by her Department. [189086]

Mr. Dhanda: As at 31 January 2008 there were no staff aged under 18 years employed by this Department.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what average hourly rate her Department and its predecessors paid to employment agencies for agency staff in each year since 1999, broken down by employment agency. [187906]

Mr. Dhanda: The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Travel

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much her Department and its agencies spent on first class travel in the last 12 months for which figures are available, broken down by staff grade. [187527]

Mr. Dhanda: The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Vehicles

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the Answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 15W, on departmental vehicles, how many of the vehicles in each category were made in the UK. [189915]

Mr. Dhanda: The vehicles listed in the answer of 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 15W, were made in the following countries;

| Vehicles | Country of manufacture |
|---|---|
| MPVs (Multi Purpose Vehicles) | USA |
| IRU Vehicles (Incident Response Units) | Germany |
| DIM (Detection, Identification and Monitoring) Vehicles | Italy |
| Prime Mover Vehicles | Germany |

Fabrication of the bodywork for the IRU and Prime Movers was done in the UK.

Domestic Wastes: Waste Disposal

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what information is collected from waste collection authorities on public satisfaction with the frequency of household rubbish collections. [189490]

Joan Ruddock: I have been asked to reply.

There are three Best Value User Satisfaction Indicators for waste: BVPI90a, covering satisfaction with household waste collection; BVPI90b, satisfaction with waste recycling with a focus on local facilities; and BVPI90c, satisfaction with waste disposal, concentrating on local tips etc.

The National Indicator Set is limited to measures that help to achieve the Government's priority outcomes. Local authorities' duties and responsibilities remain unchanged. There are many services and activities undertaken by local government, alone or in partnership, which are not directly reflected in the National Indicator Set, but which continue to be important to local areas and the people who live there. It is more appropriate that these are performance managed locally; with local authorities setting priorities, determining performance indicators and monitoring and reviewing performance. This is part of the process of devolution that local government has been seeking.

The latest national results for public satisfaction with local government and its services, with trends over time, by authority type and by region for each indicator, are available from the Department for Communities and Local Government's (CLG) website.

A Place Survey run by CLG will be used to collect twenty of the citizen perspective indicators included in the National Indicator Set. This will be collected through a single survey, to be administered by local authorities, and will replace the Best Value User Satisfaction Surveys. We anticipate that the first Place Survey will be carried out this autumn. Government have recently carried out a consultation on this issue, which closed on 8 February.

English Language: Public Participation

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government who sat on the two citizens' juries held jointly by her Department and the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills on English for Speakers of Other Languages held in December 2007; and how they were selected. [190148]

Mr. Dhanda: The identities of individual members of the public who sit on citizens' juries are not disclosed for reasons of confidentiality. The juries selected for the two juries on English for speakers of other languages were selected to be broadly representative of the local population in terms of gender, age, ethnicity, social grade, work status and life-stage. 18 members of the public were recruited to take part in each of the two locations (17 attended in Hull and 18 in London).

EU Grants and Loans

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she expects to receive advice from the EU on what the grant from the Solidarity Fund can be used for; and if she will make a statement. [190999]

John Healey: The scope of operations eligible under the EU Solidarity Fund are set out in Council Regulation (EC) No. 201/2002. This explains the aim of the Fund which is to complement the efforts of the states concerned and cover a share of their public expenditure in order to help them carry out the following essential emergency operations:

(a) immediate restoration to working order of infrastructure and plant in the fields of energy, water and waste water, telecommunications, transport, health and education;

(b) providing temporary accommodation and funding rescue services to meet the immediate needs of the population concerned;

(c) immediate securing of preventive infrastructures and measures of immediate protection of the cultural heritage;

(d) immediate cleaning up of disaster-stricken areas, including natural zones.

Payments from the Fund are limited to finance works alleviating non insurable damages incurred by public bodies.

Eurostar

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much her Department and its agencies spent on (a) first and (b) other class travel by Eurostar in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [187752]

Mr. Dhanda: The information requested is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Fire Services: Finance

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what funding has been provided by her Department to fire authorities to conduct fire safety audits in the last year. [190684]

Mr. Dhanda: The Department has provided £25 million in capital funding over four years to fire and rescue authorities in England for home fire risk checks. For the final year of the grant programme, 2007-08, the grant totalled £10 million.

Fires: Warrington

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many calls to reports of fires on domestic premises in Warrington were made by Cheshire Fire Service in each quarter of (a) 2006 and (b) 2007. [187963]

Mr. Dhanda: For 2006, data on fire calls attended are only available for the whole of Cheshire Fire and Rescue Authority. Information relating to smaller geographical units (e.g. Warrington) is currently only available up to the end of 2005. As a guide, in 2005 just under a fifth of all the domestic fires attended in Cheshire occurred in the Warrington Unitary Authority area.

Information on the number of dwelling fires in Cheshire for each quarter in 2006 is shown in the table. No data are available for 2007.

Dwelling fires attended in Cheshire, by quarter, 2006

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 1 January to 31 March 2006 | 183 |
| 1 April to 30 June 2006 | 187 |
| 1 July to 30 September 2006 | 173 |
| 1 October to 31 December 2006 | 216 |
| Total | 759 |

Note:
Data for 2006 are provisional.

Housing: Rural Areas

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will consider the merits of providing continued central government funding to rural housing enablers as recommended by the Affordable Rural Housing Commission. [189185]

Jonathan Shaw: I have been asked to reply.

The clear vision for the long-term funding of Rural Housing Enablers (RHEs), ever since the first 'demonstration project' was launched over 15 years ago, was that they should be supported at local level by the very local authorities and housing associations whose rural delivery they exist to support.

This reflects the Government's desire to enable decisions about priorities to be taken at the local level in response to local needs, and the important role of local leadership and buy-in in enabling successful delivery.

In many areas this is happening. A number of RHEs are now self-sustaining. Work is currently being undertaken by the Commission for Rural Communities (CRC) to look at how that good practice can be replicated.

Institute of Community Cohesion: Finance

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what funding her Department provided to the Institute of Community Cohesion in each of the last three years; what funding it plans to provide in each of the next three years; and if she will make a statement. [190112]

Mr. Dhanda: Communities and Local Government was created in May 2006. We provided the Institute of Community Cohesion with £64,000 in 2006-07, and £55,000 in 2007-08. We do not currently have any agreed plans for future funding of the Institute.

Local Authority Business Growth Incentives Scheme

Mr. Byers: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much had been received by (a) Newcastle-under-Lyme and (b) Newcastle-upon-Tyne under the Local Authority Business Growth Incentive by 31 December 2007; how much each was entitled to under the provisions of the scheme; and if she will make a statement. [190960]

John Healey: As at 31 December 2007, Newcastle-under-Lyme borough council had received £2,612,562.36 under the Local Authority Business Growth Incentives scheme; and Newcastle city council had received £5,092,209.00.

Under the provisions of the scheme, Newcastle-under-Lyme borough council was entitled to £592,362.36; and Newcastle city council was entitled to £7,879,635.00.

The Department is seeking recovery of the overpayment in line with "Managing Public Money"—the Treasury guidance (replacing "Government Accounting") which sets out principles and standards for government departments on managing public resources. We are making an additional payment of £2,787,426.00 to Newcastle city council today (3 March).

The Department has taken steps to ensure that this type of error does not happen again.

Non-departmental Public Bodies

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what her Department's definition is of a non-departmental public body. [190542]

Mr. Dhanda [holding answer 29 February 2008]: This information is published at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/corporate/about/who/publicbodies/

Recycling

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what information her Department holds on the volume of recyclable materials designated to be exported for reprocessing which have been diverted to (a) landfill and (b) other disposal facilities over the last five years. [189599]

Joan Ruddock: I have been asked to reply.

My Department does not hold any information on the amount of waste that is exported for recycling that may have been diverted to landfill or other disposal facilities.

Regional Ministers: Manpower

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many staff work for each Regional Minister in (a) his or her departmental office and (b) the government office of his or her respective region. [188880]

Mr. Dhanda: The number of staff supporting Regional Ministers varies between regions and is listed in the following table. It should be noted, however, that only a minority of the staff listed as working in the departmental private offices support Ministers in their regional capacity.

| Regional Minister | Departmental private office staff | Additional information on departmental staff | FTE in GO |

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Burma: Politics and Government

Mr. MacDougall: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his Department's latest assessment is of the political situation in Burma. [190654]

Dr. Howells [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Government continue to be deeply concerned by the political situation in Burma. Fundamental civil and human rights continue to be abused. Ethnic minority groups are subject to particular abuse and marginalisation. The military Government impose tight controls on the freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and freedom of the media. The civil opposition continues to be harassed and suppressed. 2,000 political prisoners continue to be detained.

On 9 February, the Burmese regime announced that it would hold a referendum on a new constitution in May 2008 and elections in 2010 as part of its "Roadmap" process. The civil opposition and representatives of many ethnic groups have been excluded from the constitution-drafting process. Unless the constitution and the process is truly inclusive and transparent, it will not lead to genuine national reconciliation. We are particularly concerned at the regime's attempts to exclude Daw Aung San Suu Kyi from the political process and fear that this will only exacerbate tension and instability in Burma. In our contacts with the military Government and those who have influence over them, we are stressing the need for all political actors, including Aung San Suu Kyi, to be allowed to play their full part in shaping the country's future.

On 12 February, my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary reiterated our demand that the Burmese regime immediately release Aung San Suu Kyi and called for the early return of the UN Secretary-General's Special Envoy to Burma, Ibrahim Gambari, to the country, to help facilitate political transition.

Business Ethics

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which (a) Minister and (b) departmental division is responsible for policy on corporate social responsibility in his Department. [191213]

Meg Munn: My noble Friend the Minister for Africa, Asia and the UN, the right hon. Lord Malloch-Brown, is responsible for Corporate Social Responsibility at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO). The FCO's Sustainable Development and Business Group is currently responsible for the FCO's work on Corporate Social Responsibility. However, this Department will be closed at the end of March as a result of the FCO's recent reprioritisation of policy work and the majority of the Department's work on Corporate Social Responsibility will be redistributed to other Departments.

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the budget for promoting corporate social responsibility (a) internally in his Department and (b) externally by his Department to British companies was in each of the last five years. [191214]

Meg Munn: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has provided an annual contribution of £80,000 to the Trust Fund for the UN Global Compact, the largest international initiative promoting Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR), and the FCO annually contributes £3,000 towards the running costs of the Voluntary Principles on Security and Human Rights. Over the last five years the FCO has also made the following allocations of project funding for CSR related projects globally:

| | Amount (£) |
|---|---|
| 2003 | 348,602 |
| 2004 | 484,636 |
| 2005 | 462,533 |
| 2006 | 309,577 |
| 2007 | 567,537 |
| 2008[1] | 192,813 |

[1] Projected for 2008.

This has included funding £125,000 over three years (March 2006 to September 2008) to pilot a civil society co-ordinator with the UN Global Compact. The FCO also funds an annual Chevening Fellowship course for 12 professionals from around the world to study CSR at the university of Nottingham.

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many full-time equivalent staff work on corporate social responsibility matters in his Department. [191215]

Meg Munn: At present, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office has one full-time member of staff working on corporate social responsibility.

China: Dalai Lama

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what report he has received on the negotiating stance adopted by the Chinese government in their talks with representatives of the Dalai Lama. [191104]

Meg Munn: We and EU partners have welcomed the visits to China by the Dalai Lama's representatives, including the last visit, between 29 June and 6 July 2007. We have pressed the Chinese repeatedly to continue these contacts and enter a substantive dialogue without pre-conditions. We have made clear our view that negotiations should work towards a long term solution acceptable to both sides.

Colombia

Ms Katy Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 19 February 2008, Official Report, columns 149-50W, on Colombia, what reports the Minister of State has received which informed his Answer that the people who are murdering the most trade unionists in Colombia are not the Colombian government but FARC. [189620]

Dr. Howells: It is illegal armed groups including the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia that are committing the majority of human rights abuses in Colombia, including intimidation and murder of trade unionists. However, the Colombian armed forces are also guilty of committing abuses, which is why we are helping the Colombian Government develop the processes to root out these abuses.

The latest report of the office of the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) on the situation of human rights in Colombia (UN General Assembly document A/HRC/4/48); Annex II paragraphs 1-2 states that:

> "In 2006, the OHCHR Office recorded an increase in threats against human rights defenders, including trade union members...groups that also continue to be victims of murder, arbitrary or illegal arrest and violations of due process... The acts of violence against human rights defenders have limited their ability to organize and to report violations in some regions of the country. Such acts are attributed to members of new illegal armed groups, paramilitaries and guerrillas. In other cases, members of the security forces and judicial employees have been accused of responsibility for these actions".

We agree that the situation faced by trade unionists in Colombia is difficult. The number of trade unionists threatened and killed is too high. This is why, working with the Trade Unions Congress, we have invited a delegation of Colombian trade unionists to the UK in March, to hear from them first hand and to explore how the UK can offer its support.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the salary range is for each pay band of civil servants in his Department. [188800]

Dr. Howells: For the financial year 2007-08 the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) applies the following salary ranges to staff in each pay band.

| FCO band | Civil service equivalent | Minimum salary (£) | Maximum salary (£) |
|---|---|---|---|
| A1 | Administrative Assistant | 14,732 | 16,681 |
| A2 | Administrative Officer | 16,914 | 21,082 |
| B3 | Executive Officer | 19,568 | 26,778 |
| C4 | Higher Executive Officer | 21,759 | 31,290 |
| C5 | Senior Executive Officer | 27,992 | 37,999 |
| D6 | Grade 7 | 37,069 | 52,786 |
| D7 | Grade 6 | 45,735 | 63,000 |

For staff in the senior management structure (SMS), equivalent to the senior civil service (SCS), the FCO operates reward arrangements within a framework managed by the Cabinet Office. The Government set salary ranges for these pay bands centrally for all Whitehall Departments in response to recommendations from the Senior Salaries Review Board. The ranges are currently:

| FCO pay band | Civil service pay band | Minimum (£) | Ceiling (£) |
|---|---|---|---|
| SMS 1 Assistant Director | SCS 1 | 56,100 | 116,000 |
| SMS 2 Director | SCS 2 | 81,600 | 160,000 |
| Senior Head of Mission (SMS 3/4) Director General plus above | SCS 3 | 99,960 | 205,000 |

Staff working in London also receive a non-consolidated, non-pensionable location allowance of £3,000 per annum.

Equatorial Guinea: Simon Mann

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations he has made to the government of Equatorial Guinea on consular access to Simon Mann. [191238]

Meg Munn: The Equatorial Guinea ambassador assured my noble Friend the Minster for Africa, Asia and the UN, the right hon. Lord Malloch-Brown, on 7 February 2008 that consular access to Mr. Mann would be granted. Our consul from the deputy high commission in Lagos was subsequently able to visit Mr. Mann on 12 February 2008.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assurances he has received from the government of Equatorial Guinea that Simon Mann will be treated in accordance with international standards of human rights while imprisoned in that country. [191239]

Meg Munn: The Equatorial Guinea ambassador has assured my noble Friend the Minister for Africa, Asia and the UN, the right hon. Lord Malloch-Brown, and Foreign and Commonwealth Office officials on a number of occasions that Mr. Mann would receive a fair trial and be treated well while in custody.

Falkland Islands: Territorial Waters

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with the Ministry of Defence on protecting the territorial waters in the Falklands. [190907]

Dr. Howells [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The Falkland Islands Government (FIG) has sole responsibility for protecting the fisheries around the Falkland Islands from unauthorised fishing. To achieve this task the FIG deploys a chartered fisheries protection vessel, two maritime surveillance aircraft and a satellite-based vessel monitoring system. Additionally, fisheries observers are deployed on the commercial fleet. Their primary role is the collection of scientific data, but they also monitor compliance with regulations.

Gambia: Prisoners

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what access to consular services is available to Mr. Charlie Northfield, recently imprisoned in Gambia. [190594]

Dr. Howells [holding answer 29 February 2008]: We are aware of the case and have been providing full consular assistance since Mr. Northfield was detained.

Mr. Northfield is currently on bail.

Gaza: International Assistance

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the situation in Gaza; and what representations he has made to the Israeli government on the delivery of humanitarian aid and the supply of power in Gaza. [190756]

Dr. Howells: The UK is concerned about the latest violence in the Gaza strip and the growing impact of Israeli restrictions which have resulted in power cuts and threaten to undermine vital infrastructure such as hospitals, water and sewage systems. The UN reports that the Gaza power plant is only able to produce 55 megawatts of the 240 megawatts required daily in the Gaza strip. For example, the water authority in the strip is unable to adequately pump and distribute water (cuts in the Gaza City are varying between four to eight hours daily).

My right hon. Friends the Foreign Secretary and Secretary of State for International Development have issued joint statements on the situation in Gaza and Sderot on 11 January, 21 January and more recently on 8 February. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary spoke with Israeli Foreign Minister Livni on this issue on 24 January and I spoke to the Israeli ambassador in London on 29 January. Our embassy in Tel Aviv regularly raises this matter with the Israeli government and most recently our ambassador in Tel Aviv raised the issue with Defence Minister Barak on 25 February.

The UK and its partners will continue to pursue with Israel the reopening of all crossings to facilitate movement for all Palestinians. We deplore the fact that innocent civilians on both sides are suffering. Both Israelis and Palestinians deserve to live in peace and security.

Hamas

Dr. Iddon: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 19 February 2008, Official Report, columns 471-2W, on Hamas, what fundamental conditions the Quartet has set Israel for a viable peace. [189912]

Dr. Howells: The Roadmap sets out the steps the Palestinian Authority and Israel need to implement to achieve a negotiated settlement. Both sides have accepted the Roadmap. At the Annapolis Conference of 22 November 2007, Prime Minister Olmert renewed his commitment to Israel's Roadmap obligations. Among others these obligations require that the Government of Israel freeze all settlement building, dismantle all settlement outposts and take measures to improve the humanitarian situation for Palestinians. The Quartet and the UK firmly believe that the Roadmap is the best route to achieving peace in the Middle East.

Legal Costs

Mr. Wallace: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) how much his Department has spent on (a) legal and (b) other costs in connection with the case of al-Rawi and others vs the Secretary of State; and if he will make a statement; [189753]

(2) what the cost to the public purse has been of (a) the defence and (b) the prosecution in the case of al-Rawi and others vs the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs; and if he will make a statement. [189752]

Dr. Howells: The legal costs in connection with the case of "Al Rawi and others v. the Secretary of State for the Home Department and the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs" were borne jointly by the Home Office and Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO). Including fees for counsel and the Treasury Solicitor's Department, these costs came to just under £395,000 including value added tax. The FCO does not have any information about the claimants' legal costs, which were met by the Legal Services Commission.

Sudan: Security

Mr. Llwyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he last discussed internal security in Darfur with representatives of the government of Sudan. [191102]

Meg Munn: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary set out our concerns on the situation in Darfur, and the need for an immediate end to the fighting in West Darfur, in a joint statement with my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for International Development on 27 February. He has discussed the situation in Darfur with several governments, most recently this week in Beijing at meetings with the Premier and Foreign Minister of China. My noble Friend the Minister for Africa, Asia and the UN, the right hon. Lord Malloch-Brown, has been in regular contact with the Government of Sudan on this issue, including during his visit there and the African Union summit, 28 January-1 February. Our ambassador in Khartoum has been instructed to pursue the matter further with the Government of Sudan.

UK Trade and Investment: Republic of Ireland

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the proposed arrangements are for the administration and promotion of UK trade and investment at the UK Embassy to the Republic of Ireland; and if he will make a statement. [187968]

Mr. Thomas: I have been asked to reply.

The UK Trade and Investment Section in Dublin will be restructured and will continue to deliver services to UK companies seeking to trade with the Republic of Ireland and to Irish companies wishing to invest in the UK.

Zimbabwe: Human Rights

Mr. MacDougall: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his Department's latest assessment is of the human rights situation in Zimbabwe; and if he will make a statement. [190656]

Dr. Howells [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The human rights situation in Zimbabwe continues to cause us grave concern. The Government of Zimbabwe shows no respect for basic human rights such as freedom of expression, assembly and association. Human rights violations perpetrated by state agents including assault, torture and arbitrary arrest continue. Our embassy officials in Harare continue to monitor the human rights situation closely, particularly with regard to infringements related to the forthcoming elections. They will continue to meet regularly with key partners, including local and international non-governmental organisations, to consider how best human rights can be defended.

Zimbabwe: Politics and Government

Mr. MacDougall: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his Department's latest assessment is of the political situation in Zimbabwe. [190655]

Dr. Howells [holding answer 29 February 2008]: Zimbabwe continues to suffer from an economic, humanitarian and political crisis, for which President Mugabe is directly responsible. Although an election has been declared for 29 March, it seems almost impossible for it to be held in anything like free and fair conditions. We are pressing for effective international monitoring and for states in the region to require the election to meet international standards, including those adopted by the Southern African Development Community itself.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

A-levels

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment his Department has made of trends in retaking (a) AS and (b) A2 modules in schools. [185784]

Jim Knight: The information can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Assessments: Standards

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what recent representations he has received from (a) hon. Members, (b) members of the House of Lords, (c) members of the teaching professions and (d) members of the public expressing concern about the maintenance of standards of (i) advanced level examinations and (ii) GCSE examinations; and if he will make a statement. [167392]

Jim Knight: Since the beginning of August my Department has received 22 letters on issues related to exam standards—four from Members of Parliament, six from teachers and lecturers and 12 from other members of the public. These expressed a range of views, including support for the recognition of attainment as well as concern.

It is for the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA) as the qualifications regulator to oversee the awarding process to ensure that standards are comparable both between different qualifications and overtime. There is no evidence that overall standards have not been maintained. Nevertheless the debate about standards continues from year-to-year and we have acknowledged that the fact that the QCA reports to Ministers can make it harder to demonstrate that it is acting wholly independently in carrying out its regulatory role. That is why we have announced that we will legislate to create a new independent regulator of qualifications and tests, building on the QCA's achievements in this area.

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) primary and (b) secondary schools have received a formal warning from the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority about the way they conduct their national tests; and if he will make a statement. [188992]

Jim Knight: The Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA) is statutorily obliged to investigate any matter brought to its attention relating to the accuracy or correctness of the results of any pupil in respect of the statutory Key Stage 2 and Key Stage 3 National Curriculum tests. Such matters are referred to as allegations of maladministration. This remit is carried out by the National Assessment Agency (NAA), part of the QCA, with the aim of safeguarding the integrity of the tests and the interests of pupils.

The NAA's remit in investigating cases of alleged maladministration is to determine whether there is doubt over the correctness or accuracy of pupil results. The NAA does not issue formal warnings. The sanction applied where a case of maladministration is proven is the annulment or change of results for individual pupils or for the whole school. The 2007 maladministration report is available to view at: www.naa.org.uk/tests and a copy will be placed in the House Library.

Children: Arts

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps the Government has taken to develop children's artistic and creative skills since 1997. [189142]

Jim Knight [holding answer 28 February 2008]: Arts education is firmly placed in the national curriculum, for example in music, art, dance and drama. Creativity and creative skills are a key part of the curriculum from foundation stage right through to secondary education and the new secondary curriculum will allow schools greater opportunities to support creativity.

Creativity has featured increasingly in the Government's schools policies since 1997, and we have supported a number of very successful initiatives aimed at giving young people the chance to engage with culture and the arts and develop creative skills. Examples include:

Artsmark, set up in 2001 to encourage schools to increase their range of arts provision;

Creative Partnerships set up in 2002 to give children the chance to develop their creativity by working with creative practitioners and cultural organisations. We are investing over £110 million to expand the programme over the next three years;

The Music Manifesto launched in 2004, a partnership with an agreed set of aims to improve music education for all children and young people, whose report led to a further investment in music of £332 million over three years announced in November 2007;

Initiatives such as the Learning Outside the Classroom Manifesto and the setting up of extended schools, supporting schools to offer extra activities to pupils, including creative and arts activities in and out of school and outside school hours.

The Creative and Cultural Education Advisory Board that we set up in response to Paul Roberts' 2006 review of creativity, has helped us bring together the cultural and education sectors. This is key to the development of a longer term cultural offer that we announced in the Children's Plan. We are committed to working towards a position where all children and young people have the opportunities to develop their creative abilities, and to access high quality arts and cultural activities in and out of school. On 13 February 2008 we announced the "Find Your Talent" programme that will be piloted in ten areas around the country. There is already much cultural and creative activity taking place in and out of school and the pilots will build on this, to make sure all children and young people have the opportunity to take part in creative and cultural activities. It will give children and young people the chance to discover and develop their talents. The intention is, ultimately, to offer five hours of arts and culture a week. The pilots will give us the information we need to make decisions about rolling out the offer nationally.

Children: Internet

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department has taken to increase internet access for children in low income (a) families and (b) communities in (i) West Lancashire constituency and (ii) England. [189806]

Jim Knight: A number of initiatives have been set up to widen access to the internet for low-income families. These recently include Computers for Pupils and Home Access. The Computers for Pupils programme and its current successor has provided £90 million worth of support for children in disadvantaged families.

The Home Access Task Force is considering the potential for a sustainable long-term solution to support all children in having appropriate access and is due to provide final advice to Ministers in April 2008.

The Department does not provide separate funding for West Lancashire, but Lancashire local authority has received over £1 million of the Computers for Pupils funding.

Children: Poverty

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what measures the Government has put in place to meet its target of halving child poverty by 2010. [174396]

Beverley Hughes: We have published our strategy for halving child poverty by 2010 most recently in the Child Poverty PSA Delivery Agreement (published November 2007), the DWP Command Paper 'Ready for work: full employment in our generation', and the DCSF 'Children's Plan' (both published in December 2007).

Our commitment to halving child poverty by 2010 on the way to eradicating it by 2020 is one of the most ambitious economic and social policy objectives set by any government in the developed world.

To date our strategy has focused on fiscal and welfare reform measures to increase employment levels for parents, with most policy focus on lone parents and increasing financial support through the benefit and tax systems.

Significant progress has been made; there are now 600,000 fewer children living in poverty than in 1998/99. Since 1997 the proportion of children living in workless households has fallen from 18.7 per cent. to 16 per cent. in Quarter 2 of 2007—this is a reduction of 405,000.

Children's Centres: Finance

Mr. Pope: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether funding provided by his Department to local authorities for children centres and Sure Start programmes is ring-fenced for existing programmes. [189767]

Beverley Hughes: The Sure Start, early years and child care grant, paid to local authorities, includes funding for Sure Start children's centres and is ring-fenced. Within that grant funding for Sure Start Local Programmes (SSLPs), and children's centres based on Sure Start Local Programmes, is further ring-fenced and can be used only for services in SSLPs, and Sure Start children's centres based on SSLPs.

Culture: Education

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) in which areas the schemes to provide every child with five hours of culture a week are being piloted; and how many children will be involved in these pilot schemes; [188843]

(2) how his Department plans to ensure that every child is receiving five hours of culture a week. [188844]

Jim Knight: On 13 February 2008 we announced a Find Your Talent programme of 10 pilots that will trial ways of delivering a structured five hours a week cultural offer There is already much cultural activity taking place in and out of school and the pilots will build on this, to make sure all children and young people have the opportunity to take part in cultural activities.

We have published a prospectus seeking expressions of interest from partnerships in local areas around the country, setting out a core range of activities we believe young people should be able to engage with. However, this is very much a minimum and we expect additional cultural experiences to be offered. We are looking for innovative bids that will test different ways of delivering a variety of approaches to a comprehensive cultural offer over the next three years, including how the five hour offer can be delivered. The pilots will give us the information we need to make decisions about rolling out the offer nationally.

The deadline for bids is 7 April 2008. Successful applicants will be notified in May and work will begin in September 2008.

General Certificate of Secondary Education: Standards

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what proportion of pupils obtained five A* to C grades at GCSE, excluding equivalents, applied GCSEs, media studies, law, psychology, statistics, physical education and humanities GCSE in the latest period for which figures are available. [182761]

Jim Knight: The information can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

General Certificate of Secondary Education: Stockton on Tees

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what percentage of children in Stockton left school with five A* to C grade GCSEs in (a) 1997 and (b) 2007. [188936]

Jim Knight: The percentage of 15-year-old pupils in Stockton that left school with five A* to C grades at GCSE or equivalent in 1997 was 39.1 per cent., this rose to 60.0 per cent. in 2007. The England figure for 1997 was 45.1 per cent. rising to 60.8 per cent. in 2007. The latest information can be found in the SFR "GCSE and Equivalent Examination Results in England 2006/07" (Revised) at:

http://www.dfes.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000768/index.shtml

Home Education

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what support a child aged 14 years who is home educated and attends a local college on a part-time basis is entitled to receive towards the cost of course fees. [186174]

Jim Knight: We do not provide support towards the cost of course fees for home educated children. Although we encourage local authorities to provide support to home educating families where resources permit, authorities are under no duty to pay the course fees of a home educated child. Parents who elect to educate their child at home must be prepared to assume full financial responsibility.

National Vocational Qualifications: Disadvantaged

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of pupils (a) eligible and (b) not eligible for free school meals were entered for a GNVQ qualification in 2007. [182756]

Jim Knight: This information is not held centrally by the Department and can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Primary Education: Catering

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what proportion of primary schools in each local authority area have no kitchen facilities for producing hot meals; and if he will make a statement. [187150]

Jim Knight: The Department for Children, Schools and Families does not collect this information. However, in its second annual survey of take-up of school meals in England, published in September 2007, the School Food Trust collected data by region and the data are available in the following table.

Providing a hot meal does not require every school to have a kitchen. There are several ways of reheating food on school premises, such as microwave ovens; or schools may use a centralised preparation and delivery service.

Over the next three years, we are providing a record £21.9 billion of capital support for investment in school buildings. Much of this funding is devolved to local authorities and schools for their local priorities, which can include installing or improving school kitchens and dining areas. As part of this funding, we are making available from April 2008 £150 million of targeted capital grant to those authorities with high need.

Private Education: Specialised Diplomas

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many independent schools he expects to offer the full range of diplomas from (a) September 2008 and (b) September 2009; and if he will make a statement. [189033]

Jim Knight: At present no independent schools are part of consortia planning to deliver Diplomas in September 2008. The outcome of applications for September 2009 will be announced in April.

The Government encourage independent schools to deliver Diplomas. We held a 14-19 Diploma conference for independent schools in December 2007 which was well attended and are planning a seminar in April this year for those independent schools which have expressed an interest in greater involvement.

Pupils Exclusions: Suffolk

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many students have been permanently excluded from schools in Suffolk in each year since 1997. [169964]

Jim Knight: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 25 February, Official Report, column 1279W.

Pupils: Diabetes

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the effect of schools not allowing their staff to administer medicines such as insulin on the management of diabetes among pupils. [176982]

Jim Knight: This Department has not made such an assessment.

Our guidance to schools, 'Managing Medicines in Schools and Early Years Settings', issued jointly with the Department of Health in 2005, encourages schools and local authorities to develop local policies on the management of pupil's medicines and on supporting pupils with medical needs, taking account of local resources and their various responsibilities.

Pupils: Disadvantaged

Mr. Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the proportion of children entitled to free schools meals that live in an area where more than 45 per cent. of children are living in families in receipt of benefits; and if he will make a statement. [187140]

Jim Knight: Free school meals provide additional help to children in non-working families (where the adults either do not work, or work for less than 16 hours per week). These families are reliant on 'welfare support payments' and are not able to claim the additional working tax credit' that is available to low income working families (adults working 16+ hours per week).

The requested information is set out in the following table:

Number and proportion of pupils[1] eligible for free school meals living in deprived[2] areas

Pupils: Internet

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what guidance he has issued on technical means of restricting pupils' access to inappropriate content via the internet at school. [188391]

Jim Knight: Advice on how to filter internet access in schools is provided by the British Educational and Communications Technology Agency, Becta. Advice is available on Becta's Schools site at http://schools.becta.org.uk under e-safety. Schools are also encouraged to ensure that their ICT facilities meet the requirements of Becta's functional and technical specifications for institutional infrastructure.

With regard to internet access, schools are encouraged to employ content and email filtering systems. The above specifications recommend these are managed by local authorities and/or regional broadband consortia (RBCs) as appropriate, in discussion with schools. Becta also maintains an accreditation process for providers of internet services to education. This is open to local authorities and RBCs as well as commercial providers. Becta strongly encourages all organisations providing internet services to education to put their service forward for accreditation.

Becta also publishes a range of e-safety guidance for schools. The following are freely available from Becta's publications website at http://publications.becta.org.uk:

Safeguarding children online - a guide for school leaders (published January 2008)

Safeguarding children in a digital world (published February 2006)

E-safety (revised): Developing whole-school policies to support effective practice (published February 2006)

In addition to Becta's own advice, the Department and Becta have provided support to Childnet to produce two CD ROMs in the 'Know IT All' series. The first provides advice and guidance to parents to promote safe use of the internet in the home by children. 'Know IT All For Schools' is aimed at secondary schools.

Safety Value Fund

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether Milton Keynes Unitary Authority made an application for the safety value fund before the closing date of 29 February. [188811]

Jim Knight: Milton Keynes Unitary Authority made an application for the Basic Need Safety Valve before the closing date of 29 February.

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much the application by Milton Keynes Unitary Authority for the safety valve fund was for. [189195]

Jim Knight: Milton Keynes' application for additional funding for new pupil places is the subject of ongoing discussion between the Department's officials and officers from the local authority. Accordingly, agreed application figures are not available at this stage.

Schools

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many children are being taught in schools with (a) between 500 and 999 and (b) less than 500 pupils; [188576]

(2) how many school children were in schools with over (a) 1,000 and (b) 2,000 pupils in the latest year for which figures are available. [188584]

Schools: Inspections

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much Ofsted inspections cost in each of the last three years. [187328]

Jim Knight: This is a matter for Ofsted. HM Chief Inspector, Christine Gilbert, has written to the hon. Member and a copy of her reply has been placed in the House Library.

Letter from Christine Gilbert, dated 20 February 2008:

Your recent parliamentary question has been passed to me, as Her Majesty's Chief Inspector, for a response. You asked for an estimate of the cost of Ofsted inspections over the last three years.

On 1 April 2007, and following the Education and Inspections Act 2006, a new, single inspectorate came into being, 'The Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills'. It has taken on responsibilities from four existing inspectorates: the Adult Learning Inspectorate (ALI); the work relating to children and young peoples of the Commission for Social Care Inspection (CSCI); the work relating to the Children and Families Court Advisory and Support Services of HM Inspectorate of Court Administration (HMICA); and the work of the former Ofsted.

The relevant costs of these inspectorates for the three years 2005/06, 2006/07 and 2007/08 are set out in the table below. These costs include the cost of Ofsted for the three years and the costs of inspection activity undertaken by other bodies prior to the transfer of these responsibilities on 1 April 2007. The 2007/08 figure refers to the costs of the new, single inspectorate form 1 April 2007 onwards.

Table A: Relevant Costs of Inspectorates

| Inspectorate | 2005/06 | 2006/07 | £ million 2007/08 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Ofsted | 223 | 211.6 | 236.6 |
| ALI | 30.3 | 25 | — |
| CSCI | 28.6 | 28.9 | — |
| HMICA-CAFCASS | 0.5 | 0.5 | — |
| Total | 282.4 | 266 | 236.6 |

A copy of this reply has been sent to Jim Knight MP, Minister of State for Schools and Learners and will be placed in the library of both Houses.

Secondary Education

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the social class attainment gap at Key Stage 4 between the most deprived and least deprived quartile of children was in each year between 1997 and 2007 using the Income Deprivation Affecting Children Index. [187144]

Jim Knight: This type of information has only been available since 2002. We are unable to supply the information requested in the time allowed. The available information is set out in the following table:

GCSE[1] attainment by IDACF decile of pupil residence, 2002 and 2007[2]

| IDACI decile | 5+ A-C 2002* | 2007 |
|---|---|---|
| 0-10 most deprived | 26.6 | 42.3 |
| 10-20 | 32.0 | 45.2 |
| 20-30 | 37.6 | 49.1 |
| 30-40 | 43.3 | 53.9 |
| 40-50 | 49.4 | 58.8 |
| 50-60 | 54.4 | 63.0 |
| 60-70 | 59.1 | 67.1 |

| 80-90 | 67.1 | 73.7 |
| 90-100 least deprived | 73.5 | 78.6 |

[1] The 2002 figures include GCSEs and GNVQ equivalent results for pupils aged 15. The 2007 figures include GCSE, GNVQ and a range of other approved qualifications for pupils at the end of Key Stage 4. As such the figures are not directly comparable.

Secondary Schools: Construction

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many new secondary schools are planned to be built in the Milton Keynes and South Midlands Regional Strategy area in the next 10 years; and whether one is planned to be built in Wellingborough in that period. [183814]

Jim Knight: The Department does not maintain records of how many new secondary schools will be built within each local authority or region. This is because it relies on local authorities, using detailed local knowledge of demand and the capacity of existing schools, to determine priorities between improvement, expansion of existing schools, reorganisation, and new build. Capital resources for schools are higher than ever before, and allocations are planned to amount to £21.9 billion over the three year period 2008-09 to 2010-11.

Specialist Schools: West Midlands

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps the Government has taken to encourage more schools in the West Midlands to achieve specialist status. [189143]

Jim Knight [holding answer 28 February 2008]: All maintained secondary schools who meet the criteria for the specialist schools programme are encouraged to apply for specialist status. This includes special schools with secondary aged pupils. We grant the Specialist Schools and Academies Trust and the Youth Sport Trust funding to support and advise all aspiring specialist schools.

There are currently 336 designated specialist schools in the West Midlands, which is around 93 per cent. of all eligible secondary schools in that region. There are also 26 special schools designated of which 15 have curriculum specialisms and 11 have special educational needs/inclusion specialisms.

Teachers: Foreigners

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many teachers from overseas have been awarded qualified teacher status, broken down by country. [188374]

Jim Knight: The following table shows the number of teachers from the European economic area (EEA) who were awarded Qualified Teacher Status (QTS) between 1 September 2006 to 31 August 2007 based on mutual recognition within the European Union (EU).

Teachers from outside the EEA with prior qualifications in teaching can gain QTS through the Overseas Trained Teachers Programme (OTTP). In 2005/06 1,150 trainees gained QTS through the OTTP. The nationality of OTTP trainees is not collected centrally.

In addition trainees from overseas with no prior teaching qualifications can gain QTS through a mainstream ITT course or an Employment Based Route ITT (EBITT) course. The nationality of mainstream and EBITT trainees is not collected centrally.

Teachers: Labour Turnover

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) full-time and (b) part-time teachers entering the profession left the profession within (i) three years and (ii) five years in the latest period for which figures are available. [169136]

Jim Knight: The following table shows the number of teachers who left full and part-time service before March 2006 after entering service three and five years earlier. These teachers attained qualified teacher status in the calendar year before entering service.

Number of teachers who had left full and part-time[1] service before March 2006 after first entering service three and five years earlier

| | Number in service in March: | | | Number in service in March: | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | 2003 | 2006 | Number who left the service by March 2006[2] | 2003 | 2006 | Number who left the service by March 2006[2] |

| Total | n/a | n/a | n/a | 17,380 | 13,000 | 4,380 |

n/a = Not applicable.
[1] The number of part-time teaches may have been underestimated by between 10 and 20 per cent. due to the under recording of these teachers.
[2] The figures for those leaving service includes teachers who have gone on to teaching service outside of the English maintained sector and those that have left teaching temporarily.
[3] Some teachers have moved from part-time to full-time within this period which results in a negative number for teachers who have left part-time service and vice versa.

Figures have been rounded to the nearest 10.

Telephone Services

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) which telephone contact centres are the responsibility of his Department; what mechanisms are in place to monitor their effectiveness; and how many people have been employed in each of those centres in each year since they were established; [166535]

(2) when he expects to answer Question 166535, on telephone contact centres, tabled on 15 November 2007 by the hon. Member for Falmouth and Camborne. [190896]

Kevin Brennan: This Department does not operate a telephone contact centre as such; rather, there is a central Public Communications Unit (PCU) that deals with telephone inquiries, e-mails, written correspondence and public consultations.

In line with the Government's response to Sir David Varney's report on Service Transformation, the PCU is using information gathered against the performance management indicators published by The Citizen and Business Contact Centre Council (CBCCC) to monitor its effectiveness.

The PCU operates a flexible resourcing model, moving people between the various contact channels according to business need. It is not therefore possible to provide a figure for the number of people employed specifically on telephone contact work.

In addition to the PCU, DCSF also contracts with suppliers to provide telephone helpline services to the public, usually in support of information campaigns. These contracts cover the provision of data by the suppliers to enable the Department to ensure that the supplier is meeting the Key Performance Indicators set out in the contract. Additionally, the Department may run mystery shopping or user survey research to further monitor the performance of the contact centres. To provide information on the number of people employed by these suppliers on DCSF work would incur disproportionate cost.

Vocational Training

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the effect on employment opportunities for young people aged 16 to 18 years of the Government's plans to raise the education leaving age to 18 years; and if he will make a statement. [163325]

Jim Knight: The estimated costs and benefits of raising the participation age are set out in the impact assessment published alongside the Education and Skills Bill on 29 November. The estimates of the costs to employers are based on a range of assumptions and scenarios of how employers will respond to the policy. The impact assessment can be accessed at http://www.dcsf.gov.uk/publications/educationandskills/docs/Impact_Assessment_Education and Skills_Bill.pdf and I have placed a copy in the Library of the House. Those employing 16 and 17-year-olds for less than 20 hours a week and for less than a period of eight weeks will be unaffected. We will work with employers to ensure they fully understand their duties under this policy and will continue to support them in employing young people and in providing accredited training where appropriate.

[1] Age-standardised mortality rates per 100,000 population, standardised to the European standard population. Age-standardised rates are used to allow comparison between populations which may contain different proportions of people of different ages.

[2] It is ONS practice not to calculate mortality rates where there are fewer than 10 deaths in an area, as rates based on such small numbers are susceptible to wide random fluctuations. Consequently, rates for local authorities were calculated based on deaths in the years 2004 to 2006 combined. For two local authorities, no rate could be calculated even for the aggregated three year period (shown as '—').

[3] Cause of death was defined using the International Classification of Diseases, Ninth Revision (ICD-9) for the years 1997 to 2000, and Tenth Revision (ICD-10) for 2001 onwards, for England, Wales and Northern Ireland, and ICD-9 for the years 1997 to 1999 and ICD-10 for the years 2000 to 2006 for Scotland. ## Census: Sexuality

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what consultation the Office for National Statistics has undertaken on the inclusion of a question relating to sexual orientation on the 2011 census; and if he will make a statement; [190327]

(2) what estimate the Office for National Statistics has made of the number of UK residents who consider themselves to be (a) gay male, (b) bisexual male, (c) bisexual female and (d) transgender; and what methodology the Office uses to make such estimates. [190328]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 3 March 2008:

The National Statistician and Registrar General for England and Wales has been asked to reply to your recent questions asking what consultation the Office for National Statistics (ONS) has undertaken on the inclusion of a question relating to sexuality on the 2011 Census and what estimate has been made of the number of UK residents who consider themselves to be (a) gay male, (b) male bisexual, (c) female bisexual and (d) transgender; and what methodology the Office uses to make any such estimates. I am replying in her absence. (190327, 190328)

ONS has undertaken extensive consultation with users of census data regarding the topics and questions to be asked in the 2011 Census. A formal public consultation was carried out from May to August 2005, the details of which are available on the National Statistics website at:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/about/consultations/2011Census.asp

The ONS response to the consultation was published in March 2006 and details can be found at:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/about/consultations/2011Census_response.asp

Consultation has continued through public road shows, the National Statistics website, and meetings with stakeholders and user groups.

The consultation identified an increasing requirement for information on sexual identity. ONS regards meeting this requirement as a priority but takes the view that there are better ways than the census to collect timely and reliable information on sexual identity. A paper setting out the rationale is in the response link shown above.

The Office for National Statistics does not at present produce estimates of the number of UK residents who consider themselves to be gay, bisexual or transgender.

In view of the clear need for information about sexual identity ONS has initiated a Sexual Identity Project with the aim of developing a question (or set of questions) on sexual identity which can be used on social surveys and for equality monitoring purposes. A number of focus group studies have been carried out as well as a series of trials on the National Statistics Omnibus Survey. Transgender relates to gender not sexual identity and is not covered by the project.

As acceptable question(s) are developed, after testing they will be added to the Integrated Household Survey (IHS) in 2009.

Information on the Sexual Identity Project detailing the work completed so far and outlining a future programme of work can be found on the National Statistics website at:

Copyright: Enforcement

Mr. Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what funding he has (a) given and (b) plans to give to local authorities to enforce section 107A of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988; what (i) discussions he has had and (ii) representations he has received on this issue; and if he will make a statement. [190782]

Angela Eagle: As part of the 2006 pre-Budget report, the then Chancellor announced £5 million in new funding for councils in the United Kingdom in 2007-08 to fund the new burden on local authorities as a result of the introduction of section 107A and 198A of the Copyright Designs and Patents Act 1988. Funding was rolled into revenue support grant (RSG) at the first available opportunity as part of the first three year settlement for local Government covering 2008-09 to 2010-11. RSG is not hypothecated to a particular service and it is not therefore possible to identify amounts provided for particular initiatives.

The spending plans for local Government announced in the comprehensive spending review 2007 (CSR07) covering RSG, and the settlement for the devolved Administrations, take into account local authorities' responsibilities under s107A and 198A. These plans reflect the discussions which the Department had with each Government Department and with interested bodies such as local authorities, during CSR07. The Government worked closely with local authorities to identify the pressures councils faced, and the scope for managing them.

In relation to representations on this issue, Treasury Ministers and officials have meetings with a wide variety of organisations in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such meetings.

Departmental Impact Assessments

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many regulatory impact assessments his Department has conducted in the last 12 months. [191263]

Angela Eagle: As is the case with all Government Departments, HM Treasury publishes its impact assessments on its website. In the past 12 months, my Department has produced 22 impact assessments to accompany consultations and 11 final impact assessments.

Departmental Private Finance Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the (a) value and (b) start date was of each private finance initiative project approved by his Department in each of the last three financial years. [190809]

Angela Eagle: The capital value and start date for every signed PFI project are recorded centrally on the Treasury's website at:

Drugs: Death

Jim Dobbin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many deaths related to the misuse of zed tranquillisers were recorded in Wales where (a) such abuse was the only drug-related cause of death recorded and (b) misuse of other drugs was recorded as a contributory cause between 1999 and 2006. [190208]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 3 March 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many deaths related to the misuse of zed tranquilisers were recorded in Wales where (a) such abuse was the only drug-related cause of death recorded and (b) misuse of other drugs were recorded as a contributory cause between 1999 and 2006. I am replying in her absence. (190208)

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) reports annually on deaths related to drug poisoning and drug misuse in England and Wales. ONS defines drug misuse deaths as death: where the underlying cause was drug poisoning and where any drug controlled under the Misuse of Drugs Act was involved.

'Zed tranquilisers' are taken to be the three non-benzodiazepine hypnotics: zaleplon, zolpidem and zopiclone. These are not controlled substances and so are not included in ONS statistics on drug-misuse deaths.

In 1999-2006 there were no drug poisoning deaths for Wales where zaleplon, zolpidem or zopiclone were the only drugs mentioned on the death record. The number of drug poisoning deaths, where these substances were mentioned with other drugs on the death record, is provided in the table below for the years 1999-2006.

Deaths from drug poisoning[1] where zaleplon, zolpidem or zopiclone were mentioned on the death record, Wales[2], 1999 to 2006[3]

Emigration

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how many emigrants from the UK counted for the purpose of calculating emigration were (a) UK nationals, (b) UK nationals of working age and (c) skilled workers who were UK nationals of working age in each of the last 10 years for which figures are available; and what percentage of the total emigration figure in each year each of these figures represent; [177453]

(2) from which 20 countries the most immigrants to the UK came in each of the last 10 years; and how many of each nationality immigrated in each year; [177406]

(3) how many (a) UK nationals and (b) non-UK nationals emigrated from the UK in each of the last 10 years, broken down by (i) age and (ii) sex. [177411]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 3 March 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your questions relating to nationality of migrants:

To ask Mr Chancellor of the Exchequer, from which 20 countries the most immigrants to the UK came in each of the last 10 years; and how many of each nationality immigrated in each year. (177406)

To ask Mr Chancellor of the Exchequer, how many (a) UK nationals and (b) non-UK nationals emigrated from the UK in each of the last 10 years, broken down by (i) age and (ii) sex. (177411)

To ask Mr Chancellor of the Exchequer, how many emigrants from the UK counted for the purpose of calculating emigration were (a) UK nationals, (b) UK nationals of working age and (c) skilled workers who were UK nationals of working age in each of the last 10 years for which figures are available; and what percentage of the total emigration figure in each year each of these figures represent. (177453)

I am replying in her absence.

A long-term international migrant is defined as someone who changes his or her country of usual residence for a period of at least a year, so that the country of destination effectively becomes the country of usual residence. This is the United Nations recommended definition of a long-term international migrant and is the definition used for calculating population estimates and projections.

Total International Migration (TIM) estimates provide the most comprehensive figures on long-term international migration. The main source for producing these estimates is the International Passenger Survey (IPS).

While other migration flows, not captured by the IPS, are included in the TIM estimates, the nature of these other data sources and the methods used to produce TIM mean that some detailed queries can only be answered using the IPS. As a sample survey, data from the IPS are subject to a statistical margin of error.

For IPS purposes "citizenship" is taken to be the nationality of the passport being used by the passenger and in this context 'British' includes the whole of the UK and Gibraltar. These definitions have been used in providing the information you have requested.

Table 1 lists the top 20 citizenships of those migrating into the UK in each of the years 1997 to 2006. The top category in each year, British citizens, predominantly comprises British passport holders returning to the UK after a stay of a year or more abroad. As indicated in the table, estimates for some of the top 20 countries have a wide margin of statistical sampling error. For this reason, in Table 2, estimated numbers are presented for combined years for the top 10 countries only. The tables all refer to the citizenship of the immigrant, not their country of last residence. (177406)

Table 3 attached, shows how many British nationals and non British nationals emigrated from the UK in each of the years between 1997 and 2006 (the latest year available), broken down by age group and sex. (177411)

Table 4, attached, gives the International Passenger Survey estimates of emigration of British citizens by working age and previous occupation and as a percentage of total emigration, for the United Kingdom. IPS data do not specifically identify 'skilled workers'. The closest prosy is 'usual occupation prior to migration' which is based on very broad occupational groupings. Most of those in the 'professional and managerial' category could be considered skilled workers although some, such as professionals taking early retirement would not fall under this category. Also, the 'manual and clerical' grouping, which covers all other workers, may include some skilled workers such as tradesmen and so this is also shown for information. (177453)

2. This table relates solely to the IPS. IPS data form the major part of international migration. However, total international migration estimates are produced by combining migration data from the IPS, Home Office data on asylum seekers, migration data between the UK and the Irish Republic and adjustments for 'switchers', i.e. those whose initial length of stay intentions are not realised.

Government Departments: Property

Robert Neill: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer to the right hon. Member for Horsham of 7 January 2008, Official Report, column 332W, on Government Departments: property, what the address was of each empty property listed in the answer, according to records held in the e-PIMS database. [183217]

Angela Eagle: A list of the addresses of current vacant space recorded on e-PIMS has been placed in the Libraries.

The current total area of actual vacant space (excluding sensitive records) is 208,537 m2. This represents 1.44 per cent. of the total space recorded in e-PIMS.

As e-PIMS is a live service, vacant records may have been added or removed since the answer to the right hon. Member for Horsham (Mr. Maude) of 7 January 2008, Official Report, column 332W. This demonstrates that vacant space on the Government estate is being actively managed by Government organisations that have that space.

The answer covers both properties that are entirely or only partially vacant. To distinguish between those properties would incur disproportionate cost. In the case of partially vacant properties, only the area of vacant space is given.

The sensitive marker on e-PIMS is used to protect buildings held by the security services or for other sensitive purposes. Information on these buildings is excluded from data made publicly available.

Insurance: Public Participation

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 27 November 2007, Official Report, column 393W, on insurance: public participation, which small independent brokers were consulted by the Financial Services Authority in preparation of the report on the hard disclosure of commission earned by brokers of commercial insurance expected to be published shortly; and if he will make a statement. [172986]

Angela Eagle: This is a matter for the Financial Services Authority. The Financial Services Authority commissioned the analysis by CRA 'Commercial insurance commission disclosure: Market Failure Analysis and high level Cost Benefit Analysis' as a part of its ongoing review of appropriate commission disclosure on insurance sold to commercial customers. The full CRA report and the FSA program of work can be found at:

International Finance Facility for Immunisation: Cost-effectiveness

Mr. Allen: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment his Department has made of the value for money of the International Finance Facility for Immunisation. [168293]

Jane Kennedy: Vaccines are cheap and effective ways of saving lives. Diseases like smallpox, measles, and polio have already been successfully controlled or even eradicated with the help of vaccines. There are strong reasons for frontloading resources for vaccine distribution through the International Finance Facility for Immunisation (IFFIm). When a child is vaccinated, it not only reduces the risk to him/her, but also reduces the risk to others who come in contact with the child, preventing the spread of disease.

The World Health Organisation has estimated that spending $4 billion through IFFIm without frontloading would save an estimated 2.5 million lives before 2015. But by frontloading $4 billion, twice as many lives—an estimated five million—could be saved in the years to 2015, and a further five million afterwards.

Through IFFIm funding, by the end of 2007, an estimated 14.5 million children will have been reached with vaccine against hepatitis B, and 4.4 million children with vaccine against yellow fever—saving the lives of children in the world's poorest countries.

Lung Cancer

Anne Milton: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many cases of lung cancer were diagnosed in each cancer network in each year since 1997. [190040]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 3 March 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking how many cases of lung cancer were diagnosed in each cancer network in each year since 1997. I am replying in her absence. (190040)

The most recent available figures for newly diagnosed cases of lung cancer registered in England are for the year 2005. Figures for patients diagnosed with lung cancer by Cancer Network in England for the years 1997 to 2005 are in the table.

Motor Vehicles: Excise Duties

Norman Baker: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the environmental consequences of levying vehicle excise duty based on a sliding scale of emissions. [190561]

Angela Eagle: In taking taxation decisions as part of the Budget process the Government assess a range of options, bringing all relevant environmental, social and economic factors into consideration.

The environmental signals provided by vehicle excise duty will help deliver reductions in $CO_2$ emissions. For example, the number of vehicles in the three lowest $CO_2$ emission graduated VED bands is forecast to grow significantly in the longer term in part due to VED reform.

National Insurance Fund

Paul Flynn: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether he has received advice from the Acting Government Actuary on the recommended minimum balance in the National Insurance Fund. [190048]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to him on 18 February 2008, Official Report, column 361W.

Northern Rock

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much is due to be paid to the Virgin consortium from the public purse in relation to Northern Rock; and if he will make a statement. [188251]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 25 February 2008]: As announced by Northern Rock on 26 November 2007, the company agreed to cover certain expenses in connection with the indicative proposal from the Virgin consortium. Paying such expenses is standard as part of bidding processes of this nature.

As a commercial bank, Northern Rock will pay these expenses out of its own income, not from the taxpayer.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the quality rating of Northern Rock mortgage security is (a) within Northern Rock and not otherwise committed, (b) within Northern Rock and committed to the Bank of England and (c) committed to the Granite Master Trust. [188958]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 25 February 2008]: The Financial Services Authority has confirmed Northern Rock continues to be solvent and has a good quality mortgage book.

Further information on the size and nature of the contractual relationship between Northern Rock and Granite is publicly available in the full Granite prospectus on the Northern Rock website.

Northern Rock: Government Assistance

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the impact of loans advanced to Northern Rock on the Government's (a) public sector borrowing requirement and (b) sustainable debt rule; and if he will make a statement. [179899]

Yvette Cooper: Northern Rock liabilities classified to the public sector are temporary, backed by significant assets, and do not represent any meaningful measure of fiscal sustainability. The code for fiscal stability, underpinned by legislation passed by this House, provides for such situations.

Northern Rock: Granite

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the size is of the minimum seller share that Northern Rock is required to maintain in the Granite Master Trust. [188960]

Ms Abbott: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will clarify the legal, institutional and financial relationships between Northern Rock and Granite; and if he will make a statement. [188615]

Angela Eagle: This information is publicly available in the full Granite prospectus on the Northern Rock website.

The prospectus sets out the contractual agreement between Northern Rock and the Granite securitisation vehicle.

Banks and building societies often use securitisation vehicles as a means of financing.

A copy of a letter from the Chancellor of the Exchequer to the hon. Member for Twickenham (Dr. Cable) on 20 February clarifying the relationship between Northern Rock and Granite has been placed in the House Library.

"Now Let's Talk Money"

Danny Alexander: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 21 February 2008, Official Report, column 1020W, on 'Now Let's Talk Money', what funding his Department plans to provide to the campaign in each year from 2008-09 onwards. [190205]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The Government have announced that the continuing 'Now Let's Talk Money' campaign will be delivered through the new "Financial inclusion champions" initiative in 2008-11. The Government have allocated £12 million to the Department for Work and Pensions to deliver the "Financial inclusion champions" initiative in 2008-11. This funding will be profiled as £4 million in 2008-09, £4 million in 2009-10 and £4 million in 2010-11.

Pensions

Mr. Crausby: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will consider bringing the proposed link with earnings for pensions forward in preparing for his forthcoming Budget. [190667]

Angela Eagle: The Government have already set out their commitment to link the basic state pension to earnings in the next Parliament. A decision to bring forward that link would require additional spending on state pensions over and above the reform package set out in the May 2006 White Paper and agreed in the Pensions Act 2007.

Personal Savings

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what response his Department has made to the conclusion of the 2002 Sandler Review that the use of money from the inherited estate of with-profit funds to write new business distorts competition; and if he will make a statement. [190135]

Angela Eagle: The Financial Services Authority (FSA) is responsible for the regulation of life insurance and the inherited estate. The Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 requires the FSA to have regard to seven principles of good regulation including the desirability of facilitating competition between those it regulates and the need to minimise the adverse effects on competition that may arise from anything done in the discharge of its functions. The FSA made major changes to the way it regulates after its With Profits Review but, following consultation, it found that Sandler's specific recommendations in this area were not practical because of possible incompatibility with EU law and the potential impact on the mutuals sector.

The issue is covered in the FSA's Discussion paper on issues for with-profits business arising from the Sandler Review.[1]

http://www.fsa.gov.uk/pubs/discussion/dp20.pdf

The Treasury responded to the recommendations of the Sandler review by launching the stakeholder suite, a range of simple, accessible and charge-capped savings products.

Population

Mrs. Moon: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what the population density of (a) Bridgend, (b) Wales, (c) England and (d) the UK was in each year since 1995; [191158]

(2) what forecasts he has made of population density in Bridgend in (a) 2031 and (b) 2056 based on statistics from the (i) Government Actuary Department and (ii) the Office of National Statistics. [191168]

Angela Eagle: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Jil Matheson, dated 3 March 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your questions concerning population density:

To ask Mr. Chancellor of the Exchequer, what the population density of (a) Bridgend, (b) Wales, (c) England and (d) the UK was in each year since 1995 (191158)

To ask Mr. Chancellor of the Exchequer, what forecasts he has made of population density in Bridgend in (a) 2031 and (b) 2056 based on statistics from the (i) Government Actuaries Department and (ii) the office for National Statistics.

I am replying in her absence.

The table below shows population density figures calculated for each mid-year estimate from 1995 to 2006 for the areas requested. Mid-2006 are the latest population density estimates available.

Subnational population projections within Wales are a matter for the Welsh Assembly Government. They advise that Population projections are not currently published at local authority level for Wales. Projections are available at regional level. The Welsh Assembly Government plan to publish population projections at local authority level in summer 2008.

Public Sector Net Cash Requirement

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will estimate Government borrowing since 1997 when calculated in line with the latest international financial reporting standards on the recording of private public partnership liabilities. [190038]

Angela Eagle: Public sector net borrowing (PSNB) is assessed using National Accounts data compiled by the independent Office for National Statistics. The Government announced at Budget 2007 to move to International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) for the annual resource accounts of public bodies from 2008-09. It is too early to say what implications the IFRS based accounting guidance for public private partnerships might have for PSNB.

Revenue and Customs: Pay

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many HM Revenue and Customs employees were paid (a) over £60,000 and (b) over £100,000 per annum, inclusive of bonuses, in the most recent financial year for which figures are available. [173103]

Jane Kennedy: Following the merger of the Inland Revenue and Customs and Excise in April 2005, three payroll systems were in operation during the 2006-07 financial year.

To obtain the requested information from both the archived and current payroll systems would be disproportionate and resource intensive.

HMRC's headcount was 92,238 at 1 November 2007. Information provided has been based on number of staff who, were paid at the annual rate of (a) £60,000 to £99,999 and (b) £100,000 and over on this date.

| | Number of staff |
|---|---|
| £60,000 to £99,999 | 1,220 |
| £100,000 and above | 50 |
| Total | 1,270 |

Tax Credits Office: Manpower

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people are employed in his Department's Tax Credits Office. [190019]

Jane Kennedy: At 1 February 2008 around 4,500 HM Revenue and Customs staff members were employed in Tax Credit Office (TCO). This figure includes part time staff and is equivalent to around 3,950 full time staff.

Taxation: Bingo

David Taylor: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the likely effect on revenue from amusement machine licence duty of bingo club closures in the last 12 months. [191237]

Angela Eagle: An updated forecast of total betting and gaming duties, which includes amusement machine licence duty receipts, will be published in the "Financial Statement and Budget Report".

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what factors were considered when setting the current rate of gross profit tax for licensed bingo; and if he will make a statement. [191350]

Angela Eagle: The Government consider all relevant factors when establishing and maintaining fair regimes for the gambling taxes. The Chancellor keeps all taxes under review and decisions about gambling taxation are made each year at Budget alongside all other tax decisions.

Mr. Marshall: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what advice his Department has received on the similarities between the taxation of bingo played in licensed clubs and the tax treatment of player-to-player poker in casinos. [190728]

Angela Eagle: Treasury Ministers and officials receive representations from a wide range of organisations and individuals in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such representations.

Lynne Jones: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the fairness of the tax regime applying to bingo as compared with that which applies to other forms of gambling. [190830]

Angela Eagle: The average effective rate of taxation applied to bingo is comparable to the average effective rate of taxation that applies to other forms of gambling such as casino gaming, gaming machines and the lottery.

Taxation: Pensions

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of (a) the number of people affected by his decision to levy tax on pension funds above £1.8 million rather than of £1.4 million and (b) the effect on revenue to the Exchequer of (i) his decision to levy tax on pension funds above £1.8 million instead of £1.4 million, (ii) his decision to levy tax on pension funds above £1.4 million at 55 per cent. rather than 60 per cent. and (iii) his decision to delay the introduction of the 55 per cent. tax on pension funds above £1.4 million until 2010; and if he will make a statement. [190849]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Member the answer given to the hon. Member for Birmingham, Selly Oak (Lynne Jones) on 10 July 2006, Official Report, column 1643W.

The exit charge on funds crystallized in excess of the life time allowance (LTA) is designed to place a maximum on tax relieved pension saving. We do not expect the exit charge to raise significant revenue and there is negligible Exchequer cost of reducing the rate to 55 per cent..

The exit charge on funds in excess was introduced on 6 April 2006. No decision was taken to delay its introduction until 2010.

VAT: Bingo

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what representations he has received from bingo clubs in Hendon constituency on the impact of liability of bingo clubs to both value-added tax and gross profits tax. [190556]

Angela Eagle: Treasury Ministers and officials receive representations from a wide range of organisations and individuals in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such representations.

Welfare Tax Credits

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many man hours officials in his Department spent on average on each tax credits claimant in each year for which figures are available. [190018]

Jane Kennedy: This information is not available in the format requested.

JUSTICE

Departmental Home Working

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people in his Department have been able to work from home in the last 12 months. [189778]

Maria Eagle: My Department offers flexible working arrangements to the majority of our employees. Under these arrangements the ability to work from home is one option that is available to most grades on both a formal and an ad hoc basis. As there is no requirement to maintain records of arrangements centrally, this information could be collated only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Gale: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what proportion of his Department's translation and interpreting work is outsourced under framework agreements with commercial providers; and if he will make a statement. [189147]

Maria Eagle: My Department meets the requirements for translation work through a combination of in-house provision and outsourcing through framework agreements with commercial providers.

For the majority of face-to-face interpreting work the Department engages individuals registered with the National Register of Public Service Interpreters on the basis of the fees set out in accordance with the Costs in Criminal Cases (General) Regulations 1986.

Records that would allow for the proportion of translation and interpreting services to be calculated are not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Written Questions

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many and what proportion of parliamentary questions for answer on a named day to his Department and its predecessor received an (a) holding and (b) substantive answer on the named day in each year since 2001. [190288]

Maria Eagle: The information requested is in the following table.

| | Named day PQs that received a substantive answer on the day named | | Holding replies | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Session | Number | Percentage | Number | Percentage | Total named day questions |
| 2005-06 | 246 | 65 | 132 | 35 | 378 |
| 2006-07 | 355 | 79.25 | 93 | 20.75 | 448 |
| 5 November 2007 to 29 February 2008 | 262 | 74 | 92 | 26 | 354 |

Records have only been available electronically since May 2005. Therefore, information for the former Department for Constitutional Affairs and the Lord Chancellor's Department prior to May 2005 is not held centrally and could be provided only by manually checking paper records at a disproportionate cost.

Deportation: Appeals

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many of the 359 appeals against a notice of intent to deport between 1 August and 31 October 2006 were successful; and what the grounds were for those appeals which were successful. [190912]

Mr. Straw: Of the 359 oral appeal hearings against a notice of intent to deport held at the Asylum and Immigration Tribunal between 1 August and 31 October 2006, 70 were successful.

The grounds on which those appeals were successful could not be determined without examination of the individual files, which would incur disproportionate cost.

Electoral Register

Mary Creagh: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice when he plans to publish the report of his consultation on Fees for the Marked Register of Electors. [189989]

Bridget Prentice: We have been analysing the responses received on the consultation paper on 'Fees for the Marked Register of Electors produced at the UK Election.'. A response paper is currently being prepared and will be published imminently.

Electoral Register: Forms

Mr. Shepherd: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) what assessment he has made of whether electoral registration form RP 12 reflects the legal residency qualifications required of Commonwealth citizens to register; [190067]

(2) what assessment he has made of whether section 5 of the electoral registration form RP 12 identifies those individuals entitled to register as electors in Great Britain. [190068]

Bridget Prentice: There is no prescribed electoral registration form known as an RP 12, and therefore I have made no assessment.

Under the Representation of the People Act 1983 those entitled to vote at UK Parliamentary, European Parliamentary and local government elections are those who have attained the age of 18 and who are British citizens, citizens of Commonwealth countries who are resident on a permanent basis or have leave to remain, and resident citizens of the Republic of Ireland.

The annual canvass form and the provisions for rolling registration effectively capture a person's nationality. The Electoral Registration Officer (ERO) will use this information to determine a person's eligibility to register. When there is doubt about eligibility the ERO may investigate and request further information from the elector.

Electoral Register: Publicity

Mr. Shepherd: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what guidance his Department has given to electoral registration officers on the promotion of credit referencing as a reason to apply for inclusion on an electoral roll on council-maintained websites. [190066]

Bridget Prentice: Responsibility for issuing guidance to Electoral Registration Officers (EROs) on electoral registration lies with the Electoral Commission. I understand that it has not issued any guidance on the promotion of credit referencing as a reason to apply for inclusion on an electoral register. Promotion of electoral registration within each local authority is a matter for the independent EROs.

Fairtrade Initiative

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will take steps to promote Fairtrade Fortnight 2008 among staff within his Department; and if he will make a statement. [189505]

Maria Eagle: To increase staff awareness of Fairtrade Fortnight, the event has been highlighted on the Ministry of Justice intranet, which provides a link to the Fairtrade Foundation website.

Family Law

Mr. Llwyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many firms of solicitors held contracts with the Legal Services Commission for the supply of legal advice in family law matters in the latest period for which figures are available. [191101]

Maria Eagle: A total of 2,732 solicitors' offices held contracts with the Legal Services Commission for the supply of legal advice in family law matters, as at 30 September 2007.

Internet: Suicide

Mr. Gray: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what progress has been made in implementing the suicide prevention strategy; and what assessment he has made of whether the target for the reduction in the number of suicides will be met. [189061]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: I have been asked to reply.

The target is to reduce the death rate from suicide and injury of undetermined intent by at least a fifth by 2010. This target is measured in three-year pooled rates. Between 1995 and 1997 there were 9.2 deaths per 100,000 population and between 2004 and 2006 the rate had fallen to 8.3 deaths per 100,000 population—a fall of 10 per cent. from the baseline.

The rate of decline had slowed, but there are now signs that the rate of decline may once again be increasing. An increased rate of decline must be sustained if the target is to be met. We are continuing to take action at local, regional and national levels to help reduce the number of suicides in our communities.

Legal Profession

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many solicitors in Wales have ceased providing legal services to clients who require legal aid for (a) family law and (b) criminal law for each of the last three years, broken down by local authority. [189559]

Maria Eagle: The information is not available by local authority but can be broken down by bid zone (Dyfed-Powys, Gwent, North Wales and South Wales). My noble Friend Lord Hunt of Kings Heath, will write to the hon. Member in the next few days, once this information has been extracted.

Official Visits

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the cost of his visit to the United States in February 2008 was. [189088]

Mr. Straw: The cost to the Department for the visit to Washington DC, Virginia and New York was £22,819.70 (£21,215.10 for travel and £1,358.75 for accommodation).

Open Prisons: Prisoner Escapes

Nick Herbert: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many failures to return to open prisons there have been since 1997. [189819]

Mr. Straw: Prisoners fail to return to prison following release on temporary licence. Between 1 April 1997 and 31 January 2008 there were 2,880 breaches of a temporary release licence following release on temporary licence from an open prison. This equates to an average of 266 breaches per year. Not all breaches of a temporary release licence are for failing to return to the prison, but this specific information could be determined only at disproportionate cost by examining each of the 2,880 incidents. Prison Service Order 6300 Release on Temporary Licence was introduced in January 2006.

Perjury

Mr. MacNeil: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prosecutions for (a) perjury and (b) attempting to pervert the course of justice were brought in each of the last five years. [190057]

Maria Eagle: The number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates courts for offences relating to perjury and attempting to pervert the course of justice in England and Wales in the years 2002 to 2006 can be viewed in the following table.

Number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates courts for offences relating to perjury and attempting to pervert the course of justice, in England and Wales for the years 2002 to 2006[1,2]

| | Proceeded against | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Offence | 2002 | 2003 | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 |
| Perjury | 109 | 137 | 155 | 138 | 110 |
| Pervert the cause of justice | 2,646 | 2,396 | 2,088 | 1,972 | 1,804 |
| Total | 2,755 | 2,533 | 2,243 | 2,110 | 1,914 |

[1] These data are on the principal offence basis.
[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts and police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

Peterborough Prison: Prisoner Escapes

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners have absconded from HMP Peterborough in each quarter since 1 April 2005; and if he will make a statement. [190020]

Mr. Hanson: HMP Peterborough is a closed establishment. An abscond is defined as an escape from a situation without physical security or restraint (e.g. most areas of an open prison) or from a situation in which there were no staff present specifically assigned to guard a prisoner.

No absconds have occurred since HMP Peterborough opened in March 2005. In quarter three of 2007-08, a prisoner escaped while being escorted by prison staff at a local hospital. The prisoner was recaptured the following day.

Prisoner Release: Scotland

Mr. Davidson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners released from Scottish prisons have subsequently been deported in the last year for which figures are available. [189393]

Mr. Byrne: I have been asked to reply.

The Border and Immigration Agency will seek to detain foreign national prisoners who are under consideration for deportation, or when deportation action is being pursued. Those who have committed crimes of a serious nature or may be a security threat to the Border and Immigration Agency estate remain in prisons. Others who continue to be detained pending removal are transferred to the Agency's estate.

The chief executive of the Border and Immigration Agency advised the Home Affairs Committee during her appearance on 15 January that 4,200 foreign national prisoners were deported or removed from the United Kingdom in 2007. Information specific to those who were held at Scottish prisons can be obtained through the detailed examination of individual case files only at disproportionate cost.

Prisoners Transfers: Jamaica

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice when he expects to lay before Parliament the agreement between the UK and Jamaica on the transfer of Jamaican prisoners; and what estimate he has made of the average cost of repatriating a Jamaican prisoner. [190324]

Mr. Straw: The United Kingdom and Jamaica signed a limited prisoner transfer agreement on 26 June 2007. This is the first prisoner transfer agreement to be entered into by the Jamaican Government, and changes must be made to Jamaican law before the agreement can enter into force. Once these changes have been made, the agreement will be laid before Parliament in the normal way.

No assessment of the average cost of repatriating a Jamaican prisoner to Jamaica has been made. However, any cost involved will be offset against savings in prison places and the cost to the prison service of the continued detention of a prisoner in the United Kingdom.

Prisoners: Per Capita Costs

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the average cost per night of housing a prisoner is in an (a) Category A prison and (b) Category B prison. [189749]

Mr. Hanson: Cost Information is published in the Annual Report and Accounts for Public-Sector prisons.

In 2006-07, the average cost per night of housing a prisoner was £143 in dispersal prisons, which hold Category A prisoners, and £77 in Category B prisons.

Prison categorisation is based on each prison's main role.

Prisoners: Telephone Tapping

Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice whether authorities have been issued for surveillance of telephone communication between prisoners and lawyers since 2005. [189210]

Maria Eagle: Arrangements for the interception of prisoners' communications are set out in the prison rules. In the case of prisoners' communications with solicitors, interception and monitoring would only be authorised when the governor had reasonable cause to believe that the calls would endanger prison security or the safety of others or were otherwise of a criminal nature. HM Prison Service does not retain central records regarding the interception of such communications, and the information requested could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Prisons

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what recent assessment has been made of the demographic composition of (a) the prisoner population and (b) prison officers. [187177]

Mr. Straw: The following table gives breakdowns of the prison population in England and Wales by (i) age and gender and (ii) ethnicity and gender.

Prison population in England and Wales at 30 June 2006

| | Male | Female | Total |

There are 1,528 serving male prison custody officers and 846 serving females at these prisons.

Complete information on the ethnicity of staff at these prisons is not currently available, but a staff audit exercise is currently under way to update their equality monitoring information.

These figures have been drawn from administrative IT systems, which, as with any large-scale recording system, are subject to possible errors with data entry and processing.

Rape: Convictions

Ms Dari Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many of those charged with rape in each of the last five years in (a) Teesside and (b) Stockton were convicted; and how many of those were given (i) an immediate custodial sentence, (ii) a community sentence and (iii) an (A) conditional and (B) absolute discharge. [189334]

Maria Eagle: The number of persons proceeded against at magistrates courts, found guilty at all courts and the number sentenced to immediate custody, received community sentences, or were given conditional and absolute discharge, for rape offences in Cleveland police force area can be viewed in the following table.

Court proceedings data are not available at the detailed area level requested.

Court proceedings data for 2007 will be available in the autumn of 2008.

Number of persons proceeded against at magistrates courts, found guilty at all courts and the number of which are sentenced to immediate custody, community sentence, conditional and absolute discharge, for rape offences in Cleveland police force area[1,2,3,4]

In Richmond I met members of the Virginia sentencing commission to assess how it has worked in terms of better balancing supply of prison places within the demands for sentencing.

I visited the Coffeewood Correctional Centre to examine its work programme. This teaches prisoners skills such as carpentry, welding and optometry to help their chances of finding work when their sentences end.

In New York I met the Federal District Attorney for the Southern District of New York and his colleagues to discuss mutual legal administration and other shared interests. I visited the Red Hook Community Justice Centre in New York to build on the lessons learned from community justice projects in the US. The centre was the US's first multi-jurisdictional community court and focuses on neighbourhood problems like drugs, crime and domestic violence.

While in Washington, I met Chief Justice John Roberts of the Supreme Court and members of the Judiciary, and Harley Lappin, Director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons. I had meetings with Senator Leahy, Chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee and Senator Specter, Ranking member of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

I delivered a speech "Modernising the Magna Carta: lessons from America, towards a British Bill of Rights" at George Washington University Law School on the UK Government's plans to bring forward a green paper on a Bill of Rights and Responsibilities.

I paid a call on His Excellency Ban Ki-Moon, Secretary-General of the United Nations. I had other private meetings.

Wymott Prison: Finance

Maria Eagle: Prison budgets are allocated in March each year and are currently largely based on historic spend, subject to adjustment for any required efficiency savings and increases to cover inflationary factors. The indicative budget for 2008-09 includes the effect of the reduction in the prison core day and the impact of the transfer of hospital bedwatches and escorts funding to the Department of Health. The budget will be further increased to include the effects of the 2008-09 pay award and other inflationary factors.

The budget for 2007-08 is £21,887,000 excluding healthcare and education which are directly funded. The indicative budget for 2008-09 is £20,589,000.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Aimhigher Initiative: Standards

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what assessment he has made of the performance of the Aimhigher Initiative in encouraging more pupils from deprived backgrounds to submit a UCAS application. [186615]

Bill Rammell: The Aimhigher programme is a major initiative designed to widen participation in higher education (HE), and increase opportunities for people from under-represented groups to attend higher education institutions and courses where competition for places is fiercest and which offer the highest financial rates of return.

There have been various evaluations of the programme which show that it has had a positive impact on participants' attainment and their attitudes towards HE. In the programme's early years (2001 to 2002) when it was known as Aimhigher: Excellence Challenge (AH: EC), before it became a national programme, research showed that being part of AH: EC

(a) led to an improvement in the proportion, by 4.6 per cent, of Year 9 pupils attaining levels 4, 5 or 6 in Maths at Key Stage 3;

(b) involved improvement in nearly all measures of Year 11's GCSE results, with an average improvement in total points scored of 2.5, which corresponds to an increase of between two and three grades in one GCSE; and

(c) AH: EC Year 11 participants were more likely to say that they intended to take part in HE (by 3.9 percentage points).

Research conducted by the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) showed that over 70 per cent. of universities responding to its survey said that Aimhigher added value to their widening participation policies and activities, that Aimhigher has provided a positive and welcome boost to their own efforts to widen participation in HE, and that this has translated into increased applications.

Given the long-term nature of widening participation in HE, and the complex interplay of factors that affect participation patterns, it is not possible to determine conclusively the effect that Aimhigher has had on applications made through the Universities and Colleges Admissions Service (UCAS). But we do know that Aimhigher makes a difference, because those who deliver and participate in it tell us so. And they can point at facts that support their case—for example, in the West Midlands over the last five years, the more disadvantaged communities have produced the largest increases in applications and acceptances. Those are the areas where Aimhigher operates most intensively. And we know that in England, since the introduction of Aimhigher, there has been a steady increase in the number and proportion of entrants to HE who come from lower social class backgrounds. This is reflected in the most recent UCAS application data for 2008 entry. In England, the proportion of applicants at age 18 coming from lower social class backgrounds is up from 28.2 per cent. in 2007 to 28.9 per cent. this year.

Widening participation requires long-term address and we have announced the continuation of Aimhigher until 2011. We will continue to work with HEFCE to commission a national study to report before the end of 2011 on outcomes across the whole programme since 2004, when the unified, national Aimhigher was introduced. And at local level, Aimhigher Partnerships will determine the extent to which the Aimhigher programme has raised HE awareness, aspirations and attainment among participants and in participating institutions.

Apprentices: Olympic Games 2012

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many apprentices are working on London 2012 projects. [190264]

Mr. Lammy: "World-class Apprenticeships" announced the formation of a London Task Force, which I will chair, to overcome barriers to the growth of apprenticeships in London. The review also said that the Government would be strongly encouraging the companies with which they contract, including those involved in large strategic projects such as the Olympic and Paralympic Games, to employ apprentices on these projects.

There are, at present, 62 apprentices on-site at the Olympic Park. The Olympic Development Authority (ODA) is committed to get at least 2,000 people in apprenticeships and work placements (up to 2012) at the Olympic Park and other venues that the ODA is working on or building.

There are a number of projects funded by the London Region Learning and Skills Council that are supporting apprenticeships in areas that will contribute to the success of the Olympics:

188 new Sport and Leisure Apprenticeships (Levels 2 and 3) in coaching, teaching and instruction, activity leadership and fitness for able bodied and disabled learners.

50 Advanced Apprenticeships in Sporting Excellence, in sports including athletics, swimming and tennis, to prepare elite Olympic and Paralympic athletes for competition in the 2012 Games.

A construction Apprenticeship preparation programme at Kings Cross enabling 100 16 to 18-year-olds to progress into employment with Carillion.

200 new customer service/hospitality Apprenticeships (Levels 2 and 3)—this is informed by Skills for Business research (2007), which predicts 12,000 new customer service jobs by 2012, including hotel, conference, restaurant and catering managers.

The new National Apprenticeship Service, particularly the new matching service, will have a key focus on the 2012 Olympics. We expect that apprenticeship opportunities linked to the Olympics will increase as time progresses.

Apprentices: Standards

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many of those providing apprenticeship training courses have had their contracts terminated as a result of poor performance since 2001. [190176]

Mr. Lammy: The practice of the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) is to contract for apprenticeship places on an annual basis. In the case of a poorly performing contractor, the LSC works in-year to seek to raise performance, which includes agreeing specific improvement actions, rather than moving immediately to terminate a whole contract or the part of the contract that is considered substandard. To do otherwise could put at risk the opportunities of the apprentices concerned. Past performance is a key criterion in the allocation of annual contracts, and the trend over successive years has been for fewer companies to receive LSC contracts for apprenticeship places. Some of this pattern can be accounted for by mergers or acquisitions in the supplier market, but these can be linked to performance issues.

Data setting out the number of companies with which the LSC contracted in each of the years 2001/02 onwards is in the table. It should be noted that one company may hold more than one contract because the LSC contracts by apprenticeship framework.

| | Number |
|---|---|
| 2001/02 | 1,761 |
| 2002/03 | 1,084 |
| 2003/04 | 1,005 |
| 2004/05 | 973 |
| 2005/06 | 917 |

Astronomy Centre

Nigel Griffiths: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) what steps he is taking to ensure the future of the Institute for Astronomy on the Blackford Hill site in Edinburgh; [177874]

(2) what the proposed change in Science and Technology Facilities Council for funding the Astronomy Technology Centre (ATC), Edinburgh is in (a) percentage and (b) cash terms; and what assessment he has made of the likely effect of that change on the ATC's work; [177873]

(3) what staff changes are being considered by the Science and Technology Facilities Council for (a) Daresbury, (b) the Astronomy Technology Centre, Edinburgh and (c) the Rutherford Appleton Laboratory. [177872]

Ian Pearson: The UK Astronomy Technology Centre (UK ATC), which is owned by the Science and Technology Facilities Council (STFC), is a world leader in the design and construction of instruments for many of the world's major telescopes. However, the STFC's demand for its services has declined since the UK joined the European Southern Observatory in 2002.

The STFC is looking at the future of the Astronomy Technology Centre in relation to the potential demand for its services and the council's science budget allocation. The STFC is exploring the possibility of a partnership that makes use of the unique skills in the ATC and applies them to a wider portfolio, and it will seek to work with the local universities and local funding agencies in taking that forward. It is too early to say what the outcome of these discussions will be.

STFC issued a notice on 2 January calling for voluntary redundancies across all its activities. In line with previous announcements, the SRS (Synchrotron Radiation Source) at Daresbury will close on 31 December 2008, but the STFC has not taken a decision on whether any compulsory redundancies (other than those relating to SRS) will be needed.

Catering

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much his Department has spent on refreshments for meetings since its establishment; and at what cost per meeting. [171871]

Mr. Lammy: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills was created as a result of Machinery of Government changes in June 2007. Information on refreshments is not held centrally and therefore this information could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which companies are under contract to his Department to provide mail services. [170169]

Mr. Lammy: Mail services for the Department are provided by the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform, and by the Department for Children, Schools and Families.

The Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform uses the following companies and organisations for mail services:

Royal Mail
Parcel Force
Lewis Day
Government Mail
Pitney Bowes
FCO
DHL

The Department for Children Schools and Families uses the following companies and organisations for mail services:

Royal Mail
Parcel Force
Copley Couriers
Central Dispatch Couriers and
'Same Day'

Departmental Electricity

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the electricity bill for his Department was in each of the last 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [190263]

Mr. Lammy: The buildings occupied by the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills, since its creation in June 2007, are administered on our behalf by the Department for Children, Schools and Families and the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform. This also goes for the related facilities management arrangements and utilities contracts. The exact split of utilities bills has not yet been carried out.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what changes have been made to his Department's budget for training and skills since the publication of the comprehensive spending review conclusions on 9 October. [173162]

Mr. Lammy: Overall investment in further education (FE) and skills will rise to £5.3 billion by 2010-11, an increase of 7 per cent. in real terms compared with 2007-08. This will enable real progress to be made against the Leitch ambitions for world-class skills, equipping adults with the skills they need for sustainable employment and progression. No changes have been made to the budget for FE and skills since the publication of the comprehensive spending review conclusions.

Departmental Training

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what training courses are available to departmental staff via his Department's learning and development unit. [178207]

Mr. Lammy: We refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 27 February 2008, Official Report, column 1656W (PQ 180354).

Education: Bullingdon Prison

Tony Baldry: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the budget is for HM Prison Bullingdon in the 2007-08 financial year for English language teaching; and what the budget was in 2006-07. [190687]

Mr. Lammy: There was no specific budget allocated for English language teaching at HM Prison Bullingdon in either the 2006-07 or 2007-08 financial year. The resources for learning and skills provision in individual prisons are not allocated on the basis of particular courses or learning interventions. An overall budget is set, from which provision will be delivered on the basis of the assessed needs of individual learners.

Educational Institutions: Nutrition

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what his policy is on healthy eating in establishments within the responsibilities of his Department, with particular reference to undergraduate students; and if he will make a statement. [178248]

Bill Rammell: Promoting healthy lifestyles for people in England and Wales is an important governmental responsibility. The Department of Health is responsible for helping the public to make healthier and more informed lifestyle choices generally, and for promoting healthy eating for all young people and adults as outlined in the recent joint strategy paper "Healthy Weight, Healthy Lives". The Food Standards Agency also produces guidance on healthy eating specifically aimed at students. Higher and further education institutions are self-governing independent bodies and take account of national guidance and local circumstances in developing their own policies.

Learning Outside the Classroom

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what progress his Department has made on the Learning Outside the Classroom manifesto published in November 2006. [190909]

Jim Knight [holding answer 29 February 2008]: I have been asked to reply.

There are nearly 900 signatories to the Manifesto vision and aims. They are represented by a National Advisory Group comprising eight sector partnerships (natural environment, farming and countryside, outdoor adventure, places of worship, creativity and arts, heritage, built environment, school grounds and early years), school work forces, local authorities, parents, governors and young people.

The National Advisory Group has agreed an Action Plan to tackle the barriers to learning outside the classroom identified during consultation. With our partners, we are promoting the benefits to a wide audience; producing 'How to' guidance, teacher resources and training modules; creating an umbrella quality badge for providers; and setting up an independent council to take forward the Manifesto objectives.

Older Workers: Industrial Training

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what (a) grants and (b) training schemes are available through his Department for people (i) over 55 years old and (ii) in retirement to learn new job skills. [190010]

Mr. Lammy: All adults aged 19 plus, who are not in receipt of out of work benefits, can access the Adult Learning Grant (ALG), which pays up to £30 per week in term time to help with learning costs to study for a first full Level 2 or first full Level 3 qualification.

Our World Class Skills reforms will support individuals, including older people into sustainable employment and progression in work and in skills. We will give greater ownership and choice to individuals over their training through skills accounts backed up by a new universal adult careers service promoting personal advancement.

Similarly we are working with employers through Train to Gain and the Skills Pledge to meet skill needs and to ensure that all employees including older people have the basic skills, including literacy and numeracy and Level 2 skills (equivalent to five good GCSEs) needed to sustain and progress in employment. We are increasing funding for Train to Gain from £440 million in 2007-08 to over £900 million in 2010-11.

We are also investing some £1.5 billion in each of the next three years in learning below level 2 and progression learning, to help the low-skilled and those not in employment to improve their skills and secure sustainable employment.

Quality Improvement Agency: Standards

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills by what mechanism improvements are monitored and measured in the work of the Quality Improvement Agency. [181703]

Mr. Lammy: There are three principal elements against which QIA progress is measured and monitored:

the success of QIA's own programmes and services

the implementation of the National Improvement Strategy

the overall effectiveness of QIA.

These three elements are inter-related and are measured and reported on separately as:

programme level indicators

the Improvement Strategy Balanced Scorecard

Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) for QIA.

Table 1 following shows the relationships between the three elements and how they are monitored.

Table 1: the three evaluation strands and their content

| Strand of evaluation | Content |
|---|---|
| Programme level indicators | Information on reach, impact and satisfaction from individual support programmes and services and their evaluations |
| Improvement strategy balanced scorecard | A summation of programme level indicators |
| | Indicators for the work of QIA's partners in the improvement strategy |
| | Assessments of contributions to global success measures |
| | Indicators of effective partnership working |
| KPIs for QIA | Reach into the sector |
| | Contribution to success rates and reducing unsatisfactory provision |
| | Overall effectiveness of QIA programmes |
| | Satisfaction with QIA services |
| | Co-ordination and monitoring of the IS |
| | Organisational effectiveness |

QIA has agreed with DIUS an evaluation framework based on four main headings which is otherwise known as the RISE framework:

1. Extent of 'reach' or engagement with the sector ('Reach')
2. Impact of the programme/activity ('Impact')
3. Satisfaction/Awareness with QIA's programmes and services ('Satisfaction/Awareness')
4. Organisational effectiveness ('Effectiveness')

The programme level indicators, the Improvement Strategy balanced scorecard and the KPIs for QIA are all mapped to the RISE framework.

QIA commenced using the RISE framework for its programmes from 1 April 2007, and commissioned a 'Summative Evaluation' to bring together the evidence gathered at that time from the evaluations of individual programmes and activities, data generated by the external contractors delivering these programmes and activities, and various other sources.

Further information on QIA progress and achievements is available on the QIA website via this link:

http://www.qia.org.uk/annualreview/assets/QIA_Summative_Evaluation.pdf

Students: Finance

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how his Department encourages students entitled to bursaries to apply for them; and if he will make a statement. [184038]

Bill Rammell: The great majority of those entitled to bursaries in 2006/07 either applied to their university for funding, or were the subject of an automatic notification of eligibility from the Student Loans Company to their university because they had given consent to the sharing of financial data.

Many universities have worked hard to maximise take-up of bursaries. In some cases not enough has been done, and the Director of Fair Access, Martin

Harris, has written to universities where this is so. We support this initiative. In addition, at our request the Student Loans Company is providing clearer information to applicants for student loans about the benefits of giving consent to share financial data with universities, although consent to share rightly remains a matter of individual choice.

DIUS raises awareness of all elements of the higher education student finance package including bursaries via literature, web and campaign material.

Additionally, the Department established a bursary map

www.direct.gov.uk/bursarymap to help individuals link to higher education institutions in England to find out what financial help those institutions are offering and how they should apply.

Students: Loans

Mr. Rob Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what assessment his Department has made of the merits of using the (a) retail prices index, (b) consumer prices index and (c) retail prices index excluding mortgage interest payments to calculate interest on student loans. [183933]

Bill Rammell: The Department keeps the interest rate of student loans under review but has no plans to deviate from the retail prices index (RPI) which reflects price movements across the whole economy. The RPI has been used since the introduction of student loans and ensures that borrowers repay the same, in real terms, as the amount borrowed.

Interest rates on loans are already generously subsidised in a way which is fair both to borrowers and to the taxpayer.

Taxis

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much his Department has spent on taxis since establishment. [171870]

Mr. Lammy: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills was created as a result of Machinery of Government changes in June 2007. Information on this type of travel expenditure is not collected centrally in the Department. This information could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Unemployment: Cleethorpes

Shona McIsaac: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what percentage of 16 to 19-year-olds in the Cleethorpes constituency were registered as unemployed in the last five years for which figures are available. [172520]

Angela Eagle: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the National Statistician, who has been asked to reply.

Letter from Colin Mowl, dated 1 March 2008:

The National Statistician has been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking what percentage of 16-19 year olds in Cleethorpes constituency were registered as unemployed in the last five years for which figures are available. I am replying in her absence. (172520)

ONS compiles statistics for local areas of people claiming Jobseeker's Allowance (JSA). Table 1, attached, shows the number of people, aged 16-19 resident in the Cleethorpes constituency, claiming JSA in January from 2004 to 2008. Population estimates used to calculate claimant count proportions are not available for parliamentary constituencies for this particular age group.

Table 1: 16-19 registered unemployed, resident in Cleethorpes parliamentary constituency for the last five years

| 12 months ending | Level[1] |
|---|---|
| January 2004 | 200 |
| January 2005 | 210 |
| January 2006 | 230 |
| January 2007 | 235 |
| January 2008 | 190 |

Vocational Training: Payments

David Wright: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which learning and skills councils owed money to training providers beyond 30 days of due payment under the Train to Gain initiative in the latest period for which figures are available. [180731]

Mr. Lammy: The Train to Gain programme had a total grant letter budget in excess of £460 million in 2007-08.

At 31 December 2007 the Learning and Skills Council owed 11 Train to Gain providers a total of £114,699 for more than 30 days.

The seven Learning and Skills Councils and the amounts owed are shown as follows.

| LSC | £ |
|---|---|
| East of England | 38,133 |
| East Midlands | 4,613 |
| Greater London | 6,720 |
| North East | 53,400 |
| North West | 7,566 |
| South West | 3,300 |
| West Midlands | 967 |
| Total | 114,699 |

Wolverhampton University: Grants

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills if he will hold discussions with the management of Wolverhampton University on the impact of proposed changes to equivalent learning qualification funding. [179621]

Bill Rammell: No students currently studying equivalent or lower qualifications (ELQs) will be affected by these changes. In future, our policy of redistributing grant will widen participation and mean that more of the millions of people of working age, of whom there are many in the West Midlands, who do not have a first higher-level qualification, especially those from non-traditional backgrounds, will be able to benefit from participating in Higher education. Wolverhampton University is well-placed to attract and retain more first-time entrants to Higher Education, which is our top priority. However, all we have asked HEFCE to do is redistribute about £100 million by 2010. Wolverhampton's share of this sum will be less than £1 million, which is less than 1 per cent. of its overall annual income.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Bankruptcy: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many personal bankruptcies have been declared in each London court since 2000. [188972]

Mr. McFadden: Table 1 records the number of individual bankruptcy orders that have been declared in each London court from 2000 to 2006. The High Court is the only court located in London with Insolvency Jurisdiction.

Table 1: Number of individual bankruptcy orders made in the High Court, 2000-06

| | High Court | London OR |
|---|---|---|
| 2000 | 1,403 | 1,285 |
| 2001 | 1,525 | 1,427 |
| 2002 | 1,638 | 1,457 |
| 2003 | 2,046 | 1,933 |
| 2004 | 3,137 | 3,038 |
| 2005 | 4,127 | 3,888 |
| 2006 | 4,896 | 4,410 |

Notes:

1. Figures for 2007 are not yet available on the same basis as those for earlier years.
2. Cases heard by the High Court are not restricted to those individuals resident or trading in the London area; they may include cases from across the country, most notably, where the petitioner is HMRC.
3. New case figures for the London official receivers region are also given for comparative purposes. These include cases assigned to the public interest unit (PIU). They do not, however, include cases dealt with by Croydon official receiver, although the London region officially has included Croydon OR from 2004-05.
4. After a bankruptcy order has been made, it is possible that the case may subsequently be assigned to a different court, for various reasons. The High Court figures for the entire period 2000 to 2006 reflect the court details recorded on the database mid-2007 and will, therefore, be subject to movements in both directions since the order date as far as High Court figures are concerned.
5. Individuals may also be assigned to a different official receivers office as the case progresses, perhaps because the bankrupt has moved or cases are re-allocated. The London official receivers' figures shown under table 1 record the office assigned at the time the order was made.

Broadband: Easington

John Cummings: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which villages in the Easington constituency do not have 100 per cent. broadband coverage; and if he will make a statement. [188831]

Malcolm Wicks: The matter raised is the responsibility of the independent regulator, the Office of Communications (Ofcom), which is accountable to Parliament rather than Ministers. Accordingly, I have asked the chief executive of Ofcom to reply directly to my hon. Friend. Copies of the chief executive's letter will be placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

Business: Ethics

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which Minister and departmental division in his Department are responsible for corporate social responsibility. [190898]

Malcolm Wicks [holding answer 29 February 2008]: I am responsible for corporate responsibility at DBERR. The Sustainable Development and Regulation Directorate, within the Enterprise and Business Group, leads on this area for BERR.

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the budget was for promoting corporate social responsibility (a) internally at his Department and (b) externally by his Department to British companies in each of the last five calendar years. [190899]

Malcolm Wicks [holding answer 29 February 2008]: DBERR leads on corporate responsibility but is supported in that work by many other Departments.

Within DBERR much of our, and formerly the DTI's, work encompasses aspects of the corporate responsibility agenda, for example the national contact point and training for business on UK law on bribery and corruption provided by UK Trade and Investment (a joint DBERR/FCO organisation).

Only the work carried out by the sustainable development and regulation branch of DBERR is formally attributed a corporate responsibility budget. Budgets are not segregated according to whether expenditure is internal or external and information is only available for financial years, not calendar years.

For each of the years 2003-04 to 2006-07 the corporate responsibility expenditure was around £300,000. This expenditure included set-up costs for the CSR Academy, now transferred to Business in the Community (BITC), and a cross-Government corporate responsibility web site. To date in 2007-08 expenditure on corporate responsibility is £130,000.

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many full-time equivalent staff work on corporate social responsibility in his Department. [190900]

Malcolm Wicks [holding answer 29 February 2008]: BERR leads on corporate responsibility within Government but is supported in that work by many other Departments.

Within DBERR, much of our, and formerly the DTI's, work encompasses aspects of the corporate responsibility agenda, for example the national contact point and training for business on UK law on bribery and corruption provided by UKTI (a joint DBERR/FCO organisation).

It is not possible to give figures for staff working on the corporate responsibility agenda across BERR, but 8.5 staff work within its dedicated sustainable development and corporate responsibility section.

Mr. Djanogly: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what progress has been made on the Government's proposals for corporate social responsibility; and if he will make a statement. [191103]

Malcolm Wicks: DBERR leads on corporate responsibility (CR) but is supported in that work by many other Departments. Our policy is, via voluntary means, to raise performance above minimum legal standards and encourage companies to look at a wider range of stakeholder interests.

We have created a policy framework which encourages and enables responsible behaviour by business and helps to ensure that we have decent minimum levels of performance in areas such as health and safety, the environment and equal opportunities.

Progress includes improvements in the running of the UK national contact point; the creation of the new DFID-DBERR Trade Policy Unit which brings together trade and development experts to ensure UK competitiveness and market access, work for better trade deals for poorer countries and better support for those wishing to trade themselves out of poverty; the Consumers, Estate Agents and Redress Bill, which will give added protection to the consumer; the new provisions of the Companies Act 2006, which are designed to bring greater shareholder engagement and transparency; and the current development of an International Standard on Corporate Social Responsibility (ISO 26000).

Among various international activities the Government champion the extractives industry transparency initiative to encourage greater transparency of oil, gas and mining revenues in developing countries and supports the work of John Ruggie, appointed as the UN Secretary-General's Special Representative on human rights and transnational corporations.

Departmental progress on CR-related matters is available through press notices and websites. Links to these can be found at the dedicated CR Government website:

www.csr.gov.uk

Coal-Fired Power Stations

Colin Challen: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what his estimate is of the number of coal-fired power plants required to meet the UK's electricity needs. [189923]

Malcolm Wicks: This is a matter for electricity-generating companies, as the Government do not determine the fuel mix of the UK's generating fleet. Generators have every incentive to ensure that the UK's need for secure supplies of low carbon electricity are met in the most cost-effective and efficient way, taking into account factors such as the carbon intensity, energy conversion efficiency, fuel availability and cost, generating flexibility, supply chain constraints and lead times of the various possible energy generating technologies. The Government do, however, monitor the supply-demand balance in the UK's energy markets through its annual energy markets outlook.

Coal-Fired Power Stations: Carbon Sequestration

Colin Challen: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what definition of the term "capture ready" he uses; and what criteria are used to determine whether a proposed power plant is "capture ready" with regard to carbon capture and storage. [189925]

Malcolm Wicks: There is as yet no agreed definition of capture ready either in the UK or internationally.

Ministers committed themselves in the Energy White Paper last year (s.5.4.27) to consulting on both the principle of carbon capture readiness and its definition. We expect to issue the consultation document shortly. We will also seek views on the draft EU directive on carbon storage (including its proposed definition of what constitutes carbon capture readiness) published a few weeks ago.

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will hold a consultation on a suitable definition for the phrase carbon capture and storage ready as it applies to coal-fired power stations. [190220]

Malcolm Wicks: In our Energy White Paper last May, the Government committed themselves to doing exactly this in respect of all fossil-fuelled power stations, not solely coal-fired ones. We expect to issue our consultation, which will also take into account the draft EU directive on carbon storage, later in the spring.

Coal-Fired Power Stations: Kingsnorth

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) whether his Department has sought advice from the Department for Communities and Local Government on the application of criteria for calling in planning applications and referring such applications to a planning inspector to the application for consent for a coal fired power station at Kingsnorth, Kent; [189221]

(2) what criteria he plans to use in deciding whether to call a public inquiry before determining the application for a coal-fired power station at Kingsnorth, Kent; [189222]

(3) what response he has made to representations by Medway Council in connection with the proposed Kingsnorth power station on (a) a public inquiry, (b) combined heat and power capacity at the plant and (c) available land for future carbon capture and storage facility. [189316]

Malcolm Wicks: My Department is aware of the criteria used for calling in planning applications. However, the Kingsnorth application falls to be determined not under the normal planning regime, but under section 36 of the Electricity Act 1989, and as such it is for the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform to decide whether to use his discretion to call for a public inquiry in view of the representations he has received.

There are no criteria laid down for calling a discretionary inquiry.

We will address all the decision on Medway council's representations in any decision that is taken, including whether or not to hold a public inquiry.

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will ask E.ON UK to provide a technical assessment of the feasibility and likely costs of retrofitting its proposed Kingsnorth coal-fired power station with carbon capture technology and of the availability of suitable storage sites and suitable transport sites. [189223]

Malcolm Wicks: In deciding whether to approve E.ON's planning application for Kingsnorth power station under section 36 of the Electricity Act 1989 Ministers will be considering a range of possible conditions, including whether—and if so in what terms—there should be readiness for future carbon capture.

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) what assessment he has made of the impact of the effect of likely changes in sea-levels over the next 30 years on the proposed new coal power station at Kingsnorth, if built; [189313]

(2) what estimate he has made of the likely cost to the public purse of measures to manage the effect on the proposed Kingsnorth power station, if built, of likely changes in sea-levels over the next (a) 30 and (b) 40 years; [189314]

(3) what estimate he has made of the carbon cost of the expected volume of emissions from the proposed Kingsnorth power station, if built, between (a) 2012 and 2020 and (b) 2021 and 2050 based on the Government's shadow cost of carbon. [189315]

Malcolm Wicks: The Department has made no such assessment or estimates.

Companies House WebCHeck Website

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will make a statement on the opening times of the Companies House WebCHeck website. [189302]

Mr. Thomas: Companies House's WebCHeck service is available from Monday to Saturday 7 am to 12 midnight UK Time. It is planning to increase availability to include Sundays by December 2008.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many times Companies House's WebCHeck website has experienced technical difficulties in each month of the last three years. [189303]

Mr. Thomas: A table detailing the number of technical difficulties each month in the last three years experienced by Companies House's WebCHeck follows.

Defence Export Services Organisation

Mr. Wallace: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many former Defence Export Services Organisation personnel are (a) seconded and (b) due to be seconded to his Department. [187762]

Mr. Thomas: There are currently around 83 staff on loan to the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform from other Departments (loan being the term used to refer to secondment within the civil service). Information is not available on how many have previously worked in DESO.

Details of the number of staff to be transferred from the Ministry of Defence on 1 April as a consequence of the transfer of responsibility for defence export support will be finalised in the coming weeks.

Departmental Retirement

Stewart Hosie: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many staff in his Department retired on grounds of stress-related illness in each of the last three years. [187501]

Mr. Thomas: No staff have retired from the Department on the grounds of stress-related illness within the last three years.

Departmental Sick Leave

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what percentage of working days lost by his Department's staff was attributed to stress-related conditions in the most recent year for which figures are available. [187875]

Mr. Thomas: The percentage of working days lost by the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (formerly the Department of Trade and Industry), including UK Trade and Investment (UKTI) and the Office of Manpower Economics (OME), attributed to stress-related conditions for the period January 2007 to December 2007 is 15 per cent. (2,367 days lost due to stress-related conditions out of a total of 15,676 sick days over the same period).

Stress-related conditions include the following: anxiety, stress, depression and other psychiatric illnesses.

Departmental Telephone Services

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which (a) 0800, (b) 0845 and (c) 0870 telephone numbers for the public are used by (i) his Department and (ii) agencies which report to his Department. [186181]

Mr. Thomas: From the central records available, the "08" telephone services administered by the Department for public use are as follows:

| | Department/Agency |
|---|---|
| (a) 0800 number | |
| 0800 373 317 | Construction Market Intelligence |
| (b) 0845 numbers | |
| 0845 015 0010 | BERR Publications Order line |
| 0845 015 0020 | BERR Publications Order line (Fax) |
| 0845 015 0030 | BERR Publications Order line (Minicom) |
| 0845 019 0001 | Personnel Training Services Consortium |
| 0845 600 0678 | National Minimum Wage |
| 0845 600 9006 | Business Link Helpline |
| 0845 9555105 | Employment Agency Standards |
| (c) 0870 numbers | |
| 0870 513 4486 | Queens Award Office |

The agencies which report to the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform have been asked to provide separate written responses.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what documents his Department, associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies translate for people in the UK who do not speak English. [187982]

Mr. Thomas: In accordance with the Department's "Race Equality Scheme 2007-08", available at http://www.berr.gov.uk/about/strategyobjectives/howwework/equalityschemes/page35704.html

BERR documents may be made available in languages for people in the UK who do not speak English to support appropriate access to information, at the Department's discretion and subject to demand. Examples of documents published or planned in other languages include employee rights information and leaflets on the digital television switchover.

http://www.berr.gov.uk/publications

Information on translation of documents by the Department's agencies and non-departmental public bodies is held by the bodies themselves. It is not held centrally. I am asking agency chief executives to write direct to the hon. Member, and am arranging for a copy of the list of non-departmental public bodies to be placed in the Library of the House for the use of the hon. Member.

Devolution: Carbon Emissions

Dr. Alasdair McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what discussions his Department has had with the devolved Administrations in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland to co-ordinate action on carbon emissions reduction. [187458]

Malcolm Wicks: DBERR worked with the devolved Administrations over the development of the 2007 Energy White Paper, which sets out the UK Government's energy strategy. The role of the devolved Administrations in energy policy is set out in chapter 9 of that document. DBERR actively engages with the devolved Administrations on issues on which they have specific responsibilities or interests. In the last year, these have included discussions on the EU's integrated climate change and energy policy, renewables, including the renewables obligation offshore wind policy and the offshore energy strategic environmental assessment, electricity grid issues, carbon capture and storage, the feasibility study for power generation in the Severn estuary (with the Welsh Assembly Government), the Heat Call for Evidence, the establishment of the Environmental Transformation Fund, and of course on the Energy Bill. Moreover, DBERR contributes to the work of bodies such as the Carbon Trust and the Energy Saving Trust which are charged with reducing emissions across the UK.

EC Action: Origin Marking

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether the European Union has plans for a directive on origin marking. [189582]

Mr. Thomas: The European Commission has put forward a proposal for a council regulation for the compulsory indication of the country of origin of certain products imported into the EU from third countries. This proposal has been subject to detailed technical level analysis and has yet to be formally adopted for negotiation.

Electronic Government: Public Participation

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether a national database of e-consultations across Government has been established. [189900]

Mr. Thomas: The Business Link website provides details of, and links to, consultations of particular interest to small businesses; Directgov provides information about, and links to, consultations of broad interest to citizens; and www.info4local.gov.uk provides information about, and links to, consultations of particular interest to local authorities; although registered users represent all sectors. Departmental websites also routinely list all ongoing consultations.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of the operation of e-consultation across Government to date; and if he will make a statement. [189901]

Mr. Thomas: Online consultation is one channel through which the Government consult during policy development. The Government have recently carried out a review of Government consultation policy, asking those who regularly participate in Government consultation exercises how consultation could be improved. One message from this review is that the Government should design consultation exercises to be accessible, which means making better use of the full range of channels, including electronic channels.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what funding his Department provides for e-consultations across Government. [189927]

Mr. Thomas: Consultation exercises, electronic or otherwise, are usually financed from the budget line for the policy area rather than from any central resource within Departments or across Government.

Energy

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) what consideration he has given to the future use of alternative, non-renewable energy sources; and if he will make a statement; [187666]

(2) what recent discussions he has had with (a) scientific advisers and (b) industry representatives on the future use of alternative, non-renewable energy sources; [187667]

(3) whether any grants from the public purse in support of work on alternative energy sources are also available to non-renewable energy sources. [187668]

Malcolm Wicks: The UK needs a diverse mix of low-carbon energy sources to contribute to our energy and climate change goals. The Energy White Paper set out the Government's policy to tackling our key challenges and the guiding principle of market access to all the options available so we can have a diverse and increasingly low carbon energy mix, enabling us to respond to the rapidly changing challenges we will face in the future.

The challenge of moving towards a lower carbon economy requires us to develop a portfolio of low carbon energy technologies such as carbon abatement technologies, including carbon capture and storage, hydrogen and fuel cells, nuclear power and renewables. On 19 November 2007, the Prime Minister announced the launch of the Government competition for a full-scale demonstration of carbon capture and storage technologies on a coal-fired power plant and on 10 January my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State invited companies to present proposals to build new nuclear power stations.

Public-sector funding for low carbon technology innovation is being delivered through the Research Councils, the Technology Strategy Board, the Energy Technologies Institute and from April the Environmental Transformation Fund. These bodies work closely together to ensure that funding activities are complementary and together effectively support a portfolio of technologies, including alternatives such as hydrogen and nuclear power.

BERR engages with external stakeholders such as the Energy Research Partnership (ERP), the Advisory Committee on Carbon Abatement Technologies (ACCAT), the Renewables Advisory Board (RAB), and the Business Council for Sustainable Energy (UKBCSE) which include scientific and industry representatives, on the delivery of these activities. The Secretary of State, in the course of his official engagements, regularly meets representatives from energy companies as well as other stakeholders.

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps he plans to take to (a) encourage the development of wind farms and other renewable energy plants and (b) assist energy companies to reduce electricity losses arising from transmission to population centres. [188763]

Malcolm Wicks: The information is as follows.

(a) The Renewables Obligation (RO) is the Government's main mechanism for supporting renewable generation. We believe that it is for the market to bring forward projects which, with support from the RO, are financially viable.

Since the RO was introduced in 2002 we have seen renewable generation more than double from 1.8 per cent. in 2002 to 4.4 per cent. in 2006. Year on year we are seeing increasing amounts of capacity coming through. The first gigawatt of wind took around 14 years to become operational; the second only 20 months.

The May 2007 Energy White Paper contains proposals to band the RO to better match the level of support provided to the costs of various technologies. This will bring on a more diverse range of renewable technologies. A Government response to consultation on reform of the RO was published alongside the Energy Bill on 10 January and this is currently before the House. We are aiming to implement these changes through secondary legislation in April 2009.

On 10 December 2007 the Secretary of State announced the launch of a Strategic Environmental Assessment (SEA) on a draft plan for up to 25 gigawatts of new offshore wind development rights in UK waters.

We also published a Scoping Report on 10 December for our draft plan for offshore energy. This is the first formal step in the consultation process. Following our consultation on this scoping stage, we will undertake a full assessment this year of our Plan for Offshore development. Following the results of the SEA, the Secretary of State expects to make decisions on whether to proceed with our plan in early 2009.

We are aware that there are barriers to the deployment of renewables in the UK—such as planning, grid and aviation/radar issues—and we are taking steps to address these. This includes taking the Planning Bill through Parliament in order to reform the planning system for renewables. We are also working with Ofgem, national grid, the Ministry of Defence and others to reduce other barriers to renewables deployment.

Later this year the Government will launch a consultation on what more we should do to increase renewable energy use in the UK to meet our share of the EU 2020 renewable energy target. This will consider a range of issues, including how to remove the barriers to development of renewable energy generation. Once the EU Renewables Directive is agreed and the UK's contribution to the EU 2020 target is finalised, we will publish our full UK Renewable Energy Strategy in 2009.

(b) Transmission and distribution companies both have a financial incentive to reduce energy losses. In terms of the distribution companies, Ofgem is intending to review this as part of the Distribution Price Control Review which is now getting under way.

In addition, Ofgem is currently considering mechanisms for charging for transmission energy losses, in order to ensure that locational signals are taken into account in the siting and operation of generating stations.

Export Credit Guarantees: Indonesia

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much cover the Export Credits Guarantee Department has extended for military exports to Indonesia in each year since 2000. [189353]

Malcolm Wicks: Since 2000, the ECGD has supported two defence transactions, worth £5.84 million, to Indonesia. The following table gives details by year.

| Financial year | Number of applications | Maximum liability (£ million) |
|---|---|---|
| 2000-01 | 0 | 0 |
| 2001-02 | 0 | 0 |
| 2002-03 | 0 | 0 |
| 2003-04 | 0 | 0 |
| 2004-05 | 1 | 4.18 |
| 2005-06 | 0 | 0 |
| 2006-07 | 1 | 1.66 |
| 2007-08 | 0 | 0 |

Food: Packaging

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what (a) initiatives and (b) incentives his Department has in place to encourage reductions in the amount of packaging used for food; and if he will make a statement. [188535]

Malcolm Wicks [holding answer 26 February 2008]: The Producer Responsibility Obligations (Packaging Waste) Regulations 2007 oblige companies above a threshold to pay for a certain proportion of the UK obligation to recycle packaging. Different companies in the supply chain from manufacturers to retailers pick up a different sized proportion of the obligation and must pay according to the amount of packaging used. The less packaging they use, the less they will pay in fees. This has, over time, resulted in lightweighting across a range of products. The Waste and Resources Action Programme (WRAP) continues to work with businesses to help them minimise their packaging. The Packaging (Essential Requirements) Regulations 2003 (as amended) require packaging volume and weight to be the minimum amount.

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what guidelines his Department issues to (a) supermarkets and (b) food manufacturers on the amount of packaging used for (i) foodstuffs and (ii) confectionery; and if he will make a statement. [188536]

Malcolm Wicks [holding answer 26 February 2008]: Supermarkets and food manufacturers are required under the Packaging (Essential Requirements) Regulations 2003 (as amended) to ensure that packaging volume and weight constitute the minimum amount that is adequate to maintain necessary levels of safety, hygiene and acceptance for the packed product and for the consumer. Government Guidance Notes explaining these requirements are available to download from the BERR website. Practical help for business to understand its obligations is provided by the Government-funded Envirowise service.

Fossil Fuel Levy: Scotland

Mr. Ingram: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the answer of 19 February 2008, Official Report, column 651W, on the fossil fuel levy: Scotland, whether a transfer of funds from the fossil fuel levy to the Scottish Consolidated Fund would be ring-fenced for renewable energy purposes. [190914]

Malcolm Wicks: Yes. Any funds from the fossil fuel levy which are transferred to the Scottish Consolidated Fund following a direction made by Scottish Ministers made under section 187 of the Energy Act 2004 would have to be used for the purpose of promoting the use of energy from renewable sources.

Fossil Fuels: Nature Conservation

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether the designation of Pen Llyn and Pembrokeshire marine areas as special areas of conservation is compatible with oil and gas development; and if he will make a statement. [189424]

Malcolm Wicks [holding answer 27 February 2008]: Proposed licensing and any subsequent offshore activities in or near to these areas will be subject to the provisions of the habitats and wild birds directives. Wherever oil and gas development is likely to have a significant effect upon special areas of conservation such as Pen Llyn and Pembrokeshire, an environmental assessment under the habitats and wild birds directives will be carried out before any licences are awarded under the 25th licensing round; where relevant, an environmental assessment will also be carried out before oil and gas activities are consented to. I will have regard to the results of any such environmental assessment.

Fuel Poverty

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what research he has recently (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated by his Department on the effect of the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000 on fuel poverty; and if he will make a statement. [189012]

Malcolm Wicks: In accordance with the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000, in February 2001 the Government launched a consultation draft of the UK Fuel Poverty Strategy and later that year, the finalised strategy (http://www.berr.gov.uk/files/file16495.pdf).

Fuel poverty is measured annually, using the results of the English House Conditions Survey (EHCS). The following table shows the approximate number of households living in fuel poverty since 1996.

Estimated number of fuel poor households

| | UK | Million England |
|---|---|---|
| 1996 | 6.5 | 5.1 |
| 1998 | 4.75 | 3.4 |
| 2001 | 2.5 | 1.7 |
| 2002 | 2.25 | 1.4 |
| 2003 | 2.0 | 1.2 |
| 2004 | 2.0 | 1.2 |
| 2005 | 2.5 | 1.5 |

Figures for 2006 will be available later this year.

Heating: Energy

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps the Government plan to take to ensure that UK manufacturers of heating controls are not economically disadvantaged as a result of the implementation of the Energy-using Products Directive. [189854]

Malcolm Wicks: The European Commission is bringing forward measures under this directive, including one for heating and hot water systems that includes consideration of how control systems can be used to improve the energy efficiency of those appliances. A wide range of stakeholders have been consulted throughout the process, and also have a formal opportunity to comment on the Commission's initial proposal at the EU Consultation Forum Meeting scheduled for 29 February or in writing up to three weeks after that meeting. My officials are also currently consulting the UK industry on the Commission's proposal. As this is a single market directive, any measures made under the EuP framework would apply to all member states, ensuring free movement of compliant goods across the Community.

Heating: Trade Competitiveness

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps he plans to take to preserve the competitiveness of the UK heating controls manufacturing industry following implementation of the Energy-using Products Directive. [190079]

Malcolm Wicks: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply I have given to the hon. Member for Brecon and Radnorshire (Mr. Williams) to his question 189463 today.

Industrial Diseases: Compensation

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much had been paid out as compensation to miners for (a) chest and (b) vibration white finger disorders as at December 2007. [189624]

Malcolm Wicks: The following table shows how much has been paid out as compensation to miners and their families for (a) chest claims and (b) vibration white finger claims as at 31 December 2007. Damages reflect total compensation paid on settled claims and any interim payments made on outstanding claims.

| Policy | Total damages (£ billion) |
|---|---|
| COPD | 2.2 |
| VWF | 1.6 |

Mr. Sheerman: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much had been paid in legal fees to (a) claimants' solicitors and (b) other representatives of miners seeking compensation as at December 2007. [189629]

Malcolm Wicks: Please see the following table showing how much has been paid in legal fees to (a) claimants' solicitors and (b) other representatives of miners and their families seeking compensation for Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD) and Vibration White Finger (VWF) as at 31 December 2007.

| Payee | COPD | VWF | Total (£ million) |
|---|---|---|---|
| Solicitors | 937.7 | 153.4 | 1,091.1 |
| Other representatives | 24.8 | 10.1 | 34.9 |
| Total | 962.5 | 163.5 | 1,126.0 |

Marine Management Organisation

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what licensing powers currently within his Department's responsibilities he expects to be transferred to the Marine Management Organisation, as proposed in the Marine Bill White Paper; and if he will make a statement. [188707]

Mr. Thomas: It is proposed that powers to determine consent of applications under section 36 of the Electricity Act 1989 for offshore generating stations with an installed capacity of 100 MW and below will be transferred from DBERR to the Marine Management Organisation. Under proposals set out in the Planning Bill, the Infrastructure Planning Commission will deal with applications for offshore generating stations with an installed capacity exceeding 100 MW.

Mineral Waters

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much his Department spent on mineral water in each of the last three years. [187674]

Mr. Thomas: The Department provides bottled water within our restaurant, cafe areas and hospitality services via our contracted service provider.

Water purchased by our contracted service provider for consumption on the DBERR estate cannot be broken down between official and personal spend.

Nuclear Consultations and Liabilities Unit

Colin Challen: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the value of hospitality provided for senior civil servants in the Nuclear Consultations and Liabilities Unit was in (a) 2006 and (b) 2007. [190266]

Malcolm Wicks [holding answer 28 February 2008]: The Nuclear Consultations and Liabilities Unit began operation in September 2006. The figures given as follows therefore start from this date.

The estimated value of hospitality provided for the five senior civil servants in the unit was as follows:

| | £ |
|---|---|
| (a) From September until December 2006 | 686 |
| (b) From January until December 2007 | 1,530 |

The hospitality that is accepted by civil servants is subject to the conditions laid out in the Civil Service Code.

Nuclear Liabilities Financing Assurance Board: Public Appointments

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will make it his policy to appoint to the Nuclear Liabilities Financing Assurance Board nuclear specialists from (a) environmental non-governmental organisations and (b) outside the nuclear industry. [190132]

Malcolm Wicks: As stated in the Funded Decommissioning Programme Guidance Consultation, the NLFAB is expected to consist of experts from relevant fields such as current or former fund managers, pension trustees, actuaries and nuclear specialists.

The Funded Decommissioning Programmes will contain technical detail in a highly specialised area, requiring a high level of expertise to scrutinise effectively.

Appointments will be governed by the overriding principle of appointment on merit, and will be made in line with the Nolan Principles for public appointments.

Nuclear Power Stations: Decommissioning

Mr. McGrady: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the estimated cost is of decommissioning each nuclear site within the responsibility of the Nuclear Decommissioning Authority. [187066]

Malcolm Wicks: Estimating the costs of decommissioning and cleaning up the historic civil public nuclear sites, including the Magnox nuclear power stations, is the responsibility of the Nuclear Decommissioning Authority (NDA). The latest estimate is set out on page 105 of the NDA's Annual Report and Accounts 2006-07, which is available on the NDA website at www.nda.gov.uk. This shows the discounted nuclear provision of each site for which the NDQA is responsible but does not separate decommissioning and clean-up costs. The NDA is currently in the process of updating the estimated lifetime financials per site, which will list separate decommissioning and clean up costs for each site. This will be published on the NDA website later in the year.

Oil: Exploration

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which blocks have been excluded from the 25th licensing round for oil and gas (a) on environmental grounds and (b) owing to lack of data. [189423]

Malcolm Wicks [holding answer 27 February 2008]: Forty-two blocks have been excluded from the 25th licensing round on environmental grounds, including 21 blocks which have been excluded pending appropriate assessment consultations.

Following recommendations in Strategic Environmental Assessment (SEA) 7, a further 44 blocks to the west of Scotland have been excluded due to lack of data.

Post Offices: Closures

Sir Peter Soulsby: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what discussions have taken place between his Department and Post Office Ltd and (a) the Equality and Human Rights Commission and (b) disability rights organisations on the impact of local post office closures on people with disabilities. [188930]

Mr. McFadden: In developing and consulting on their proposed strategy to put the post office network on a more sustainable footing, including closure of up to 2,500 offices, the Government sought views and comments from the public and a range of organisations representing customer groups including the disabled. The Government's response in May 2007 to the national public consultation confirmed that in rationalising the network no particular part of the network and no particular group of people should be significantly more adversely affected by closures than any other. It also confirmed that access criteria would be introduced to maintain a national network and, in particular, to protect vulnerable customers and that, in applying these criteria, Post Office Ltd would take account of geographical factors and consider local socio-economic factors and the availability of public transport to access alternative service provision.

Assessment of the impact of the closure of specific individual post offices is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd in developing and consulting locally on its area plan proposals. I have therefore asked Alan Cook, managing director, to reply direct to the hon. Member.

Copies of the letter will be placed in the Library of the House.

Post Offices: Greater London

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what representations he has received from the Mayor of London on post offices in London in each year since 2001. [189392]

Mr. McFadden: The information is not available in the form requested. However, our records show that, within the period specified, the Mayor of London made numerous representations about post office closures in general and about the closure of specific, individual post offices. The Mayor also responded to the Government's national consultation on the Post Office, and discussed post office issues most recently with me at a meeting on 19 September 2007.

Radioactive Materials: Theft

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform on how many occasions radioactive material has been (a) stolen and (b) lost (i) from nuclear premises and (ii) in transit since 2003. [189069]

Malcolm Wicks: Across the UK, the largest amounts of nuclear materials are stored or processed on civil licensed nuclear sites, whose security is regulated by the Office for Civil Nuclear Security (OCNS), which is a part of the Health and Safety Executive. The UK's civil nuclear sites and nuclear material transporters apply robust security measures and are regulated by the OCNS to ensure compliance.

Since 2003, the OCNS has not recorded any thefts or losses of nuclear or radioactive material in the UK, either from a civil licensed nuclear site or when in transit.

Outside the sites and material in transit regulated by OCNS, small numbers of thefts and losses have occurred whilst radioactive materials have been transported in the UK. The Department for Transport (DFT) investigates such events and takes regulatory action as appropriate. Information is available in reports published by the Health Protection Agency (HPA) on behalf of the DFT. All HPA reports have been placed in the House of Commons Library and copies of these reports since 2001 are available on the DFT website.

Regional Development Agencies: Government Offices for the Regions

Mr. Jeremy Browne: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what guidelines are in place to (a) co-ordinate and (b) prevent duplication in the work of the regional development agencies and the Government Offices for the Regions; and if he will make a statement. [188921]

Mr. McFadden: RDAs and GOs have different and complementary roles supporting sustainable economic development in the regions. The nine regional development agencies were established by the Regional Development Agencies Act 1998 and the Greater London Authority Act 1999 to undertake the purposes set out in the Acts. The Government office network is central Government in the regions. It works on behalf of 11 sponsor Departments.

The objectives of the RDAs and the Government offices are set out in their corporate plans and officials here and in the DCLG regularly meet them to discuss their respective work programmes.

Government offices and RDAs have strong working relationships involving regular high-level interactions, and share a common understanding of where each add value within the region.

Utilities: Prices

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what estimate he has made of the average annual household bill for (a) gas and (b) electricity in (i) Bexley borough and (ii) Greater London in each of the last 10 years. [189383]

Malcolm Wicks: The lowest level of aggregation for average annual domestic gas and electricity bills that is available is at gas/electricity region level. It is published quarterly in "Quarterly Energy Prices", the latest version of which is accessible online at http://www.berr.gov.uk/files/file43302.pdf The town/cities specified in tables 2.2.3 and 2.3.3 within this publication indicate which region the bills apply too. London is used to represent Greater London, and therefore incorporates Bexley borough. Constituency level averages are not available.

Average bills vary significantly with the type of payment method used; therefore all statistics are broken down between the direct debit, standard credit and prepayment methods. The following table shows the average annual bill for each payment type in London in cash terms since 1998 (the earliest available year).

London

| | Gas | | | Electricity | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Standard credit | Direct debit | Prepayment | Standard credit | Direct debit | Prepayment |
| 1998 | 314 | 277 | 331 | 263 | 255 | 275 |
| 1999 | 305 | 268 | 318 | 258 | 253 | 268 |
| 2000 | 295 | 267 | 311 | 252 | 241 | 263 |
| 2001 | 293 | 268 | 308 | 246 | 235 | 256 |
| 2002 | 309 | 283 | 326 | 244 | 233 | 253 |
| 2003 | 320 | 294 | 335 | 249 | 241 | 253 |
| 2004 | 334 | 311 | 351 | 252 | 244 | 250 |
| 2005 | 388 | 358 | 401 | 288 | 276 | 292 |
| 2006 | 480 | 431 | 499 | 339 | 322 | 348 |
| 2007 | 556 | 499 | 590 | 371 | 348 | 381 |

Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what amendments have been made to, and what recent representations he has received on, the operation of the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000; and if he will make a statement. [189013]

Malcolm Wicks: Section 2(4)(c) of the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000 is amended by paragraph 21 of schedule 7 to the Consumers, Estate Agents and Redress Act 2007. This amendment replaces the reference to the Gas and Electricity Consumer Council with a reference to the National Consumer Council.

Section 2(9) of the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000 is repealed by schedule 8 to the Consumers, Estate Agents and Redress Act 2007. Section 2(9) is concerned with the period before the commencement of section 3(1) of the Utilities Act 2000. As section 3(1) of the Utilities Act came into force on 20 December 2000, section 2(9) is repealed as it is no longer necessary.

These amendments are due to come into force later this year.

We have received a letter from Friends of the Earth which broadly relates to the duties placed upon the Secretary of State in the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000. Friends of the Earth has indicated that it will decide whether it will apply for judicial review on receipt of the Government's response.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what (a) statutory instruments, (b) departmental circulars and (c) other documents he (i) has issued and (ii) plans to issue in the next 12 months consequent on the provisions of the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000; what action is required in respect of each; and if he will make a statement. [189014]

Malcolm Wicks: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State has issued no statutory instruments under the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000 and has no plans to issue any over the next 12 months.

The Government have issued annual progress reports on the UK Fuel Poverty Strategy since 2002. The next report will be published witnin the next 12 months.

The Department issues a fuel poverty newsletter, usually at six-monthly intervals. The newsletter is available on the Department's website and covers the action taken by a range of stakeholders on fuel poverty.

CHURCH COMMISSIONERS

Churches: Theft

Miss McIntosh: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners what estimate the Church Commissioners have made of the impact that the level of thefts from churches has had on the average cost of insurance premiums for churches over the last three years. [190054]

Sir Stuart Bell: The Commissioners do not hold figures for church insurance premiums. We understand that the rates charged by Ecclesiastical, the leading insurer of Anglican churches, have until now been unaffected. The situation has recently become so serious, with the very substantial increase in metal thefts, that it is inevitable that premiums will be affected in the future.

LEADER OF THE HOUSE

Members: Correspondence

Mrs. May: To ask the Leader of the House when she will reply to the letter from the right hon. Member for Maidenhead of 27 November 2007, on her Labour Party deputy leadership campaign and declarations under the ministerial code. [191625]

Ms Harman: I have nothing to add to what I said in the House in response to a question from the right hon. Member for Maidenhead during business questions on 29 November 2007, Official Report, column 435.

ELECTORAL COMMISSION COMMITTEE

Electoral Commission: Grants

Mr. Maude: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission, with reference to an Electoral Commission press release dated 12 February on grants allocated to community-based organisations, what steps the Commission is taking to ensure that such funding is awarded to politically impartial organisations. [191091]

Peter Viggers: The Electoral Commission informs me that all grant-funded organisations must comply with the terms and conditions of the scheme, which state that projects must be run and delivered in an impartial and unbiased manner and that no part of the grant shall be used to promote party or other political purposes.

All grants are monitored through quarterly reports and annual visits by Commission officials.

Liberal Democrats: Finance

Mr. Maude: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission, what progress has been made on the Electoral Commission's investigation into the permissibility of the donations by Mr. Michael Brown to the Liberal Democrat Party. [191127]

Peter Viggers: The Electoral Commission informs me that the position remains as stated in the answer I gave my hon. Friend the Member for North-East Hertfordshire (Mr. Heald) on 16 May 2007, Official Report, column 748W.

Television

Mr. Maude: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission, how many plasma television screens have been purchased by the Commission, and at what cost, in the last 24 months. [191071]

Peter Viggers: The Electoral Commission informs me that nine plasma television screens were purchased in the last 24 months at a total cost of £11,215.52. Six screens were purchased when the Commission's London office was refurbished and three when the Commission opened new offices in Exeter, York and Coventry.

WALES

Brofiscin Quarry: Hazardous Substances

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what plans on what timetable have been agreed by his Department and the Environment Agency Wales for the removal of toxic waste from Brofiscin quarry; what estimate he has made of the associated costs; and who is liable to meet such costs. [190073]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The Environment Agency is currently conducting an appraisal of remedial treatment solutions and the associated costs for Brofiscin Quarry. It is also investigating who should be responsible for the cost of remediation. In doing so, the Environment Agency must act in accordance with the relevant legislation and statutory guidance. The contaminated land regime does not prescribe a timetable for these processes.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what recent research he has (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on the effects of (i) Agent Orange derivatives, (ii) polychlorinated biphenyls and (iii) dioxins on (A) current and (B) future residents in areas around Brofiscin quarry; and if he will make a statement. [190074]

Mr. Paul Murphy: It is the responsibility of Rhondda Cynon Taf county borough council to investigate and respond to public health-related matters such as exposure of local residents to any airborne vapours, gases or dusts.

All investigations to date have indicated that there is no identifiable harm or immediate danger to human health from the quarry. The local authority has obtained funding from the Welsh Assembly Government for a study to investigate the presence or absence of vapours from the quarry site which will evaluate any potential risk to human health. The investigation is scheduled to start in March and to last 12 months.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales what plans he has to act against those responsible for the illegal dumping of toxic waste at Brofiscin quarry. [190075]

Mr. Paul Murphy: The Environment Agency is currently investigating who should be responsible for the cost of remediating Brofiscin quarry. Once its investigation is complete and a determination made, the Environment Agency will consult with these 'appropriate persons' on remediation options and costs. The 'appropriate persons' may remediate the land voluntarily, or, alternatively, the Environment Agency may serve a Remediation Notice detailing what work needs to be done. In certain circumstances, the Environment Agency may carry out the work itself and seek to recover costs from the 'appropriate persons'.

SCOTLAND

Departmental Written Questions

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how many and what proportion of parliamentary questions for answer on a named day to his Department received an (a) holding and (b) substantive answer on the named day in each year since 2001. [190281]

David Cairns: The vast majority of parliamentary questions tabled to the Scotland Office are for 'ordinary' written reply. However, of those tabled as named day, approximately 85 per cent. have received a substantive answer on the named day since 2001.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Crime: Drugs

Mrs. Iris Robinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much the Police Service of Northern Ireland spent on combating illicit drugs in each of the last two years. [186982]

Paul Goggins: Information in the form requested is not readily available and to attempt to provide it would incur disproportionate cost. Police enforcement regarding drug-related crime spans all business areas of the organisation. It is not only the drugs squad within crime operations that combat 'illicit drugs'. Tactical Support Groups, organised crime operations, districts, special operations and roads policing all have their part to play and a breakdown of the costing within each of these areas for this particular aspect of the roles they provide is not readily available.

Departmental Home Working

David Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many people in his Department have been able to work from home in the last 12 months. [189776]

Mr. Woodward: Some members of staff in the Northern Ireland Office work from home as and when circumstances allow and with agreement from their local management, but we do not hold the numbers centrally.

The Department is currently examining whether it would be possible to expand these arrangements bearing in mind the additional costs, security, and health and safety issues.

Departmental Private Finance Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what the (a) value and (b) start date was of each private finance initiative project approved by his Department in each of the last three financial years. [190798]

Mr. Woodward: The capital value and start date for every signed PFI project is recorded centrally on the Treasury's website at http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/documents/public_private_partnerships/ppp_pfi_stats_cfm

Departmental Travel

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many journeys his Department's (a) Ministers and (b) civil servants made between London and Northern Ireland on official business in each month since May 2007. [187060]

| Month | Secretary of State/Minister of State | Civil servants | Total |
|---|---|---|---|
| May 2007 | 21 | 359 | 380 |
| June 2007 | 16 | 311 | 327 |
| July 2007 | 12 | 297 | 309 |
| August 2007 | 1 | 131 | 132 |
| September 2007 | 11 | 285 | 296 |
| October 2007 | 21 | 373 | 394 |
| November 2007 | 16 | 338 | 354 |
| December 2007 | 12 | 301 | 313 |
| January 2008 | 10 | 318 | 328 |
| February 2008[1] | 11 | 255 | 266 |

[1] The month of February consists of bookings up to 18 February only.

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much his Department and its agencies spent on first-class travel in the last 12 months for which figures are available, broken down by staff grade. [187662]

Mr. Woodward: In the last 12 months there were a total of 15 first class journeys by air. The breakdown by grade is as follows:

| Grade | Number of flights |
|---|---|
| SCS | 3 |
| A | 3 |
| Minister | 9 |

The cost of each of these trips includes the cost of domestic and internal flights (in the country of either origin or arrival) which was at a class other than first class. It is not possible to disaggregate the cost to give a figure for the element of the journey which was first class travel.

In the same period there were 233 first class rail journeys, at a cost of £8,866.00, as follows:

| Grade | Number of rail journeys |
|---|---|
| SCS | 31 |
| A | 41 |
| Minister | 87 |
| B1 | 21 |
| B2 | 101 |
| C | 13 |
| D1 | 1 |
| D2 | 2 |
| Grade not specified | 36 |

The information on rail travel is based on our centralised travel booking records only and excludes journeys booked directly by officials and recouped as part of their expenses claim. These journeys are few in number and could be identified only at disproportionate cost.

All flight and rail journeys are shown as single journeys.

Drinking Water

Mr. Spellar: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much his Department spent on bottled water in the latest year for which figures are available. [189801]

Mr. Woodward: During the financial year 2006-07, the Northern Ireland Office (excluding its Agencies) spent £33,665 on the purchase of bottled water. This figure includes the supply of bottles of water used in water cooler machines.

Fairtrade Initiative

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland if he will take steps to promote Fairtrade Fortnight 2008 among staff in his Department; and if he will make a statement. [189497]

Mr. Woodward: The Government are committed to improving market access for producers in developing countries through increased participation in fair and sustainable supply chains. Each Government Department is responsible for making its own decisions on such products, against the background of the Government's value for money policy, the EC procurement rules and the Department's objectives.

I have ensured that staff with responsibility for purchasing have been made aware of Fairtrade Fortnight and information has been put on our departmental intranet to advise all staff. My Department does use a range of Fairtrade produce.

Telephone Tapping

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what plans he has to permit the use of wiretap evidence in Northern Ireland courts. [189732]

Mr. Woodward: My objective is to include Northern Ireland in the implementation of the Chilcot recommendations wherever possible. To that end, my Department will be playing a full role in the further work that the Prime Minister has asked to be done.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Africa: Overseas Aid

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what UK bilateral aid programmes are under way in (a) Nigeria, (b) Kenya, (c) Botswana, (d) Senegal, (e) Angola, and (f) Niger; and what the duration and cost is of each. [190888]

Departmental Equality

Roger Berry: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what conclusions his Department has reached in fulfilment of the duty under section 3 111 of the statutory code of practice of the disability equality duty. [190683]

Gillian Merron: DFID published its disability equality scheme on 4 December 2006. This can be viewed on the DFID website:

http://www.dfid.gov.uk/search/proxy/query.html?col=dfid&qt=disability+equality+scheme&charset=iso-8859-1

DFID holds the Jobcentre Plus 'Two Ticks' disability symbol which promotes the recruitment and retention of people with disabilities and has a disability champion, a disability liaison officer and a strengthened disability forum network.

A central diversity team will continue to monitor progress against the action plan and report on progress in DFID's 2007-08 Annual Diversity report, to be published in March 2008.

Departmental Private Finance Initiative

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what the (a) value and (b) start date was of each private finance initiative project approved by his Department in each of the last three financial years. [190796]

Mr. Malik: DFID has not entered into any private finance initiative projects within the last three years.

Departmental Translation Services

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much was spent on translation services by his Department, associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies in (a) 2003-04, (b) 2004-05, (c) 2005-06, (d) 2006-07 and (e) 2007-08 to date. [187991]

Mr. Malik: A full record of payments for translation services is not held centrally, and could not be produced without incurring disproportionate cost.

No payments for translation services were made by non-departmental public bodies. DFID has no agencies.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what documents his Department, associated agencies and non-departmental public bodies has translated for people in the UK who do not speak English. [188005]

Mr. Malik: None of DFID's documents that have been translated are primarily aimed at people in the UK who do not speak English. Documents are translated primarily for audiences in the countries in which DFID works such as Government officials, non-governmental organisations, and other stakeholders in civil society.

No payments for translation services were made by non-departmental public bodies. DFID has no agencies.

Departmental Written Questions

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many and what proportion of Parliamentary questions for answer on a named day to his Department received an (a) holding and (b) substantive answer on the named day in each year since 2001. [190287]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Details of named-day parliamentary questions for the 2006-07 parliamentary session and the 2007-08 to date are as follows:

| Session | Total named day parliamentary questions | Holding answer issued | Substantive answer by named day |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2006-07 | 207 | 20 | 187 |
| 2007-08[1] | 105 | 16 | 89 |

[1] As at 29 February.

DFID endeavours to reply to all parliamentary questions within parliamentary deadlines where possible. Details of sessions prior to those aforementioned are not held centrally and obtaining them would involve disproportionate costs.

Developing Countries: Health

Ann McKechin: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if his Department will take steps to encourage governments of developing countries to increase the transparency and public accountability of their policies on child health and nutrition. [189248]

Gillian Merron: The 2006 International Development White Paper "Making Governance Work for the Poor" sets out how the Department for International Development is encouraging developing country governments to increase transparency and accountability of all their policies and programmes, including those for child health and nutrition. For example, we help partner countries to improve the capacity of state institutions and strengthen accountability to the poor, through, for instance, stronger parliamentary and regulatory oversight.

"Making Governance Work for the Poor" is available online at:

http://www.dfid.gov.uk/wp2006/default.asp

Kosovo: Education

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of the percentage of (a) children and (b) girls enrolled in (i) primary and (ii) secondary education in Kosovo; and if he will make a statement. [189999]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The information requested is as follows.

Figures for 2003 (Source—UNDP Human Development Report 2006)

| | Percentage | |
|---|---|---|
| | Primary | Secondary |
| Overall enrolment | 95 | 75 |
| Ratio of girls to boys | [1]92 | 79 |

[1] i.e. for every 100 boys there are around 92 girls.

The Government of Kosovo, in collaboration with the World Bank, is in the process of developing a new Education Strategy Plan which will be used to co-ordinate all Government and donor funding.

Sudan: Politics and Government

Mr. MacDougall: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what his Department's most recent assessment is of the humanitarian situation in Darfur [190593]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 29 February 2008]: The impact of the recent increase in violence in West Darfur is of grave concern, with over 57,000 newly displaced people and 160,000 cut off from humanitarian aid. Across Darfur as a whole 75,000 people have been displaced since the start of 2008. Malnutrition rates are climbing over the emergency threshold for the first time since 2004. The poor harvest in late 2007 and continuing displacement and insecurity threaten to exacerbate this problem.

On 27 February, my right hon. Friends the Foreign Secretary and the Secretary of State for International Development issued a joint statement calling again on all parties to stop the violence; to allow immediate humanitarian access; to ensure respect for international humanitarian law including the protection of civilians; and to facilitate deployment of the AU-UN peacekeeping force (UNAMID). The UK continues to work closely with the UN and others to achieve these aims and to improve the humanitarian situation in Darfur.

Vietnam: Chemical Weapons

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development pursuant to the answer of 4 February 2008, Official Report, columns 753-4W, on Vietnam, what international guidelines apply to concentrations of dioxin; and what the concentrations of dioxins are in those hotspots of serious contamination in Vietnam. [190168]

Mr. Malik: The calculation of acceptable dioxin levels in soil/sediment or in humans is complex. For soil or sediment, the Atlanta Centre for Disease Control in the US uses 1,000 parts per trillion Toxic Equivalence Quote (ppt TEQ) as being the maximum allowable level of dioxin contamination permitted before some form of corrective action must be taken to mitigate TEQ exposure. For the human body, the UK Food Standards Agency has set the Tolerable Daily Intake (TDI) of dioxin at 2 picogram (pc)/kilogramme (kg) of body weight. This is based on World Health Organisation (WHO) guidelines.

The concept of a dioxin "hotspot" was developed by Hatfield Consultants Ltd (Canada) while working with the Ministry of Health in Vietnam. It found that the current level of dioxin contamination in and around the former US air bases where dioxin was stored, mixed and loaded onto planes—the hot spots—was much higher than current levels in the areas sprayed during the war. The three major hotspots are in Southern Vietnam at the former US air bases at Da Nang, Bien Hoa, and Phu Cat. Studies conducted between 2000 and 2004 by the Vietnamese Ministry of National Defence found an average dioxin level of about 35,000 ppt TEQ at Da Nang and Bien Hoa airports. This is 35 times higher than acceptable levels recommended by the Atlanta Centre for Disease Control.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development pursuant to the answer of 4 February 2008, Official Report, columns 753-4W, on Vietnam: chemical weapons, how many Vietnamese have been identified as victims of Agent Orange (a) inside and (b) outside areas which were sprayed; and what estimate has been made of the numbers of as yet unborn people who will be affected. [190169]

Mr. Malik: There is no agreed accurate information available on how many Vietnamese were victims of Agent Orange and other herbicides, during and since the war, or on how many will be affected in the future.

The Government of Vietnam state that up to 5 million people may have been affected by Agent Orange. The US suggests that the number is probably much lower and is funding research to provide clearer evidence of the link between dioxins and health and of the number of people affected.

TRANSPORT

Transport Infrastructure: North-East

11. Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent assessment she has made of the adequacy of the north-east's transport infrastructure; and if she will make a statement. [190982]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Investment in transport in the north-east is at record levels. The north-east also benefits from improvements to key corridors and services outside the region. Expenditure across English regions is not directly comparable; a wide range of factors are taken into account in determining how funding should be distributed.

Maritime Transport

12. Dr. Ladyman: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps her Department is taking to encourage people to take up careers in maritime transport. [190983]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department continues to support the excellent work of the Merchant Navy Training Board and Sea Vision in promoting maritime careers around the country.

In addition, the Government provide support for seafarer training through the Tonnage Tax core training commitment and the Support for Maritime Training scheme.

Foreign Lorries

13. Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will bring forward proposals for a scheme to charge foreign registered lorries for their use of the UK's road network. [190984]

Jim Fitzpatrick: We have studied options for compiling a database of foreign haulage operations and vehicles to assist in the targeting of enforcement, including a "vignette" scheme whereby lorries would pay a charge for use of UK roads for a given time. The Department published a progress report alongside the 2007 pre-Budget report. The study has raised a number of legal and other issues and we are considering the way forward.

Congestion: London

14. Richard Ottaway: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will bring forward legislative proposals to provide her with powers to reduce traffic congestion in London. [190985]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The responsibility for setting and delivering a transport strategy for London was delegated to the Mayor of London under the Greater London Authority Act 1999. That Act also gave the Mayor the powers required to introduce road charging schemes to reduce traffic congestion in London. The Department continues to work closely with the Mayor, and Transport for London, to monitor the impact of his transport strategy.

Rail Ticketing

15. Ian Lucas: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent discussions she has had with train operating companies on ticketing. [190986]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Secretary of State met the Association of Train Operating Companies (ATOC) on 10 December to discuss a range of fares and ticketing issues, principally fares simplification as outlined in the White Paper.

Fares simplification will apply common terms and conditions to four generic, nationally available and easily understood fares categories.

$CO_2$ Emissions: Airlines

16. Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps she is taking to encourage airlines to take responsibility to reduce their carbon dioxide emissions. [190989]

Jim Fitzpatrick: We have a comprehensive strategy: supporting the development and application of new aircraft technology, making gains in air traffic control systems, encouraging more efficient practices, and promoting market-based measures such as emissions trading. Airlines have a strong incentive to minimise fuel use, which would be strengthened by proposals in the Government's consultation on Aviation Duty.

A46

17. Paddy Tipping: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will make a statement on the funding of highway improvements on the A46 between Newark and Widmerpool. [190990]

Mr. Tom Harris: The A46 Newark to Widmerpool improvement schemes is one of the schemes that are planned to be funded from the East Midlands' Regional Funding Allocation for major transport schemes. I understand that the region plans to review its recommended programme of schemes in the light of emerging cost pressures. We will carefully consider the region's advice both for the programme as a whole and in relation to the A46 scheme.

Longton Railway Bridge

18. Mr. Flello: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent discussions she has had with Network Rail on repainting Longton railway bridge. [190991]

Mr. Tom Harris: None. This is an operational matter for Network Rail. Network Rail informs me that it is currently discussing with Stoke-on-Trent city council whether the development and implementation of an aesthetic painting scheme for Longton viaduct can be included in its structures maintenance programme for 2008-09. A decision will be made later this year.

Rural Transport

19. Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much funding was provided for rural transport in 2007 and 2006. [190992]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Our main support for rural transport has been through the Rural Bus Subsidy Grant and Rural Bus Challenge schemes. Funding provided under those schemes was £61.3 million in 2007 and £61.4 million in 2006. Local authorities also support rural transport through Revenue Support Grant and other resources.

Public Transport: Coastal Towns

20. Mr. Jack: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what plans she has to increase use of public transport in coastal towns. [190993]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Government are committed to increasing public transport usage in all areas of the country.

It is for local transport authorities, working with their partners, including regional bodies, to determine the transport priorities for its area.

Low-Carbon Energy

21. Judy Mallaber: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what research her Department is funding on low-carbon sources of energy for transport uses. [190994]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department, and indeed the Government as a whole, are funding a wide range of research relevant to the development of lower carbon sources of energy for transport.

Let one give just three examples of that. The Government have committed up to £30 million for UK research and development work on the Low Carbon Vehicles Innovation Platform. Government are also supporting the development of the Energy Technologies Institute, and they fund a wide range of greener aviation R and D through the National Aerospace Technology Strategy (NATS).

In particular, I refer my hon. Friend to the Department's "Low Carbon Transport Innovation Strategy", which was published last year at the time of the Energy White Paper, and provides a comprehensive guide to the Government's policies and activities in this area.

Rail Capacity

22. James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent assessment she has made of the adequacy of the capacity of the rail network. [190995]

Mr. Tom Harris: In the preparation of the Rail White Paper, the Government carried out assessments of the adequacy of the capacity of the rail network. This drew on work carried out by the rail industry. The outcome of this work is published in the 2007 Rail White Paper "Delivering a Sustainable Railway".

Rail Accessibility: Ipswich

23. Chris Mole: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps are being taken to improve access for disabled people at Ipswich railway station, under the Access for All programme. [190996]

Mr. Tom Harris: Ipswich station has been prioritised for Access for All-funded improvements between 2009 and 2011. Step-free access to its platforms will be provided through the installation of a new footbridge and two new lifts. Local stakeholders are currently being consulted on the plans, which are now reaching the detailed design stage.

A1

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when she received the Inspectors' Report on the A1 upgrade to motorway status between Dishforth and Barton; and when she expects to take a decision on the report. [190210]

Mr. Tom Harris: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 3 March 2008, Official Report, columns 2040-41W. The Inspector's report was received on 9 February 2007.

A12: Injuries

Mr. Newmark: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many persons were (a) killed and (b) seriously injured on the A12 in Essex in each of the last five years. [191319]

Mr. Tom Harris: The following table shows the number of people killed and seriously injured on the A12 in Essex over the past five years. The Highways Agency does not currently hold any full accident figures for 2008.

Accidents A12 Essex

| | Fatal | Seriously injured |
|---|---|---|
| 2003 | 4 | 39 |
| 2004 | 4 | 65 |
| 2005 | 6 | 58 |
| 2006 | 5 | 41 |
| 2007 | 4 | 24 |
| Total | 23 | 227 |

Aviation

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions her Department has had or plans to have on the past and potential future impact of (a) changes in noise levels permitted from individual aircraft and (b) changes in the size of aircraft upon (i) past increases and future total passenger and freight numbers and (ii) past and future (A) economic, (B) environmental and (C) social impacts; and what representations have been received on these matters. [181618]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The White Paper "The Future of Air Transport" White Paper set out our key aim to limit and where possible reduce the number of people in the UK significantly affected by aircraft noise.

In the White Paper, we highlighted the importance of promoting research and development work on quieter aircraft and airframe technology. We are pursuing this aim through both international and national forums.

Although technological change is a long-term issue, the aviation industry has made encouraging progress in addressing the noise of the airline fleet. For example, the newest generation of wide-bodied aircraft is expected to make significantly less noise on arrival than the largest aircraft currently operating. We have also seen the introduction of new engines which include innovations to reduce noise and improve fuel efficiency.

Possible future technological change and related impacts are taken into account in our forecasting. For example, the current consultation on the future expansion of Heathrow (Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport) has been prepared against this background. Paragraph 3.82 of the consultation document notes that although there were 73 per cent. more aircraft movements in 2005 compared with 1975, the number of people significantly affected by noise has fallen by 87 per cent. and the area affected reduced by 86 per cent. In addition, the night flights regime introduced in October 2006 at Heathrow, Gatwick and Stansted recognises technological change by providing incentives for introducing quieter aircraft. The regime was only introduced after an extensive two-stage public consultation exercise.

All major UK airports (i.e. 50,000 annual movements or above) have been required to map aircraft noise in compliance with the European environmental noise directive. Later this year, the airports will have to prepare strategic noise action plans setting out noise mitigation measures. These plans will have to be prepared in consultation with the local community and as such provide an opportunity for relevant local issues to be considered. In addition, we regularly receive representations on aircraft noise issues which help inform the Department's policy making.

Aviation: Buckinghamshire

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many aircraft routes cross High Wycombe and Marlow at 7,000 feet or less; what the height of each route is; how many planes per hour on average flew along each of those routes during (a) night time, (b) daytime and (c) at peak times in the last 12 months; how many planes per hour on average are expected to fly along each of those routes during (i) night time, (ii) daytime and (iii) at peak times in 2014; and whether she has made an estimate of the likely impact of air traffic noise on levels in High Wycombe and Marlow in 2014. [191598]

Jim Fitzpatrick: This is an operational matter for National Air Traffic Services, the air navigation services provider, and I suggest the hon. Member direct his inquiry to the chief executive of NATS.

On the airspace change process, I refer the hon. Member to my earlier answer to his question today (UIN 191596).

Aviation: Compensation

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what legislation governs the payment of compensation by airlines for injury or damage occurring accidentally while in flight; what representations she has received on this issue; and if she will make a statement. [190858]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Passengers must always take their own legal advice in relation to claims. Article 17 of the 1999 Montreal Convention provides that the carrier is liable for damage sustained in the event of death or bodily injury of a passenger upon condition only that the accident which caused the death or injury took place on board the aircraft or in the course of embarking or disembarking. The amount of compensation is governed by article 21. The Montreal Convention is given effect in the United Kingdom by the Carriage by Air Acts (Implementation of the Montreal Convention 1999) Order 2002, which came into force on 28 June 2004. The Department is not aware of any recent representations on this issue.

Aviation: Noise

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment she has made of the likely impact proposals by the National Air Traffic Service to redraw the aircraft route map across Southern and Eastern England will have on aircraft noise in High Wycombe and Marlow in (a) 2009 and (b) 2014. [191596]

Jim Fitzpatrick: It is not for the Secretary of State to assess the impact of NATS' airspace change proposals on noise in High Wycombe and Marlow.

The process for making changes to airspace is governed by the independent Civil Aviation Authority (CAA)'s airspace change process as set out in the Airspace Charter (CAP724) and Guidance on the Airspace Change Process (CAP725).

NATS, the sponsor of the proposed change, is responsible for developing and consulting upon proposals. Detailed guidance is given on what impacts are to be taken into account, how they should be measured and who should be consulted. Informed by the consultation, the sponsor will submit the proposal to the CAA's Directorate of Airspace Policy for assessment. In determining whether to accept or reject a proposal, the CAA's process will reflect the Secretary of State's Directions and Guidance to the CAA on the exercise of its statutory duties and environmental objectives.

Biofuels

Stephen Hesford: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much biofuel was produced in the UK in the last 12 months; and what estimate she has made of the effect on the UK's carbon dioxide emissions of use of biofuels in substitution for fossil fuels in that period. [191207]

Jim Fitzpatrick: A total of around 500 million litres of road transport biofuel was sold in the UK during 2007. Further details are available via the HM Revenue and Customs website at http://www.uktradeinfo.com/index.cfm?task=bulloil

These figures do not, however, distinguish between imported fuels and domestically produced fuels, and the Government are unable to provide a detailed breakdown of this. Nor is it possible to provide a precise estimate of the reduction in carbon dioxide emissions associated with these biofuels. This is because information on the feedstocks from which the fuels were produced, and on their country of origin, is not currently collected.

This is one of the reasons why the Government are introducing the renewable transport fuel obligation (RTFO) in April. Under the RTFO, transport fuel suppliers who wish to earn renewable transport fuel certificates in respect of their biofuels will have to report to the Renewable Fuels Agency (RFA) on matters such as the country of origin, the wider sustainability and the carbon intensity of those fuels. The Renewable Fuels Agency will be required to report regularly on these matters, and this will allow the Government to monitor very closely the carbon dioxide savings associated with the policy, as well as its wider environmental impacts.

Further detail on the reporting requirements is available via the RFA's website at http://www.dft.gov.uk/rfa

Carriage by Air Acts (Implementation of the Montreal Convention 1999) Order 2002

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will make a statement on the operation of the Carriage by Air Acts (Implementation of the Montreal Convention 1999) Order 2002; what amendments have been made to this Order; and what recent representations she has received on this Order. [190857]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The 1999 Montreal Convention is an international convention prepared by the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO). It seeks to modernise and consolidate the 1929 Warsaw Convention for the Unification of Certain Rules relating to International Carriage by Air and related conventions.

The Carriage by Air Acts (Implementation of the Montreal Convention 1999) Order 2002 gave effect to the Montreal Convention in the UK from 28 June 2004 (see Convention for the Unification of Certain Rules of International Carriage by Air—Cm 6369) by amending the Carriage by Air Act 1961. No amendments have subsequently been made to either the Order or the Convention. The Department is not aware of any recent representations on this issue.

Deep Vein Thrombosis: Compensation

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will seek amendments to the Warsaw Convention to permit claims for compensation by air travellers who suffer deep vein thrombosis; what recent representations she has received on this issue; and if she will make a statement. [190856]

Jim Fitzpatrick: We currently do not have plans to seek amendments to the Warsaw Convention on this issue.

Research by the World Health Organisation published in 2007 showed that the risk of deep vein thrombosis, which applies to all forms of travel, appears to be predominantly the result of prolonged immobility. Certain categories of people appear to be at higher risk, such as older people, those with hereditary blood conditions, women using oral contraception, people undertaking journeys of more than 12 hours and very tall people.

The Department is not aware of any recent representations on this issue.

Departmental Equal Pay

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will conduct an equal pay audit across her Department; and if she will make a statement. [190927]

Jim Fitzpatrick: It is not the Department's intention to conduct an equal pay audit across the Department as a whole. It remains our opinion that pay audits should be individually undertaken by the DfT (Centre) and each Agency.

Departmental Pay

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when (a) the pay increases for the 2007 pay round were paid, (b) the race impact assessments of the 2007 pay deal were completed and (c) the race impact assessments were made available to the recognised trade unions in relation to each of her Department's bargaining units. [190270]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 25 February 2008]: The following table gives details of when the 2007 pay increases for each of the bargaining units within the Department were made and indicates the current position with regard to the race impact assessments applicable to these.

East Midlands Trains: Finance

Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what premium East Midlands Trains is forecast to pay to the Government over the period of its franchise. [191146]

Mr. Tom Harris: Full details of the East Midlands Franchise were announced by the Department in a written ministerial statement to the House and a Stock Market Statement on 22 June 2007. This states that Stagecoach Midland Rail Limited will pay a premium of £133 million (net present value) over the life of the franchise.

Forced Marriage

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if she will take steps to ensure that information on (a) helplines and (b) access to support for victims of forced marriage or persons in fear of forced marriage is made available at airports, ports and other public places within the responsibility of her Department. [185583]

Mr. Coaker: I have been asked to reply.

The display of information on helplines at airports and ports is a matter for the individual companies and organisations. However, the work of the Forced Marriage Unit in promoting the issues of forced marriage to staff at points of entry and exit into the country has ensured that a number of airports and ports display literature on forced marriage which gives details on how to access support.

Freight: Industrial Health and Safety

Janet Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what regulations govern the safe loading of scrap metal on to heavy goods vehicles for transit; what steps are taken to enforce these regulations; and if she will make a statement. [187845]

Mrs. McGuire: I have been asked to reply.

There are no regulations that deal specifically with loading goods, including scrap metal, on to road vehicles. However, this activity is covered by the Health and Safety at Work etc Act 1974 and the Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations 1999, and where the loading of scrap metal is done using lifting equipment, the Lifting Operations and Lifting Equipment Regulations 1998 will also apply. All these are enforced by health and safety inspectors. Regulation 100 of the Road Vehicles (Construction and Use) Regulations 1986 covers the safety of loads being transported on vehicles, and this is enforced by the police.

Great Western Trains

Dr. Evan Harris: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent representations she has received from rail users on the performance of First Great Western; and if she will make a statement. [190987]

Mr. Tom Harris: In recent months Ministers and officials at the Department for Transport have received many representations from rail users regarding First Great Western's performance.

I refer the hon. Gentleman to the written statement made by my right hon. Friend on 26 February 2008, Official Report, columns 73-4WS.

Liverpool John Lennon Airport: Transport

Stephen Hesford: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent improvements have been made to transport links to and from Liverpool John Lennon airport; and if she will make a statement. [191284]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Government's "Future of Air Transport" White Paper of 2003 supported the development of Liverpool John Lennon airport as a key driver to generating growth and investment in Merseyside and the north-west region, provided proposed developments took into account the local and wider environmental impacts of air travel. The airport already enjoys good surface transport links including an express bus service from the city centre, and the Liverpool South Parkway rail-bus interchange opened in 2006. The airport's draft master plan, published in 2006, explored a range of possible further options for transport links, and the airport's operator continues to work with local statutory agencies and other partners to evaluate them.

Oil: Prices

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what her Department's assumptions are of the future price of oil in (a) 2010, (b) 2015, (c) 2020, (d) 2025, (e) 2030, (f) 2040 and (g) 2050. [184191]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 4 February 2008]: The Department uses oil price projections produced by the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (DBERR) in its modelling. The latest estimates were published last year in the Energy White Paper. These have been used for the latest road traffic, aviation and rail forecasts and are currently being integrated in the advice and software the Department provides for transport promoters preparing business cases for schemes. These long-term price projections are to 2020. For the latest transport modelling projections extend further, usually assuming no changes beyond 2020.

The current oil price projection (in 2006 prices) can be seen in the following table. DBERR produces a low, central and high price projection. These are real prices; nominal prices—which include the impacts of forecast inflation—would be higher. For example, the real price of $53 in 2025 is approximately $88 in nominal prices.

|---|---|---|---|
| | Low | Central | High |
| 2010 | 25 | 57 | 70 |
| 2015 | 25 | 50 | 75 |
| 2020 | 25 | 53 | 80 |

Railways

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps she is taking to obtain a modal shift from road and air to rail travel; and if she will make a statement. [190547]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Government's aim is to offer the public an informed choice of which mode of transport to use, rather than prescribing one mode over others. Our priority is to ensure that rail provides a viable alternative to road and air travel where possible. To this end, the White Paper, "Delivering a Sustainable Railway", published in July 2007, commits £15 billion in public support for the railway between 2009 and 2014, with £10 billion to be spent specifically on enhancing capacity during that period.

Railways: Cotswold Hills

Peter Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when she expects to receive from Network Rail the business case for redoubling the single line sections of the Cotswold line between Oxford and Worcester; and if she will make a statement. [190424]

Mr. Tom Harris: This is an operational matter for Network Rail, as the owner and operator of the national rail network. The hon. Member should contact Network Rail's chief executive at the following address for a response to his question.

Iain Coucher
Chief Executive Network Rail
40 Melton street
London NW1 2EE

Railways: Deaths

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many fatalities at footpath rail crossings caused by (a) accidents, (b) trespassers, (c) suicides and (d) other circumstances there were in each of the last three years. [190490]

Mr. Tom Harris: The Office of Rail Regulation has provided the following data for fatalities at footpath rail crossings in each of the last three years:

| | (a) Accident | (b) Trespass | (c) Confirmed suicide | Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2005 | 1 | 0 | 3 | 4 |
| 2006 | 4 | 2 | 1 | 7 |
| 2007 | 2 | 3 | 0 | 5 |

The data cover people who were fatally injured while on the crossing. Fatalities involving people who used footpath crossings to gain access to and trespass on the railway line are not included. The figures for 2007 are still provisional and are dependent on the outcome of coroners' inquests.

Railways: Franchises

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions she has had with the franchise operator c2c on (a) the timing of franchise renewal and (b) the criteria for bidding for the franchise. [190493]

Mr. Tom Harris: The c2c franchise is due to expire in May 2011. The franchise agreement includes the provision to extend the franchise for a period of two years to May 2013, by agreement between the Department and c2c.

The criteria for bidding for a replacement franchise will be set out in the documentation seeking bids for the new franchise.

Railways: Hampshire

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when she received from South West Trains notification of network modifications relating to travel offices in Hampshire; and if she will make a statement. [191178]

Mr. Tom Harris: South West Trains forwarded minor modification proposals covering a number of travel centres at their stations to the Department for Transport on 20 November 2007 and 24 December 2007. Three stations in Hampshire are currently under consideration: Southampton, Winchester and Basingstoke.

Railways: Internet

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps she is taking to encourage train operators to make on-board internet available on long-distance services; and if she will make a statement. [190527]

Mr. Tom Harris: While we encourage all operators to improve the provision of on-board services, the availability of on-board internet access is a commercial matter for train operators.

Roads: Accidents

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many (a) drivers, (b) passengers and (c) pedestrians aged (i) 16 or under, (ii) 17 to 20, (iii) 21 to 25, (iv) 26 to 30, (v) 31 to 35, (vi) 36 to 40, (vii) 41 to 45, (viii) 46 to 50, (ix) 51 to 60, (x) 61 to 70 and (xi) 71 years or over were (A) killed and (B) injured in a road accident in each of the last five years; and how many drivers in each age group were convicted of an offence of driving while intoxicated owing to (1) alcohol and (2) drugs or other substances in each such year. [191394]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The numbers of (a) drivers, (b) passengers and (c) pedestrians aged (i) 16 and under, (ii) 17 to 20, (iii) 21 to 25, (iv) 26 to 30, (v) 31 to 35, (vi) 36 to 40, (vii) 41 to 45, (viii) 46 to 50, (ix) 51 to 60, (x) 61 to 70 or (xi) 71 years or over that have been (A) killed or (B) injured in a reported road accident in 2002 to 2006 are shown in the table.

[2] Includes cases where age is not reported

Information on convictions for driving while intoxicated owing to alcohol or drugs for the drivers in the aforementioned table is not available. Information on convictions is provided by the Ministry of Justice. The data are not linked to personal injury road accident data.

The latest available information held on convictions for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs by age groups from 2001-05 is provided in the table. 2006 data will be available later this year. The data provided cover both drink and drugs offences combined, as volumes of convictions for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs separately cannot be accurately established.

[1] Data covers summary offences of driving etc after consuming alcohol or taking drugs (which cannot reliably be distinguished separately).
[2] Age 17 used as default age when date of birth is not known for a juvenile.
[3] Age 25 used as default age when date of birth is not known for an adult.

Notes:
1. It is known that for some police force areas, the reporting of court proceedings, in particular summary motoring offences, is less than complete.
2. Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative systems generated by the courts and police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

Transport: Carbon Emissions

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate she has made of the carbon dioxide emissions per passenger mile from travel by (a) road, (b) air and (c) rail. [190548]

Jim Fitzpatrick: DEFRA's Company Reporting Guidelines published in 2007, available at http://www.defra.gov.uk/environment/business/envrp/pdf/conversion-factors.pdf enable existing data sources, such as car mileage and fuel consumption, to be converted into illustrative carbon dioxide equivalent data. Using the guidelines to determine average carbon dioxide emissions per passenger km and converting to passenger mile produces the following results:

| | | Carbon dioxide emissions per passenger mile: (kg) |
|---|---|---|
| From: | | |
| Road | Average petrol car | 0.21 |
| | Average diesel car | 0.20 |
| Air | Long haul flights | 0.19 |
| | Short haul flights | 0.23 |
| | Domestic flights | 0.28 |
| Rail | National rail | 0.10 |

For road, the factors used in the guidelines are estimated average values for the UK car fleet, travelling on average trips in the UK, per vehicle mile. This has been divided by an average car occupancy rate of 1.6 passengers to derive the average emissions per passenger mile figure given in the table.

The rail estimate is for national rail and refers to an average emission factor for diesel and electric trains.

For aviation, the emission factor is an aggregate representation of the typical emissions from illustrative types of aircraft for the three types of air services. Actual emissions will vary significantly according to the type of aircraft in use, the load, cabin class, etc. An uplift of 9 per cent. has been applied to account for non-direct routes, circling and congestion. This is in line with the evidence from the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (1999).

DEFRA are currently updating the conversion factors and revised figures are due to be published soon.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Agriculture: Pigs

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent assessment his Department has made of the state of pig farming in the United Kingdom. [190660]

Jonathan Shaw: Information on UK pig production is collected regularly in various forms by DEFRA. For example, the United Kingdom Pig Notice which is published quarterly, includes statistics on breeding herds, slaughter and trade.

Projections of the aggregate measure of Total Income from Farming are published on the DEFRA website. The first full set of farm income statistics, including a breakdown by farm type, were published on 31 January.

DEFRA is also well aware of the current issues facing the pig industry in the UK, including the impact of rising feed costs. Officials are in frequent contact with representatives of the pig sector.

Agriculture: Romania

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what (a) assistance and (b) joint projects with Romania his Department (i) has undertaken and (ii) plans to undertake in the fields of (A) agriculture, (B) fisheries and (C) forestry. [190076]

Jonathan Shaw: In the area of agriculture, assistance has been given to Romania since 2004 in the form of a high-level Agriculture Working Group which meets twice-yearly. This forum allows for the discussion of areas of mutual interest and concern between Romania and the UK.

DEFRA, in partnership with ArMA (Polish Paying Agency), recently completed a successful, two year, EU twinning project to set up the Romanian Paying Agency.

The Department is in the process of bidding for a further project in the area of statistics, and will consider other suitable opportunities for engagement and support as and when they arise.

I am not aware of any work being done by the Department with Romania in the areas of fisheries or forestry.

Agriculture: Subsidies

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many farmers have received (a) full, (b) partial and (c) no payment of the single farm payment as a percentage of the total number of claimants for each year of the scheme, broken down by region. [187967]

Jonathan Shaw: For the 2007 Single Payment Scheme (SPS) year as at 18 February 2008 90,125 customers from an estimated total claimant population of 106,700 have received a full SPS payment. RPA has made 22 manual payments to customers facing extreme difficulties based on a proportion of their estimated claim value. Seven of these customers have since had their claim validated and have received the remaining proportion of their payment.

Once the remaining scheme payments have been completed a decision will be taken on the level of detail that will be published

Mr. Scott: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which farms in (a) Essex and (b) Suffolk are eligible for the single farm payment; and how much was paid in respect of those farms in each of the last three years for which figures are available. [190173]

Jonathan Shaw: Detailed analysis of payments under the Single Payment Scheme to farms in Essex and Suffolk is not available. Once the remaining scheme payments have been completed a decision will be taken on the level of detail published.

Air Pollution: East of England

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what air quality management areas there are in the east of England, broken down by (a) location, (b) year of designation and (c) local authority. [189485]

Jonathan Shaw: To date, 229 local authorities have designated air quality management areas in the UK. 24 of these authorities are in the east of England—as set out in the table.

Further information is available on the UK National Air Quality Archive
